Gas Cuts Hit OC Industries

By RICH SEELEY
Register Staff Writer

It's going to be a long cold winter for industry in Orange County, perhaps the first of some very bleak winters to come.

Southern California Gas Co. announced this week that it is cutting natural gas supplies to many of its industrial customers to meet the winter demand for gas to heat homes.

Increased residential use of natural gas in winter is making severe demands on the utility's dwindling supply a company spokesman said.

Home heating is the top priority during these months under state regulations, with small business that cannot afford to convert to other fuels ranked second.

The spokesman predicted that if the trend continues, many smaller businesses, unable to bear the cost of converting to other fuel supplies, will have to close their doors. This would mean an astronomical jump in county unemployment and possible devastation of the local economy, he said.

The industries as well as major institutions such as colleges and hospitals have been notified that they must start using fuel oil for heating and industrial processes.

This hurts because heating oil costs about twice as much as natural gas, according to Chuck Ritchie, who heads facility planning for Cal State Fullerton.

Ritchie said the state university received a partial supply of natural gas for heating in November, but has been totally cut off by the gas company since Dec. 1.

At Rockwell International's plant in Anaheim, a spokesman said the company was notified that its supply of gas will be reduced beginning today. It will receive only part of the natural gas it needs through March 2, the spokesman said, and will make up the difference by burning oil.

At Hunt-Wesson's cannery in Fullerton, the boilers are burning fuel oil. Bill Blodgett, director of corporate relations there, said higher fuel bills are bound to be reflected in higher prices for canned goods.

Conversion of boilers from natural gas to fuel oil is enormously expensive, he said.

Under a priority system set by the State Public Utilities Commission, the gas company has been making up for the loss of natural gas during winter months by curtailing supplies to large industrial firms who were able to convert to the more expensive fuel oil.

The gas company projects that until 1980 it will be able to supply fuel to the small businesses in the second priority group. But after that even they will be cut off – even during the summer months – Eggert says. Cutting off those businesses is expected to cause many of them to fold, he said.

This could lead to the loss of 76,000 jobs in Orange County and a possible unemployment

IMF Approves $36 Million Loan To Viets

WASHINGTON (AP) – Communist Vietnam was granted a $36 million loan Tuesday by the International Monetary Fund, largely to compensate for loss of export earnings resulting from war damage.

The loan to Vietnam by the 129-member agency was the first since the Communist government was admitted to membership over U.S. opposition late last year.

The IMF didn't say the loan was made because of the war damage, but it was clear this was the case from the wording of its announcement late Tuesday.

The agency said the loan was to temporarily compensate the Vietnamese for a 10 per cent drop in export earnings last year.

"The decline was largely related to exports of timber, the production of which had been impaired by transportation difficulties, and to fish following a reduction in the availability of trawlers," it said.

Both transportation facilities and fishing boats were heavily damaged by U.S. bombing of North Vietnam during the war.

The IMF said exports of timber and fish are likely to improve in the near future "with the improvement of transportation facilities and the reconstruction of the fishery fleet."

It was understood the IMF loan was approved despite reservations of the United States. However, no country was recorded as opposing the loan.

The United States provides about 20 per cent of the financial support to the IMF, but would have been unable to prevent the IMF loan to Vietnam on its on, an IMF spokesman said.

Vietnam is one of only a handful of Communist members of the IMF, which was set up after World War II at the urging of the United States to operate the international monetary system.

Massacre Plot Suspect Freed

PARIS (AP) – Abu Daoud, a suspected plotter of the 1972 Munich Olympic massacre, flew to freedom in Algeria on Tuesday after a hastily convened French court rejected Israeli and West German demands that he be held for possible extradition.

The Israeli government immediately recalled its ambassador to France in protest. Foreign Minister Yigal Allon denounced the court decision as "nothing but a disgraceful capitulation to the pressure of Arab states and the threats of terrorist organizations."

The United States also expressed dismay.

The West German Justice Ministry said it regretted the decision and that "the fight against international terrorism has not become easier" with Daoud's release.

Lawyers for the French government cited technical reasons for the release. They said a telegram request by a Munich judge that Daoud be held identified him "vaguely" and was not made through official channels, and that the Israeli request was rejected because it concerned crimes by non-Israelis in a third country, West Germany, that did not involve French victims.

Eleven Israeli athletes, four guerrillas and one policeman died as a result of the terrorist attack on the Israeli Olympic compound at Munich.

Allon, speaking in the Israeli parliament, rejected this reasoning, saying, "We honored the extradition treaty with France in all its clauses. France ... did not behave to us in the same way. The question arises of whether agreements with France have any meaning or validity at all."

In Washington, State Department spokesman John Trattner said: "Our dismay reflects our abhorrence over the brutal and mindless murders at Munich and our strong conviction that terrorists should be dealt with sternly and firmly by legal authorities of all countries."

He was arrested by French counterintelligence agents who apparently acted without the knowledge of high-level officials. Daoud, a member of the revolutionary council of the largest PLO guerrilla unit, Al Fatah, was in Paris for the funeral of an assassinated

Boy, 10, Admits Starting LA Blaze That Killed 10

LOS ANGELES (AP) – A 10-year-old boy was arrested Tuesday in connection with a Christmas week apartment house fire that killed 10 persons, authorities said.

The youngster, whose name was not released, admitted setting the fire at the Witmer Street building near downtown Los Angeles where he lived, said police Lt. Richard King.

King said the boy was booked for investigation of murder and arson and released to his parents.

The fire killed 10 of 23 occupants, including two unborn children.

King said the boy would probably be turned over to a county probation department caseworker.

King said he and four investigators interviewed 50 people in the case involving the fire at 335 South Witmer St. last Dec. 20.

He said the boy Tuesday admitted starting the blaze by using a book of matches to set fire to an old couch under a stairwell. From there the fire spread to the building itself, King said.

King said the boy ran back to his apartment without saying anything to his family.

He said several of the victims died when they jumped from upper floors to escape the flames.

The lieutenant said the boy's story tended to be confirmed by other persons police had interviewed.

Solons Begin Working On Carter Scheme

WASHINGTON (AP) – Preliminary work on President-elect Carter's economic plan began Tuesday in both chambers of Congress with signs that pressure is continuing for more tax-funded job programs than it provides.

The House, which must reconstitute all its committees every two years, moved swiftly to put the Budget Committee into operation under a new chairman, Rep. Robert N. Giaimo, D-Conn.

Giaimo told reporters he foresees a struggle in Congress over the proportion of tax cut and job creation elements.

The Senate Budget Committee, opening hearings, heard economists of different persuasions agree that some economic stimulus is needed. Carter's proposal would provide about $15 billion a year for two years.

The nonpartisan Congressional Budget Office reported that a tax cut-jobs package similar to Carter's could generate 610,000 jobs this year, with the total rising to 905,000 by the end of 1978.

Without some such action, the report said, the economy will continue its sluggish

Officer Cleared In Bystander's Shooting Death

NEWPORT BEACH — Police officer Doug Thomas, 24, was cleared Tuesday of any wrongdoing in connection with the Dec. 17 accidental shooting death of an elderly man who stepped in front of a shotgun blast intended for a fleeing armed robbery suspect.

Two district attorney's investigators wrapped up their probe of the shooting incident Monday and handed their reports to a deputy prosecutor for final scrutiny.

Deputy Dist. Atty. Bryan Brown said the investigation showed the officer acted within the scope of his duties during the shooting of an innocent bystander.

Killed by a single 12-gauge shotgun blast was Joe Hines, 61, Dana Point, employed as a handyman in the area for the past 15 years. Investigators concluded from talking to witnesses that Hines apparently was bent over looking at a price tag on a Christmas tree.

During the commotion, Hines rose up to see what was happening, stepping directly into the path of the 12-gauge shotgun blast.

The officer was part of a three-man police stakeout team that had been watching the Corona del Mar supermarket where the holdup occurred. The officers anticipated the return of a youthful gunman who had twice hit Albertson's markets in the area, police said.

Arrested at the scene and charged with armed robbery was Richard William Sutton, 20. He has been bound over to Superior Court to stand trial on 14 felony counts of robbery.

Unmentionable But Negotiable

SANTA ANA – It was the first time bank teller Linda Stueven ever cashed a check marked "Do Not Wear Before Cashing."

She wore a puzzled expression when Wheeler Hubbard, Orange, presented her with a check for $15 written on a pair of French bikini panties (exclusive of decoration) drawn on the Continental Bank of Phoenix, Ariz.

It was Hubbard's payoff on a bet he made with Bruce Teppo of Phoenix on the USC-Michigan Rose Bowl game played New Year's Day. USC won 14-6.

Hubbard said he was surprised when he received the check. "It was originally supposed to be for $5 and a bottle of booze."

His wife Susie came down to the Park Center branch of the Crocker-Citizen's Bank here, but she was "too embarrassed" to go in with him. "She lost her nerve," he said.

Lawyers Offer Plan To Sell Nixon Tapes

WASHINGTON (AP) – Lawyers submitted a plan Tuesday that would put the federal government in the business of selling the most damaging Nixon White House tapes – and at a bargain rate.

The proposal, filed with U.S. District Judge John J. Sirica, envisions the National Archives selling one-hour tape casettes for $3.75 to $5.75, depending on tape speed. Included in that price would be a complete transcript, packaging and mailing.

If Sirica approves, and if the Supreme Court doesn't forbid the whole thing, a full set of the 30 tapes played at the Watergate cover-up trial might be had for $100 or so.

The plan was submitted by lawyers for the three television networks, public television, a TV news directors association and a recording company.

An earlier court ruling turned down the application because it failed to set out an adequate plan for preparing the tapes and distributing them to the public.

Sirica's rejection, however, was overturned by the U.S. Court of Appeals on grounds the recording should be in the public domain like all other trial evidence.

391 Passengers Transferred Off Disabled Ship

MIAMI (AP) – The 391 passengers aboard a disabled cruise ship drifting about 18 miles from Cuba were transferred by launches Tuesday to another ship as repair parts were rushed to the stricken vessel.

The crew of the Monarch Star reported engine trouble just after midnight Tuesday and told the U.S. Coast Guard that the vessel was dead in the water. Also aboard the ship were 368 crew members.

Another vessel, the Monarch Sun, was sent to assist the Monarch Star and arrived at about 11 a.m., said Martin See, a spokesman for the cruise line.

Lance Jones, a Coast Guard spokesman, said the passengers were transferred on small launches usually used to take visitors to shore when the ship docks in port. He said the launches took the passengers a few hundred yards to the Monarch Sun.

The Monarch Star was stranded off Cuba's northeast coast in the Santarem Channel, which separates Cuba from the Bahamas. It was drifting, in calm seas, away from the Communist-controlled island.

A spokesman for the cruise line said officials were hoping to repair the Monarch Star, but the parts had to be flown to the scene from Miami, about 350 miles away.

Officials said they did not know how long the repairs would take.

Andy Williams Tells Of Claudine's Grief

ASPEN, Colo. (AP) – Singer Andy Williams testified Tuesday at the manslaughter trial of his ex-wife, Claudine Longet, that she "was very upset with grief" over the shooting death of her lover.

He said Miss Longet told him during a private talk that she shot Vladimir "Spider" Sabich, but that it was an accident. "I told her that I believed her," he said.

The singer also denied that he had ever described his ex-wife as "a crazy gal who likes to take chances."

"I didn't say that," Williams said to a jammed courtroom. "She was a careful person. ... I would never call Claudine a crazy gal," he said tensely, apparently angry at prosecutor Ashley Anderson's attempts to turn his testimony against Miss Longet.

She is charged with reckless manslaughter in the killing of the champion skier in the two-story house they shared here. She faces a maximum sentence of 10 years in prison and a $30,000 fine.

Court Knocks Down Forced Low-Income Homes Zoning

WASHINGTON (AP) – Predominantly white communities have no constitutional obligation to change zoning laws to provide low income housing for blacks and other minorities, the Supreme Court ruled Tuesday.

The court reversed a lower court's decision that the "ultimate effect" of zoning laws in Arlington Heights, Ill., is sufficient to prove that the community discriminated against minorities.

"Disproportionate impact is not irrelevant, but it is not the sole touchstone of an invidious racial discrimination," the high court said in an opinion written by Justice Lewis F. Powell Jr. Four justices joined Powell in the majority opinion.

Justices Byron R. White, William J. Brennan Jr. and Thurgood Marshall dissented in the housing decision, but did not voice disagreement with Powell's reasoning. The dissenters said the court should have allowed the 7th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals, which it reversed, to reexamine the case.

Justice John Paul Stevens, a judge in the 7th circuit before being named to the high court, took no part in consideration of the case.

Powell's decision relied heavily on the court's 1976 ruling about qualifying tests given by the Washington, D.C., Police Department.

In that case, the court said, racially discriminatory intent must be provided to show any violation of 14th Amendment safeguards of equal protection.

Just because a greater percentage of blacks than whites failed the police test did not mean it was discriminatory, the court said.

Using that rationale, the court found Tuesday that there was insufficient proof to charges of intentional discrimination by Arlington Heights.

The town's board of trustees in 1971 refused to rezone a 15-acre plot of undeveloped land surrounded by single-family homes so that a federally subsidized development of 190 townhouses for low-income families could be built.

The Metropolitan Housing Development Corp., a nonprofit organization, set up to build such housing, sued the board. It charged that the rezoning denial resulted in unconstitutional racial discrimination.

Callaway Cleared Of Wrongdoing

WASHINGTON (AP) – The Justice Department has cleared former Army Secretary Howard "Bo" Callaway of wrongdoing in connection with his Colorado ski resort, it was announced Tuesday.

"The matter is no longer under investigation and no further action is contemplated at this time," Asst. Atty. Gen. Richard L. Thornburgh said in a letter to Callaway's attorney. The department made the letter public.

A department spokesman said Thornburgh, head of the criminal division, and other officials concluded that no criminal charges were justified.

Callaway was forced to resign as President Ford's campaign chairman after it was disclosed that he sought a Forest Service permit benefiting his Crested Butte Development Corp. while he was still Army secretary. He has denied any wrongdoing.

Oregon Voters Decide Schools' Fate

COTTAGE GROVE, Ore. (AP) – Oregon voters who have firmly resisted paying higher taxes to support their schools voted on the issue again Tuesday, deciding whether schools would remain closed or be reopened for nearly 9,000 students.

The vote in Cottage Grove will determine whether classes for 3,300 pupils of the South Lane school district can resume this school year.

And voters in two other districts were to decide whether to accept higher taxes or risk a shutdown of their schools.

The 2,300 students in Eagle Point were out of class for a time this fall, and officials said they wouldn't be able to continue operating unless a tax increase was accepted.

Guards Say Gilmore Nervous

SALT LAKE CITY (AP) – The Utah State Prison psychiatrist says condemned killer Gary Gilmore is emotionally healthy as his sunrise execution next Monday draws near.

However, prison guards, without elaboration, say Gilmore is starting to show signs of nervousness.

Dr. Van Austin said he visited Gilmore Monday morning for about half an hour and told Warden Samuel W. Smith that Gilmore was emotionally in good shape.

He said Gilmore has a good attitude and seemed to be functioning well, Smith said.

Gilmore condemned to death for killing a Provo motel clerk last summer, has repeatedly and bitterly pleaded with state officials and the courts to let him die as scheduled.

Carter To Tackle Welfare Reform

WASHINGTON (AP) – President-elect Carter flew to Washington on Tuesday for top-level foreign policy and defense talks and said en route that he will create a congressional-White House task force to deal with welfare reform.

Carter also said he will announce his White House staff Friday and that he has permitted most staff members to work out for themselves where they think they can best serve with the least possible friction.

Carter said that soon after he is inaugurated, he hopes to have a "joint House-Senate-White House and Health, Education and Welfare task force and work on basic welfare reform."

More Czech Dissidents Questioned

VIENNA, Austria (AP) – More Czechoslovak intellectuals who signed a recent human rights manifesto were questioned by police Tuesday in what was seen as continuing harassment of outspoken dissidents.

Informants reached in Prague said the authorities summoned at least 12 persons, including playwright Vaclav Havel who was back for a fourth day of interrogation. Some others were also repeat witnesses in what officials called an investigation of suspected subversion.

Tanker Officer Killed By Fumes

SAN JUAN, Puerto Rico (AP) – A ship's officer was overcome and killed by naphtha fumes in a tanker's hold Tuesday and two seamen lost conciousness, the U.S. Coast Guard reported.

Authorities said the other man, James F. Neal, 63, of McAllen, Tex., the ship's chief pumpman, and seaman Johnny M. Johnson, 55, of Port Arthur, Tex., were hospitalized in satisfactory condition. Both were revived shortly after the accident.

A Coast Guard spokesman said the accident occurred early Tuesday after the tanker offloaded 252,000 barrels of naphtha.

High Court Hears Abortion Cases

WASHINGTON (AP) – The Supreme Court heard arguments on a new round of abortion cases Tuesday, centering on whether governments can deny Medicaid payments to women who are terminating pregnancies without medical necessity, or deny hospital care for any abortion.

The decisions expected later this year will develop further the court's 1973 ruling which held in part that government cannot interfere with a woman's decision to have an abortion during the first three months of her pregnancy.

Sinatra Stolid During Rosary

PALM SPRINGS (AP) – The strains of "Ave Maria" and "Hello Dolly" rang through St. Louis Catholic Church in nearby Cathedral City Tuesday night as 600 mourners gathered for the rosary of Mrs. Natalie Sinatra, killed last Thursday in an air crash.

The singer remained stolid-faced throughout the brief ceremony, seeming to submerge his grief. The funeral is set for noon today at the church, with interment at Desert Memorial Park here.

Some 100 miles away, in Beverly Hills, the famous names of Hollywood gathered at the Church of the Good Shepherd for another rosary, to pay tribute to the woman they all knew as "Mama."

Among the nearly 400 mourners who crowded into the Beverly Hills church were Frank Sr.'s first wife, Nancy; Tina Farrell, Sinatra's daughter; Kirk Douglas; Barbara Stanwyck; Suzanne Pleshette; Gregory Peck; Mr. and Mrs. Jimmy Stewart; Loretta Young; Sugar Ray Robinson, Don Rickles; and Milton Berle.

Search Called Off For Lost Tanker Crew

By The Associated Press

The U.S. Coast Guard on Tuesday called off the air and sea rescue search for 38 crewmen aboard a Panamanian tanker that has been missing at sea for nearly two weeks.

"We've been evaluating the reports sent to us by the (Coast Guard cutter) Dallas and we no longer feel there is any chance for survival," said spokesman Richard Griggs. "We really don't think there is any further need to keep searching."

The 644-foot Grand Zenith carrying eight million tons of crude oil was last heard from on Dec. 31 when it was reported 60 miles south of Yarmouth, Nova Scotia.

The Coast Guard also gave up its search for the body of a 41-year-old Rhode Island seaman who disappeared in freezing, stormy seas when the coastal tanker Chester A. Poling broke up off the coast from Gloucester, Mass.

Joao Da Rosa of Pawtucket, R.I., was last seen when he fell into the bitter cold ocean Monday as six of his crew mates were rescued by ship and helicopter from the split-in-half vessel.

The break-up of the 282-foot Poling on Monday was the 13th oil tanker accident in or near U.S. waters in the past month.

On Tuesday, the 14th accident was reported by the Coast Guard, which said a tanker with 7,000 tons of gasoline and oil aboard was trapped in ice in Lake Michigan and may be aground. No spill was reported from the U.S.-registered Amoco Indiana.

Meanwhile, a federal grand jury in Philadelphia indicted the captain of the tanker Olympic Games and a Panamanian shipping company on charges of polluting the Delaware River.

PLO activist.

After he was released Tuesday by the court, which had not been scheduled to convene until next Monday, he was taken back to jail to collect his belongings and then was rushed in a high-speed convoy of seven official cars to Orly Airport for the flight to Algiers.

When the Israeli request was read in court, identifying the suspect as Abu Daoud, he replied through an Arabic-French interpreter: "That is not me. I am Youssef ben Hanna Raji, born in Baghdad."

But Arab ambassadors here and Farouk Kaddoumi, head of the PLO's political department and its United Nations representative, had spoken freely of the arrest of "Abu Daoud."

Kaddoumi, in Kuwait, warned that "there are Palestinian and Arab countermeasures to contain the matter. The Palestinian resistance movement will not tolerate the matter if the French government hands over Abu Daoud to West Germany."

After a brief deliberation, Judge Marcel Sacotte said Bonn authorities had not confirmed the Munich judge's request, said he agreed with the prosecutor's arguments against the Israeli demand and declared there was no other reason to hold Daoud.

Daoud confessed to providing passports for the Munich guerrillas in a televised statement made when he was held in Jordan in 1973 under a death sentence. The sentence was later commuted to life imprisonment by King Hussein and he was freed under a general amnesty shortly after two Palestinian attacks on Saudi Arabian embassies in the Sudan and Paris.

Village's Biggest Industry In Ruins

PHILMONT, N.Y. (AP) – A 19th Century textile mill recently converted into a rubber factory smouldered Tuesday after a spectacular blaze that brought some 200 firemen from 20 surrounding towns.

No serious injuries were reported. But several dozen of the town's 1,300 residents, including three families whose apartments were destroyed, were evacuated Monday night as winds up to 30 miles per hour sent flames leaping across Main Street.

The blaze destroyed two nearby buildings, containing five shops and several apartments, before it was brought under control after about 16 hours' work.

And the factory, which was the town's hope for jobs and economic recovery, was destroyed.

Hoses froze to the streets as fire fighters worked in 20-degree temperatures and blowing snow. One fireman had 3-inch icicles in his beard.

Town fire chief Richard Morris said the fire apparently started when propane leaking in an oven was ignited. An employe tried to fight it with an extinguisher, he said, but soon the block-long, L-shaped structure on Main Street was ablaze.

"The sprinkler system which should have contained the blaze was not operating," Morris said.

He said the operators of the X-Tyal Corp. had told him they disconnected the sprinklers to work on the heads, but he could not remember when.

Company officials were not immediately available for comment.

X-Tyal took over the plant Sept. 1. Its work force had grown to 60, making life rafts, mattresses, and other equipment for the military, according to John Shebanie, the purchasing agent.

Plans were to expand to 300 jobs this year, officials said.

The village's former building inspector, Paul Finkle, charged that he was fired last fall for attempting to correct fire hazards – unsafe wiring and inadequate fire equipment – at the plant. He said Mayor Clinton Mossman told him to issue a permit for renovation right away, so as not to delay work and the start of new jobs.

Mossman said Finkle's contract was not renewed because of a "policy dispute."

Officials estimated damage as "hundreds of thousands of dollars." An unofficial estimate said it could cost $5 million to rebuild the plant here, about 30 miles southeast of Albany.

Gas Cutbacks

rate of 19 per cent, according to statistics supplied by Joseph Rensch, president of Pacific Lighting Corporation, the gas company's parent firm.

Those unemployed people may find themselves sitting out the winter in chilly homes, said Eggert. He said there is a possibility there won't even be enough natural gas for residential heating by the early 1980s.

The best hope of turning this potentially disastrous situation around is to tap the vast supplies of natural gas in Alaska, Indonesia, Maylaysia, Australia and the Middle East, he said. Domestic fields, Eggert added, are playing out.

But natural gas can only be economically imported in liquefied form by tankers, he said and the gas company is having trouble getting approval for the proposed liquefied natural gas (LNG) port and storage facilities in Long Beach.

"The earliest we could get liquefied gas into use would be 1980," he said, adding that the deadline depends on approval of the LNG port.

At Hunt-Wesson, Blodgett sees a tough go for industry but believes that the economy will survive, even if it has to convert totally to fuel oil.

The major obstacle to a massive conversion to fuel oil, he and Eggert agree, is that there aren't adequate systems on the West coast to store and deliver it.

But Blodgett said he's not totally pessimistic about the future.

"I'm not preaching doom. It's going to be tough," he said, "but we're not going to shut down our economy."

lowed by a majority of the IMF members to take the seat formerly held by the old government of South Vietnam, even though the United States opposed seating the Communist government.

It was also allowed to take the old South Vietnamese seat in the World Bank, a sister agency to the IMF that provides development loans to its member nations. The World Bank has already decided to dispatch a special mission to Hanoi to study whether it qualifies for bank aid.

At the time Hanoi was admitted to both the bank and the IMF, there was speculaton that it would be one way of getting access to international assistance in rebuilding from the ravages of the Vietnam war.

The Vietnamese have claimed that the United States promised them aid in rebuilding their country as part of the 1973 Paris pact that led to withdrawal of U.S. forces from the country. But the United States contends Hanoi violated the agreement when it embarked on its offensive that overwhelmed the south in the spring of 1973.

Sam Y. Cross, the U.S. representative on the IMF board, declined to say whether the United States opposed or approved the Vietnamese loan. "We don't usually comment on these transactions; there's too many of them," he said. He said the United States did raise some questions on "technical aspects" of the loan.

He said that while the United States opposed admitting Vietnam, it is now a member and "they're eligible in the same way any other country is eligible for any of the fund facilities."

Body Of HB Man Recovered

KELSO, Wash. (AP) – The body of a Huntington Beach man who died in a traffic accident has been recovered from the Cowlitz River, the Washington State Patrol said Tuesday.

Troopers said the body of Joseph E. West Jr., 32, was discovered last Saturday about four miles north of this Cowlitz County town.

West was thrown into the river on Nov. 30 when the car in which he was riding smashed into a railing on the Interstate 5 bridge over the Cowlitz about 8 miles south of Chehalis, the patrol said.

Andy Williams

Williams was followed to the stand by two other witnesses and the prosecution then rested its case.

The entertainer gave Miss Longet a pat on the shoulder as he entered the courtroom, then dramatically recounted for jurors his tearful reunion with her and their three children after the shooting last March.

"I'm very easily emotional," Williams said. "I was crying when I saw my kids. I remember hugging Christian."

He and Miss Longet have three children, Christian, 10; Noelle, 12, and Bobby, 7, who were in the house at the time of the shooting and then sent to stay with neighbors.

Of his ex-wife, he said, "She was very upset with grief. ... I hate to see her that way. I hate to see her hurt."

Williams' testimony raised the trial's first major controversy. He was called by the prosecution in an effort to disparage Miss Longet's character. The defense objected, but Williams turned the testimony to her advantage.

He told of Miss Longet's confession to him shortly after he arrived in Aspen on March 22, the day after Sabich was fatally shot:

"She said, 'Do you want to hear about it?'

"I said, 'If you want to tell me.' She said, 'I want to tell you.'"

Williams continued somberly, "She said, 'Spider was showing me how to use the gun and, boom, boom, it went off and I shot him.'"

Williams said Miss Longet also told him, "You know that if I meant to kill him I would tell you that."

Anderson then asked whether Williams had described his wife as "a gal who liked to take chances" and Williams denied that he made the statement at Peter Greene's home, where he picked up the children.

Greene, who followed Williams to the stand, said the singer "said that she is a crazy chick, a crazy gal. She likes to ski fast. She likes to drive fast."

Williams was the 15th witness called in a rapid-fire prosecution case against the 35-year-old Miss Longet.

Tuesday's testimony included an appearance by Sabich's 29-year-old brother, Steve, and two sheriff's deputies who differed on whether Miss Longet said the safety of the .22 caliber gun that killed Sabich was on or off.

He said, "The safety never malfunctioned while I was using the gun."

Police Sgt. David Garms, testified that Miss Longet told him she knew the safety was off when she shot.

He said she recalled Sabich telling her the safety was off.

Garms' testimony was contradicted by sheriff's deputy Mary Wiggins who said she heard the conversation and that Miss Longet clearly stated she thought the safety was on.

Carrier Crash

MESSINA, Italy (AP) – The U.S. 6th Fleet aircraft carrier Franklin D. Roosevelt was involved in a collision Tuesday night with the 28,000-ton Liberian freighter Oceanus in rough seas off the Sicilian port of Messina, port officials said.

They said both ships suffered minor damage. There were no reports of casualties.

They said the carrier continued its journey, but the Oceanus announced it would stop in Messina.

Post Urges Health Agency Break-Up

SACRAMENTO (AP) – Legislative Analyst A. Alan Post urged the legislature Tuesday to break up the troubled state Health Department and to take a long look at tax relief schemes.

The nonpartisan analyst also said he will propose alternatives to Gov. Edmund Brown Jr.'s $480-million property tax relief plan. Post said his proposals will include state takeover of administration and financing of $250 million a year in county court costs.

Brown said Post's suggestion about the Health Department "warrants careful consideration."

"For several months my staff has been evaluating alternatives to the present complexity of the state department of health. In the weeks ahead, we will incorporate Mr. Post's suggestions in our overall view," Brown said in a statement.

He did not comment on Post's intention to propose alternatives to Brown's tax relief plan.

Post said Brown's homeowner and renter tax relief plan can be financed without a state tax increase. But he said the legislature should not limit itself to Brown's approach and should consider others.

He urged major changes in the Health Department, which has been troubled by reports of deaths in state hospitals, allegations of mismanagement of prepaid health plans and rising Medi-Cal costs.

The department, which directs $4.3 billion a year in health programs, is too big to be managed as a single unit, Post said in his review of Brown's proposed $15.2 billion budget for 1977-78.

"In 1972, we concurred with the proposal to consolidate the then existing Departments of Public Health, Mental Hygiene, Health Care Services, and the social services function of the Department of Social Welfare," Post told the Assembly Ways and Means Committee.

"The consolidation has proven to be a substantial failure. Therefore, we think we ought to admit our mistakes and take corrective action."

TEACHERS GET DOUBLE WAGES DURING STRIKE

SALINAS (AP) – School officials called in more than 100 substitute teachers at double wages Tuesday when teachers refused to cross picket lines set up by nonteaching employes.

Lawrence LeKander, superintendent of the Salinas Union High School District, said substitute teachers were being paid $60 a day instead of the usual scale of $29.

The district's 387 cafeteria attendants, custodians, bus drivers, groundskeepers, secretaries, instructional aides and clerks walked off their jobs Monday afternoon.

That evening, members of two teachers' unions voted not to cross picket lines.

LeKander said 24 per cent of the district's 9,155 pupils were absent Tuesday, up from the usual 10 per cent daily absence rate.

Arthur McLoughlin, a field representative of the California Teachers Association, said more than 300 of the district's 450 teachers honored the picket lines.

The district has offered union members a five per cent salary and fringe benefit increase plus a $200-a-year raise for employes with 10 years of seniority or more.

The union has asked for a six per cent package plus $350 more for senior employes.

Alligators Off Endangered List

WASHINGTON (AP) – Most of America's alligators were removed from the endangered species list Tuesday in a move hailed as one of the most significant accomplishments of the conservation movement.

"This shows we can do it," said Nathaniel P. Reed, assistant secretary of the interior.

Most species of alligators were removed from the list of endangered species and placed on the less restrictive threatened list, Reed announced.

Reed said that over a period of 20 years the efforts of conservationists and officials in southern states has succeeded in rescuing the species. "That's quite a feat," he added.

The action removes the alligator from the endangered list in all of Florida and the coastal portions of Georgia, Louisiana, South Carolina and Texas. Almost 600,000 alligators, or 75 per cent of the U.S. population, live in this area.

The alligator remains classified as endangered in Mississippi, Alabama, Oklahoma, North Carolina and inland areas of other states.

The new ruling allows designated state and federal employes to take sick and dangerous alligators as well as specimens for scientific or conservation purposes and to sell the hides according to strict regulations.

This is only the second time since the Endangered Species Act of 1973 was passed that a species has improved enough to be taken off the list. Last year three species of trout were moved from endangered to threatened.

growth, leaving up to 7.5 million persons unemployed by the end of 1977.

Charles L. Schultze, chosen by Carter to head his Council of Economic Advisers, told the Senate Banking Committee that if Carter's plan is approved promptly, the economy should begin to improve by late spring. He cautioned, however, against expecting a big immediate drop in unemployment.

The Commerce Department, meanwhile, said a survey of business leaders indicates growth in the purchase of new facilities this year may double over the 1976 total.

The Congressional Budget Office (CBO) report had singled out business spending on plant and equipment as a key indicator of the course of recovery. If it is significantly higher than earlier estimates, CBO said, the economy could be expected to speed its revival.

The economic package Carter announced Friday would include a $7 billion to $11 billion one-time rebate of individual income taxes; a permanent individual income tax cut of about $4 billion, mostly for small and moderate incomes, $2 billion in tax relief for business and a still unspecified investment in government programs designed to produce jobs.

The total program was estimated at about $30 billion over two years.

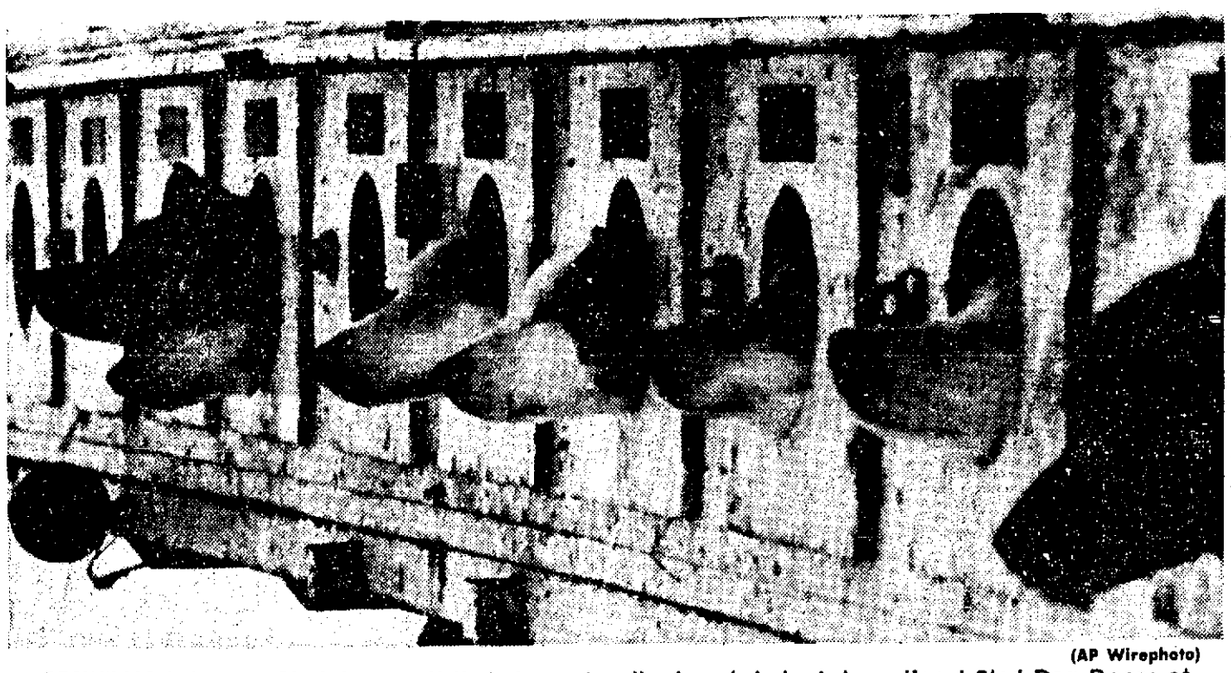

The AFL-CIO earlier had proposed a $30 billion a year program, heavy with job-creating projects.

Hills Defends HUD, Harris To Proxmire

WASHINGTON (AP) – Carla A. Hills, secretary of housing and urban development, defended both her designated successor and her department Tuesday against criticisms by Sen. William Proxmire, chairman of the Senate committee considering the secretary-designate.

At her confirmation hearing Monday, Secretary-designate Patricia Roberts Harris was described by Proxmire, D-Wis., as having an inadequate background in housing. He also complained that Mrs. Hills hasn't been doing enough to solve the nation's housing problems.

But Mrs. Hills said in a letter addressed to Proxmire and distributed to reporters that his statements show "total ignorance of what HUD has accomplished over the past 22 months or an intentional distortion of the facts."

Energy Task Force Urges Emergency Oil Stockpile

To A New Embargo Threat It Says 'Don't Try It'

NEW YORK (AP) – A task force of energy specialists recommended on Tuesday the establishment of an emergency national oil stockpile, financed by a tax on all petroleum products, to reduce the effect of another possible oil embargo.

The 3-to 6-month stockpile also would discourage oil-producing nations from restricting exports again as they did in 1973-74, according to a report by the 15-member task force of economists and businessmen. The group was organized by the Twentieth Century Fund, an independent research foundation.

"It would actually reduce the risk that somebody will impose an embargo," said Peter Kenen, an economics and international finance professor at Princeton University.

"We would be saying to those countries who might try it: 'Don't, it won't work,' " he said at a news conference.

Based on the current price of oil and the cost of storing and shipping it, a three-month stockpile would cost more than $6 billion.

The group suggested the reserve could be financed by a small "security" excise tax on all refined petroleum products. There were no specifics, such as how high the tax might be.

The federal government is planning for the storage this year and next of 150 million barrels, equal to 25 days of imports, at a cost of about $2 billion. A larger reserve has been discussed.

Herbert Cohn, vice chairman of American Electric Power Co. and chairman of the task force, said the United States met more than 40 per cent of its oil needs through imports last year, compared with only 23 per cent in 1970. The cost of the imports last year was $35 billion.

Cohn said the group's points have been made by others.

"The recommendations after each study seem to be the same. The trouble is, nothing is done," he told reporters.

One other suggestion was that the government's energy activities be coordinated through one administrator, something President-elect Carter and others have proposed.

The Ford Administration sent to Congress on Tuesday a bill to bring the Federal Energy Administration, the Energy Research and Development Administration and other federal energy agencies under one roof.

Commerce Secretary Elliot Richardson, who headed a study leading to the bill, said it provides essentially the same changes Carter proposes and that the incoming administration can submit the bill to Congress with modifications.

Angry Prosecutor Rips Yoshimura's Testimony

OAKLAND (AP) – The prosecutor at Wendy Yoshimura's trial bitterly disputed Tuesday the defendant's contention that she fled arrest on weapons possession charges because she feared the police would kill her.

Jeff Horner, in his closing statement to the eight-woman, four-man jury, told of her association in the terrorist underground with Patricia Hearst and so-called Symbionese Liberation Army members William and Emily Harris.

"These people were the most actively and relentlessly sought fugitives in the United States at that time," Horner said, his voice rising in anger. "If she fled out of fear of police then she never in ten million years would have associated with these people. Every cop in the country was looking for Hearst and the Harrises.

"She would have avoided these people like the bubonic plague. When you are in a lightning storm, you don't grab hold of a lightning rod. But Wendy Yoshimura did – for more than a year."

Alluding to the defense testimony of two of her former roommates, Horner said, "They didn't know she had bought guns, that she had rented a garage where weapons were stored, that she had used phony identities. This was a side of Wendy Yoshimura they were not to know."

Horner, nearing the end of his summation, said, "There are two sides to Miss Yoshimura, one side is presented to the world and one side is concealed."

The prosecutor recounted the array of chemicals and components he said were found in the Berkeley garage rented by Miss Yoshimura.

"There was ammonia nitrate, fuel oil, smokeless powder, picric acid and blasting caps," Horner said in a soft voice. "There was a completed bomb – a very powerful bomb."

When it was detonated by Berkeley police shortly after the raid on the garage on March 31, 1972, Horner said, "it made a considerable crater in the ground."

As Miss Yoshimura, 33, listened impassively, the prosecutor suggested that the garage was a secret workshop for political radicals who intended to bomb military buildings as a protest against the Vietnam war.

Miss Yoshimura, who was arrested with Patricia Hearst in September 1975, has been on trial since last Oct. 18. She is charged with possessing an explosive and a machine gun found in the garage as well as materials and destructive devices that Horner said "were intended for the injury and intimidation of people and the destruction of property."

Senior Citizens Get 2 New Tax Breaks

By RAY DE CRANE

The first one, a new Credit for the Elderly, can start paying off with the filing of their current tax return.

The second one, more favorable treatment on the sale of a home by someone 65 or older, doesn't take effect until this year. This means they will get the advantage of it when they file their tax return a year from now.

The Credit for the Elderly replaces the old Retirement Income Credit, which was complex, difficult to claim, and which applied to relatively few taxpayers.

Not only is the new credit more generous in its terms, the form on which it is claimed is far simpler to complete.

It is easier to qualify for the new credit, since the former requirement that you must have received $600 of earned income in each of the preceding 10 years has been eliminated.

It is a 15 per cent credit and the maximum amount on which the credit may be applied is $3,750 on the joint return of a couple both over 65; $2,500 for single persons and married couples filing jointly if only one is 65 or older.

The maximum credit is reduced in two steps in determining what amount will be multiplied by 15 per cent.

The first reduction is by one-half of the amount of the adjusted gross income about $7,500 for the unmarried, $10,000 for couples filing jointly and $5,000 for married filing separately.

The two-step reduction may eliminate the possibility of a credit for many. But the purpose of the credit is to provide some additional tax relief for those on reduced Social Security and limited other sources of income.

Whatever amount remains from the maximum following the second reduction is multiplied by 15 per cent to establish the credit which becomes a direct reduction against tax otherwise due.

Government employes retiring before 65 are still eligible for the credit, as they were under the old law. As with other taxpayers, government employes get the benefit of the increased credit base and the waiver of the prior work experience requirement.

Panel Okays Bergland For Agriculture

The nomination will not be formally submitted to Congress until after Carter is sworn-in as president. However, the committee voted to authorize Chairman Herman Talmadge, D-Ga., to notify the Senate at that time that the committee has approved the nomination.

Nine of the committee's 16 members were present for the unanimous voice vote which constituted the first approval of any Carter Cabinet member.

In his testimony before the committee earlier in the day, Bergland said there should be a global food strategy, but he did not rule out the possibility of future U.S. export curbs in extreme circumstances.

Bergland also told the Senate Agriculture Committee, reviewing his nomination, that it is "imperative that this Congress act soon on food stamp reform" and that government food programs should remain in the Agriculture Department.

ROBERT BERGLAND
First Approved

Bergland said that USDA responsibilities should be broadened to include other parts of the food sector now overseen by some other agencies. Also, he said, USDA should show more interest in consumers.

Begland said he will move quickly to rescind an order by President Ford almost a year ago which would have reduced food stamp benefits sharply to many people. The order was blocked by a court action last summer and the program has continued the same as before.

200 Evacuate Hotel Fire In Palm Springs

PALM SPRINGS (AP) – Several of the nation's most prominent publishers were among about 200 persons evacuated Tuesday when fire swept through the fashionable Canyon Hotel.

About 100 guests in third floor rooms were evacuated with fire department ladders as dense black smoke filled the south hallway of the hotel's third floor. About 100 additional guests also were evacuated from the other two floors of the three-story resort hotel where The Associated Press Board of Directors was to meet today and Thursday.

Trapped by heavy smoke in the hallways and unable to use interior fire escapes, many guests rushed to balconies outside their rooms and waited for firemen to rescue them.

Among those who considered jumping but thought better of it were John McClelland Jr., publisher of three Washington newspapers, and his wife, Burdette.

Eight persons, whose names were not immediately available, suffered smoke inhalation. Five were treated and released.

Iran To Cut Foreign Aid Due To Oil Revenue Dip

TEHRAN, Iran (AP) – Iran announced Tuesday it will cut back foreign aid and switch to a barter system in its overseas trade because of a dramatic drop in oil revenues since it raised prices 10.4 per cent Jan. 1. Iran is the second largest exporter of oil in the world.

A massive loan promised to Britain may become one of the first victims of Iran's economic pinch. The British, fighting their own financial problems, so far have received only $400 million of the $1.2 billion loan.

Dr. Abdulmajid Majidi, minister for planning and budget, said oil exports fell by more than one-third in the first nine days of January – to an average of 4,209,424 barrels a day from the December 1976 average of 6,789,026 barrels.

He estimated that revenue was $460 million, compared with $672 million under the lower price in the same January period last year.

The fall-off in demand had been expected since last month, when Iran and 10 other members of the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries decided to boost their crude oil prices by 10 per cent Jan. 1 and by an additional 5 per cent July 1.

Saudi Arabia, OPEC's biggest producer, and the United Arab Emirates split from the OPEC majority and decided to hold their increase to 5 per cent for the entire year. Foreign buyers appear to be flocking to the cheaper Saudi and UAE oil, and Saudi Arabia has announced it will step up production to undercut the other OPEC members.

Majidi said the revenue loss will necessitate revisions in the Iranian national budget, including cutbacks in a foreign aid program that has provided more than $2 billion in assistance to other countries since 1974.

British Trade Minister Edmond Dell met with Shah Mohammed Reza Pahlavi here Tuesday to discuss possible expansion of British trade with Iran. Dell reportedly was also negotiationg for payment of the second and third installments of the $1.2 billion loan.

As another measure to bolster Iran's financial position, Majidi said, all future imports by the government will be obtained through a barter system – oil for imported commodities or manufactured goods.

Iran for several years has been using this system in trading with Soviet bloc countries and it recently announced a similar agreement with the British Aircraft Corp. BAC is to provide $660 million in Rapier missiles in exchange for oil.

Iran is also negotiating with U.S. firms, including Grumman and General Dynamics, to trade oil for warplanes and submarines.

Majidi said direct sales by the National Iranian Oil Co. – NIOC – dropped to 651,000 barrels a day in early January from the December average of 1,335,520 barrels – a 51 per cent reduction.

Sales through a consortium of Western oil companies that handles most Iranian oil marketing fell by 35 per cent, he said – from 5,453,506 barrels a day to 3,558,424 barrels.

Last week the NIOC announced that 25 of its customers had failed to take delivery of crude oil sold to them directly. The company said it had rejected the customers' demands for a discount.

Mother Given Three Life Terms In Slaying Of Three Daughters

DELAWARE, Ohio (AP) – Twenty-year-old Margo Davies was sentenced to three life terms in prison Tuesday after admitting she killed her three young daughters by tying plastic garbage bags over their heads.

After pleading guilty to three counts of aggravated murder, she told the court she bound the girls hands and feet, placed the bags over their heads and left them to die.

"They were not dead until after I left," Mrs. Davies said in a slightly audible voice during a sudden court appearance a week before she was scheduled to go on trial.

Mrs. Davies, who is separated from her husband, told Judge Henry E. Shaw of Delaware County Common Pleas Court she left her daughters – Laurie Jo, 18 months; Christine 2½, and Tonya, 3 – bound and in plastic bags at three different rural locations, two in park trash cans and one in a field.

Neither Mrs. Davies nor the authorities have commented publicly about a motive for the slayings.

Dr. Robert Zipf, a veteran pathologist who performed the autopsies, had said earlier in the investigation that the slayings were "one of the cruelest cases I've ever seen ...

MARGO DAVIES
Pleads Guilty

"They must have screamed and clawed in their anguish," Zipf said. "It would take several minutes to die in that fashion."

The guilty plea came after defense attorneys decided there was no case for previously entered pleas of innocent by reason of insanity to the three counts of aggravated murder with death penalty specifications.

Thomas Clark, a court-appointed defense attorney, said he and his co-counsel began talks with prosecutors last week after receiving results of a medical report on Mrs. Davies' sanity.

"We advised this woman only after she fully understood her rights in this case," Clark said. "She made all of the decisions. She changed her own plea."

Prosecutors agreed to drop the death penalty specifications in exchange for the guilty pleas.

Attorney General Appointee Defends Record As 'Moderate'

By SAUL FRIEDMAN
Knight News Wire

WASHINGTON – Griffin Bell, Jimmy Carter's nominee for attorney general, acknowledging Tuesday the "added burden on me as a southerner," defended his record as "a moderate" who helped the South through its desegregation trauma.

He admitted, however, that as a lawyer for a Georgia governor he had helped "delay" compliance with orders to desegregate. He conceded that several key decisions while he served as a federal appeals court judge were wrong. And he declined to recant on his support for a segregationist Supreme Court nominee. Bell pledged to search for women, blacks and other minority group members as federal attorneys and Justice Department officials. And he disclosed under questioning that he intends to name Wade McCree of Michigan, a black and a judge on the U. S. Sixth Circuit Court of Appeals as the solicitor general.

Bell, an old family friend and political ally of the President-elect, testified in a soft drawl in a packed hearing room as the Senate Judiciary Committee opened informal hearings on his nomination.

And it became evident as the confirmation hearing began that Bell's nomination probably would be approved by the majority composed of Republicans and southern Democrats, unless liberals caught Bell in a serious goof.

The committee chairman, James O. Eastland of Mississippi, announced he would vote for Bell who, ironically, presided over school integration in Eastland's home state.

Much of the questioning focused on Bell's role, from 1959 to 1961, as special counsel to then Georgia Gov. Ernest Vandiver who won office on a pledge to maintain segregated schools in his state or close them. Bell acknowledged that he helped advise Vandiver on legislation designed to evade Supreme Court decisions to desegregate Georgia's school system.

But Bell argued that he was among those who counseled Vandiver to save the tax-supported school system and was a moderating influence between the hard-line segregationists and blacks.

"It may be that we delayed, but we never defied the law," Bell said. And he called his success in keeping the schools open through the traumatic change "the finest piece of legal work I ever did."

Sen. Edward M. Kennedy of Massachusetts, one of the liberals who questioned Bell closely, noted that while some may have viewed Bell's performance in those years as moderate, others have suggested he helped "undermine" Supreme Court rulings.

Bell contended that he didn't join in Vandiver's inflammatory, segregationist rhetoric and, instead, acted as a lawyer-advisor, subtly guiding the state towards peaceful, if slow, desegregation.

"We were there, trying to persuade the people to change a custom of centuries," Bell said. "In Georgia we think of it as historical...It was a sort of privilege to have had a part in it. I was in the middle of it."

Committee members also questioned Bell on his support, in 1970, of Federal Judge G. Harrold Carswell, a Richard Nixon nominee to the Supreme Court who was eventually turned down because of alleged incompetence and segregationist views.

Bell insisted that his letter in support of Carswell, even after Carswell's segregationist attitudes became known, was "a recommendation, not an endorsement." And Bell said he did it because he had known Carswell personally for a number of years and felt he was needed on the high court.

Pressed on whether he would now support Carswell, Bell replied candidly: "If I knew then what I know now, I'd have to reconsider... I'm in a tough spot on this. I have decided I'm not going to repudiate Carswell (who has since left the federal bench). It would serve no useful purpose."

Earlier he told the senators that his support of Carswell, who had been a law school classmate, "is just part of my record and I have to stand on it."

Under questioning by liberal Republican Charles Mathias of Maryland, Bell acknowledged that two of his opinions while on the U. S. Circuit Court of Appeals were wrong.

In one, which has been strongly criticized by liberal and civil rights groups, Bell upheld the right of the Georgia legislature to bar black Georgia Rep. Julian Bond from taking his seat because of statements he made opposing the Vietnam War.

Bell maintained he was guided by the law at the time, but added that "it is quite obvious we were wrong and the Supreme Court (which reversed him) was right."

Bell also conceded that one of his opinions authorizing the President to approve a wiretap without a warrant was wrong and that he now favored legislation providing for judicial review of such taps.

He told Sen. James Abourezk (D-S.D.) that he intends to "have a vigorous civil rights division" to carry out desegregation laws, and if busing is necessary to desegregate schools in large cities, "I would bus...you would have to bus."

He told Kennedy that he favored enforcement of open housing laws and striking down zoning and other regulations that bar minority groups from some neighborhoods because "I would prefer to have open housing than busing to desegregate neighborhood schools." He also pledged enforcement of civil rights statutes which prohibit granting or loaning federal funds to areas which perpetuate discrimination.

Bell said he favored the "merit selection" of U. S. District Attorneys who ordinarily are political appointees. Bell said present, Republican-appointed attorneys could apply to remain on the job and they would be screened by him and members of the Senate from their states.

Bell said that some Republicans might remain, but he indicated that because such appointments are political plums for senators most of those chosen under the "merit" system would be Democrats.

Bell's appointment has been Carter's most controversial. But there was evidence on the committee that even the most potentially hostile liberals were reluctant to go to the mat with a nominee of a Democratic President.

Most of the liberals were solicitous, even in their critical questions. And as four-and-a-half hours in the witness chair, under the television lights, ended, Bell's openness, his soft candor helped turn the questioning from his controversial past and blunt the criticism of opponents who followed him before the committee.

High Coffee Prices Tempt Smugglers

LONDON (AP) – High coffee prices are tempting racketeers to take the high risks that go with coffee smuggling on a grand scale.

Latin America experts at the International Coffee Organization here estimate that in the past year smuggling of about one million bags of green coffee has cost Colombia up to $200 million in foreign exchange.

One bag weighs 132 pounds.

Coffee runners are also smuggling the green beans to Kenya from Uganda, evading President Idi Amin's tax collectors. Last week two Ugandans were reported shot while trying to smuggle coffee across the border. A third was killed in skirmishes among rival gangs.

Coffee experts says the smuggling out of Colombia is run both from inside the country and from Aruba, the Dutch Caribbean island about 200 miles offshore. They estimate that 700,000 bags reached the market illegally last year through Aruba, while 300,000 bags went to neighboring Venezuela for consumption there or export as Venezuelan coffee.

As prices rise, export taxes collected by governments rise, and this drives up the margin of profit on smuggled, untaxed coffee. This has been especially true in Colombia where tax rates have been raised as an anti-inflation measure.

Contraband Colombia coffee is freighted along hundreds of miles of dirt tracks and mountain roads to the Caribbean coast to be loaded on small boats. From Aruba, the coffee goes to the United States or Europe, wherever it finds the highest bidder.

Sources here say the Colombian government is aware of what is happening, but it has to weigh the loss of revenue against the high cost of policing hundreds of miles of roads, frontiers and coastline. For one thing, it lacks patrol boats to catch the smugglers bound for Aruba.

Brazilians recall the story of an old coffee ship that left Recife for Belem in 1963 with a customs official aboard assigned to check the cargo of 83,000 bags of top-grade coffee en route.

A report circulated that the ship sank, carrying the cargo and all aboard to the bottom of the Atlantic.

Weeks later, the customs official reappeared in Recife curiously unable to remember that particular ship. The crew turned up in various Brazilian ports. And thousands of bags of the best Brazilian coffee were sold at Paramaribo, Surinam, then a Dutch possession.

Border Patrol Hunts Heroic Illegal Alien

IMPERIAL BEACH (AP) – A young Mexican boy who saved the life of a U.S. Border Patrol agent's son, risking capture as an illegal alien, apparently is hidden again in the shadows along the border.

"The home address he gave me in Tijuana – just a few blocks from the line – is nonexistent," patrolman Frank Pearce said today. "We just can't find him."

Although he promised to telephone Pearce early Monday, Jose Ruben Garibay Canal never called. Pearce wants to help him get into the United States legally if Garibay's papers are in order.

Pearce's 14-year-old son Kevin was thrown from his horse and his leg pinned in an accident witnessed last Saturday by Garibay, hiding in bushes just north of the border.

Young Pearce could barely keep his head above water in the rain-swollen pond. Garibay sloshed through 60 feet of chest-high water to free the struggling boy.

Together, they rode back to the Pearce home, and the border patrolman later took Garibay back to Tijuana in his car, promising to help him into the United States, where the boy said his father is a resident alien.

"I think he's afraid now," Pearce said at the Border Patrol office here. "Young Mexicans like him have an inherent dislike of the law and the system, and he knows what my job is."

The patrolman plans to don civilian clothes tonight and drive alone through Tijuana to search for the boy.

SWAN LAKE – Three swans take to the scenic route along Shore Avenue in Groton, Conn., Monday following heavy rains which led to flood conditions. BUNKER'S POLISH JOKES OBJECTIONS OVERRULED

WASHINGTON (AP) – Archie Bunker's ethnic insults to his Polish-American son-in-law are protected by the First Amendment, according to the Federal Communications Commission.

The FCC Monday said that it could not act to censor broadcasters who air jokes and other material offensive to groups like the Polish-American Congress.

The FCC then turned down the congress' request that it deny license renewals to three Chicago television stations – WLS, WMAQ, and WBBM. The congress had accused them of airing the jokes and of discriminating against Polish-Americans in employment.

The jokes the congress objected to were in several shows, including Bunker's "All in the Family." They included the "Mike Douglas Show," and the "Tonight Show."

Bell Firms Urged To List Wife, Too

WASHINGTON (AP) – Bell System telephone companies have been advised to concede a point to the women's movement and list both husbands' and wives' names in their directories at no extra charge.

American Telephone & Telegraph Co. notified the Federal Communications Commission that it had made the recommendation to its subsidary companies Monday. The companies usually do as AT&T recommends.

The letter to the Bell companies said the practice of permitting only one name in the basic listing caused complaints that it was "not responsive to the varying business and social identification needs of our customers – particularly those of married women.

"Some companies have already recognized this need and are presently expanding their tariffs to provide listings which contain more than one given name," the letter to the companies, dated Dec. 29, says.

"We strongly recommend that all companies consider revision of their tariffs (to) accommodate dual name listings."

The Wisconsin Public Service Commission ruled last month that the Wisconsin Telephone Co. could not charge extra for dual listings, but the New York Telephone Co. told the state Public Service Commission last week it wants to charge 25 cents extra.

The AT&T guidelines avoid the question of who should be listed first in the white pages husband or wife, by offering these options:

The guidelines also give recommendations for other situations where people with the same surname using the same phone other than husband and wife could be listed without an additional charge.

The AT&T petition to the FCC said that although there would be no recurring charge for the extra listing, present customers would pay a service charge for a change in listing where such a charge is applicable under state tariffs.

WEATHER PREVIEW – Snow is forecast for the northern Rockies and parts of the Plains states today. The Northeast part of the country can expect cold weather and the rest of the nation will have seasonal weather, according to the weather bureau.

Cold Air Continues Through Midwest

By The Associated Press

Cold air continued to spread through the Midwest on Tuesday and record low temperatures for the date were broken over portions of the Mississippi Valley south to Arkansas and eastward to Kentucky and Indiana.

Utility officials in Kansas and Missouri said the natural gas crisis had ended there for the time being on Tuesday and they thanked customers for turning down their thermostats and making extraordinary comservation efforts during a cold snap.

Temperatures fell to 20 below zero in the area during the nighttime the past several days. Daytime temperatures have been moving into the teens, however. Tipton said warming forecasts made it possible to "permit residential and small commercial customers to resume normal but conservative use of gas."

Schools closed because of the shortage this week announced plans to reopen today.

In Chicago on Tuesday, a record-tying 11 below zero was recorded at Midway Airport, equalling the low temperature set in 1888. Temperatures throughout Illinois remained cold but began inching upward by afternoon.

Commuter traffic in the Chicago area was disrupted slightly Tuesday morning, with about 15,000 Chicago Transit Authority train riders suffering delays of 30 minutes or more because of the effect of the unusually cold weather on rail equipment and the larger-than-usual turnout of commuters, transit authority officials said.

Waldheim To Visit Mideast To Promote Geneva Talks

Secretary-General KURT WALDHEIM will visit the Middle East for two weeks starting Feb. 1 for talks aimed at resuming the Geneva peace conference, a well-placed U.N. source says. Waldheim will visit Egypt, Israel, Jordan, Syria and possibly Lebanon, and also will talk with officials of the Palestine Liberation Organization at an unspecified location, it was stated. His visit would be in accord with a General Assembly resolution asking him to contact parties to the Mideast conflict in an effort to get the conference resumed by the end of March.

KURT WALDHEIM

President IDI AMIN of Uganda is reportedly planning to invite to the Jan. 19 anniversary observance of his rise to power a Japanese World War II straggler who surrendered after hiding out for 29 years. The Kyodo news service, in a dispatch from Nairobi, reported Amin said the invitation to the straggler, HIROO ONODA, "is expected to greatly contribute to raising the morale of Uganda's army." Omoda, 54, surrendered in March 1974 after repeated attempts were made to reach him in the jungles of the tiny Philippine island of Lubang to convince him that World War II had ended.

IDI AMIN

SHERMAN ADAMS, who was chief of staff and confidant to President Dwight D. Eisenhower, has been hospitalized after falling at a New Hampshire ski resort. A spokesman for the Loon Mountain Resort said Adams, 78, fell and injured his head while walking during the worst blizzard in 10 years. He was reported in satisfactory condition and being held for observation at Mary Hitchcock Hospital in Hanover.

Funeral services are scheduled in Calexico today for EARL D. ROBERTS, 85, two-time mayor and former U.S. customs collector for the San Diego-Imperial County District.

British-born actress EVA LE GALLIENNE celebrated her 78th birthday in award-winning fashion. The actress was presented the American National Theatre and Academy's prestigious National Artist Award for her contributions in a theatrical career spanning more than 60 years. American actors PETER FALK, KARL MALDEN and BURGESS MEREDITH were among a group who paid tribute to Miss Le Gallienne at a luncheon at the University of Southern California. The actress made her stage debut in 1914 at the Queen's Theatre, following studies at the Royal Academy of Dramatic Arts in London.

RUTH WAKEFIELD, who was credited with originating the toll house chocolate chip cookie, has died at a Plymouth, Mass., hospital. She was 73. Mrs. Wakefield had operated the Toll House Inn in Whitman with her husband since 1930. The restaurant was once the toll house on the road between Boston and New Bedford. The couple sold the restaurant and inn in 1967.

PRINCE JEAN-FELIX DE MERODE, 33, a descendant of one of Belgium's oldest noble families, was found dead Tuesday on the stairway of his Paris apartment building, apparently the victim of a fall. Police said their early suspicions he had been beaten to death were apparently not sustained by an autopsy, which found only one wound at the base of the skull, consistent with his having hit the staircase in falling.

David Tidball, Ex-Excelsior Official, Dies

SANTA ANA – Private graveside services will be held Thursday at Fairhaven Memorial Park for David Glen Tidball, retired secretary-treasurer of the Excelsior Creamery Co. and a resident of this city since 1910, who died Monday.

Friends are invited to a memorial service for Mr. Tidball at 7:30 p.m. Thursday in the First Presbyterian Church, Santa Ana Boulevard and Sycamore Street, with Dr. Robert Ball and Rev. Lawrence Brown officiating.

Mr. Tidball was born in Brookings, S.D., whence he came with his parents to Santa Ana. He served in the Army during World War I. He retired in 1974 after 59 years with the same company.

Mr. Tidball was a charter member and past president of the Santa Ana Lions Club, a charter member of Toastmasters International, a member of the Chamber of Commerce here, a past president of the local YMCA, and a former chairman of the Community Chest Campaign in this city.

The family suggest that memorials be made to the First Presbyterian Church scholarship fund. Blower Bros. Mortuary is in charge of funeral arrangements.

Supreme Court Rules On Cost Of Food Stamps

WASHINGTON (AP) – The Supreme Court ruled Tuesday that a welfare recipient may be required to pay more for food stamps if he receives a separate allowance for school transportation.

In a unanimous decision written by Justice John Paul Stevens the court said that such costs may be considered when officials determine income for the welfare recipient.

The case was brought by a Karen Hein of Muscatine, Iowa, a divorced woman with custody of two children who was receiving a grant from the state to pay her tuition at a nurses training school and a transportation allowance of $44 a month.

At the time, Mrs. Hein was paying $46 for food stamps with a retail value of $92. The transportation allowance increased the income that determined the price of her food stamps and the government required her to pay $12 more for them.

Court Says Teacher Can Rap Officials

WASHINGTON (AP) – The Supreme Court Tuesday ordered a federal court to take another look at the case of an Ohio school teacher whose contract was not renewed after he criticized the schoolboard.

The high court, like two federal courts earlier, found that the teacher had the constitutional right to criticize the board publicly. But it said the lower courts should have determined whether the teacher might not have been rehired even if the criticism had not surfaced.

The teacher, Fred Doyle, had won a decision that he should be reinstated and paid $5,158 damages because of his firing by the Mt. Healthy, Ohio, school district.

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Harold Brown, the Carter administration's prospective defense secretary, said Tuesday "it's not going to be easy" to squeeze $5 billion to $7 billion from the defense budget.

"I don't think that it's something we can promise for the first budget we prepare, but that is our goal," Brown told the Senate Armed Services Committee which will act on his nomination after Jimmy Carter is inaugurated.

The new administration's first budget for which it has full responsibility will be effective in October 1978.

Brown's statement appeared to be a further backing off by the incoming Carter administration from what sounded like confident campaign predictions that $5 billion to $7 billion could be trimmed without much difficulty by eliminating waste and improving efficiencies.

Budget cutting prospects were raised by senators who questioned Brown on a wide range of issues covering everything from the U.S.-Soviet military balance to unionization of the armed forces.

Sen. Howard Metzenbaum shook his head and said he is concerned that the $5 billion to $7 billion savings "is a matter of mirrors."

He said he favors legislation which would prohibit any cost increase in weapons systems for any reason other than the effects of inflation and would require that approval for that increase come directly from the secretary of defense.

"I want the buck to stop with the secretary of defense," he said.

The anticipated tough line of questioning did not develop as senators engaged in sometimes philosophical exchanges with the prospective defense secretary and mixed questions with occasional brief speeches of their own.

Under questioning by Sen. Henry M. Jackson, D-Wash., who favored former Defense Secretary James Schlesinger over Brown, Carter's choice for Pentagon chief said the Soviets' intentions behind their continuing military buildup "are uncertain and will remain uncertain"

Vietnam War Mistake, Vance Informs Panel

WASHINGTON (AP) – Secretary of State-designate Cyrus R. Vance, a prime architect of American Vietnam policy in the 1960s, said Tuesday that the Vietnam war had been a mistake.

At the same time he set down for the Senate Foreign Relations Committee during confirmation hearings, a guide that the Carter administration will follow in foreign policy.

Foremost will be a diplomacy based on "fundamental human rights" and an openness with Congress and the American people. "We must stand for human rights, without intervention" in other nation's affairs, he said.

It was the mistaken view that the United States could unilaterally impose its views on Vietnam that led to the failure of American policy in Southeast Asia, Vance suggested.

Vance, who was secretary of the Army and undersecretary of defense during the Kennedy-Johnson administrations, said the United States erred in trying to "prop up" a regime that didn't have popular support, in thinking it could impose Western values in Asia, in failing to consult with allies and in thinking U.S. military might was unlimited.

EMOTIONAL SPEECH

Kissinger Adieu To Jewish Leaders

NEW YORK – His voice choking with emotion, Henry A. Kissinger said farewell as Secretary of State to the organized American Jewish community Tuesday. He pledged that he would persevere as a private citizen as "long as I live" in the struggle for peace in the Middle East.

Kissinger's speech in the afternoon to the Conference of Presidents of Major Jewish Organizations and his remarks in the evening to the Foreign Policy Association were his last major appearances before leaving office on Jan. 20 with the inauguration of President-elect Carter.

The Secretary of State chose New York City for his swan songs because he grew up here, and his parents still live here – in the Washington Heights area of upper Manhattan.

Kissinger's appearance at a luncheon tribute to him by the Jewish leaders at the Hotel Pierre was particularly warm, and he responded to it with great emotion.

"Thirteen members of my family died in concentration camps....I cannot forget what it was like to live in Nazi Germany," he said in a quavering voice in response to remarks by Rabbi Alexander Schindler, chairman of the conference.

Kissinger said that his Jewish background had created for him "a complicated relationship" with Israeli leaders in his quest for peace in the Middle East during his tenure for the last eight years as a main architect of United States foreign policy.

He said, however, that the thrust of American policy in the Ford and Nixon administrations was to create a situation in which Israel remained strong and was "not dependent for survival on the goodwill of its neighbors." He said that this policy "transcends whoever may be President."

"Israel must always be strong enough to defend itself and the United States must see to it that it is strong because only then can a lasting peace be negotiated.

Kissinger, tanned from a vacation in Mexico, got off several one-liners before he turned serious. He spoke after a sumptuous meal of fish, meat and coconut cake and quipped:

"I am fulfilling the wish of every Jewish mother for her son: To do something for the people of the world and never miss a meal. I am eating myself out of this job."

Supervisors Call Energy Seminar

By SANDI MOSLEY
Register Staff Writer

SANTA ANA — Fearful of another Arab oil embargo, county supervisors Tuesday called a meeting of city, state and utility company officials to begin preparing for future energy shortages.

Under an already-adopted state emergency plan, residents here could be subjected to rolling blackouts and a mandatory one-day-a-week ban on automobile use.

Purpose of the supervisors' one-day seminar, to be scheduled in May, is to develop a county plan for implementing the state's policies, and, if necessary, for recommending changes to lessen the economic impact.

State law does not require counties to adopt implementation plans, but Supervisor Laurence Schmit said the county and cities should understand how they will be required to enforce the state plan.

"I feel that, in spite of the internal problems OPEC (Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries) has been having recently, we should not sit back and hope that the 'cartel' will deteriorate further," Schmit said in a letter to fellow supervisors.

"The elementary fact of the matter is that this nation is still very much dependent upon OPEC oil and is, therefore, vulnerable to its whims and changing dispositions," the letter said.

As county administrative analyst Al Nestlinger put it, the oil embargo of 1973 may have caught state and county officials unprepared, "but we don't have any excuse for that happening again."

Supervisors authorized spending up to $2,000 to put on the by-invitation-only seminar but hoped to recoup the costs from an admission fee to cover lunch and the cost of literature to be distributed during afternoon workshops.

The seminar is to be cosponsored by the county and the two-year-old state energy resources conservation and development commission.

University economics authorities, representatives of the federal Energy Administration, city and county law enforcement agencies and utility company spokesmen are to attend the seminar, Nestlinger said.

Schmit said Robert Ham, state emergency planning manager, has endorsed the seminar and indicated it "might serve as a model for future meetings of this nature in other parts of the state."

The state plan, presented by the energy commission to the legislature last year, spells out energy priorities for business, residential and automotive use in case of a shortage.

Ray Hillier, state emergency planning coordinator, said motorists may be issued colored stickers for their cars, indicating which day of the week they may be banned from driving.

Electrical and natural gas customers also could be asked to curtail use or face stiff surcharges if they don't, he said.

"The situation is such that we're subject to more problems than before (1973)," he added. "With the drought this year (and a lack of water to power electricity generators), we'll be needing two times more oil this year in Northern California."

Gas Rate Increase To Raise Bills 4.6c

LOS ANGELES (AP) – The Southern California Gas Co. won permission from the state Public Utilities Commission on Tuesday to raise its rates effective immediately.

The average residential customer would get a monthly increase of 4.6 cents in his gas bill to provide the firm with $3.3 million needed to help finance gas exploration operations, company spokesmen said. Commercial customers also are affected by the rate hike, they said.

The increase comes as the giant utility is cutting back supplies to many commercial customers as supplies dwindle and new sources remain entangled in controversy.

But so far no residential customers have had supplies cut back and none are expected to until after 1981, gas company officials say.

None of the cutback projections takes into account millions of barrels of liquefied natural gas which the utility wants to ship in on specially adapted supertankers from Alaska and Indonesia and perhaps later from ports in the Middle East.

Environmentalists and residents of harbor areas where the LNG ports are planned have delayed approval of the proposals.

CM Wins Another Round In Fight With Landowner

By RITA ROBINSON
Register Staff Writer

COSTA MESA – An 81-year-old woman resisting a city move to condemn her property has lost another skirmish but still says she will continue her fight.

An "immediate possession" order took effect Saturday on Ruth Swope's property at 574 W. Center St. The city wants the property for its nearly $3 million downtown community center project.

But Mrs. Swope said she's determined not to let the city take the property away from her.

"We're going to court with the city before anything like that happens," Mrs. Swope said.

Even though the city now technically owns the property, Mrs. Swope said she doesn't recognize the order. "I'm still the owner, I still collect the rent," she said.

The property and the three-bedroom, 750-square-foot house on it have belonged to Mrs. Swope for 30 years. She rents the house to a family for $200 a month.

"They're still over there," she said of her tenants. "They gave me this month's rent right on time as usual. They aren't moving."

A new law effective last July 1 allows cities to take "immediate possession" of property it deems necessary to serve the public's interest.

The city's last offer to Mrs. Swope for her property was $36,000. She flatly refused.

All but three of the 15 property owners in the "super block" have accepted the city's offers.

Mrs. Swope said she's not holding out for more money, although she said selling it for $36,000 was "giving it away." She says she simply doesn't want to sell it to the city.

"I would rather give a lawyer every cent I have than give the city one dime's worth of my property," she stated.

City Atty. Roy June said there are no immediate plans to evict Mrs. Swope's tenants.

"Obviously, we aren't going in and telling them to leave," June said. "We can't relocate them until we find another place."

June said that according to the Relocation Assistance Act the city must find the tenants a "comparable" place to live in the city, and pay moving and incidental costs.

"In other words, we have to assure that they move from one spot to the other without any out-of-pocket costs (to them)," he said.

June said that in this case the city will probably find something better for the tenants because "what they've got down there is pretty grim."

He said the city is having trouble relocating the tenants because they "aren't cooperating."

Mrs. Swope's attorney, Richard Lynn, said he's working on a letter requesting the courts to repeal the "immediate possession" order.

He said he's also compiling a two-part argument: 1. Does the city have the right to take Mrs. Swope's property and is it in the best public interest? 2. What is the right price for the property?

He said a judge will answer the first part of his question while a jury will decide the latter, "if it gets to that point."

Lynn said no date has been set yet for the preliminary hearing on the case. He said he expects a date to be issued anywhere between two and six months, adding that it could be a year before the case is decided.

Assembly Speeds Up Anti-Smog Loan Bill

SACRAMENTO (AP) – The Assembly voted Tuesday to hasten action on a $2-million loan proposal aimed at keeping the state's largest anti-smog program breathing.

The measure, by Assemblyman Jerry Lewis, R-Highland, would provide operating money for the South Coast Air Quality Management District. By a law he sponsored, it replaces the voluntary Southern California Air Pollution Control District on Feb. 1.

Los Angeles County's Board of Supervisors has refused to allocate $2.6 million as its share of financing the four-county district. Its members from Orange, San Bernardino and Riverside counties pay on the basis of population.

The Assembly voted 69-0 to waive rules that would have required a 30-day wait before Lewis' loan bill could be heard.

Lewis, who wants the bill acted upon in time to keep the district from going into limbo, plans to take up the bill in the Assembly Ways and Means Committee next week.

Meantime, the state has sued the county in an effort to force its participation under the law, but Lewis said he doesn't expect a ruling before mid-March.

Lewis said that the Assembly's vote to accelerate action should be a signal to the district administration that it would be "ill-advised" to go ahead with a plan to lay off some 200 workers, about half the district's payroll.

"There's a good chance" the bill will go to the governor in two weeks, Lewis added.

Another bill, introduced Monday by Sen. Nate Holden, D-Culver City, would give the district $2.4 million with no strings attached.

Los Angeles County, which has dominated the voluntary district, has taken the position that it should have the largest voice on the new district board because it pays 70 per cent of the local government costs.

Now You Know

In a 1919 speech Woodrow Wilson said, "I can predict with absolute certainty that within another generation there will be another world war if the nations of the world do not concert the method by which to prevent it."

BRIDAL GOWNS
Dear Trouble Shooter

A year ago, your readers were helpful in making our annual "Sweetheart Banquet" a huge success by lending us wedding gowns of yesteryears for our "Brides of Yesterday" fashion show.

This year, because the Feb. 12 event is also the kick-off banquet for a missionary conference at the Broadway Baptist Church (Santa Ana), the fashion show will have an international flavor. We need native garments or costumes from countries around the world and are hoping your readers can help us again.

Needless to say, each garment loaned us will receive tender loving care and will be returned shortly after the banquet.

R. McC.
Santa Ana

Let's ask folks who can help if they'll give Rosalie McCuistion a jingle at 546-1671 any evening or weekend, all right?

MEDIC NEEDED
Dear Trouble Shooter

I have a son who attends Nueva View School, a school for handicapped children in the Ocean View School District.

The children were given forms to fill out for the upcoming Special Olympics. This year, they require a medical check up and doctor's signature in order to participate.

Many of these children come from families that just can't afford a $25 or $30 physical at this time.

Is there any doctor in this area who would be willing to come to the school to perform these checkups?

B. DeC.
Huntington Beach

Doesn't do any harm to ask, does it? Let's ask doctors who want to help to get in touch pronto with Rose Lee at Nueva View School. The phone number is 842-8718.

MEND YOUR OWN
Dear Trouble Shooter

Thought your readers might like to know that classes in porcelain restoration and furniture restoration will begin Jan. 17 at Attic Unlimited, 265 S. Glassell, Orange.

Those who need further details can call us at 997-1322.

S.S.
Orange

Always happy to tell folks about special classes like yours. Hope you have a good turn-out, and that lots of Trouble Shooter readers are able to restore family treasures as a result of your instructions.

INTERESTED?
Dear Trouble Shooter

I have a 6-ft. artificial Christmas tree, ornaments, tinsel, and assorted toys and games for the 5 to 12 age group that I would like to donate to a person or organization that can really use them. Will you ask interested persons to contact me by writing you a letter with the words "tree and toys" on the outer envelope, and will you forward the letters to me?

T.D.
Buena Park

You betcha! And, folks should be sure to include a phone number where you can contact them.

Another reader (J.D. of Anaheim) writes the Trouble Shooter that she has close to a dozen bowling trophies she'd like to see put to good use. The Trouble Shooter from time to time receives requests for such trophies. If interested folks will contact him by mail, he'll put them in touch with J.D.

CAN YOU HELP?
Dear Trouble Shooter

I have a developmentally disabled 11-year-old son who needs daily therapy at the Day Treatment Center on Chapman Avenue in Orange. His first therapy session is today. He attends school in Tustin. In order to get to the treatment center, he has to be picked up at school at about 1:30 p.m., taken to the center, picked up when his therapy is finished at 5 p.m. and taken home. I work 8 a.m. to 5 p.m., so this is impossible for me.

My son is incapable of taking the OCTD, because he would have to change buses three times. Dial-A-Lift services only the physically handicapped. The Nickel Bus services only Tustin. I have contacted every organization I can think of with no success.

I can't believe that there isn't some agency or person to help children like my son who desperately need therapy, but have no way to get it.

J.B.
Tustin

If an agency can't help, Ma'am, perhaps an individual will. Let's ask anyone who can solve your dilemma to call you after 6:30 p.m. at 544-7120.

YOUR REUNION?
Dear Trouble Shooter

The Villa Park High School Class of 1967 is planning its 10-year reunion to be held Aug. 27 and 28.

Since less than half of our classmates have been contacted, will you please ask any class members who read your column if they'll write the VPHS Reunion, P.O. Box 1326, Orange 92668, or call 832-3322?

K.F.
Tustin

Always happy to help round folks up for their class reunions. The 10-year ones are the hardest because lots of name and address changes have taken place.

MISSING SON
Dear Trouble Shooter

We have a son who has been missing since he left home to go hiking in the Cleveland National Forest off Ortega Highway in Orange County. We haven't heard from him since he left two and one-half years ago. He was told to call us when he needed a ride, so we could pick him up wherever he was, and we told him to call collect.

We notified the police he was missing, gave them all the information and his picture. No results.

We don't know what else to do. We are parents who love our children, yet we were told he is of age, an adult, and free to go wherever he wants. He left on July 13, 1974. His name is Angelo "Nick" Gatti. He was born Sept. 19, 1952. He loves to go hiking and surfing. He likes farming and gardening. He is 5 feet 2, has blue eyes and weighs 120 lbs. He has very light brown hair and a short reddish brown beard.

Will you ask anyone who may have given him a ride or who knows where he is to give us a call? We are heartsick over his disappearance.

V.G. and A.G.
Newport Beach

The phone number, for anyone who can provide a lead to your son's whereabouts, is 642-0552. If necessary, call collect.

IN-BETWEENERS
Dear Trouble Shooter

The Ol' Trouble Shooter did it again! You became the "angel" for the In-Betweeners.

The response to our letter in your column was overwhelming. I had to eat standing up the first night, never got off the phone.

We had our first meeting on Dec. 16, thanks to the kindness of the Santa Ana First Federal Bank who allowed us to use their Friendship Room. Now, we're getting ready for our second get-together.

Looks like we're in for some fun times with some real fine people. Thanks again. You gave us a wonderful Christmas present.

J.C.
Santa Ana

Folks will recall that J.C. wrote the Trouble Shooter in November asking if there were some sort of organization for folks who were between the ages of "the swinging singles" and the "golden agers." He suggested that J.C. help organize an "In-Betweeners" club, and that's what she did.

Others who are interested can contact J.C. for details on the club by calling 546-2185 evenings.

FURNITURE NEED
Dear Trouble Shooter

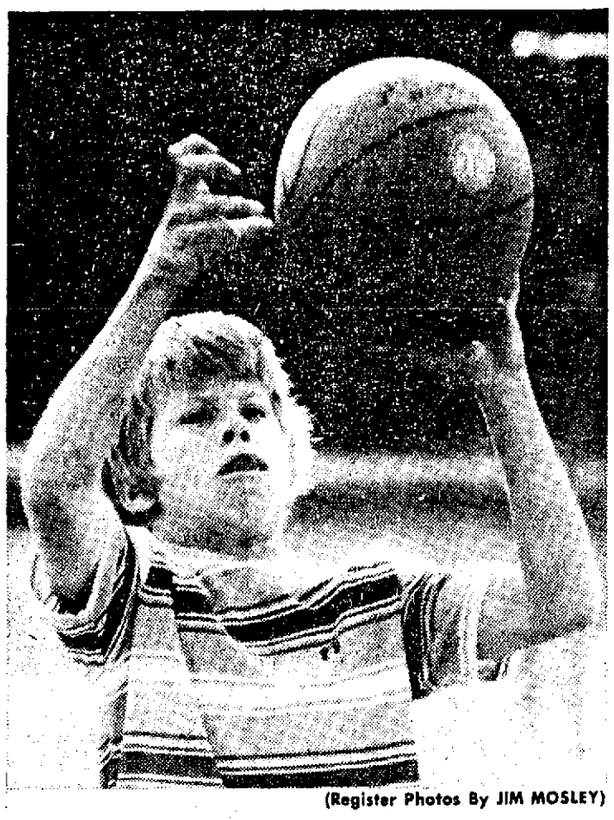

The Southwest Recovery House, 1717 W. McFadden, Santa Ana, is in need of two couches, kitchen utensils, chests of drawers and linens. This is a rehabilitation unit for alcoholics.

Do you think some of your readers will be willing to donate some of the articles (used) that I've mentioned?

D.G.
Fullerton

Doesn't do any harm to ask, does it? Folks who want to help should call 558-9851, (558-9851, and ask for "Pete" or "Pedro."

SWEET, BUT SHORT, VICTORY — Bert Carr of Mission Viejo stares at the hoop, an oversized basketball grasped firmly in his small hands. Slowly, he raises the ball, every muscle thinking "basket." And by the smile on his face, photo below, it's easy to tell he made his shot. Bert made six out of 15 shots as the only 11-year-old boy competing in a recent free throw contest sponsored by the Saddleback Valley Knights of Columbus. He thought he'd won it, but later learned his eleventh birthday was after the July 1976 deadline. But Bert's brother, Wayne, was luckier — he won in the 13-year-old category. Other winners were Sherri Sommers, 11, Beth Bergan, 12, and Greg Grumdeman, 12, all of Mission Viejo.

Districts Balk At Extra Cost Of Providing School Lunches

By ESTHER BAUER
Register Staff Writer

Roger is in the fourth grade, but he reads at a second-grade level.

Although tests show he has above average intelligence, his teacher has recommended that he be held back.

She is confident, however, that his learning ability is curtailed because he is hungry most of the time.

Back in 1973 state senate subcommittee hearings on nutrition and human need established a relationship between hunger and learning.

In an apparent effort to remove the "hunger handicap" from children like Roger, legislators have decreed that all tax-supported school districts provide a lunch beginning in the fall to all so-called needy children at no cost, or at a reduced price.

The catch is that districts have to make lunches available to all students, however, so that the students eligible for free and reduced-price meals can receive the food without other students knowing they don't have to pay.

Many districts throughout California are balking at implementing the program – some complaining they don't want to further burden local taxpayers who will have to pick up the tab.

Federal and state reimbursements pay for only part of a district's initial cost to set up a lunch program, but most of Orange County's 29 elementary, unified and high school districts already have weathered any reimbursement deficits.

The district must offer a food program to 6,250 elementary students in 16 elementary schools by September, but combined federal and state reimbursements will cover only $65,000 of the $100,000 equipment costs.

But, depending upon the area, only two per cent or up to 25 per cent of a school's enrolled students could be classified as "needy," said Lawrence Sutherland Jr., district business manager.

Qualification is determined by family size in relation to monthly income on a formula set up by the state.

Central kitchens at two of the district's four intermediate schools currently supply 2,400 lunches daily for seventh and eighth graders.

Both, now operating at capacity would have to be expanded to handle the load from the elementary schools, as several years ago, the elementary schools dropped lunch programs and converted cafeterias into libraries, Sutherland explained.

State law permits the district to add a maximum five-cent tax rate to property tax bills to pay for needy-student meals, he said. Non-needy students pay for their meals.

Less than one-third of the students are expected to participate in the lunch program – paying and non-paying, he said. "Some schools will be serving less than 60 lunches. There's no way we can operate in the black considering transportation costs.

"Even though the state shares the expense of the program, we don't feel it's justified," he said.

District trustees are expected to approve a pilot program to begin after the Easter recess in four elementary schools to comply with the state mandate.

Another school district, Fountain Valley Elementary, was hit with $178,230 equipment costs to equip cafeterias in its 19 schools last February, said Charles Woodfin, district business manager.

However, combined federal-state reimbursements covered all but $5,000 of the total. The deficit was paid from general fund monies, he said.

Although about 7,100 students have access to the program, on the average only 2,400 students buy lunches. Ten per cent qualify for free or reduced price meals, he said.

The district still has six schools without lunch programs, but all 19 will have the program by March, he said.

The district contracts with a Los Angeles County district for food preparation, and transports the lunches to each school.

All other elementary, unified and high school districts in the county have programs in full operation at a combined budget of $24.1 million.

Combined federal and state grants to the districts total about $6.9 million for the year.

Builders Ask County To Handle Coastal Development Permits

By LARRY PETERSON

SANTA ANA – Claiming that coastal building activity will otherwise grind to a halt, groups representing developers and construction industry unions have asked the county to take over issuing of local coastal development permits as soon as possible.

Under state legislation adopted last year, development applications may be ruled on by the south coast control commission, or the county can handle the applications on its own.

The groups fear the transition from the coastal controls administered under terms of a law that expired in December to the new law now in effect may impose a virtual moratorium in construction. Such a halt, they claim could cost thousands of jobs.

Permit applications submitted since mid-November were not acted on, due to the lack of sufficient time to process them before the end of the year and the fact that the south coast commission already had hundreds of pending applications.

As of Tuesday, the commission had a backlog of 210 official permit applications left over from last year and has this year received 165 new applications which it cannot yet begin to handle, said commission executive director Mel Carpenter. It will be at least a month before it begins approving any of them, he added.

"It's like a conveyor belt" said Gil Ferguson, executive director of Californians for Environment, Employment, Economy and Development (CEEED).

"Since November or so the

Remap Plan 'Redesigned'

3 OC Supervisors Agree Not To Divide Up Newport Beach

By LARRY PETERSON
Register Staff Writer

SANTA ANA – The most controversial portion of political strategist William Butcher's supervisorial redistricting plan is dead.

While county supervisors are far from agreeing on just how to redraw their political districts, three of the five board members have agreed on what should not be done.

Specifically, supervisors Thomas Riley, Laurence Schmit and Philip Anthony don't like Butcher's proposal to take half of Newport Beach from Riley's fifth district and graft it onto Schmit's second district.

The remainder of Butcher's apparently unsolicited redistricting plan, however, still has a lot of appeal to most board members.

And the plan could be implemented – with a few adjustments – without ripping Newport apart.

The Butcher plan goes a long way toward achieving the supervisors' shared goals of equalizing district populations and reducing the number of cities split by district lines. And it appears to have to have at least as many pluses as minuses for everyone but Riley.

The other major thrust of the Butcher plan shifts Ralph Diedrich's north county third district far to the south, picking up half of what is now Riley's Saddleback Valley.

To accommodate that relocation, Diedrich would leave his district's Anaheim, Cypress, La Palma and Buena Park areas to fourth district Supervisor Ralph Clark.

Riley concedes that his sprawling south county district which has some 82,000 too many residents to conform to the court-mandated one-man, one-vote rule, will have to be reduced in size.

But his reaction to Butcher's proposal to give half his home town to Schmit's district was, "No way!"

While neither has publicly stated whether any further agreement was reached, both supervisors and their aides have hinted that they would be happy to see the line between their districts drawn along the Santa Ana River.

That would preserve for Schmit the best features of the Butcher plan – consolidating within his district all of Huntington Beach and Fountain Valley – while eliminating the Newport Beach division which both he and Riley say they don't want.

Use of the river as a boundary still would leave Riley's district with about 25,000 residents more than it should have if all five supervisorial areas are to be equal in population.

But, as an aide to a north county supervisor suggested, the difference could be more or less eliminated by canceling another feature of the Butcher plan – the proposed addition of all of Tustin to Riley's district.

To achieve equal population in a redistricting move, the following could be done:

Anthony, who already represents a small piece of Tustin, could get the remainder of that city, in turn giving more of his already fragmented Garden Grove holdings to Schmit – moving the dividing line between the first and second districts east, rather than west as Butcher proposed.

Or, Tustin could remain in Riley's district while eliminating another little-noticed feature of the Butcher plan – a proposal to transfer much of south Santa Ana from Anthony to Riley.

Riley hasn't expressed interest in acquiring new constituents in Santa Ana, while Anthony has indicated he would like to see all of Santa Ana – most of which he already represents – in his district.

A Butcher plan, adjusted to keep Riley's district out of Santa Ana, would come close to achieving that goal.

Riley aide Dennis Horn claims that, even without the Newport Beach split, the Butcher plan would "violate democratic principles" by placing large numbers of people under supervisors they had no voice in choosing.

But those whose districts would be most affected by population shifts, Clark and Diedrich, have not objected.

Clark is enthusiastic about Butcher's designation of all of his home town of Anaheim – now split among four supervisors – for inclusion in the fourth district.

Diedrich, while refusing to concede that acquisition of the Saddleback valley would be a political asset for his district, said he's not alarmed by the potential loss of three cities the Butcher plan would earmark for Clark.

The reason Butcher submitted the plan remains shrouded in mystery. The professional campaign manager, said by his office to be "out of the country," remains unavailable for comment.

Each supervisor denies asking for the plan, and Butcher reportedly didn't ask to be paid for his work.

Diedrich said he obtained demographic data from the county administrative officer's staff at Butcher's request.

But Diedrich said he obtained the information merely as a courtesy to Butcher, who could, he said, have gotten it on his own.

Schmit and Anthony have suggested the plan could improve the image of the election firm operated by Butcher and Arnold Ford.

The firm has been criticized because of allegedly unfair campaign tactics and because of Butcher's ties to campaign bankroller Dr. Louis Cella, convicted last year of resorting to fraud and embezzlement to support his political largesse.

"But I don't think he (Butcher), was looking for any publicity at this point," Anthony added.

Riley, Clark and Diedrich and their respective aides are working proposals of their own. Riley aide Dennis Horn said his plan will be ready for consideration within "a few weeks."

A committee of staffers from each district office is expected to begin comparing notes within a month.

Diedrich, interviewed last month, said he's been working on remapping ideas for a year and a half and is honing a plan which will split only three cities, which he would not name.

"I don't think what the board will come up with will be specifically aimed at any one supervisor," he said. "But you've got to remember that redistricting is a purely political act and that there isn't a great deal of reasonableness to it.

"Anyway you look at it, at least three supervisors are going to agree on a plan. I hope to be one of them."

Diedrich said that, for about $6,000, supervisors could have the lines drawn by computer.

"But I don't think its worth the money to have the job done that way," he said. "And I kind of like the idea of playing with the numbers."

G.G. TO SEEK SPECIAL REVIEW OF GLASS CATHEDRAL PLANS

By STEVE EDDY
Register Staff Writer

GARDEN GROVE – When Garden Grove and other cities adopted the Uniform Building Code, they probably had no inkling that someone would want to construct a 12-story, star-shaped glass cathedral.

So city officials are going to have to ask for help in estimating how safe Garden Grove Community Church's proposed $10 million facility would be in the event of earthquake or severe winds.

This week, the city council approved a general development plan for the 4,100-seat Crystal Cathedral that will be about the length of one and a third football fields. Its star-shaped shell of more than 10,000 reflective glass panels is to be supported by geometrical webs and pipes and rods.

The council's action does not preclude the city staff's ultimately refusing to okay specific engineering plans for the mammoth worship hall.

"We are not anticipating any major problems," said Richard Rafanovic, city director of public works and development. "But this building is not something you can approve by looking at a set of existing tables. We will institute a close review of some of the more complicated aspects of the proposal."

He said members of the International Conference of Building Officials, as well as a special committee of the state's Structural Engineers Association for Unusual Buildings will be asked to assign experts in specific engineering areas to review aspects of the preliminary plans after the city receives them in about a month.

The church has agreed to foot the bill for that review, which Rafanovic said could amount to around a half per cent of the structure's cost. With the current price tag for the cathedral figured at $10 million, the church could have to pay about $50,000 for the special review.

"I don't think they have the slightest idea how much it (the review) is going to cost," said Bain Fisher, director of church business affairs. "They don't know what we're going to submit yet. But what they are requiring appears reasonable, and we're willing to do anything we have to do.

"What our architect submits may be entirely satisfactory," said Fisher."

Fisher said the church has already collected or received pledges for $6 million toward cathedral cost, primarily through offerings of $500 for each glass pane. Three persons have promised to donate $1 million each, he said.

The structure, according to church pastor the Rev. Robert Schuller, "will stand for centuries as a lasting monument to the glory of God."

The cathedral, which city officials believe will be the first of its type in the world, has been designed by New York architects Philip Johnson and John Burgee.

Rafanovic said the Unusual Buildings group is "the cream of the crop" of engineers, and offers expertise in specific areas not available on the city's staff.

"What would happen in the event of an earthquake?" asked Rafanovic, "or a good Santa Ana wind? What would happen if both occurred at the same time? These are the things we'll try to find out."

He said many design aspects of the cathedral – such as electrical, gas and mechanical requirements – will probably be the same as other structures of similar size.

"In addition, there are things like the Astrodome, which utilize some of these engineering principles. But there is nothing else quite like the cathedral. It's not the kind of thing for which we have developed standards. Hundreds of them have not been built."

What if the reviewers say the cathedral plans won't fly?

"That's an unlikely event," said Rafanovic. "They might suggest revisions, and we would in turn suggest those to the church. We would say that the plans have to be changed on the basis of extremely competent, technical advice.

"If they should refuse to change the plans, we'll just have to find out who will hold."

Supervisors Cut Expenses Review

SANTA ANA – County Supervisors took advantage of a new state law Tuesday to eliminate a legal inspection of their claims for expense reimbursement.

But supervisors chairman Thomas Riley appeared surprised that the issue passed by a narrow, 3-2 vote. "I don't know what's the matter," he said. "One day we want it, and now we're fighting over it."

The new state law, which the supervisors proposed for legislation in Sacramento last year, allows them to bypass the county counsel if they make such a vote at the local level.

The county counsel has screened supervisors' expense claims since 1941. County Auditor-Controller Vic Heim will get the claims directly following Tuesday's action.

Supervisor Ralph Diedrich said he will continue to send his to County Counsel Adrian Kuyper.

Diedrich, under investigation by the district attorney for alleged illegal political activity on behalf of other candidates, said he would "feel more comfortable" if Kuyper continued to be a "check and balance" to prevent any "innocent mistakes" from getting through.

Diedrich and Schmit opposed the change in accounting procedure.

Kuyper called the old procedure "an anachronism" from the days when supervisors personally passed on all payment by the county for supplies and salaries. State law already has given them the power to delegate approval of all other bills to the auditor-controller.

He said he still may be reviewing supervisors' bills, if Heim asks him for a legal opinion on an expenditure.

"It doesn't change my policy at all," Heim an elected official, added later. "The fact that the county counsel approved a claim ahead of time never mattered. We've always looked at them just as though they had come directly to us."

OC Car Dealer Settles Suit On False Ads

SANTA ANA – An Anaheim car dealership has agreed to pay $7,500 to the Orange County general fund in settling a false advertising suit filed by the District Attorney's Office.

Vern Trider Chevrolet, 215 S. Euclid Ave. admitted no liability in agreeing to the settlement, according to Deputy Dist. Atty. Doug McFarland.

The suit alleged that the car dealership engaged in false advertising by representing that the public could buy new cars at dealer's cost or for $1 over dealer's cost, when such deals were not made.

McFarland said the dealership was ordered to refrain from engaging in similar activity in the future.

Plan To Hire Asian Welfare Workers OKd

SANTA ANA – Nine new welfare workers will be hired by the county to help Southeast Asian immigrants with emotional, financial and medical problems they are encountering in this county.

County supervisors Tuesday approved a $71,485 budget to hire the employes through August when federal funding of the Indo-Chinese welfare program is to end.

Supervisors, though, also called for a complete report on how much is being spent by all county agencies on the refugees.

About $2.3 million is being given out in federal welfare payments to the refugees, but that does not include cost of health and mental health care that is budgeted separately.

Robert Love, county interim welfare directory, said the number of refugees on welfare has spiraled from 293 in July 1975 to 3,331 last November.

In August 1976, he said, the refugee problem was compounded by the arrival of Thailand immigrants who have a separate language and culture and did not have to pass the same health screening given to the earlier Vietnamese refugees.

Sunset Beach Sandbagging Cost $1,100

SANTA ANA – Sandbagging and other flood prevention measures during high tides last month in Sunset Beach cost county taxpayers $1,100.

Flood officials submitted the figure in a report to county supervisors that showed they used 1,500 sandbags to divert the tide from flooding beach community homes.

2c Gas Tax Hike Favored In SCAG Transit Plan

By TIM SKROVE
Register Staff Writer

SANTA ANA – A regional transportation plan calling for a two-cent-per-gallon gasoline tax hike, mandatory maintenance and inspection of automobiles by 1981 and completion of the Newport Freeway through Costa Mesa, was reviewed here Tuesday at a public hearing.

The plan, drafted by the Southern California Association of Governments (SCAG), a regional planning agency composed of representatives from six counties and 126 cities in Southern California, outlines a long list of objectives in transportation and air quality.

But the hearing drew only about 25 individuals, half being members of the press and SCAG staff and most of the remainder representing cities.

SCAG transportation planner Jim Gosnell said some of the long range goals of the plan include increasing the use of public transportation. Currently, 2.5 per cent of all trips taken are made on tax supported transportation, a figure SCAG would like to increase to 6 per cent by 1985.

The plan also outlines the amounts of auto emissions that could be eliminated and the amounts of gasoline saved by reducing the total number of miles driven by 5 per cent in 1980 and by 20 per cent by 1995. The percentage estimates are based on projections of how many miles would have been driven had measures not been taken to control private driving.

To reduce the total number of miles driven, SCAG proposes the use of high-occupancy vehicles (such as buses), metered freeway on-ramps and preferential lanes–similar to the ill-fated diamond lane project on the Santa Monica Freeway last year.

Gosnell said, however, the public's reaction to the diamond lane and a SCAG decision last week not to open a similar lane on the San Diego Freeway in Los Angeles County, may be a prelude to an entire review of the preferential lane concept.

Gosnell said an estimated $12.8 billion will be spent on transportation in the SCAG planning region, which includes Orange, Los Angeles Riverside, San Bernardino, Imperial and Ventura counties, during the next 10 years, based on existing tax fund resources.

If additional money becomes available, that figure could climb to $19.7 billion, accoring to the report.

Gosnell said the transportation plan also calls for the revamping of how transportation funds can be spent. Currently, those funds must be used for capital improvements.

But the increasing costs of maintaining and operating transportation systems may require use of transportation funds for those costs.

The two-cent gasoline tax, which would have to be approved by the state legislature, would provide local funds for streets and roads.

Gosnell said the transportation plan calls for no major construction other than three improvement projects including the completion of the Newport Freeway through Costa Mesa.

The plan also calls for the maximum use of existing facilities before new ones are constructed.

DOES WAY GIRLS DRESS DRIVE MEN TO RAPE?

By Abigail Van Buren

© 1977 by Chicago Tribune-N.Y. News Synd. Inc.

DEAR ABBY: It's no wonder so many girls and women are raped these days. They go around without bras, wearing halters and skin-tight pants, and some of them even leave their whole midsections bare naked. They practically ask for it!

I'm not saying we should be easy on the rapists who commit these terrible crimes, but the way some girls dress I can understand how a man can be tempted beyond his ability to control himself.

GRANDMA: GARDEN CITY, N.Y.

DEAR GRANDMA: The theory that girls "ask for it" by the way they dress is not valid. What's so tempting about a 10-month-old baby wearing a diaper? Or an 85-year-old woman in a housedress?

Rapists are more interested in humiliating and degrading a female than in satisfying themselves sexually. Any female (of any age) will do.

One piece of advice to women on how to dress to protect themselves against rape: Wear shoes you can RUN in.

DEAR ABBY: The continuing discussion in your column regarding "recycled dentures" brought to mind an old limerick, which you may have heard:

"There was an old man of Tarentum
Who gnashed his false teeth 'till he bent 'em.
When they asked him the cost
Of what he had lost.
He replied, 'I can't say, for I rent 'em'."

My research reveals that 70 years ago, British weekly newspapers carried this advertisement: "Old artificial teeth bought. If forwarded by post, utmost value per return or offer made..."

So you see, Abby, what happens to old dentures has intrigued people for a long, long time.

M.E. RING, D.D.S.

DEAR M.E.: Thanks to the editor of the Bulletin of the History of Dentistry.

DEAR ABBY: You printed a letter recently from a former G.I. who said he's yet to see an Army chaplain who would help a G.I. marry a girl who wasn't round-eyed, Anglo-Saxon and Christian. I agree with you; that was an unfair knock to chaplains. But we're hardly a "melting pot" in this country yet, either.

Years ago, I was in love with a wonderful girl I'll call "Rosita." We worked and saved—even picked prunes together. We had a few acres and a shack picked out. I put a tractor together from salvage parts, and we went shopping for used furniture. God knows how much I loved that little dark-haired girl!

But she was Catholic and I, Protestant. She, Italian and I, English. After a struggle with parents, preacher and priest, they finally said they could overlook the difference in nationality, but religion—NO! Each side insisted it had to be their church all the way. Nobody would give in, so we had to say goodbye. Now I see how foolish we were.

Religious freedom? What a joke. Were I to do it again, I'd tell the whole bunch to go fly a kite. A man has only one love like this in a lifetime.

Your birthday today: Adjustment to things as they are comes first. Next a surge of idealism plus an urge to improve your personal world sets in for an active, generally successful year. This is a time to translate past experience into wisdom through meditation. Relationships lead to many incidents you wouldn't plan. Today's natives are militant, bluntly candid. Those born this year will be smoother, plan a long series of intermediate phases to get where they are going.

Aries [March 21-April 19]: Pressure, interference factors decrease; life returns to normal. Review your financial status, make minor readjustments as indicated by competent advisors.

Taurus [April 20-May 20]: Talks are circuitous, involve people who aren't part of the basic situation, but do relieve many problems. Take legal action only on professional counsel.

Gemini [May 21-June 20]: Special opportunities are at hand if you've gotten through this week's endless squabbles unscathed. Apply for privileges, pay raises, new jobs where appropriate.

Cancer [June 21-July 22]: Where you move on sudden impulse or obey somebody's whim, the one area that needs exceptional care is money. Older folk's concerns are your responsibility.

Leo [July 23-Aug. 22]: Make sure home, workplace are free of hazard. Leave unfamiliar repairs to technicians. Go it alone on things you know. Put in overtime if adequately paid.

Virgo [Aug. 23-Sept. 22]: Check important deals with experienced people, leave nothing to chance. Don't trust unmotivated friends with any of the action or promise any rewards to come.

Libra [Sept. 23-Oct. 22]: Serious effort to persuade VIPs to help is in order. Advice lacks understanding of your position; forget it. Let go the past to improve emotional climate.

Scorpio [Oct. 23-Nov. 21]: Budgets suffer as you respond to an urge to indulge in a moment of luxury. Find a balance between work and pleasure. Romantic invitations are likely.

Sagittarius [Nov. 22-Dec. 21]: You get more done by not being on the spot to take all the credit and blame. Keep your ears open, learn others' intentions, keys to handling them.

Capricorn [Dec. 22-Jan. 19]: Propriety keeps you on honesty's straight and narrow path. Conniving wastes money, engenders conflict. Be thrifty; solid planning takes cash.

Aquarius [Jan. 20-Feb. 18]: Not all nearby are dependable. On crucial items deal with those who proved reliable long ago. In seeking truth, unsuspected facts come to light.

Pisces [Feb. 19-March 20]: Well-intentioned friends are meddlers, more hindrance than real assistance. Listen to their palaver, then do as you please. Emotional ties deepen.

Dog Vivisection Plan Draws Protests

DETROIT (AP) - A proposal to kill nearly 140 dogs for classroom study at Wayne State University Medical School has provoked protest from animal protection groups and some students.

One Wayne student, who asked that her name be withheld, said medical students shouldn't have to kill laboratory animals.

"Most of the things we'll be learning can be learned from looking at a film," she said.

"We have a responsibility here of hiring a person certified to be able to work on a human being, and you don't learn by using motion pictures or video tapes or anything of that kinds," Seegers said.

"Do you want the student to go to a hospital and pass out the first time he sees a little blood? Let him pass out in front of some dogs instead.

"If nothing else, the feel of your first incision is certainly better experienced here on a dog than in the emergency room of Detroit General Hospital," Seegers said.

The animal protection groups have criticized the Detroit city pound's policy of selling stray dogs to the university for $5 each.

Dr. Alfred Edward, chairman of the university's comparative medicine department, said the dogs - scheduled to die at the pound anyway - will experience no pain during the classroom work.

Joseph Zaremba, manager of the city pound, said Wayne State gets about 300 dogs a year, all of them unclaimed strays.

Seegers said the dogs will be anesthetized before they are taken to laboratory classrooms, where students will make incisions, practice heart massage procedure and make other tests.

New Fault Found In HB Complex

By JOANNE TAEUFFER
Register Staff Writer

HUNTINGTON BEACH — A 50-foot-long crack has developed in the concrete plaza between city hall and the police station of this city's three-year-old $12 million civic center complex already plagued with corroding water and gas pipes now being replaced.

The new problem developed last Friday, according to public works director Bill Hartge, when a 10-foot-wide section of the concrete near the city's three flag poles began to sag in the middle.

Eventually a crack developed and has been temporarily filled, Hartge said.

"I don't think this is anything too serious," he said, blaming the problem on soggy soil after a week's rain.

"We'll have to dig out that soil, probably, and fill in with sand; then replace the concrete," Hartge said.

The new repair work probably will get under way before workers have even completed making the last set of city hall repairs.

Underground Steel pipes started to deteriorate a year and a half ago, apparently because they were inadequately protected against the area's corrosive soil.

A study of that problem, plus the work to correct it, has cost taxpayers about $15,000.

Farm Women Muscling Into Management

CHICAGO (AP) - More women are taking an active interest in managing farms, but the male-dominated farm organizations are not yet willing to treat women as equals, according to Jim Thomson, editor of a national farm-magazine.

"Are farm organizations ready to treat women as equals? Not so you would notice it, but some changes may be in the wind," he said. "Farm organizations have traditionally had boards of directors that were 100 per cent male. If women were considered, it was for an auxiliary organization.

"With farming becoming more of a business that involves someone handy with a pencil and a calculator, more women are taking on this chore. Modern law has adapted to the idea that the wife owns half the farm. She co-signs the loan, balances the books, and drives the tractor."

People are losing interest in Southern California.*

If you were faced with a sudden need for a substantial amount of cash, what would you do? Dip into your hard-won savings account? Borrow money at today's interest rates? Either way, you'd lose interest. But if you had your savings in an account at Mutual Savings, you'd have another choice.

The 1% Account Loan.

Savers who have certificate accounts with Mutual Savings can borrow up to 90% of their savings account balance. The interest charge is 1% per year more than the interest their account is earning.

We look on these savings account loans as "just-in-case" loans. Having them available means you can put your savings in a certificate of deposit that pays considerably higher interest than a passbook account. For instance, a six-year, $1000 minimum, certificate account pays 8.06% interest per annum when 7.75% is compounded daily. And your account, like all Mutual Savings accounts, is insured to $40,000 by an agency of the federal government with returns guaranteed. If you do need cash, account loans are easily arranged because your account is the security for the loan. The account remains intact, earning full interest, and you avoid the penalties for early withdrawal of funds required by law.

Our 1% loan proves that all savings institutions are not alike. Call a few of the others and ask them about 1% loans. Then bring your passbook to any of our 16 offices in Southern California and a Savings Counselor will arrange the transfer of funds to your new high-interest account.

OC Man's Book Made Into Film On Noah's Ark

By CON BLISS
Register Staff Writer

NEWPORT BEACH - Noah's ark wouldn't have won any awards for beauty, says the man whose book on the subject reportedly has sold more than a million copies.

The ark was an ugly, barge-like vessel about half the size of the Queen Mary but probably far more seaworthy, said author Dave Balsiger. His book was made into a movie that opens today in Orange County.

The movie, "In Search of Noah's Ark," is a family-oriented film that has done well in other parts of the country, producers claim.

Balsiger, 31, is a Costa Mesa resident and former photographer for the Anaheim Bulletin. He, presently, is conducting a wirlwind tour to promote both his book and the G-rated film.

"In 1969 I read my first article about Noah's ark in The Register," the author recalled. "At that time, I was a little skeptical about the whole thing."

Yet, the news accounts of a French explorer discovering what led scientists to believe was Noah's ark ignited Balsiger's interest in the subject, he said. He began collecting every bit of information he could lay his hands on dealing with the reported find. After numerous letters back and forth to explorer Fernand Navarra, Balsiger decided he had enough material to write a book.

His first book on the topic was "Noah's Ark: I Touched It," which was the story of Navarra's four expeditions atop the 14,000-foot peak in Eastern Turkey, where Navarra recovered some pieces of a wooden structural beam thought to be part of the ark.

I had that book finished in 1971," said Balsiger. "I couldn't find anyone to publish it until 1974. Nobody was interested. The book was probably rejected 25 times."

Eventually, however, it was published and sold 125,000 copies.

Balsiger's second book on the subject, "In Search of Noah's Ark," hit the bookstands in June 1976 and has sold more than a million copies, he said. He said he interviewed about 250 scientists over a four-year period to help authenticate his research.

"When I first started out I figured we could probably prove it (the ark) was some kind of religious shrine or some kind of a building," the author said. But the finding atop Mt. Ararat is permanently encrusted with snow and ice in a region where temperatures drop as low as 40 below zero in the summer.

"People have been killed and have never returned," Balsiger said. "It's a very superstitious mountain because of this."

But explorers and fliers have reported sighting the mysterious wooden structure since the 19th century, the author said, holding up a scale model of what the ark is supposed to look like.

It's not like people might think," he said of the ark. "It's like a huge barge. It's ugly." He said the vessel high atop the frozen mountain is about 450 feet long, 75 feet wide and perhaps 45 feet tall.

Some of the ice encrusting the wooden structure tastes salty, Balsiger said he was told by Navarra.

Balsiger, here to promote the film that has been saturating television sets with up to 65 ads daily, said the movie already has caught fire with the public - and even the great flood would have difficulty in extinguishing it.

In Balsiger's book, there are some hazy areas, he conceded. "Where there is sufficient evidence to support the facts, we say that, too," he added.

Despite the fact that Balsiger has never seen what others contend may be the real McCoy, the author says he's positive the ark is the genuine article.

A UNIQUE NEW ALLERGY TREATMENT IS BEING USED WITH GREAT SUCCESS BY THE ALLERGY CONTROL MEDICAL CLINIC of Orange County called auto-immune therapy for allergies. Simply stated, it is a vaccination-type therapy of proven effectiveness, "receiving" immunizing agents naturally present in the patient's own body. The treatment has brought lasting relief to more than 7,000 Californians treated by the physicians at the allergy control medical clinic with auto-immune therapy for allergies with these documented results:

- The most severe symptoms of "classic" headaches, hay fever, asthma, and eczema disappeared.
- It was the only known treatment which had a dramatic, curative effect of food allergies.
- Cause of allergy was not pertinent, thus eliminating costly, discomforting skin and other tests.
- There were no harmful side effects.
- The treatment period was of short duration.
- The drugless, natural therapy built a vigorous antibody defense of long effectiveness. For most patients, the effect was permanent.

Spiral Underpass Eyed For Rail Crossing In SC

SAN CLEMENTE – Drawings for a novel spiral railroad underpass, based on a design by local building designer Eric Boucher, were presented this week to the Public Utilities Commission (PUC) on the first day of a public hearing here.

The drawings, prepared by Glenn H. Manda, an assistant architect for the Santa Fe Railway Co., were presented to PUC examiner Norman Haley as an alternative to the city's request for an at-grade crossing.

For years the city has wrestled with the problem of how to revamp the area of the existing railroad underpass and entrance to the municipal pier. Complaints have been aired that the existing steps at the underpass preclude people in wheelchairs and the infirm from reaching the pier and the beach. And the tunnel under the track has been described as a hang out for "undesirable elements."

The city council in recent years pursued a proposal for replacing the underpass with an at-grade crossing over the tracks as the easiest solution to the problem. But the proposal met with resistance by PUC and the railroad officials who questioned the safety of at-grade crossings.

In May, designer Boucher made public a plan for a spiral ramp descending into the tunnel and another one at the end of the tunnel leading to the pier.

Boucher's design, which he said he prepared to help the city find a solution, met with resistance from city officials who had expected approval for their at-grade crossing before the PUC.

The PUC granted the city a re-opening of the hearing to view alternatives to the at-grade crossing.

Meanwhile, Boucher's plan was revised by Manda allowing an 8.33 per cent grade rather than the five and six per cent that Boucher had considered. The steeper grade was permissible by law, officials said.

Manda said that the revised plan did not require any changes to the existing tunnel, with the steeper grade.

General Services Agency Acting Director Chosen

SANTA ANA – Tom Egan, assistant director of the county general services agency in charge of elections and of Orange County Airport, was named acting agency director Tuesday.

County supervisors selected Egan, 52, from four assistant directors to head the 802-employe agency while a permanent director is being sought.

Egan, a candidate for the permanent position, will become interim director Feb. 1, the day after the retirement of R.I. (Cuba) Morris. Morris, a 24-year veteran of county government who organized the agency two years ago, reaches mandatory retirement age this month.

Recruiting for a permanent director already is under way in Southern California, and Egan's temporary appointment is not expected to last more than three months, supervisors said.

Supervisors said they will consider a temporary raise next week for Egan, now making $31,512.

Egan began working for the county 11 years ago as an auditor-appraiser for then-county assessor Andrew Hinshaw.

Egan was named by Morris as assistant agency director for special services, making him responsible for the soon-to-be-released environmental impact report on Orange County Airport and administration of the county registrar's office, library system and emergency services.

The agency also is responsible for purchasing, land and building acquisition and maintenance, the countywide law enforcement communications system, the county vehicle fleet and county dumps.

Courthouse Opens Children's Room

SANTA ANA – A room in the new county courthouse, designed to be a first aid station but taken over for use by the grand jury, will become a children's "waiting room."

County supervisors overlooked the objections of county judges Tuesday and approved an $11,000 remodeling project to convert the space into a courthouse nursery.

Supervisors began planning the children's area last June on the recommendation of former supervisor Robert Battin, an attorney who later was removed from office after being convicted of using his county-paid staff to do political campaign work.

County building officials have been negotiating with the judges since then for mutually agreeable space.

The nursery, not expected to be ready until summer, will be located on the first floor of the courthouse, near the east entrance.

County Asked To Handle Permits

commissions haven't been putting anything on the belt. Construction projects are still coming out the other end of the belt, but, by the end of May or June, a blank space is going to reach the other end..."

The result, he said, could be a $500 million blow to the building industry statewide, a large portion of which would be concentrated in Orange County.

CEEED and the Orange County Building and Construction Trades Council want the county to assume the permit issuing role in order to cut red tape and speed up approvals.

We urge you to accept this reponsibility before the economic harm becmes irreparable," said trades council executive director Alfred Gray in a letter received this week by county supervisors.

But county planning officials have not yet determined whether they will recommend that the county begin issuing permits.

Environmental Management Agency (EMA) Director George Osborne said his office will forward a report to supervisors sometime in the next two weeks.

Osborne said the county might be able to do a better and quicker job of processing the permits than can the commission, but added that his staff still lacks sufficient information about the rules the county would have to work under.

The newly appointed state commission, he said, has yet to issue guidelines covering the issuance of permits by counties, and the EMA staff has been using commission staff-prepared guidelines which could be changed soon.

Osborne said he doesn't know how much the task will cost but believes that the new law said the county will be reimbursed by the state. But Carpenter said the law states that the county won't be reimbursed.

Other county officials, both in and outside EMA have said privately they doubt that the county will issue permits because the job would involve expenses and controversy without necessarily speeding up the permit issuing processes.

Carpenter said procedures for county-run coastal control programs will become more flexible after comprehensive plans for the implementation of the new coastal law are approved. But that is probably at least two years off he said.

Woman Gets OK To Split Land Into 4 Plots

YORBA LINDA – Mrs. Kathleen Huff has won a writ of mandate from Superior Court ordering this city to let her divide four acres of her property without dedicating part of it for a horse trail.

The order handed down last Friday by Judge William Murray will allow Mrs. Huff to split her land adjoining the old El Cajon canal into four parcels which she plans to sell.

The city is trying to convert the canal into an equestrian-hiker trail where it runs through several private properties – including Mrs. Huff's – on the city's eastern border.

The property owners were required to dedicate an easement, even though they purchased from the former owner all interests to the canal.

Mrs. Huff said the trail to which she would have been required to donate at least half an acre, "is especially dangerous for horseback riders and bicyclists."

It would "plunge down over a very steep incline right onto busy, high-speed Kellogg Drive," she said.

She said "the claims they (the city) made on the property could be logically extended to any abandoned right-of-way on anyone's property – even if it led to within five feet of their front door."

She said if the city appeals, she plans to file suit. "But what a waste of the taxpayers' and our own money."

Programs Set On King At OC Schools Friday

The schools are required to establish assemblies, ceremonies or classroom programs to comply with a state law authored by State Sen. Nate Holden, D-Los Angeles, which became effective Jan. 1.

Some districts have recommended that teachers spend about an hour discussing and reading excerpts from King's addresses, "I Have A Dream" or "I've Been to the Mountain Top." Other districts have scheduled special ceremonies or assemblies.

In a Nov. 18 letter, the state senator urged all of the states 1,068 school districts to review King's "role in the non-violent civil rights movement in the United States."

Santa Ana College has scheduled a film called "King" to be shown at 1 p.m. and 7 p.m. Friday in Phillips Hall on campus. The county's other six community colleges have no programs scheduled.

Cal State Fullerton plans a memorial service April 1. UCI has no commemorative programs planned.

Buy Portable Classrooms, Panel Urges

PLACENTIA – Purchase of portable classrooms to relieve future overcrowding has been recommended to Placentia Unified School District trustees by a citizens committee.

The committee on classroom facilities urged the board to delay any action, however, until a 1977 growth projection report is completed in September.

Currently enrollment at three schools – Tuffree and Bernardo Yorba junior high schools and El Dorado High School – is 546 over capacity, according to the committee.

Relocatable classrooms could handle the district's uneven growth patterns, the report said. While enrollment in the fast growing eastern half of the district is increasing, it's declining in the already-developed western portion.

By using portable classrooms, enrollment could be increased from 800 to 1,200 at junior high schools and from 1,800 to 2,400 at senior high schools without the administration costs new facilities would bring, the report said.

OPEN SEVEN DAYS A WEEK!

HOPE STILL PERSISTS FOR SOLVING SAL MINEO'S MURDER

LOS ANGELES (AP) – They found the veteran actor lying in a pool of clotting blood, breathing rapidly, eyes wide, dying, his heart pierced by an assailant's knife.

Minutes earlier, neighbors heard him shout his cries for help, his plea, "Oh, my God, no!" ringing in the night.

It was over for the Bronx-born son of Italian immigrants. He died on Feb. 12, 1976, and police have been tracking his killer for a year without success.

They began with witnesses who had seen a man run from the parking area, and released a description: 20 to 30 years old, white, about 5-foot-8 with dark brown or black hair. Investigators know a knife was used and can tell from the wound how large it was. But no weapon was taken as evidence.

The motive was unclear.

Detectives from the Los Angeles County Sheriff's Department began the nuts-and-bolts work that continues to this day, questioning everyone who had any connection with Mineo in a search for clues.

"We're still talking to anyone we can," said Lt. Robert O'Sullivan. "This is a live, active case and we have hopes of including it in our resolved cases file. We're tracking down every lead, talking to anyone with any connection."

Twice, detectives have gone as far as Texas in their search for the killer.

"The country is full of would-be actors who come out here, find out they can't make it and go back home. Mineo knew some of them, regarded them as friends. We wanted to talk to them," O'Sullivan said.

Mineo, who never married, apparently had lived alone in the Hollywood apartment near the Sunset Strip for about three years.

His acting career, which saw Academy award nominations for his roles in "Rebel Without a Cause" and "Exodus," had bottomed out but appeared to be on the upswing again with a stage role and the chance to direct a movie.

"For the first time since I had known him, everything appeared to be going right," said close friend Elliot Mintz, a radio and television interviewer who was among honorary pallbearers at the actor's funeral.

"I have reason to believe that an arrest will be made, and I'm hopeful that a conviction will be obtained. My feelings have nothing to do with revenge, I just want the man who did this to have a real sense of the extent of loss to us all in Sal Mineo's death."

CB License Fees Suspended

Citizen's Band radio operators won't have to pay $4 for a permanent license, at least for the present.

The Federal Communications Commission (FCC) has suspended collection of CB license fees as a result of a court decision based on four suits, of federal consumer information office spokesman said.

The court ruled that FCC must justify all its fees. While the cost basis of the fees is being decided, collection fees collection has been suspended, the spokesman said.

It is still necessary, however, to apply for both temporary and permanent licenses, he added.

By Oswald & James Jacoby

North's two-club call was a decided underbid. His 19-point hand was really worth some sort of jump after his partner responded with one spade. On the other hand, North did not know just what jump to make. He didn't like the idea of a jump raise with just three trumps or a jump in clubs or hearts with his actual holdings in those suits. So he bid two clubs and hoped his partner would not pass.

South didn't pass. He raised clubs to three. North bid three spades, South went on to game and all of a sudden West doubled.

The double looks insane but there was a lot of method in West's madness. He was sure that his partner could ruff a club!

So West opened a club. East ruffed and returned a diamond to West's ace. A second club ruff was the third trick for the defense and then, as West explained later on, it was only reasonable to assume that East could produce a trick of his own.

East did. He held the ace of trumps and since the game was match points, West's double had given them a top score.

A British Columbia reader wants to know why a "finesse" is called by that name.

The answer is that the term goes way back to whist and was obviously coined by some unknown player of that game.

Construction Under Way On NB Art Museum

NEWPORT BEACH — Construction is under way on the $1.5 million Newport Harbor Art being built on a two-acre site in Newport Center.

Harvey West, hired last July to head the new facility, said the 21,000-square-foot structure is scheduled to be completed by mid-April.

The new facility will be located on a bluff adjacent to the future home of the city's new library building on San Clemente Road. It will feature five galleries, a sculpture garden, a special projects area, bookstore, kitchen and administrative offices, West said.

Museum personnel plan to move into the facility in April, West said, then spend the summer months preparing for the first major exhibit in September.

In mid-September, the museum will host a series of special instructional lectures, films and guided tours for groups in the area. The first exhibit is entitled "David Park Retrospective," set for showing during September and November. A second exhibit by Tony DeLap also will be featured through Oct. 30, West said.

The business community here has contributed about half the $1.5 million in costs, West said, donating the two acres of land, architectural services, landscaping, roofing, cement and construction labor at cost.

The city also waived the usual charges for building permits.

The museum presently is located at 2211 W. Balboa Blvd., where the facility has been since 1970, West said, adding that the existing quarters were outgrown long ago.

Aside from a $5,000 federal tax grant, the museum has sustained itself by revenues generated through memberships and contributions from corporations and foundations, West said. The new museum also will raise some revenues through admissions, new memberships and bookstore profits.

Founded in 1961 by a small group of art-oriented citizens, the museum will have a staff of nine, West said.

PUBLIC DEFENDER GETS CASH FOR IDEA

SANTA ANA — A deputy public defender has received the largest cash award in the history of the Orange County employe suggestion program for his plan to reduce paperwork in Superior Court.

The cost-saving idea submitted by James G. Merwin could save the county more than $50,000 a year, and will net Merwin $1,500, said Supervisor Ralph Clark.

Merwin suggested consolidating a 21-page court form into a single page. The idea, already implemented by the courts, will save 300 hours of judges' time in the next year, said Judge Kenneth Williams.

Rabies Clinic Set Wednesday

NEWPORT BEACH — Rabies vaccinations will be given at Newport Beach city hall Wednesday from 7 p.m. to 8:30 p.m.

All dogs four months of age and older are required by law to be vaccinated against rabies, and a valid vaccination certificate is necessary for licensing pets. The vaccination is good for 30 months.

NB Planners To Consider Two Projects

NEWPORT BEACH — Two major residential development projects will be considered by the planning commission, Jan. 20.

One proposal calls for a 453-unit condominium project and the other for an $8 million 226-unit luxury apartment complex.

The condominium project is targeted for a 21-acre parcel south of Hospital Road and southeast of Superior Avenue atop the bluffs overlooking Coast Highway. Once completed, it will become the second phase of the existing 266-unit Versailles apartments built nearby about three years ago.

The proposed apartment development if approved, will be built opposite the Newporter Inn on the Newport Center side of Jamboree on a 29-acre site adjacent to the Irvine Coast Country Club.

Mesa Residents Protest Revised Apartment Plans

COSTA MESA - A two-hour hearing which brought out nearly 150 homeowners and a troop of developers at the planning commission meeting ended without a decision.

George L. Argyros, a developer who wants to build 127 single-family homes and 552 apartments on 46 acres of South Coast Drive west of Bear Street, was asked by the commission Monday to revise his plans and return to its next meeting on Feb. 14.

The commission asked Argyros, who works for the Arnel Developing Co. of Santa Ana, to consider revising the street patterns of his plan, adding an emergency access to the single-access apartment complex and cutting back the number of units.

Paul Diehl, president of the North Costa Mesa Homeowners Association, expressed concern on again getting members of his association back for another meeting to protest the development. Meetings on the development have been held since last May.

The city's planning staff recommended that the commission deny Argyros' plan. The maximum number of units allowed for 46 acres under the city's planning code is 633. Argyros is seeking for 629 and calling the project medium density because it combines single family homes and apartments. The planning staff considers his request too high under the allowed medium density classification.

Argyros originally asked for the maximum of 15 units per acre because he was combining the homes with the apartments.

This makes the single family homes less dense than the maximum but the apartments more dense," said Perry Valentine of the city's planning staff. Valentine said the Argyros project averages 14.9 units per acres.

The plan calls for 50 single family homes on eight acres north of South Coast Drive and 77 single family homes and 552 apartments on 38 acres south of South Coast Drive adjacent to Bear Street.

Homeowners in the area originally asked to have all single family homes built there. They later agreed to apartments as a noise buffer along the San Diego Freeway, but not object to the number of apartments proposed by Argyros.

NB Eyes Remodeling Pier Concession Stands

NEWPORT BEACH - The city may have to pay for refurbishing Balboa and Newport piers' concession stands before getting anyone to operate the shops.

Both concessions, which dispensed bait, tackle and snacks, have been closed down since last month.

The two stands apparently will be closed indefinitely, at least until the city council decides upon a course of action.

Monday, the council voted to reject an offer made by the previous leaseholders, Betty and Noel Phoenix. It was the only offer received by the city.

In the same action, councilmen directed staff to get estimates on remodeling the stands and to determine if remodeling is economically feasible.

The city's problems with the pier shops erupted last fall when the Phoenixes, who have leased the stands for more than a decade, notified the council they wouldn't operate the shops under the existing lease agreement.

They said they couldn't afford to pay the lease fees, hiked from $600 per month to $660 monthly or 10 per cent of gross, whichever is greater. During the peak summer months, the Phoenixs said, the new rate quadrupled the $660 figure, eating up whatever profits they made.

Noel Phoenix told the council he wanted the 10 per cent provision dropped altogether. In addition, he asked the city to tear down the shop on Newport Pier and build a new one.

Instead, councilmen declared Phoenix in default of the lease agreement and elected to seek other bidders.

Newport Raps DMV's Sale Of Mail List

NEWPORT BEACH -- A Department of Motor Vehicles practice of selling information from its records concerning registrations of motor vehicles was rapped this week by city councilmen here.

Council members adopted a resolution objecting to the controversial DMV practice, which elected officials here said results in unsolicited junk mail that ultimately causes increases in operating costs to the U.S. Postal Service.

A copy of the council's resolution objecting to DMV's selling names and addresses of vehicle owners will be sent to the DMV, councilmen said.

Leisure World Chief To Head Advisory Panel

LAGUNA HILLS - Leisure World administrator Robert Price has been elected president of the Saddleback Area Coordinating Council (SACC), succeeding outgoing president Rick Bohay.

The annual SACC banquet will be held Jan. 19 at the new Holiday Inn at La Paz Road and San Diego Freeway. The annual awards event will be highlighted by presentation of recognition for merit and exceptional service to the community.

NB Fireworks Plan Fizzles

NEWPORT BEACH — A bicentennial group's request for a July 4 fireworks extravaganza fizzled here as city council members balked at granting the group $6,500 for the display.

During the past two years, the city has spent $4,000 for each July 4 fireworks show and a local business contributed $2,500. But councilmen balked this year, saying the bicentennial is over.

GENERAL PLAN FOR PARKS WINS OKAY OF M.A.C. COUNCIL

By LINDA GRANELL
Register Staff Writer

MISSION VIEJO — Newly seated municipal advisory council (MAC) member Jack Dodge cast the only dissenting vote as the council approved a general plan for the 9.5-acre Alicia Park.

The general plan for the five-acre Castille Park was approved unanimously, with deletions of restrooms and two unbudgeted but proposed tennis courts. The cost of the Castille was estimated at $75,000.

Approval of the $240,000 Alicia site was passed, contingent on final review of maintenance costs — estimated at between $175 and $300 per acre per month.

Dodge's complaint with Alicia Park plans was not with maintenance costs but with lack of parking space. "I don't think it's good planning not to require parking areas," he said repeatedly.

William Ackerman of EDAW Inc., which prepared the plans, said parking would be available on residential streets and in industrial lots surrounding the park. He estimated there would be 128 available spaces within 300 feet of the park — more than enough, he said, because only 59 spaces would be needed.

Ackerman explained how he arrived at the 59-slot figure:

First, he said, you assume a family group equals 3½ persons. Then, he said, you assume that of the four planned baseball diamonds, only three would be occupied at any one time. He estimated the diamonds would contain 60 players and that half of these players (or family groups) would drive to the game, making only 30 parking spaces necessary.

With the diamonds full, he said, 231,000 square feet of park space would be left. If you assume that each family group would require 1,600 square feet to move around in comfort, you have 145 groups in the park. Now, if you assume that 20 per cent of these groups drive, only 29 more parking spaces are needed. The grand total: 59 spaces.

Traffic committee chairman George Whaley responded simply, "With no parking, there's going to be a problem."

Plans for Alicia Park call for two children's play areas, restrooms, covered picnic areas, the four lighted baseball fields and facilities for soccer and football.

A children's play area, picnic tables, open park space and volleyball courts are planned for Castille would run only about $150 per acre per month because of the lack of restrooms.

The Alicia Park site is bounded by Via Logrono, Via Galcia and Via Talvarea. Via Rocio, Via La Coruna, Via Oviedo, Via Navarra and Via Boyona border the Castille site.

Park funds come from state and county taxes and $17,000 per acre from Mission Viejo Co. for landscaping.

Noguchi Sculpture

RICHMOND, Va. (AP) – A sculpture by American artist Isamu Noguchi has recently been acquired by the Virginia Museum. The sculpture, "Open Lock," was completed in 1964. It is made of polished stainless steel and stands nearly three feet tall.

DOCTOR SAYS

DEAR DR. LAMB — I read your article stating that none of the vegetable oils contain cholesterol. While the department of agriculture does agree with this, the American Heart Assn. does not.

Their folder "The Way to a Man's Heart" contains these statements: "Saturated animals fats are found in beef, lamb, pork and ham; in butter, cream and whole mile; and in cheeses made from cream and whole milk." Saturated vegetable fats are found in many solid and hydrogenated shortenings; and in coconut oil, cocoa butter and palm oil (used in commercially prepared cookies, pie fillings and non-dairy milk and cream substitutes).

DEAR READER — I have included your letter in my column as an example of the confusion that the public has about cholesterol. The statement by the American Heart Assn. has nothing to do with cholesterol. Look at your folder again and notice you are quoting from the paragraph on saturated fats — not cholesterol.

The problem is that the public at large does not yet realize that saturated fat and cholesterol are not at all the same thing. While plants may contain saturated fat they do not contain cholesterol, and the American Heart Assn. has never said that they do. The statements you quote do not say that either.

Cholesterol is an animal product. Saturated fats are found in both animal and vegetable foods. Too much saturated fat in the diet is believed by many scientists to increase the body's formation of cholesterol. That is why the American Heart Assn.'s pamphlet you cite emphasized what foods contain saturated fat, not because these foods all contain cholesterol.

It is extremely important that the public learn what is meant by cholesterol, saturated fats and polyunsaturated fats. Without this understanding and its application to the food you eat, there is no way you can really profit from the recommendations by the American Heart Assn. or any other group interested in preventing heart attacks, strokes and other complications of fatty-cholesterol deposits in the arteries.

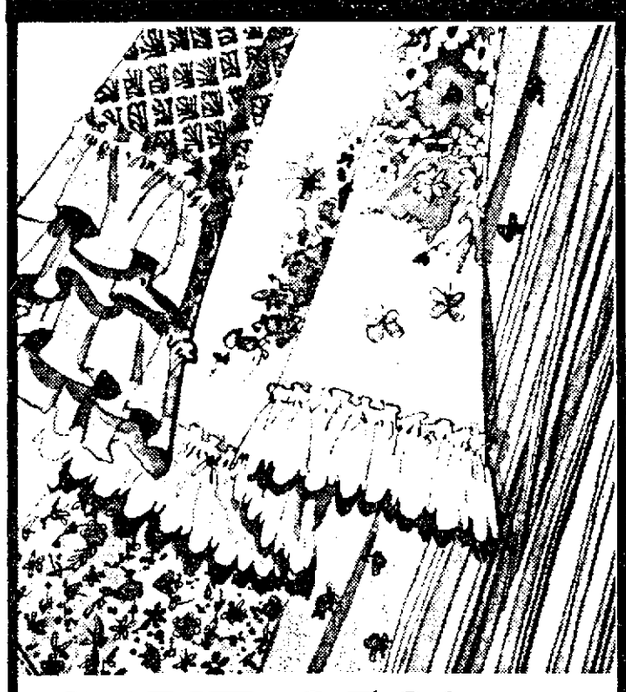

I am sending you The Health Letter number 1-2, Cholesterol, Triglycerides, Blood Fats, Atherosclerosis, to help you understand these important facts. Others who want this information can send 50 cents with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it. Just send your letter to me in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019.

DEAR DR. LAMB — What are histamines?

DEAR READER — Histamine is a complex chemical manufactured by animal and plant tissues. It contains an amine group of nitrogen and hydrogen the same as the amine group in an amino acid from protein.

Histamine is important in certain circulatory reactions, stimulates the stomach to produce acid digestive juice and is an irritant that causes the symptoms people have during an allergic response. The offending, "allergic agent" enters the body and the body releases histamine from sensitive cells. The histamine release causes symptoms, such as a runny nose, asthma attack or hives. Antihistamines counteract the action of histamines and relieve the symptoms of allergic reactions.

COLLEGE ATHLETE'S LIFE AS IMPOSTOR SUDDENLY UNMASKED

WICHITA, Kan. – Patrick Lajko loves the challenge of a fine-honed performance and the demands of precise maneuvers.

He delights in the tight edge of performing tension and has met its challenges well as an award-winning gymnast and a skilled performer on a high diving board.

But Patrick Lajko's most challenging performance is over and, this time, there are no awards at its end.

For more than a year, Patrick Lajko, 24-year-old graduate of Iowa State University, has been Scott Johnson, 19-year-old senior at East High.

It began as a joke, Lajko said in an interview, but the joke soon outgrew its beginnings.

"There is in everyone of us a bit that says, if I could only do it over again, wouldn't I do it differently," Lajko said quietly as he sat, wrapped in a heavy sheep-skin coat, behind a battered oak table in an East High classroom, and began to review the past 18 months.

"I got caught up in that desire that is in everybody not to grow old, to return to something and do it better. I had that opportunity and I took it.

"I was happy here. The past six months at East High have been the happiest time of my life. I really don't want to have to leave."

Lajko came to Wichita in June 1974, immediately after his graduation from Iowa State, to accept an engineering position at NCR. He had a degree in computer science and minors in math, telecommunicative arts and electrical engineering.

As a result of the hoax, the high school has to forfeit its victories in five dual meets, four invitational tournaments, including its own, according to school officials. The medals won by Lajko will go to other competitors who finished behind him.

He had captured two individual chamionships in the city league's championship meet last December.

Lajko's first touch with the tempting challenge of fulfilling a hazy dream, of reliving a bit of his past, came during the summer of 1974 when he began working out with three East High gymnasts at the downtown YMCA.

They liked Lajko. They admired his skill as a gymnast. And, Lajko said, they began to tell him about a long-standing scheme that had filled their jokes and wild speculations for months. They wanted to enroll a fake student at East.

Lajko seemed made to order. Slight. Young looking. And a gymnast certain to boost the team score.

For six months, Lajko said, the students checked entrance requirements and minimum class loads with which a student could qualify for athletic competition. They watched the system work carefully, but it was easy – one of the three was a student aide in the office.

Then, early in 1975, Lajko went for entrance interviews with counselors at the school and asked them to set up a schedule which would fit around the demands of a full-time job.

With assistance from the students, a transcript request to his previous high school was intercepted. Together, the friends created a false transcript and returned it to the school.

When they were done, Lajko had become Scott Johnson, 19-year-old Iowa high school drop-out living alone and supporting himself in Wichita, and eager to complete his education.

"Once it started, the whole thing happened very rapidly and I was kind of swept up in it," Lajko said. "I was curious and things were so involved I couldn't figure a way to get out of it without hurting other people.

"When someone goes to all that work for you, you get confused. Suddenly, it was there and all arranged."

HAVE PHONE, WILL CALL FOR ANYONE

SEATTLE (AP) – For $5, Rich Fowler will call up your boss and tell him – anonymously – that you hope his socks rot.

He'll also deliver any other message to anybody, as long as it isn't scandalous, slanderous or obscene.

His brainchild, Confidential Communication Service, is a scheme to make money from other people's cowardliness, he admits.

"The last company where I worked there was a fellow, actually a good friend, who sat at the desk adjacent to mine and he didn't use any deodorant," said Fowler, 31. "I didn't know how to tell him without hurting his feelings ...

"The other people in the office felt the same way and I'm sure we all would have chipped in five bucks to have somebody tell him, 'Look, the people in your office like you, but how about trying a little Old Spice in the morning?'"

That episode, and news of a similar message business in San Francisco, got Fowler and his wife Gina started in business in mid-December. He said he uses common sense in his dealings and consults a lawyer if a message seems out of order.

"If a lady calls and says, 'Call Mabel and tell her her husband is running around with Joan down the street and she should know it,' I won't do it," he said.

Not all of the requested messages are negative.

"Maybe a person wants a raise but is too shy to tell the boss. Or say a new guy in the office his first day is kind of shaky. Have an anonymous caller call and tell him, 'It'll be a better day tomorrow. Hang in there.'"

Fowler said that when the message is positive, the sender often asks to be identified.

Fowler, who has also sold life insurance and worked with senior citizens, said he expects heavy business in love notes.

"A fellow called last night and wanted to give his wife a bit of an erotic message and he wanted to keep her guessing who it was from," Fowler said.

CB ACTIVITY FOULS UP FOREIGN AUTOS' FUEL INJECTION

MILWAUKEE (AP) – Some Citizens Band operators with European-made cars are complaining about interference – with the car's fuel injection system.

The combination of a two-way radio and a fuel-injected car can pose problems, even if the two aren't in the same vehicle.

"The wiring in the car acts as an antenna," said Bob Radke, chief engineer for Kris, Inc., a Cedarburg, Wis., CB manufacturer. "Any wiring you have, like your house wiring or your car wiring or any wiring will act as an antenna for certain frequencies."

The problem arises when the wiring picks up radio transmissions from the CB or any other kind of two-way radio.

The fuel injection system controls the flow of gasoline to the motor by means of electronic signals from the engine. It cannot, however, tell the difference between a valid engine signal and a spurious signal from a two-way radio.

"It causes it to open too long or out of sequence," said Helmut Buchwald, service manager for Mossner Motors, a Milwaukee foreign car dealership. The fuel injection system, in its confused state, either speeds up or cuts the fuel flow.

The problem is restricted to European cars, said Radke, because they are the only ones equipped with vulnerable fuel injection systems.

For drivers whose radios interfere with fuel injection, Radke said owner's manuals for both radio and antenna are the best place to start looking for the source of the trouble. "Make sure you did everything the manufacturer recommends," he said.

A good antenna ground is mandatory – occasionally it's necessary to run a grounding line between the antenna base and some point known to be connected to the car's chassis. And the radio's power source should be as close to the battery as possible, connected with heavy wire.

The problem might be with the fuel injection system, Radke said. "You might find that over the miles, the fuel injection unit itself, which is in a metal-plastic box, might be suffering from some corrosion where it's mounted to the car chassis," Radke said.

The first step then, he said, is to clean the ground connections and tighten the screws. If that doesn't work, things might get complicated.

For the radio operator, checking those two areas should clear up the trouble. If it doesn't, the operator is in the same, if less common, boat as the driver whose fuel-injection system is thrown into a tizzy by a passing transmitter.

In some cases, said Radke, the problem might be on the transmission end. "The operators are sometimes running far in excess of the power they're supposed to be running."

The last alternative in any case is to have the car equipped with radio frequency filters, a job that almost always must be done by a professional two-way radio technician. Such filters block out specific radio frequencies or groups of frequencies, Radke said.

Suddenly, Lajko was Scott Johnson, well-liked student and exhibition performing gymnast – the center of new attention. And soon it began to feel good.

"I was sitting on top, not sure where the ride was going to take me," he said. "It was frightening in the beginning, but it came to bother me less."

He stayed at NCR for two years, fitting the demands of a full-time job as engineer Pat Lajko, into a schedule as full-time student Scott Johnson after he enrolled at East in March 1976.

After a few months he dropped both his job and his true identity to take a night job as Scott Johnson in the local bowling alley and concentrate on his own business interests – electronics work and the repair of theater pipe organs.

Lajko said recently he was fired from the night job at the local bowling alley because the owner did not like what he had done.

Neither the idea of posing as a 19-year-old, nor the continuing motivation which brought the plan to completion, Lajko stressed, was his. The scheme was the creation of his friends.

"If it had not been for them, I would not have been involved in this at all," he said. "But once you're into something you begin to enjoy it. I didn't want to disappoint people I liked and it never seemed the right time to kill it."

Suddenly, later in December, someone else killed it for him.

Lajko's identity was uncovered after his performance in the city league championship was filmed by KTVH-Channel 12. The film was shown on the station's 6 and 10 p.m. Saturday sports programs.

Someone who saw the program recognized Lajko as a former Iowa State gymnast and contacted East High principal Dr. Claradine Johnson, who then unraveled the tale.

"There is good and bad in everything," he said. "I hope the people that know me don't stay mad at me. I'm really no different than I was.

"I have done something that's a black mark against East, but I think I have done some good here, too. I would like to stay and help."

Lajko doesn't know what's next for him, now that his enrollment has been withdrawn at East and he's done as a high school student.

He'd never liked his real name, anyway, he said. The fake name was one that he chose himself to go with the new life he entered.

He'd like to hang on to the name and the good things – the awards and the friends and the memories the past year has brought him. But he's through with the role of impostor.

"I wouldn't do it again," he conceded. "It was a lot of work."

'Brain Drain' To United States Serves To Alienate Poor Nations

By BOB CALVERLEY
Knight News Wire

Along with a lot of oil, the Shah of Iran has been shipping physicians to this country.

By most estimates there is a surplus of oil in Iran and as long as we're willing to pay the Shah's price we're welcome to it. But he'd like to have the doctors back.

In 1972, 701 doctors graduated from Iranian medical schools and 485 of them migrated to the United States, according to the Journal of Medical Education. In Iran in 1972 there was one doctor for every 3,250 people, compared to one for every 650 people in the United States.

It isn't just Iran that has been sending us doctors. Since 1963 about half of the new physicians in the United States have been foreign medical graduates from places like India, Pakistan, the Philippines, Thailand, Korea and Mexico.

"There are currently more Filipino physicians practicing in America than there are black American medical graduates," says Dr. Solomon Axelrod of the University of Michigan School of Public Health. "These doctors are desperately needed in their own countries."

America has been more successful in cutting back its dependence on foreign doctors than on foreign oil. Recent changes in the immigration laws have made it more difficult for doctors to stay in this country.

But the fact that the richest country in the world has drained badly needed professionals (engineers and scientists as well as doctors) from some of the poorest nations has been a sore point internationally and has disturbed authorities here too.

"I think that when historians look back at this period they'll say that the worst thing we did was the Vietnam war and next was the brain drain," says Dr. Marilyn Heins of Wayne State University Medical School.

According to an article in the magazine Science, last year a total of 66,575 foreign medical graduates migrated to the United States between 1965 and 1973. By 1973 they comprised one-third of hospital staff physicians and a fifth of all doctors.

The doctors come to this country to receive advanced medical training. Hooked on sophisticated equipment, higher salaries, greater intellectual freedom and better living conditions for their families, many want to stay. Axelrod says that after studying here many of them are overtrained in respect to their own country's needs.

Dr. Yvan Silva, Wayne State University Medical School professor, a respected surgeon, a graduate of a medical school in India and the author of a book written to help foreign medical graduates who come to this country, says, however, that many foreign doctors are disappointed.

"They are disappointed that the educational opportunities are not as good as they had expected," he says. This is because some of the internships and residencies which are filled by foreign doctors really involve little education.

One of the most popular specialties for the doctors, some of whom have profound communication problems because they can't speak English very well, is psychiatry. It is not easy to find an American doctor who will work in a large state mental institution, so foreign graduates have filled many of these slots.

The number of residency and internship positions in the United States bears no relationship to the number of graduating American doctors available or even the need for medical care in an area.

In 1969, Silva says, there were 15,000 resident or intern slots to be filled and only 8,900 domestic medical graduates available. This resulted in hospitals actually going abroad to recruit doctors.

Questions have been raised about the competence of foreign doctors. They are all required to pass a test given by the Educational Commission of Foreign Medical Graduates (ECFMG) before they come here. Only about a third who try pass the first time.

It isn't language which makes the test so hard, because American-born graduates of foreign medical schools do just as poorly on the test.

Axelrod says that many foreign medical schools have much larger classes than U.S. schools and that opportunities for clinical studies are limited.

It is the Americans attending foreign schools who have upset the brain drain applecart more than anyone else. Rejected from American medical schools which have for years produced a limited number of new doctors, they have gone abroad, received medical degrees, come back and practiced here.

While they may have difficulty passing the ECFMG test, they have little trouble becoming licensed. American medical schools are now expanding so that the United States is catching up with its own health manpower needs.

Next year, under legislation passed in the last Congress, American medical schools will be forced to accept a quota of third-year Americans now studying abroad.

The number of foreign medical graduates entering the United States has already dropped and the law now says they must return home after their training.

Silva is not sure that more doctors will have the impact on poorer countries which might be expected. He says better health is more often associated with better education and a raised standard of living accompanied by improved public health than by additional doctors.

The United States doesn't suffer so much from a doctor shortage as from poor distribution of those available.

In most other countries this problem is even more severe. India, for example, has unemployed doctors. Those who work for the government are paid very poorly and must be willing to work where the government sends them – rural sections. It seems hardly surprising that Indian doctors want to come here.

CBers In Michigan Switch To Helping The Smokeys

DETROIT – Michigan motorists who cherish their CB radios as ultimate weapons on the ongoing war with state police "smokeys" should beware.

There are traitors among you.

During the past six months increasing numbers of Michigan CBers have been going on the air to aid – rather than evade – state troopers by alerting them to speeders and other traffic violators.

The state police say this new brand of smokey report has been responsible since June for 300 speeding tickets, 203 drunk driving arrests, 35 warnings, and a handful of felony arrests.

In November alone, CBers were credited with assisting in 36 drunk driving arrests, 44 speeding tickets, and two felony arrests on Michigan highways, according to Lt. Rod LaMore of the State Police Safety and Traffic Divison.

"More and more CBers are actively taking part in calling troopers to report drunk and high-speed drivers," he said, "and we're totally enthused about it."

LaMore said the CBers' anti-crime efforts have come in response to a motorist-assistance and traffic-safety program launched by the state police last Memorial Day.

The program encourages CBers to contact troopers on CB channels 9 and 19 to report anything from a stranded motorist to a high-speed drunk in the wrong lane. Although not all of the state's patrol cars and police posts are equipped with radios, LaMore said the airwaves in most of Michigan's larger metropolitan areas and major interstates are now being monitored by official "ears."

"We've had a tremendous response from both individual drivers and private CB clubs," he said. "Since June we've had a total of 6,316 contacts from CBers, including 1,370 reports of stranded motorists and 205 reports of car fires."

By ROSS WILLIAMS
Copley News Service

Looking at the most recent World Chess Federation women's rating list, we see 42 players rated 2,200 or above. Twenty-seven of them are in the Soviet Union. Twelve are in East European countries. Three are in Western Europe.

Of the three in Western countries, Dr. Jana Hartston of England (she married England's international master, Bill Hartston) emigrated from Eastern Europe. Alla Kushnir of Israel recently emigrated from the Soviet Union. Van d. Mije of Holland is the third.

That distribution of ratings between East and West has been skewed toward the East for many years.

In the women's Olympiads, where each nation's best players compete in team matches, the results have followed the ratings.

Looking at the cumulative scores from the first women's Olympiad in 1957, through the sixth in 1974, we find six East European nations and the USSR holding the top seven positions. The USSR, with the largest number of the world's top-rated players, was the winner in each of those tourneys.

Holland is in eighth place in that list, England is ninth and Poland 10th. West Germany, Canada, the United States and Spain follow in that order in a total list of some 37 nations that have participated in one or more of the six events.

Israel finished 18th in its first Olympiad in 1972.

With former Soviet players on its team in 1974, it finished 12th. Alla Kushnir, who had won top second-board prize while playing on the Soviet teams in the 1969 and 1972 Olympiads, was not allowed to play on the Israeli team in 1974 because of an emigration arrangement with the Soviet Union.

Kushnir is the second-highest-rated player in the world behind women's world champion Nona Gaprindashvili of the Soviet Union. Gaprindashvili played first-board on the Soviet team in five Olympiads from 1963 through 1974, and won a top-board gold medal on each occasion. Kushnir lost three successive world title matches to Gaprindashvili in 1965 through 1972.

Then we come to the 1976 Olympiad held in Haifa, Israel, concurrent with the men's Olympiad.

With Kushnir playing first-board, and with former Soviet players on each of the other boards, the Israeli team won the Olympiad. Kushnir won the gold medal for top-board honors.

England and Spain tied for second and third positions. The United States was fourth. Holland, West Germany, Denmark and Australia followed in that order. The top seven finishers from previous Olympiads did not compete in 1976 because of a boycott.

By dwelling on the ratings, tourney results and emigrations here, we're defining the phenomenon of the significant contribution to world chess that has been made by the Soviet Union and the Eastern European nations.

The fact that these nations and their contributions were absent at the recent world Olympiads means that we're experiencing a major breakdown in the unifying force of the World Chess Federation, sponsor of the 1976 Olympiads.

Game of the Week: Meanwhile, as the politicians play their games, we're missing a lot of good chess games. Elisabeta Polihroniade played first-board on the Romanian team in the 1974 women's Olympiad and finished second behind Gaprindashvili for first-board honors. This is the game they played in the USSR-Romania match.

Judge Quashes Burglary Case Against Two

SANTA ANA -- Charges against two men accused of committing 10 commercial burglaries were dismissed this week for lack of evidence.

The district attorney's office sought the dismissal after evidence in the case was declared inadmissible at trial because of an illegal search and seizure.

Charges were dismissed against Raymond Earl Trecartin, 42, of Redding, and Gary Laverne Olson, 36, of Corona. Olson and Trecartin's 41-year-old brother, Robert, of Westminster, were indicted April 22, 1976, on 15 burglary counts and recieving stolen property. Raymond Trecartin was indicted on five counts in the indictment.

Robert Trecartin still is wanted on a bench warrant for failing to appeal in this and one other case against him.

This was the second attempt to prosecute the men for the burglaries which occurred between June 4 and Sept. 22, 1975. They were arrested originally in October, 1975, when approximately $10,000 in purportedly stolen goods were recovered during a searches of their automobile and homes.

However, that case was dismissed on Jan. 26, on a municipal court ruling that the search was illegal.

A grand jury indictment was obtained and a new preliminary hearing held on the search and seizure issue, but the court again ruled that it was illegal. An appeal of that decision to the Fourth District Court of Appeal in San Bernardino was denied.

New Transit Panel Plans First Meeting

SANTA ANA — The Orange County Transportation Commission, which will have sweeping new powers over how federal and state funds are spent locally for highways, streets and mass transit, will hold its first meeting Thursday at 9:30 a.m. in the board of supervisors hearing room.

The meeting place is located on the fifth floor of the county hall of administration, Sycamore and Santa Ana streets.

Two county supervisors — Ralph Clark and Ralph Diedrich — and two city councilmen appointed by the League of Cities — Al Hollinden of Fountain Valley and David Brandt of Santa Ana — have been appointed to the new commission.

In the weeks ahead, these commissioners will have to select a fifth member to complete the commission and together with him hire an executive director.

The public member cannot be the same individual who serves in that capacity on the Orange County Transit District board and he cannot have been an elected official within the past 10 years.

In addition to an executive director, the law which created commissions in Los Angeles, San Bernardino, Riverside and Orange counties, says that the commission will have a "small but competent staff."

To provide funding for the new commission, the Southern California Association of Governments (SCAG) has allocated $106,466 in state tax funds to the Orange County commission. However, the commission could apply for federal transportation matching funds on a ratio of 4-1 and increase its bankroll to more than $500,000.

The principal duties of the new commission, which sprang to life Jan. 1, are the drafting of 3-5 year improvement plans for highway and transit systems in the county and the allocation of federal and state funds for local transit and road projects.

Water District Director Named

SAN CLEMENTE -- Wayne T. McMurray, 202 Calle de los Alamos, will be seated as new director on the board of the Tri-Cities Municipal Water District at the Jan. 19 meeting.

McMurray, a partner in the Weymouth Crowell Construction Co., was appointed by the board to fill the seat vacated by Director Wallace M. McKay Jr.

WORRY CLINIC

By George W. Crane, Ph.D., M.D.

Albert's nudism arguments are malarky! But he suffers from what we call "Libido Regression," so scrapbook this case. And send a copy to anybody guilty of chronic "indecent exposure."

"Dr. Crane," she said, "we have 3 teenage children.

"The boys are 13 and 15 while our daughter is the youngest and 11.

"But they aren't my real problem, though it indirectly affects them.

"For my husband has recently developed a craze to shed all his clothes and go nude around our house.

"You can imagine the consternation he causes among our youngsters when their classmates come over to play or study here!

"Despite my protests, my husband insists nudism is healthful and that it relaxes him when he gets home from the office.

"Dr. Crane, how would psychologists or psychiatrists diagnose him?"

LIBIDO REGRESSION

That "healthier" argument of nudists is malarky!

For the Almighty protects the bare skin of animals by fur and the bare epidermis of fowls by feathers! Why?

Nude bodies also get more infection from scratches, insect bites, etc.

Indeed, even the modern nudist campers wear shoes and often hats so they renege on their own attempts to claim that nudism is logical!

But Albert's stupid behavior is what we call "Libido Regression," meaning, a sexual return to the toddler state where he caused excitement by parading before guests in the raw.

Even before pre-school children have acquired much understanding of sexual matters, they soon learn that they cause undue giggles and excitement if they toddle downstairs in their birthday suits to where mamma is entertaining guests.

This often registers an early sexual impression on toddlers to find that nudism makes people notice them.

After a man like Albert has been married for 15 or 20 years and finds that his wife doesn't show much excitement in the boudoir, such a husband may then become a victim of that earlier toddler exhibitionism.

For many a semi-impotent husband thus obtains an indirect erotic thrill by feminine vocal reaction to the mere visual exposure of his nude body, even though he is still relatively platonic!

So his wounded sex ego thus is bolstered by the excitement he thinks he can still develop among the opposite sex.

At the age of 40, many husbands also become victims of the "Ponce de Leon" complex where they start chasing girls half their age in a vain effort to revive their earlier erotic ability.

They become so selfish, they don't even seem to recognize the shame they cause their wives and teenage children.

Likewise, male victims of the "indecent exposure" complex also lack empathy for their teenage children, for a scared male who is in a panic about his deficient libido, can become totally selfish!

Wives, you can remedyboth types of complex by sending for the booklet "How To Prevent Impotence In The Male," enclosing a long stamped, return envelope, plus 25¢.

King, Kennedy Probe Put On House Shelf

WASHINGTON (AP) – Recreation of the Select House Assassination Committee was pulled off the House floor Tuesday amid attacks on its scope, possible investigating techniques and its staff director.

Several leaders predicted a limited investigation of the assassinations of President John F. Kennedy and Martin Luther King Jr. will ultimately be approved. But prospective committee chairman Henry B. Gonzalez sounded pessimistic.

"I never had a fair chance," Gonzalez told reporters after the decision to postpone the vote. "I'm like a prize-fighter who gets knocked out before he even gets in the ring."

The United States will supply 50 per cent of the wheat and about 70 per cent of the soybeans moving in world trade in 1976.

Ford Asks Cabinet-Level Energy Agency

WASHINGTON (AP) – President Ford on Tuesday proposed combining key federal agencies into a Cabinet-level energy department to solve one of the nation's most urgent problems, achieving energy independence.

Ford sent Congress legislation similar to a plan proposed by President-elect Carter, thus setting the basis for a bipartisan approach to the problem.

The President's plan would combine functions of the Federal Energy Administration – FEA – Energy Research and Development Administration – ERDA – the Federal Power Commission, Bureau of Mines, Rural Electrification Administration and power marketing functions of the Interior Department into the new department.

Carter has said one of the first goals of his new administration will be to establish a single energy department. He has mentioned joining FEA and ERDA, and he has named former Defense Secretary James R. Schlesinger to manage energy programs with authority of a cabinet member.

Secretary of Commerce Elliot Richardson told a White House news conference Tuesday the main difference between the Ford and Carter plans is the inclusion of the Bureau of Mines and REA in the President's proposal.

Richardson said under the Ford plan, 22,860 employes would be transferred from the various agencies into the new department. It would have an estimated initial budget $7.189 billion.

In his message to Congress, Ford said the Federal energy effort is now fragmented among several agencies and that a new energy department would be instrumental in developing the technology needed to make the United States independent of foreign oil. Included would be development of such alternate sources of energy as solar power.

"Energy has played a progressively more important part in our national life as our economy and society have evolved," the President said.

"However, it was not until the oil embargo of 1973 and the energy crisis it precipitated that we began to understand just how energy dependent we are," he said.

"The sudden curtailment in oil imports also demonstrated vividly that our national energy supply and demand are part of a world market and that energy has become a major force in world affairs."

Ford said the events of recent years have made it apparent that a national energy policy is needed.

His bill is the outcome of an eight-month study by the Energy Resources Council headed by Richardson.

Asked why Ford is submitting the bill in the final days of his presidency, Richardson said a law passed by Congress required that a reorganization plan be submitted at this time.

"It is in many respects like the Carter proposal and therefore it is likely something like this will be approved," he said.

"The work done by the Ford administration can be used by both the new Congress and executive branch in determining what needs to be done on restructuring the energy agencies.

FEA administrator Frank Zarb added: "President Ford has put energy on the map and has devoted much of the last two years to it. It seems particularly important for him to leave a legacy of energy realignment."

Microwave Oven Repair Pact Reached

WASHINGTON (AP) – General Electric Co. has agreed to repair 36,000 microwave ovens that may be leaking excessive radiation, the Food and Drug Administration announced Tuesday.

The ovens, now in customers' homes, are all GE and GE's Hotpoint "Versatronic" and "Cook Center" combination thermal-microwave ovens made from November 1973 through October 1975.

GE will send repairmen to customers' homes and make the repairs at no expense to the customers, the FDA said.

GE will start the repairs next month and expects to repair 25,000 ovens by June 1

Career Tribulations Of Fonzie's Ex

By GARY DEEB
Chicago Tribune

HOLLYWOOD – Four months ago she was headed straight for the top, an overnight sensation whose appearances on "Happy Days," the most popular program on television, were seen by 60 million viewers a week.

For awhile it looked as though she'd become a regular on that show, as a sort of female equivalent of Fonzie, the macho greaser with girls at his command and a fast answer to most of life's problems. Later she seemed to be a shoo-in to go even further – as the star of her own weekly show.

But today, those blue-sky dreams have vanished for Roz Kelly. The girl who plays Pinky Tuscadero is the victim of a series of strange circumstances that have put her career at a standstill.

That testimonial notwithstanding, the fact remains that Kelly, who a few weeks ago thought she was destined for stardom, now finds herself in a cruel limbo. She's not sure what will happen next. Her future is on "hold."

It's an intriguing story and a textbook example of the fragile nature of show business, particularly TV.

One day you're nobody; the next day you're the lightening rod for coast-to-coast gossip and adulation. For Roz Kelly, it's already back to "nobody" status, though perhaps only temporarily.

It all started last spring when ABC program whiz Fred Silverman "discovered" Kelly in the pilot episode of the "Lorenzo and Henrietta Music Show," a dreadful talk-variety series that died after just three weeks on the air. Large-busted and pretty, Kelly attracted Silverman's interest as a potential idol of the children and teen-agers who make up a huge segment of ABC's nightly audience.

Just like that, Silverman and producer Marshall decided to hire Kelly to get "Happy Days" off to roaring start for its new fall season. Plucked from obscurity, Kelly became Pinky Tuscadero, the motorcycle riding doll who almost married Fonzie.

And although she played her part well and hypoed the ratings of "Happy Days," Roz also suffered her first surprise setback.

"Our original idea was to possibly make Roz a regular or a semi-regular on the show," Marshall explains. "But we got such a tremendous flow of mail from viewers who didn't want Fonzie to have a steady girl. Our audience got very nervous. You see, Pinky was a hit with the viewers, but they didn't want her to be Fonzie's girl. They wanted him to keep spreading himself around with a lot of girls, so they could continue to fantasize about the Fonz."

As the protest mail poured in, ABC also screened the Pinky episodes for "test audiences" in New York, Chicago, Los Angeles, and other cities. The conclusion was the same:

The Fonz should play the field.

Meanwhile, Kelly and Henry Winkler, who plays Fonzie, weren't exactly becoming fast friends in real life. One reliable report has it that Winkler handed his producers an ultimatum – either Kelly goes or he walks.

With all those strikes against her, Kelly quickly was written out of "Happy Days." But ABC still was impressed with her prospects as a major TV star and so the network ordered a pilot called "Pinky," in which the character becomes a Las Vegas showgirl.

Unfortunately, the project was high on glamor and low on laughs. ABC passed on it.

Then, a crazy twist of fate: ABC's "Nancy Walker Show" was doing poorly in the ratings, but the network wanted to save Walker by placing her in a new program. The Las Vegas pilot was revived, this time with Walker starring as a den mother to a group of chorus girls and Kelly costarring as Pinky. The series was retitled "Mrs. Blansky's Beauties" and set for Saturday nights.

And at last report, that's precisely what's happening. Kelly will costar in the first two "Blansky" episodes in February, then drop out of sight as Walker becomes the absolute star of the show.

"Yes, we conceived the show as a starring vehicle for Roz," says producer Marshall. "But ABC now wants it as a starring vehicle for Nancy Walker.

And with so many characters in the supporting cast, it's gonna be hard to put Roz in a true costarring position. So after the first two episodes, we'll have to play it by ear."

What it all means is that Roz Kelly, who thought she had caught the proverbial lightning in a bottle just a few months ago, now is looking for work.

HOLLYWOOD BRIEFS: "The Practice" with Danny Thomas and the "McLean Stevenson Show" are being canceled by NBC. They'll be replaced next month in the Wednesday night lineup by "Grizzly Adams," a family series about a mountain man. In addition, NBC will kill "Serpico" in favor of "Quincy" with Jack Klugman on Friday nights. And "Kingston," starring Raymond Burr as a tough newspaperman, will premiere in March, probably on Thursdays.

– NBC News staffers privately are worried about the promotion of Herb Schlosser, president of NBC, Inc., to the additional post of corporate chief executive. They fear that Schlosser, a lawyer and "bottom-line" specialist, will slash the news division's budget to increase profits.

– And it's now official, "Laugh-In" makes a comeback next fall in the form of six monthly specials on NBC. Dan Rowan and Dick Martin won't return as hosts. But producer George Schlatter and comedy writer Digby Wolfe, creators of the original, again will guide the show.

A Sha Na Na TV Special ?

By GEORGE MAKSIAN
New York News

NEW YORK – If you haven't caught Sha Na Na in one of their infrequent TV guest appearances, you're in for a big surprise. They are one of the wackiest, flashiest, greasiest rock 'n' roll groups to ever face the screen. And they'll be coming your way again, this time with their own syndicated special.

Naturally, they'll be dressed to the hilt for the occasion, complete with motorcycle jackets, pegged pants, skin-tight gold lame suits and ducktail hairdos. The zany delinquents will turn back the clock and take viewers back to the fabulous '50s, singing such oldies as "Alley Oop," "Yakety Yak" and "Tell Laura I Love Her," and dancing up a storm.

The group recalls many a fond memory of yesterday: The malt shops, the senior proms, the drive-in movies. They grease their hair, they roll their cigarets up in their T-shirt sleeves, they dance the hand jive, the mashed potato and the twist. Some have said they perform an outrageously funny show.

Sha Na Na, in case you didn't know, is taken from the lyrics of "Get a Job," a 1958 rock hit. "And that's the theme of our special," said Jocko, the drummer in the 10-member group. "The cops want to get us off the streets, so they arrange for us to get work by having our own TV show.

"And does that make Rita Moreno mad. She plays Rosa Dolores, one of the women in the neighborhood, who is not unlike the character, Googie Gomez, that she played in 'The Ritz.' Rita says those crazy cucarachas shouldn't have their own show. She should. Harvey Lembeck is also in the show, playing the local deli owner, Sidney, and Pamela Meyers plays our dippy blonde girl friend."

Jocko, 26, is one of the original members of Sha Na Na, which was formed in 1969. The youngest in the troupe is Johnny (The Kid) Contardo, now 23. "But he was a kid when he started," said Jocko, whose surname is Marcellino. The oldest is Lennie Baker, 30, the sensuous kid of rock 'n' roll.

"Lennie is not only the oldest member of the group, he's the biggest," said Jocko. "He weighs over 250 pounds. He plays sax and on the special he'll sing 'Blue Moon,' but not in the manner you've been used to hearing it. It's absolutely mad.

"We use Lennie as a prize in our dance contest skits. The winner gets to dance with Lennie. It's out of sight watching the two of them strutting away on the floor. Another skit we'll be doing on the program is 'The Monster Mash,' in which I play Dracula. Tony Santini will be Frankenstein. We'll be dressed in black leather jackets, pink socks and high-cut sneakers. It's a wild number."

Jocko said the group will not feature the skit, "From the Streets of New York," in which Jocko dresses in drag and gets mugged in the park. "We're saving that one until we get our own series," he said.

Contrary to previous reports, Sha Na Na is not made up entirely of performers from New York. "We're from all over," said Jocko. "Some are from New York. Screamin' Scott Simon came from Kansas City, and a couple of others came from Boston. I'm from Quincy, Mass."

Jocko also squashed reports that the group first got together when they sang in the glee club at Columbia University. "I don't know where they got that story. Maybe a couple of the guys went to Columbia, but that's about all. I think we met at a bus stop on the Upper West Side," he said, with a chuckle.

Commenting on the future of rock 'n' roll, Jocko said, "Its success will depend more and more on its exposure on TV. But that's not to say that live concerts and records will diminish. They will all complement each other. I don't know if the songs of the '50s will survive, but rock 'n' roll is here to stay.

"Fortunately, we sing not only the hits of the '50s, we sing everybody's greatest hits. Sometimes we dig way back and do tunes like Cole Porter's 'Night and Day.' Wait 'til you hear that number. We do it with a greasy character dressed in tails. You've never seen anything like it."

Asked for advice to today's teenagers, the performer hunched his shoulders and in his best Dead End kid manner said, "Keep off the streets. Get a job and don't get into no trouble. And be sure to watch our special. If you don't we're going to personally come down and take care of you."

Producer Packaging New Suspense Series

By JERRY BUCK
AP Television Writer

LOS ANGELES (AP) – Producer Quinn Martin, long noted for tough cop shows, doesn't see his new anthology series as a departure but as a return to his origins.

His new show, his fourth on the air, is "Quinn Martin's Tales of the Unexpected," which premieres on NBC at 10 p.m. EST Wednesday, Feb. 2.

"It's back to square one," he said. "The first show I ever wrote for was 'Four Star Playhouse.' The first show I ever produced was 'The Jane Wyman Show.' The second I produced was 'Desilu Playhouse,' from which emerged 'The Untouchables.'"

It was "The Untouchables" which stamped Martin with an image for two-fisted series. Such as "The Fugitive," "Dan August," "Cannon," "Manhunter" and the current "Streets of San Francisco," "Barnaby Jones" and "Most Wanted."

"Quinn Martin's Tales of the Unexpected" – it's not often that you see a producer's name on a show – is an anthology series of terror and suspense. It came about after NBC's research computers spit out his name as the producer best known to the public.

"NBC came to me and asked, 'How do we package your name?'" he said. "I said I didn't want to do another copy show. I said I'd always wanted to do my version of Hitchcock."

Martin said "I think television in general has to renovate itself and get into departures. We can't keep giving the public the same thing.

"We tend to drive people away from television. We did it with the Western. We're going to do it with the cop shows. I've got the last successful definitive cop show I think we'll see in 'Most Wanted.'"

In his office at Samuel Goldwyn Studios, Martin said behind a huge desk piled high with scripts. Scripts from his current series and scripts for numerous pilots and new projects he is juggling.

He said he couldn't estimate how many shows he's working on. "You just keep the pot brewing," he said. "There are no more seasons. You submit all the time. You write all the time.

"If you're a creative person you never stop thinking. I think about shows in the shower. Driving to work. I jot down all the ideas and three times a week I talk them over with my development director."

Martin, of course, is far from one-dimensional. He raises thoroughbred horses, is a tennis enthusiast, is on the board of the Buckley School and provides scholarships to aspiring motion picture students.

He's also branching out into other fields. He's developing a variety show for Sally Kellerman and has situation comedies in the works. Other projects are more familiar: a London-based private eye, a spy thriller and a World War II submarine epic.

SEARCHING — Robert Foster, right, stars as Los Angeles Police Lt. Matt Lewis and Don Johnson portrays Sgt. Brian Scott in "The City," a 90-minute NBC-TV world premiere movie. Show will be screened tonight from 9:30 to 11 p.m.

Princess Grace A TV Subject

NEW YORK – Princess Grace of Monaco, the former Grace Kelly of Philadelphia who rose to royalty after working in TV and movies, will be the subject of a 90-minute special to be televised on NBC's "Big Event" in April.

"The Story of Princess Grace...Once Upon a Time Is Now" will cover her life from movie princess to royal princess. Before going to Hollywood in the early 1950s, the actress appeared in about 50 TV dramas here, including "Studio One" and "Lights Out."

Budd Schulberg is writing the script for the special that will begin filming next month in Monaco, Paris and other locales. In reviewing her theatrical career, the show may include reflections by some of her former movie colleagues, including Alfred Hitchcock, Cary Grant, Bing Crosby and William Holden.

Movie-Goers Guide To Films Screening

A STAR IS BORN (R): Barbra Streisand proves her greatness as a singer in a film that magnifies her deficiency as an actress. There are great stretches of vacuity punctuated by her lack of talent. Kris Kristofferson is the one redeeming feature.

CAR WASH (PG): A deluge that consists largely of vulgar drivel in which largely unknown actors make a determined effort to hold on to their anonymity. The film is a frenzied lather of jive-in humor in which the motley assortment of characters become pegs for jokes about vomiting, dog droppings and other hilarity.

CARRIE (R): This time the child is possessed by telekinetic powers, or the ability to move objects. The film is not embraced by this ability and Brian De Palma, the talented director, seems to take but fitful interest. Sissy Spacek is the high school girl wreaking vengeance on her fellow seniors at the prom.

KING KONG (PG): The ape returns after a 43-year absence courtesy of Dino De Laurentiis and $24 million-plus, by some accounts, $15 million in promotion (but maybe that's hype, too), Jessica Lange, Jeff Bridges and Charles Grodin. "No one cry when 'Jaws' die," says Dino in his Baroque English. "But when monkey die people gonna cry." Simian sympathy test showing (apparently well) all over the nation.

MARATHON MAN (R): A superior thriller from John Schlesinger in which the enduringly popular theme of latter-day Nazism is intertwined with the distrust of government power and paranoia. The imagery is heavy and the plot sometimes reaches exasperating points as Sir Laurence Olivier, in a stunning portrayal of evil, pursues Dustin Hoffman and a cache of war loot. A thoroughly professional film that lives up to one's expectations and, in Sir Laurence's case, exceeds them.

COMMUNITY THEATER NEWS

Huntington Beach Playhouse, Inc. Needs Rescue From Financial Woes

Huntington Beach Playhouse, Inc. is calling for donations needed to keep the organization alive. Last fall the group left The Barn and is currently seeking a new theater home. Meanwhile, Howard Solomon, treasurer of the Playhouse, reports that the fund solicitatiom has been "less than reassuring" to date.

President Paul Sullivan has agreed to continue the $200 life membership for another 60 days or until March 1. The cutoff date for $200 memberships was to have been Jan. 1. After the new extension is ended, a new price tag of $300 will be placed on the membership. Send donations to the Life Membership Committee, P.O. Box 451, Huntington Beach, California 92646, c/o Huntington Beach Playhouse, Inc. Your money will help keep fine theater in that growing Orange County community. Donations are tax deductible.

Sebastian's West Dinner Playhouse has just announced the two week extension of their latest musical "The Sound of Music". . . . .Now to play through Sun, March 6.

The request for tickets was just too over whelming to ignore, stated Ernie Verre, president and producer of Sebastian's West Binner Playhouse. There are 2 days open in January and several in February. Weekends are the first to go so they urge people wishing to see TSOM to purchase their tickets early. We're open nightly, except Monday.

Friday, Jan. 14, is the opening date for the new season of the Intimate Dinner Theatre at the Holiday Inn of Costa Mesa. Black Tie 'n Levi's all Hollywood cast production of "Lovers and Other Strangers", written by Renee Taylor and Joseph Bologna, and directed by Michael Tortsov, will be the first show to grace the stage this new year.

This set of five comedies based on the superiority of women will leave the critics in a dilemma as to which is the funniest. A fun filled evening may be expected by all.

As usual, the Holiday Inn will be offering its delicious buffet dinner. Cocktail hour begins at 6 P.M., dinner at 7, and curtain time at 8:30. Reservations should be made early to ensure seating on opening night.

Frank Childress, star of "Norman Is That you?", Black Tie 'n Levi's first production at the Holiday Inn last June, will make his second appearance at this popular Dinner Theatre on March 25, in the world premiere of "The Fly Trap". Orange County theater goers will then have the opportunity to see an original comedy, never before seen on any stage, which will be the forerunner of a planned Broadway show to be produced later this year.

Anyone interested in any aspect of theater production is invited to attend the meeting Jan. 12th at Great Western Savings in El Toro.

Harriette F. Witmer, Chairman of the South Coast Repertory Building Campaign, has announced a gift from the James Irvine Foundation in the amount of $125,000. The money will be used to underwrite stage lighting equipment and landscaping for SCR's proposed 500-seat theatre to be built next to the South Coast Plaza Hotel in Costa Mesa. Construction completion is scheduled for the fall of 1977.

SCR is currently involved in a $2.5 million building campaign. The irvine grant brings the total amount raised to date to $992,000.

As part of its Expedition Series of plays South Coast Repertory Theatre will present an original silent comedy on Jan. 22 at 3 p.m. and the 24th at 8 p.m. at SCR's Third Step Theatre. Entitled "The Daring Dardolases," or "Love Finds Cosmo C. Cosmo." the work was written especially for SCR by company members Ronald Boussom and Steven DeNaut and it is, according to the authors, suitable for family viewing.

The storyline of the world premiere event concerns itself with Enesto, Alfredo and Lucy Dardolas, two brothers and a sister, who tour as a juggling-magic act. "Cosmo is their stage manger/sidekick who falls in love with Lucy, to her brothers' dismay," explains Boussom, "giving the work a play-within-a play dimension." He adds that "The Daring Dardolases" was developed in the style of the American silent film comedy, "with everything from swashbuckling duels, slapstick humor and fumbling showmanship, to romantic conflict and, of course, true love winning out in the end."

The Alex KOBA Actors workshop will present a special premiere performance by Linda Jamie on Jan. 25th at the Westminster Community Theatre, 7272 Maple Street, Westminster, CA. At 8:30 P.M. For the workshop students and supporters. Miss Jamie a well known Orange and Los Angeles County actress makes her debut as a single performer in an evening impersonation of the famous French actress and singer, Edith Piaf, whose tragic life ended in 1963.

"To Life", a rollicking musical comedy by Howard and Edith Goodman of Fullerton will be presented at Fullerton College on Saturday, Feb. 5 at 8 p.m.

OC STAGE REVIEW

SCR Produces Pinter Production

BY ERNIE WEINER

The South Coast Repertory has just opened a very fine and sensitively acted production of Harold Pinter's strangely symbolic and bizarre comedy, "Old Times." The play will run through Feb. 19.

Pinter has created a moving work filled with many levels of symbolism. Three people, a married couple and the wife's girlhood friend come together for a reunion after twenty years. They reminisce about their youth and life, each with distorted memories of the others. Reality, imagination, and fantasy intermix so that neither the friends nor the audience knows which is which.

The author has created a beautiful surrealistic work that is open to a multitude of interpretations. We can be watching an actual reunion, or it might be a figment of one of the players imagination, or possibly a dream, or, for that matter, it might not be happening at all. Pinter has left the overall meanings wide so that the viewer can interpret them in any way he or she wishes.

Yet the play has an almost magical quality about it which holds the audience spellbound for the entire two acts.

Cherie Patch wonderfully portrays the mostly silent Kate. She is the wife, always present, but constantly in a state of revery with an intriguing enigmatic smile on her face. Kate, though she says very little, is the dominant character in the drama. It is to her that the other two pay court. It is in their memories of having been with her that the other two find as high points in their lives. Ms. Patch's interpretation of this role is outstanding.

Charles Lanyer's performance as Kate's husband, Deeley, is equally well conceived and carried out. He is the possessive yet dependent male, lonely for his wife even, at times, when he is with her. He is also jealous of her relationships before he met her. Mr. Lanyer beautifully interprets the role.

Irene Roseen also does an outstanding job in the role of Anna, Kate's old friend. She beautifully tries to recapture their moments, real and other-wise, in the past. It's a fine interpretation.

Direction is by David Emmes. The wonderful symbolic setting was designed by Michael Devine. Lighting was by Thomas Rusika and costumes were by Jennifer Platt.

Dance Production Scheduled

"Thru the Looking Glass" is the title of the dance production to be presented by the El Modena Dance and Choreography Club Thursday and Friday (Jan. 13-14) in the high school cafetorium.

The 26 member club has been rehearsing since September on this year's production, which will feature a variety of numbers, including ballet, jazz, modern, mime and ethnic dances.

Curtain time is 8 p.m. Tickets will be available at the door and will be $1 for students and $1.50 for adults. For further information contact the El Modena High School on Spring Street, girl's PE department.

Connie Stevens Stars As 'Scorchy'

Connie Stevens, in the role of a provocative Federal Narcotics Undercover Agent prepared to go to any lengths to bring dope smugglers to justice, stars in American International's "Scorchy," opening Wednesday, Jan. 19 in a multiple engagement in theatres and drive-ins throughout Southern California and Nevada.

Cesare Danova, who co-stars in the film, enacts the role of a businessman under the guise of operating an export-import business but actually heading an international narcotics ring with headquarters in Rome and Seattle.

The film was written, produced and directed by Hikmet Avedis.

Never A Dull Moment For Dorothy Provine

Dorothy Provine is not the forward type, but when the occasion demands she can throw her weight around, as light as it is, with the best of her fellows pros. The script for Walt Disney's "Never A Dull Moment," in which she stars with Dick Van Dyke and Edward G. Robinson, called for Dorothy to toss, judo style, middleweight Dick Van Dyke and heavyweight Mickey Shaughnessy.

It seems that in the movie Dorothy finds herself in a kind of Pearl White serial situation when she is held prisoner in the home of a gangland czar. At one point in the story she has to ward off what she believes are the intentions of an over-amorous hood, played by Van Dyke. Actually he's only trying to get close enough to let her know that, in reality, he's an actor posing as a crook. Nevertheless, she decks him faster than he can follow through with the pass.

Next in turn of events comes a mad chase sequence in which heroine, Dorothy, is trying to give the dodge to bodyguard Shaughnessy. When he finally overtakes her she sends him over her shoulders too, in nothing flat.

Dorothy pulled off the action herself, sans stunt double, and to think that she never had a judo lesson in her life.

20 Year Old Adam Arkin Awed By Sudden Stardom On Video

No wonder. He is not old enough to buy a legal drink in California, and he is headlining a new CBS sitcom, "Busting Loose," which makes its debut on Monday. But Adam comes better prepared than most 20-year-olds. He has been acting off and on for seven years and has enjoyed the best of training from his father, the multiply talented Alan Arkin.

There is a resemblance. The curly black hair, the questioning brown eyes, the guppy mouth, the slow delivery with a dash of wry. But Adam is handsomer and taller (6 feet 1½).

Between father and son there is an obvious bond.

"He's a tough act to follow," admits the young actor of his famous father. "I suffered from some competition problems, as do all children who follow in the same profession. But my father is my best friend; I am closer to him than anyone else in the world. He was too good a father, and I was too good a son, for us to develop any antagonisms.

"There were so many benefits that I enjoyed, and I don't mean getting jobs because of him. I am talking about benefits in terms of experience, in observing how he handles acting problems.

"I also learned about fame and what it does to you. I realize that it can be a hazard, but it can also be a blessing. If this series does prove a success, I'm not set up for any large amounts of disillusionment. There will be surprises, God knows. But I'm not set up for a huge fall. and I thank God for that."

"Busting Loose," comes from the same hit factory that produced "Happy Days" and "Laverne and Shirley." The executive producers and creators are Mark Rothman and Lowell Ganz, who wrote the "Laverne and Shirley" segment of "Happy Days" and then produced the offshoot.

The series was originally called "The Last Markowitz." CBS considered it too ethnic sounding, and the title was changed to "On Your Own." That had too much of a sitcom ring to it, hence "Busting Loose." The new title is faintly descriptive, since the show concerns a young engineering graduate, Lenny Markowitz (Arkin) who leaves the family home to seek work as a sports telecaster.

The show is filmed before a live audience at Paramount studios with a large resident cast. Included are Jack Kruschen and Pat Carroll as the parents, Barbara Rhoades as a sexy neighbor, plus Danny Goldman, Stephen Nathan, Greg Antonacci and Paul Sylvan as his neighborhood buddies.

Adam Arkin was born in Brooklyn at a time when his father was starting to make a living as a folk singer. His parents separated when he was 4, and Adam lived with his mother in St. Louis and San Luis Obispo, Calif. At 11 he began living with his father. After Alan made his film debut in "The Russians Are Coming, The Russians Are Coming," young Adam spent much of his time on movie sets.

"I always felt more alive when I was on sets," he recalled. "I had the makeup people decorate me with fake blood or make me up as a monster. I observed what everybody did. I guess I had it in the blood."

Adam made his acting debut at 13 with young brother Matthew in "People Soup," a short his father filmed in three days and drew an Academy nomination for. Adam attended the Professional Children's School in New York between stage roles. His film debut came with "Made for Each Other" in 1971, and he has appeared on TV in "Hawaii Five-O," "Barney Miller" and "Happy Days."

If "Busting Loose" is a hit, Adam is ready for it. But he is also realistic: "CBS could call up tomorrow and say the show is cancelled."

Fishermen, Hunters Taxed To Limit
DFG Problem: Inflation, No Money

By CHUCK GARRISON
Register Outdoor Writer

The changing role of the Department of Fish and Game has thrust Director E.C. (Charley) Fullerton into a search familiar to all of us in this time of economic inflation – the search for more money.

"Our problem is that we are operating on a fixed income in an era of rapidly inflating costs," Fullerton says in an interview in the current issue of Outdoor California, bimonthly publication of the DFG.

Approximately two-thirds of the Department's $35.7 million budget comes from the sale of hunting and fishing licenses, permits and tags, Fullerton says.

"It's very possible you could slightly increase the fishing licenses on the basis of average fees in the western states," he says, "but realistically, we may be at the maximum we can ask the fishermen in California to pay. With respect to hunting licenses, I think there is no chance for an increase."

But increased interest in and concern for the environment has meant more and more of the DFG's time and finances are spent leading an effort not aimed soley at hunting and fishing.

"There are so many things now that the total public of California – some 21 million people – are interested in us doing such as preserving habitat, preserving open space, making sure there are fish in the rivers, maintaining the streams, maintaining all wildlife.

"I think providing these things should be the obligation of all the people of the state and not just a limited group, although I feel that user groups such as hunters and fishermen should pay an extra fee over and above the general cost to the public," the DFG director adds.

How to provide these new services to the public and still take care of the state's billion dollar hunting and fishing industry is a problem Fullerton will face for some time to come. But he emphasizes the hunters and fishermen will not be "thrown over" if the financial base of the Department is somehow changed.

The Department's mission now, however, is to protect all wildlife in California, not just the ones which attract sportsmen. There are more than 1,000 species of mammals, birds, fish, amphibians and reptiles in the state, according to DFG biologists, yet less than 100 of these are sought by the state's hunters and anglers.

Actually, hunters and fishermen have been paying the bill for everything so far, according to Fullerton, including the DFG's past work in the conservation and environment fields. So the search today is for a source of revenue which will escalate along with the cost of living. Among the possibilities being explored are a user tax on wildlife areas, excise taxes on recreational equipment and a fluctuating fee structure for licenses which would be tied to the cost of living.

Fullerton points out that money from the state's general fund has been available to the Department of Fish and Game only in the past three years. The 1976-77 budget of $35.7 million includes $1.5 million from the general fund and another $1 million from the sale of personalized license plates, but it was not enough to carry the combined weight of inflation and added responsibility for the Department, according to Fullerton.

So while the search goes on, the DFG is taking the only strategy available – cutting costs.

Record Crowds

Big crowds have been showing up at the current Sports, Vacation and Recreational Vehicle Show at the Anaheim Convention Center, according to show publicist Hank Levy. The largest crowd in the 12-year history of the event showed up for last Sunday's opener and attendance should be brisk until the show's close this Sunday.

Outdoor vacation resorts from all over the state and the West have exhibits in the "Resort Row" section of the show, with personnel on hand to assist visitors in making their 1977 vacation plans. In addition, a large array of motor homes, campers, vans, camping trailers and tent trailers are featured in the RV area of the show and fishing equipment by Fenwick, Straggler, Lowrance, Sabre, Vichek, Bomber, Eppinger, Dick Miller, Shakespeare and others can be viewed and tested on "Tackle Row."

Outdoor Briefs

If you haven't yet written your protest regarding further commercial anchovy fishing escalation to the California Fish and Game Commision, you'd better hurry...The Commission will decide on allowing an increase from 100,000 to 200,000 tons of anchovies for commercial fishermen when the Commission meets in Sacramento on January 14...Write: California Fish and Game Commission, 1416 Ninth Street, Sacramento, California 95814.

RAINBOW trout have their own "Swine Flu" problems, too...The Arizona Game and Fish Department had to vaccinate 200,000 small rainbows at the Department's Canyon Creek Hatchery last week, to prevent the fish from contacting Hagerman Redmouth disease...The fish were vaccinated by being placed in a tank solution for two to three minutes.

LAKE Havasu has been selected as the only western site for one of nine qualifying tournaments in the American Bass Fishing Association's $106,000 national Grand Prix for largemouth bass...The Havasu tourney has been set for May 5-7...Purse for the event will be $55,000, with first place winning $5000 plus a $5000 bass boat rig.

All entrants must be members of ABF...For information, write: American Bass Fishing Association, Box 908, Cocoa Beach, Fla. 32931.

Stripers Showing At Lake Havasu

Striped bass fishing is improving in the lower area of Lake Havasu, according to sources there, and most of the stripers are hitting trolled plugs in the region from Parker Dam to the power station on the California side of the lake.

The largest striper taken recently, according to Ed McWilliams of Havasu Resort, was the 31-pounder caught by Dennis Richardson of Havasu Springs. Some fishermen who trolled all day were taking 3-fish limits of stripers in the 8- to 15-pound class, says McWilliams.

Local resident Jim Jordan checked into Black Meadow Landing on Lake Havasu with a 15 1/2-pound striper, according to Loran Perry at the resort facility.

"Actually, it's pretty hard not to catch a limit of trout right now if you'll use the right light gear and not fish too deep," Cleary contends. "I'd recommend not fishing over 15 feet deep at this time of year."

In addition to the usual weekly planting of 2000 pounds of rainbow trout, Irvine also received a load of 1850 pounds of channel catfish last week.

Some large trout highlighted recent fishing. Mitchell Connair of Huntington Beach topped his limit with a 5-pound and 9-ounce trout taken on a salmon egg in Sierra Cove, Don McDade of Torrance registered a 5 1/4-pound trout in his Sierra Cove limit and Otis Kissler of Long Beach boated a 5-pound trout taken on Velveeta cheese off the west shore. Tom Smith of Cypress had a west shore limit headed by a 4-pound and 6-ounce trout.

Thomas McMinn of Santa Ana tried a new winkle at Irvine Lake – fly casting – and caught five trout to 2 1/2 pounds on dry flies.

Fishing pressure has been light in the Cottonwood Cove Resort sector of Lake Mojave, although some fair catches of bass and crappie are being made. Otto Kuntz of Lancaster was one of the more successful fishermen, taking nine crappie totaling 18 pounds, plus a pair of 3-pound bass. Herschell Whitmer of Long Beach used nightcrawlers to catch eight bass to 3 1/2 pounds. Garden Grove angler Dan Feyo nabbed a 6-14 bass on a leadhead jig.

Other reports and big fish catches follow:

CASTAIC LAKE – Fair fishing overall for bass, with majority of the fish hitting jigs and spoons. A few pan-size trout hitting near the dam. Ron Spencer and John Patorf, Rio Hondo, 10 bass to 4 pounds; Don Finwall, San Fernando, 5-6 bass.

SALTON SEA – Fair to good for corvina in deep water, with best catches taken by hooking a minnow to hula skirted jig. Corvina most active three to four miles offshore. Ray Thomas and Red Wedgeworth, Salton Sea, corvina limits to 8-0.

LAKE ISABELLA – A few large bass hitting. Action fair for trout in Kern River, above and below lake, where DFG is planting. Chic Hill, Torrance 8-0, 6-0, 5-0 and 5-0 bass.

VAIL LAKE – Planted with 100 pounds of trout last week. Fair for trout on nightcrawlers, cheese and floating baits. Bass fishing slow. Kent Ross, Whittier, 5-7, 5-3 and 7-6 bass.

LAKE CASITAS – Fair action for trout, following weekly plants. Trout hitting trolled, gold lures or still-fished baits. A few bass taken.

LAKE HENSHAW – Some limits of trout being taken in shallow water on nightcrawlers. Scheduled for a trout plant this week – 3500 pounds. Bass fishing slow, with Sonic lures best.

LAKE CACHUMA – Fair to good for trout in Santa Cruz and Cachuma bays. Bass beginning to move to shallow water, with action rated fair, but improving on nightcrawlers and crank plugs. Fair for redear perch off Jackrabbit Flats.

LAKE MEAD – Overton Arm producing a few striped bass, crappie and bass, but angling pressure down. Dwight Colbert, Las Vegas, 22-8 striped bass, plus 21 crappie; Andrew Jackson, Las Vegas, 13 1/2-pound striped bass.

Weather Cools Ocean Angling

Recent rainy, cold, winter weather has hampered ocean sportfishing along the Southland coast, but most partyboat landings reports fair to good rockfishing when the sun shines.

That same inclement weather cooled off an emerging run of white seabass and yellowtail at the Coronado islands, below San Diego, according to Gary Black, owner-operator of the charter boat Conquest at Fisherman's Landing.

"There were some yellows and whites starting to hit south of South Island (of the Coronados)," Black said, "but the rainy weather over New Year's dirtied the water and at least temporarily shut off the fish."

Prior to that time, the boat New Lo-An was taking a few whites and yellows, says Loyd Asdel at Point Loma Sportfishing in San Diego. He said the yellowtail were running from 16 to 20 pounds and the white seabass were ranging from 12-to 30-pounders. Top catches for the New Lo-An included 12 white seabass to 30 pounds for 25 passengers and four yellowtail and eight white seabass for 24 passengers.

Local rockfishing has been fair to good off the San Clemente area, according to Don Hansen at Dana Wharf Sportfishing. Hansen says sculpin, salmon grouper, barber poles, some sheephead and a few sand and calico bass are being taken in the area.

Tiger Shark Frenzy Frightening Sight

By JIM HARDIE
Knight News Wire

Five tiger sharks were circling our 38-foot boat, obviously upset because we had taken away their free lunch. And from the way they were behaving, some retaliation was in the offing.

The sharks were estimated from 1,100 to 1,800 pounds, and were in a feeding frenzy when we took away the remains of a fish we had out for bait in order to gain time for reloading our cameras.

First the sharks began lifting their giant heads out of the water, apparently looking for their meal. Their teeth were bared menacingly.

Then they began to bump against the boat as if to say, give us back our meal or else.

When one shark opened its mouth and chomped on the transom at the boat's corner, I hardly could believe my eyes.

The big one swam beneath the boat and grabbed the propeller in its mouth. We could feel powerful thumps as it banged its head against the bottom.

We had anchored in the lee of the Great Barrier Reef off Cairns, Australia, and had an enormous gamefish on a rope to entice the sharks. The water was crystal clear and the current of the nine-foot drop in tide was practically guaranteed to bring a giant shark to our transom within 30 minutes.

Captain Peter Bristow was prophetic when he said: "You are about to witness something you will find hard to believe. Tiger sharks will attack that bait with a viciousness that will make the hair stand on the back of your neck."

The bait was a black marlin which weighed over 1,000 pounds. It was being returned to the sea, or recycled, providing food not only for the sharks but a host of other fish and crustaceans.

"The sharks will make an apple core out of that marlin within 30 minutes," Bristow said. "They will eat everything but the head, tail and backbone. The remains will look as if a bunch of cats had a feast."

Why don't they eat the tail?

"The tail is big, too big for one bite, and there isn't enough meat to it to interest them," he said.

The words barely had cleared his lips when the 1,800-pound shark surfaced like a submarine behind the marlin. Its first bite took the tail and a large portion of the marlin.

"Did you see that?" Bristow said. "I can't believe it. That's the first time I've seen one do that."

Within minutes, four other tiger sharks began crashing into the marlin, and chunks disappeared with each attack.

DANDY DOLPHIN – Bill Stark of Costa Mesa, co-owner of the Bent Rod Tackle shop in Tustin, hoists up a 41-pound dolphinfish he caught recently during a long range to Baja aboard the Searcher, out of Fisherman's Landing in San Diego. Stark barely missed catching the largest fish of the trip, as Orange Countian Jack Doyle of Anaheim caught a 43-pounder.

Hawaii Boar Hunting: Knives More Sporting

HONOLULU (AP) – For hunters in Hawaii, the beginning of pig hunting season signals a sharpening of knives rather than the oiling of guns.

And to some, it means walking just a few miles from town to the beginning of thousands of acres of forest reserve the island's wild pigs call home.

"Tackling a 200-pound boar with tusks up to three or four inches long is not for the clumsy or hesitant hunter," warns a booklet from the Hawaii Division of Fish and Game.

But each year hunters, armed with knives and accompanied by dogs, take to the forest reserves. Many hunt on the island of Oahu, where 30,000 acres of state land are open either daily or on a seasonal basis. Hunters also can request permission from a private landowner to stalk game on his land.

The wild boar has been pushed back by urbanization, but hunters say it will have the last say in the homesteading matter.

"There will always be a huntable population of pigs," said L. Steve Rohrmayr, president of the Pig Hunters Association of Oahu. "The mountains are so rugged that urbanization can push them back only so far."

The wild pig was introduced to the Hawaiian Islands by early Polynesian explorers and later settlers. Through crossbreeding, wild pigs come in a wide variety of colors. Common weights range from 80 to 250 pounds, though some pigs weigh more.

The only type of firearm used is the short-range, easily maneuverable "brush gun." A few hunters in more open areas use a bow and arrow.

The most common method of forest boar hunting uses dogs and knives. The specially trained dogs are allowed to run ahead, sniff out a pig and attack him.

Once it appears that the dogs have the boar pinned, the hunter kills it with a knife – a method that makes some unseasoned hunters squeamish.

"Once you've tried it," said Rohrmayr, "it's not as horrible or as dangerous as it sounds."

The cautious hunter who approaches the pig from the back or side probably will go home without serious injury. There is an element of danger, however.

"I've seen six or seven dogs on a pig, and the pig will give a shake," recalled Roy Gusukuma, who has hunted on Oahu since 1933. "He'll drop every dog, and by golly he's after you."

Of the five Hawaiian Islands that contain pigs, the island of Hawaii offers the most varied terrain, said Ronald Walker, chief of the state wildlife office. But the number of hunters is few because of the disparity in population among the islands.

Seven out of 10 of the state's residents live on Oahu – a statistic that worries wildlife officials, who see the hunting grounds become more crowded each year.

Dedication Set For Ecological Lagoon Reserve

Buena Vista Lagoon Ecological Reserve, a 190-acre oasis for wildlife within the cities of Oceanside and Carlsbad in northern San Diego County, will be dedicated in ceremonies Jan. 21 at the reserve.

On hand to make the dedication will be State Sen. John Stull of Escondido, who as an assemblyman in 1968 authored the bill which provided for establishment of reserves such as Buena Vista Lagoon.

S. Tahoe Boat Club No. 1

The 172-member South Tahoe Boat Club has been named top boating club for 1976 in an annual contest sponsored by the Outboard Boating Club of America.

This was the third top prize for the club. Club members were tops in 1969 and in 1965. In between times, the club has won numberous special category awards.

Second place went to the Daytona (Fla.) Beach Outboard Club.

Boating editors and writers also presented special category awards to the Green Bay Boating Club, (boating safety education); Fifth Street Yacht Club, Franksville, Wis. (facilities development); OBC of San Diego, (legislative activities); Muskingum Valley Boating Association, South Zanesville, Ohio (social activities) and Dale City Boating Association, Woodbridge, Va. (community service).

Early Sellout For Boat Show

The earliest sellout of the entire 240,000 square foot exhibit hall in the 21-year history of the event is reported for the Southern California Boat Show.

Exhibitor demand has been at a peak, according to Chairman John Cordes, of the sponsoring Southern California Marine Association.

Demand is such that it could fill another substantial hall if it were available at the $43 million downtown center.

The show will represent a who's who of the pleasure boating industry in the U.S., along with several exhibits from other countries, Cordes noted.

ENTHUSIASM FOR BROWN DWINDLES, POLL SHOWS

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) – The proportion of Californians who think Gov. Edmund G. Brown Jr. is doing a poor job has increased, but overall his constituency is still enthusiastic, a poll reported Tuesday.

The California Poll said 37 per cent of those surveyed in November felt Brown is doing a good job compared with 46 per cent who gave him that ranking in August. In the same three month period the poll found the number saying the governor does a poor job increased from 11 per cent to 13 per cent.

"The extravagantly enthusiastic view Californians have taken of Governor Brown since he assumed office two years ago appears to be abating," concluded pollster Mervin Field.

SA Killer, 17, Gets Life; Judge May Reconsider Later

SANTA ANA – Ruben Barela, 17, of Santa Ana, was sentenced to life in prison Tuesday on his first-degree murder conviction, but Superior Court Judge Everett W. Dickey said he would consider reducing the sentence in four months.

Barela was found guilty last month along with Anthony Soza, also 17, of Orange, in the shooting death of Edward P. Velasquez, 21, of Santa Ana last May 31.

Dickey told Barela Tuesday that he would retain jurisdiction on the case pending receipt of a diagnostic evaluation from Chino State Prison.

The judge said he would consider re-sentencing Barela under a "youthful offender" section of the penal code if the evaluation comes back favorable to the defendant.

A sentencing under the youthful offender section would reduce Barela's prison term to six months-to-life. He would become eligible for parole immediately because Dickey gave him credit for 216 days already served in Orange County jail while awaiting trial. Under a straight life commitment in prison, Barela would become eligible for parole in seven years.

Dickey earlier denied a request by attorney Terry Giles that Barela be granted a new trial because of alleged prosecution misconduct during the six-week jury trial.

Dickey also affirmed two stipulations agreed to by the jury, which deliberated for five days before returning with their verdicts. Those stipulations, which result in stiffer sentence possibilities, were that Barela was armed with a deadly weapon during the commission of the murder and that he used a firearm.

Velasquez was shot once in the head as he was driving his car through the Delhi Park area of Santa Ana.

Brown argued several times during the lengthy trial that Velasquez' death was "an F-Troop execution." He charged that Barela and Soza, who were reportedly affiliated with the Mexican gang "F-Troop," although no direct evidence was offered proving their association, got together the night of May 30 and decided to drive to the Delhi area and kill someone indiscriminately.

Brown contended that Barela had a brief discussion with Velasquez, and determined that Velasquez lived in the Delhi Park area. Immediately thereafter, Brown charged, Barela fired the fatal shot and drove from the scene.

Iran Bachelor Buys Ford's Virginia Home

WASHINGTON (AP) – Moussa Moaadel, a bachelor from Iran who bought President Ford's suburban home for $137,000, says he considers Ford "the most important man in the universe and it will be a great honor to live in his house."

He paid cash for the four-bedroom house in Alexandria, Va., across the Potomac River from Washington. Ford and Moaadel did not meet personally during the transaction.

The President paid $34,000 for the home in 1955 and put another $7,500 into a backyard swimming pool. He will have to pay the 6 per cent commission to the real estate firm that handled the deal.

Moaadel was getting more telephone calls than he could handle at Shannon & Luchs Co. here, where he works as a real estate salesman.

"To me, with my background, the head of government is a very important person," Moaadel said Tuesday after it was announced that he was the buyer. "I am very honored and very delighted. It's the most important pleasure I have ever had in my life."

He confided that he plans to get married and he will live in the Ford home at 514 Crown View Drive, Alexandria, after making some changes he thinks are needed in the home.

The fact that Ford had a 20 x 40 foot swimming pool in the backyard of his home also appealed to Moaadel, who says, "I like to swim. I'm an outdoor man."

Moaadel, not yet an American citizen, but a permanent resident of the United States, came to this country from Teheran eight years ago. He Now lives alone in Bethesda, Md.

The Ford home he plans to occupy is a colonial-style brick and clapboard dwelling, with four bedrooms, two full baths, four half bathrooms, a living room with fireplace, den, kitchen, dining room and pine-paneled recreation room. It had been on the market since early December and Ford got the price he asked for it.

The Ford family, meanwhile, has rented a house in Rancho Mirage, near the desert resort community of Palm Springs. They will make that their home base, after Jan. 20, while deciding whether to buy or build a home in that area.

SCAG SOUTHERN CALIFORNIA ASSOCIATION OF GOVERNMENTS

Public Hearing

This Thurs., Jan. 13
1-5 p.m. and 7-10 p.m.
Los Angeles Convention Center, Room 211
1201 S. Figueroa St., Los Angeles

We need you now.
You can help mold the SCAG 1977 Regional Transportation Plan.

We're holding a public hearing this Thurs., Jan. 13, so you can tell us what you want done. A panel of local elected officials will hear your suggestions. Your comments—and how they affect SCAG's final plan and environmental impact report—will become part of the permanent record.

There are important decisions to be made, and we'll all have to live with them.

What do you know and feel about transportation? Are new freeways a boon or a bust? How much public transit is enough? And how about bikeways, railroads and airports?

What do you want done?
If you can't attend the public hearing, you can still be heard.

We'll be accepting calls and letters until Jan. 28, the close of the public record. In person or by letter, you can help affect transportation in Southern California.

For more information, copies of the draft reports, or to pre-register for the public hearing, call or write:

Spanks, Topley To Leave Lionettes

If, and or when the Santa Ana Lionettes begin their second summer of women's professional softball, they'll go without their 1976 general manager (Shirley Topley) and her assistant (Carol Spanks). Both have notified franchiseholder Ed Goldstein that they are leaving the club for which they have played as well as guided for many years – Spanks for 19, Topley for 13.

They also have notified the players they directed through last season's rigorous campaign in the International Women's Professional Softball Assn. which had teams in San Diego, San Bernardino, San Jose, Phoenix, Chicago, Detroit, Buffalo, Connecticut and Pennsylvania.

"We wanted the team first to hear about it direct from us rather than reading about it," said Miss Spanks, a Norwalk high school physical education director who operated the Lionettes most of the recent years the girls played at

Shirley Topley

Carol Spanks

Orange. The success of the Lionettes since 1967 was primarily due to the enterprise and skills of the two veterans who combined to make it a "class" organization.

The women issued this statement: "It was a difficult decision and we made it only after careful consideration. You just don't toss away a lifetime of something you do well, and like more than anything else, without a lot of apprehension and forethought." We have been in softball many years and have been in charge of the Lionettes the past 10 seasons. We have some basic beliefs about how the team should be run and we like to think we were instrumental in making it a first class organization. We also have too much deep feeling for the Lionettes, women's softball, and the community to continue when it appears that the structure and general club organization and philosophy will not coincide with ours."

'RESPONSIBILITY NEEDED'

Having been with the club so long, Topley and Spanks said "we feel the public, to some extent, associates the Lionettes with us, and we do not want that association without the responsibility for the team's action."

Neither Spanks nor Topley said they felt any regret about moving the Lionettes from Orange and into professional company. Spanks turned over the franchise to Goldstein last year so it could establish national stature. Spanks said: "We feel it was the right move and a great experience. At the time it was the only way of advancing women's softball and providing greater opportunities for female athletes."

They continued: "Ed Goldstein gave the Lionettes the chance. He was enthused about the program and able to make it go from a financial standpoint. He spent considerable money on the team and deserves a lot of credit for his part in the entire program. A person in his position must run the organization the way he sees fit. We are disappointed it hasn't developed in the same direction we had thought it would, we wish him, the team and pro softball every success."

Club owner Goldstein, expressing regret at losing the services of his experienced field generals, suggests that he intends to keep the Lionettes in business. His three-year agreement for use of the Santa Ana Bowl has two more years to go and he apparently intends to exercise the option in 1977.

CITY DISCUSSION PLEASANT

"I had a friendly discussion with city officials Monday," he said. "We have a mutually satisfactory understanding about use of the stadium."

However, he conceded that there are some hills to climb and that he has certain reservations about continuing in the major league of women's softball, an organization which had problems elsewhere during its infant season. San Jose, the eventual Western Division champion, was the only California franchise that did not lose heavily.

"Frankly," Goldstein said, "there is a question running through my mind if it would be advisable to operate the franchise again. There are many factors to consider and losing Shirley and Carol must be taken as a minus. We are going to assess the impact made on the community last year and see if the people want us to maintain the professional softball image. If it is a matter of satisfying our own ego, then it would be financially unsound. When you lose super-people like Shirley Topley and Carol Spanks, it is time to do some hard thinking. We will have a meeting of the team soon and go over all the problems. From what I hear, most of the girls are anxious to play ball. After we make our survey we will be in a better position to determine if it should be on a professional level, or if women's softball should remain on an amateur status in this area."

Monday To Dodgers For Buckner

RICK MONDAY

LOS ANGELES (AP) – The Los Angeles Dodgers ended a long quest Tuesday when they traded outfielder Bill Buckner and two others to the Chicago Cubs for centerfielder Rick Monday and relief pitcher Mike Garman.

Monday, 31, is an 11-year veteran who hit .272 in 1976 with the Cubs. A product of Arizona State, Monday hit 32 home runs – third best in the National League last season – and his slugging percentage of .507 was fourth best in the league. He drove in 77 runs.

Monday also was outstanding in the field, making only two errors in 284 chances for a .993 percentage.

Buckner, playing left field who has had big league experience at first base, batted .301 with the Dodgers last year in 154 games. He has a .289 lifetime batting average. The Dodgers also sent reserve infielder Ivan DeJesus and minor league pitcher Jeff Albert to the Cubs.

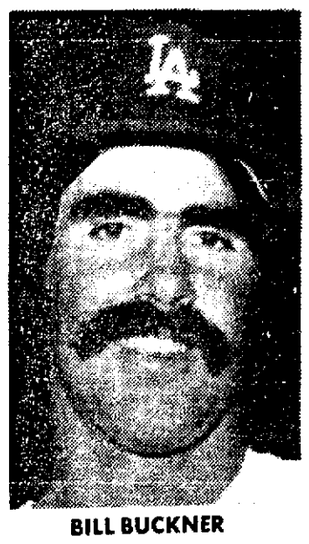

"We're quite happy to have Rick Monday," declared Dodger vice president Al Campanis. "We've tried to get him the past few years. He's an outstanding hitter and a great fielder. He will play center for us and Garman should help us in the bullpen. Garman throws hard and has excellent control."

Garman is 27 and a righthander. He was 2-4 with a 4.97 earned run average with six saves in 47 games last year with the Cubs. He broke in with the Boston Red Sox after he was their No. 1 choice in the June, 1967, free agent draft. He was traded to St. Louis in 1974 where he spent two years before coming to the Cubs in 1976. His best year was in 1974 when he was 7-2 with six saves.

DeJesus, who has spent parts of three years in the majors, batted .300 at Albuquerque of the Pacific Coast League last season plus 22 games with the Dodgers when he hit .171.

Albert was a No. 21 draft selection in 1976, signed out of C.W. Post College. The 22-year-old was 7-5 with a 2.95 ERA last season with Bellingham, Wash., in the rookie Northwest League. In the Arizona Instructional League last fall, he was 3-1 with a 4.03 ERA.

Monday, the man the Dodgers wanted, broke in with Kansas City in 1966 when the A's played there. He stayed with the club when it switched to Oakland. He was traded to the Cubs in 1972. Monday gained national acclaim when he saved the American flag from a possible burning in left field at Dodger Stadium on April 25. When two fans came onto the field and attempted to burn a flag, Monday snatched it away.

Irish, UCLA At Odds Over 'Need'

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP) – The controversial issues of reorganization and financial aid based on need again got nowhere Tuesday while bitter words developed between Notre Dame and UCLA, two of the National Collegiate Athletic Association's bigger members.

First, more than 1,000 delegates to the NCAA's 71st annual convention voted in 10 minutes to table a reorganization plan which had been in the works for almost a full year.

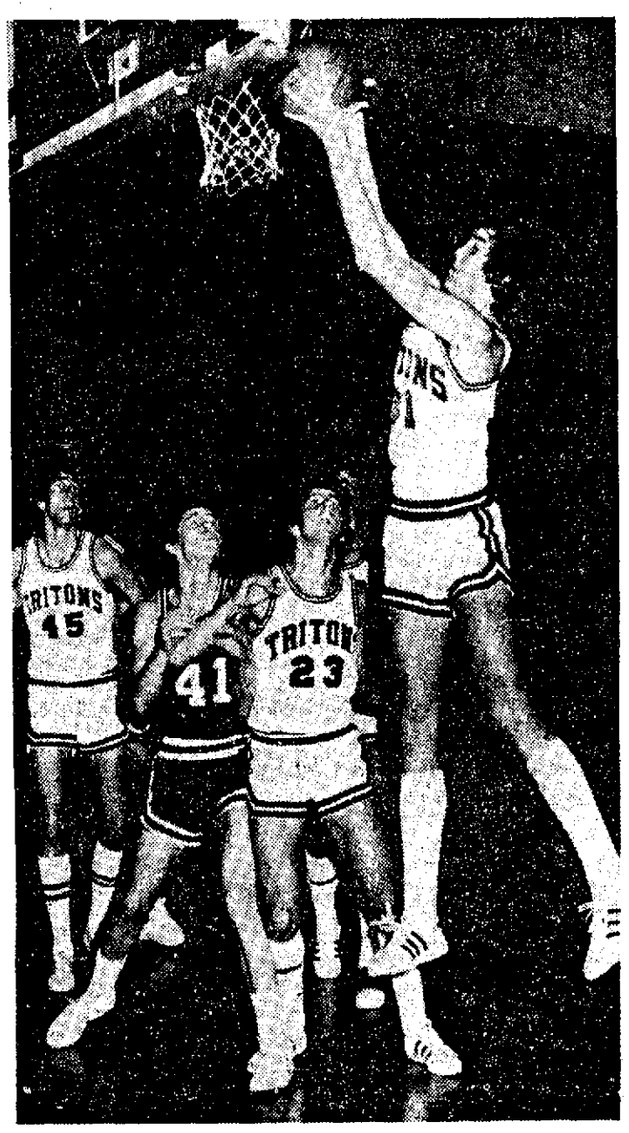

Then, the touchy issue of putting athletic scholarships strictly on a need basis was rejected across-the-board. The membership turned down proposals that would have put all athletic aid on a need basis, as well as some which would have excluded football and basketball.

The tabling of the reorganization plan – even though almost everyone concedes that some form of reclassification is necessary and inevitable – was a victory for many big-time basketball schools, especially those without Division I football programs.

The feud on the convention floor surfaced when the Rev. Edmund P. Joyce, executive vice president and faculty moderator of athletics at Notre Dame and an outspoken opponent of need, pointed out that UCLA and some other West Coast schools had violated recruiting regulation 20 years ago.

"They were caught redhanded and then they screamed that the rules were not feasible," Father Joyce said. Opponents of the need plan say it would lead to widespread cheating.

That brought an angry reply from UCLA athletic director J.D. Morgan, who said he resented the remarks, calling it "the low of all time."

Jaworski Won't Play For Rams

YOUNGSTOWN, Ohio (AP) – Quarterback Ron Jaworski, disenchanted with his pro football employers, says, "I will never play for the Los Angeles Rams again."

Jaworski, in a telephone interview, said he is completely disillusioned by the Rams' failure to give him an adequate chance. He has notified the Rams he is playing out his option and will be a free agent May 1.

Pat Haden and James Harris shared the bulk of the Los Angeles quarterbacking this season, but Haden, a rookie and Rhodes Scholar from the University of Southern California, caught the imagination of the fans and media.

"Pat did a good job, but he doesn't possess my ability, cushioned by four years experience as the pro," Jaworski said. "But in Los Angeles, a Southern California grad is like God, the newspapers ... don't give it to you straight.

"They emphasize Haden's accomplishments," he added, "but little was said about his having five interceptions in the Dallas and Minnesota games."

Jaworski said he was offered "$700,000 for a five-year arrangement last summer, after a hot season. When I hesitated, well things didn't work out, even though I had a great training exhibition season."

The former Youngstown athlete said he broke his right shoulder in the opener against Atlanta and was supposed to give it six weeks rest. Instead, he came back in five weeks and directed the Rams to a 20-12 victory over Chicago and a 10-7 triumph over New Orleans.

From there he went to the bench in favor of first Harris and then Haden.

"They figured if I wasn't signed, why bother," Jaworski explained. "And Chuck Knox, the coach, talked about my starting and the like, but then it went to Harris or Haden."

Jabbar Hooks Cavs

RICHFIELD, Ohio (AP) – Kareem Abdul-Jabbar made a hook shot with four seconds left in overtime to cap a 40-point scoring performance and give the Los Angeles Lakers a 101-99 National Basketball Association victory over the Cleveland Cavaliers Tuesday night.

Bobby Smith, who kept the Cavaliers by scoring 16 of his 22 points in the second half, tied the game at 99 all with 25 seconds left in the overtime period.

The Lakers called time and, after action restarted, held the ball until just 10 seconds remained on the 24-second shooting clock. The ball went into Abdul-Jabbar who tossed it over Cleveland's John Lambert.

Angels Select 13

Nine From County Baseball Draftees

Four Orange Countians, three from Orange Coast College, were among the 13 players selected Tuesday by the California Angels at the annual winter baseball draft, held in New York.

Chosen from Orange Coast College in the regular phase were first baseman Daryl Sconiers (third round) and righthanded pitcher Ron Casper (ninth) while righthanded pitcher Monte Pries was the second pick in the secondary phase. Marty Castillo of Santa Ana College was selected by the Angels in the eighth round.

The San Francisco Giants chose three Orange County players, including Gary Ledbetter (formerly Villa Park High and presently Cal Luthern) in the first round. Jeff Evans of Golden West (fifth round) and Jay Pettibone of Fullerton College (eight round) were also picked.

Other Orange Countians selected include Handsome Roundtree of Bolsa Grande in second round by Chicago White Sox and Russ Penfold of Cypress High by Minnesota in the 15th round.

The bulk of the secondary phase will be announced today.

Opening pick by the Angels was Al Wiggins, a shortstop from Muir High, presently playing at Pasadena City College. He was a member of the National Babe Ruth champions of San Gabriel Valley last season.

The other Angel selections were:

ExposGamble On Youngster

NEW YORK (AP) – The Montreal Expos, the worst hitters in baseball last season, went for a future big bat when they made 18-year-old Calvin Adams their No. 1 pick in baseball's winter amateur draft Tuesday.

"He's a big, strong kid who can reach the fences," said Danny Menendez, the Expos' director of scouting. "What attracted us to him is his potential major league bat. We're buying a bat."

"I agree with them totally," said Ken Richardson, Adams' coach at Central Arizona Junior College. "His bat is his biggest asset, and that will improve with experience."

Adams, described by Menendez as a "multi-positioned guy who can play catcher, first base and third base," will finish his freshman year of college. "With our schedule of daily games, he'll be ready for the minor leagues," said Richardson, whose club was the national junior college champion last spring.

Adams said he was in the school cafeteria when informed that the Expos made him the first selection of 211 players taken in the regular phase of the winter draft – a weaker pool than in June when hot-shot high school and senior college players are available.

"I was surprised I was taken No. 1," said Adams, a native of Corpus Christi, Tex., where he was a high school star sporting a .600 batting average. "But I know I can play.

Adams, who says he is a Cincinnati Reds fan, does not have an agent. His parents will do the negotiating for him after the spring semester. After the Expos sign him, they plan to send Adams to their rookie league next June.

"The report from Red Murff, our area scout, is that he's a real tough competitor," said Menendez, whose talent hunters were looking for hitters since the Expos hit a lowly .235 last season.

"After this season, he'll be ready to go play pro ball emotionally and physically," said Richardson.

"I have the potential to be a good home run hitter," said Adams, who batted a team-leading .484 in Central Arizona's fall program. "My 'tater shot was 350 feet."

The first-round selections were heavy with pitchers, normally the best athletes on college teams. There were 11 pitchers selected.

One team, Atlanta, did not have a first-round pick. The Braves were punished by Commissioner Bowie Kuhn, who fined them $10,000 and took away their first-round pick for tampering in the free-agent Gary Matthews incident last year.

There were 64 players selected in the secondary phase of the draft, which is for athletes picked last June who remain unsigned. Lefthanded pitcher William Scherer, a dropout from the University of Nevada-Las Vegas, was made the secondary phase's first selection by Concinnati.

The winter draft, conducted by telephone hookup to representatives of the 26 teams from the Commissioner's office, lasted 3½ hours.

Stu Holcomb Dead At 66

Holcomb retired in 1973 after two years as general manager of the Chicago baseball team. He went to Chicago in 1966 after 10 years as athletic director at Northwestern, where one of his acts was hiring Ara Parseghian as football coach.

Holcomb played college football at Ohio State, and was captain of the 1931 team. After graduation, he served as head football coach at Findlay College and Muskingum College in Ohio, Washington and Jefferson in Washington, Pa., and Miami of Ohio.

UCI's Davis Ineligible

A long-awaited decision was finally made at UC Irvine and veteran guard Kevin Davis has been declared ineligible for the remainder of the basketball season.

Senior Davis, a three-year standout featuring quickness and good shooting, played his last game Dec. 18. Then he was put on probation pending a check into his academic performance so head coach Tim Tift elected to keep him off the team until a decision was made.

The 5-7, 165-pounder from Riverside sparked wins in his last two games with 36 points to total 78 for six contests.

Padres, Angels Play March 8

SAN DIEGO (AP) – The San Diego Padres announced plans Tuesday to play the California Angels in exhibition baseball games March 8 in Yuma, Ariz., and the next day in Holtville.

San Clemente High outstreaked Costa Mesa Tuesday night and emerged with a key 55-53 victory in South Coast League basketball action.1 The Tritons, now 3-0 in league play and 10-3 on the year, remain tied with Corona del Mar, which edged Mission Viejo, 37-33 in a slowdown game.

In other South Coast action, Laguna Beach edged University, 49-47 and El Toro defeated Dana Hills 56-45.

Costa Mesa's big streak came at the end of the game, when the Mustangs, behind some balanced scoring by Jack Snow, Steve Parrino and Stan Miller, ran to a 13-3 bulge over the final five minutes of the game. The streak fell two points shorts though, as San Clemente was able to preserve the lead down the stretch.

The Tritons had taken a commanding 52-40 lead early in the fourth behind three 'streaks' of their own.

The first came in the first period when the Tritons scored 11 straight points to take a 16-6 lead.

Costa Mesa pulled within five midway through the second, but sixth straight San Clemente points, four by Tim Dunham and another two by Ted Hettinga made it 31-22 at intermission.

The final Triton streak came late in the third, when Costa Mesa had again pulled within five.

Glen Franks hit a three-point play to finish the third and John Carson, Bill Nelly and Tim Dunham contributed two each early in the fourth to take a 12-point lead.

Carson and Dunham finished with 16 and 1: points respectively for Mission Viejo. Dunham contributed several assists for the Tritons.

Gary Wills led Costa Mesa with 15 points, while Parrion had 14. Miller had 13.

Mission tried a stall to stop the Sea Kings double post of Jack Tuz and Alex Black. The strategy failed though as Corona del Mar led the whole way for their 11th win of the year.

Titans Struggle, Outlast Chapman

BY CHUCK ABAIR

Playing some of its best basketball of the season, Chapman College made a strong bid to repeat last year's home upset of Fullerton State Tuesday night at Orange High School before bowing 80-68 in a wild affair.

The setting was the same. Fullerton had romped in the first meeting and was heavily favored, but the Titans were forced to work right down until the last two minutes before they could pull away to a fifth straight win.

"I am just glad to get out of here with a win," said Bobby Dye after his charges had improved their record to 9-4 in an intense battle that was marred by four technical fouls – two on each team – and 38 personals (23 on the hosts). "Chapman is much better than its record. I feel they have some good players.

"We played with very little intensity in the first half. I guess we were all looking forward to the start of conference play."

The Titans play the first of three straight PCAA home games Saturday after winning a road opener so that might have been part of their problem, but the Panthers were impressive despite their 4-9 record.

Free throws turned out to be the difference as each team finished with 28 field goals — Chapman in just 73 attempts and Fullerton in just 58. Chapman led the rebounding 34-27 with seven-footer Guy Kinsey of the hosts matching Titan Kerry Davis at 10.

The victors sank 24 of 31 free throws compared to the losers 12 of 17.

Another key was 17 field goals in 31 second half attempts by Division I CSF while hitting 16 of 21 fouls.

Mike Niles of Fullerton took game point honors with 16 featuring 10 charity points on 12 attempts – divided by halves. He had 11 points at intermission when the Titans led 30-28 and then Davis matched him over the last 20 minutes to tie Keith Anderson with 14. In between was Greg Bunch at 15 and 13 of his were in the last half when Fullerton kept trying to pull away, but Chapman refused to fold.

Tim Davis nipped Marv Thurman, who had 10 in the last half, 13-12 in home scoring. Then came Reg Newson at 11.

There were five ties in the first half when Fullerton led most of the time. The Titans led by eight early in the last half only to get tied again at 38. It stayed close until an eight-point spree made the score 60-51 with 7 1/2 to play. Chapman, which goes to Redlands, got back within five but no closer.

FULLERTON ST. (80) - Bunch 15, Shaw 6, Davis 14, Anderson 14, Niles 16, B. Miller 2, Heenan 13.
Halftime score - Fullerton 30, Chapman 28.

Lowell, Lancers Face Showdown

Buena Park High got its second win in Freeway League action Tuesday night, defeating Western 62-55 at Buena Park.

The win gives the Coyotes a 2-1 record in the Freeway League behind Sunny Hills and Lowell, which set the stage for their first place showdown Friday night.

The Lancers whipped Savanna 81-62 and the Patriots crushed Anaheim 93-52 to give each squad a 3-0 league mark and remain tied for the league lead. The two teams meet Friday at Sunny Hills.

Buena Park had to come from behind to beat Western. Trailing 28-21 at the half, the Coyotes came out shooting in the third period. Andre Smith and Russ Kiethly each had eight points in the quarter to lead Buena Park's 26 point burst.

Smith was the top point man for the Coyotes with 19 points and Kiethly followed with 17. Luther Miller had 20 points for Western.

Sunny Hills, after a slow start, came alive behind the hot shooting hands of Paul Bernstein and Sloan Carlson. The two top Lancer scorers has 23 and 21 points respectively.

Lowell's sophomore forward Gary Heil pumped in 22 points and pulled down 10 rebounds to lead the Patriots to their largest point total of the season. The Pats held high scoring Anaheim forward Chad Kominek to just 11 points, nine below his season average.

NEXT GAMES

Tyrone Branyan turned in his biggest effort in two seasons Tuesday night to lead Cypress College to a clutch 88-77 Southern Cal Conference basketball win Santa Monica College.

The talented Charger sophomore scrambled for 18 rebounds in a spectacular display on the boards, connected on 12 of 15 shots from the field and converted nine of 12 opportunities at the foul line to trigger the important Cypress victory.

Thanks to the solid work of Branyan, Rory Lovell, Barry Weston, Rick Cromwell and Bobby Diaz, the Chargers zoomed to a 44-34 halftime lead and held off a Santa Monica comeback that whittled the lead to 56-51 with 13:17 left to play.

Diaz connected on seven clutch free throws in the last four minutes to cement the win, helping Cypress reach a 28 of 34 showing at the foul-line. The Chargers connected on 30 of 40 shots from the field for a sizzling 60 per cent shooting average which bettered Santa Monica's 29 of 63 for 45 per cent.

UCLA Wrestlers At Fullerton St.

Fresh from an impressive 26-11 romp over New Mexico, the Fullerton State wrestling team battles UCLA and Mike Fleming tonight at 7:30 in its final home match until next month.

Fleming, who almost entered CSF after starring at El Dorado High School, is now considered one of the outstanding 118-pounders in the nation. He made all-state at Fullerton College.

Orange Lutheran Hangs On, 56-55

SAN JACINTO - Orange Lutheran High withstood a 10-0 outburst by host San Jacinto in the final five minutes Tuesday night to edge the Tigers 57-56 in Arrowhead League action.

Orange Lutheran took a 57-46 lead when Steve Hight made a basket and sunk a technical foul shot. The technical foul ultimately was the difference in the game, as San Jacinto began a furious rally.

Cuero-Led Canyon Topples Wildcats

Carlos Cuero scored seven points in the last 35 seconds of the contest to break up a close contest and give Canyon High a 58-48 win over Brea-Olinda in Orange League basketball action Tuesday night.

It was the first win in league play for Canyon.

El Dorado remained in first place with a 66-41 win over Esperanza while Fullerton tripped Valencia, 72-55, and La Habra stopped Sonora, 72-57.

Cuero, who had only nine points in the contest, scored on a layup, was fouled, made a free throw, stole the inbound pass and scored another layup to open up the game for Canyon.

El Dorado employing their tough press, exploded in the second and third quarters to coast to the victory. Steve Teacock scored-18 and John Heller tallied 17 to pace the Golden Hawks.

Full court press proved effective for Fullerton also as the Indians outscored Valencia, 20-8 in the second quarter en route to their victory. Roger Childs had 22 and Hoby Brenner scored 17 for Fullerton.

Pro Bowl And Then The Japan Bowl

Lest you fear they have removed football from your way of life, do not despair. There is more.

An affair entitled the Pro Bowl will next appear on your television screen on Monday night featuring the final talking contest between Frank Gifford and the two wearers of the cap and bells.

The Pro Bowl is a game played between those members of the National Football Conference who can be rounded up and whatever collection of American Conference guys that can be brought to gaff. This classic will be conducted in the enclosed arena at Seattle where it is a sellout.

In their first year as pro football subjects, the Seattle clients were required to purchase Pro Bowl seats in a package with season tickets. Don Andersen, a member of the Seahawks' executive family, dismisses any suggestion there was a squeeze involved.

Shed The Dread

At any rate, shed the dread of football being removed from your weekly TV calendar. In addition to the Pro Bowl thing, several 1976 highlight shows are scheduled to appear during the upcoming year.

Furthermore, one airline is featuring a replay of Super Bowl XI on flights between the West Coast and New York. Another offers the NFL playoff games between here and Detroit and a third carrier is showing regular season games during flights to Chicago.

Presumbably, between here and Sacramento you can get the pre-season exhibition games.

Anyway, the good news is that we shall not be required to endure cold turkey in the matter of getting off football. As outlined above, we are being permitted to withdraw gradually much in the manner of the clinic which removes your smoking habit in 16 days.

You will note that all of the above involves professional football but the college people are contributing in no insignificant way. The colleges brought us up to Super weekend with the Hula Bowl and Senior Bowl, which would seem to be consideration enough but we still won't be left dangling.

Upcoming is the Japan Bowl which will be played, fittingly enough, in Tokyo. It will feature much of the cast from the Hula Bowl and, hopefully, one important rule change. That is, it is to be hoped the player of the game committee will not vote until as least halftime.

Reports from Japan indicate a tremendous interest in the game and a brisk ticket sale which is sufficient to warm the cockles of the hearts of those of us on these shores. I mean, if the Japanese gave us transistor radios and portable television, the least we can do is show them Ricky Bell and Tony Dorsett.

The greatest single contributor to this gridiron gesture to Japan is the University of Southern California. Besides Bell, the Trojans will be represented by Vince Evans, Gary Jeter, Marvin Powell and Sheldon Diggs.

Then too, USC is sending six song girls to perform on the sidelines during the playing of the Japan Bowl. There is nothing intentional but this figures to add to the confusion of the audience which will not be all that familiar with the formations of American football.

The Japanese crowd will somehow have to figure out that college song girls do not sing. They dance. At least, they jump up and down when the band strikes up the music.

One-String Guitar

Of course, there is to be some difficulty experienced by the song girls. They will quite likely find it awkward dancing to the music of a one-stringed guitar.

But the entire thing is in the spirit of good fellowship and it figures to be enjoyed by the people of Japan, not to mention those of us here at home suffering the pains of football withdrawal.

At that, it won't be easy. We will not see college football again for nearly five months.

South Coast Race Looks Wide Open

"Every team has to be optimistic. That's normal thinking. There's something wrong if they don't think that way."

That's Gene Victor, the dean of South Coast Conference basketball coaches talking, and clear indication the coach at Mt. San Antonio College hasn't lost any vim or vigor going into his 19th campaign with the Mounties.

Victor's remarks also signal the start of another heated South Coast pennant chase, one he believes will be a wide open race between four or five teams.

Tonight's opening volley looms particularly crucial because of the predicted balanced race.

Defending co-champions Santa Ana and Mt. Sac tangle on the Mountaineer court while Cerritos visits Grossmont and San Diego Mesa travels to Fullerton. Orange Coast draws an opening bye.

Victor believes his Mounties will be facing two of the South Coast's toughest entries back-to-back tonight and Saturday night when Grossmont visits Mt. Sac.

"Grossmont may be the best team. They are eight or nine deep with experienced veterans. Obviously, they have the most depth," Victor explains.

"Santa Ana has fine talent. They have the best player in the state in Steve Smith, plus other very talented people," he continued.

Victor hopes to have two of his key starters 100 per cent healthy for the battle with the Dons. Soph guard Dick Rockwood sprained an ankle more than a week ago and soph newcomer Earner Mays also is coming off an ankle sprain.

Santa Ana coach Rolland Todd has his Dons primed for a fast start toward another South Coast title, but the abundance of new faces in his lineup have made him restrict his optimism until he sees them perform in conference action.

Much of Santa Ana's success will ride on the artistry of sophomore guard Steve Smith who is averaging 25.9 points per game. Blended with newcomers Sylvester Pritchett, Dave Nelson, Steve Hair, Kevin Williams, Ricky Patterson, Tom Clark and Reggie Traylor plus lettermen George Curington and Sean Reily, the Dons produced a 12-6 pre-conference record. Mt. Sac was 11-6.

One of the key matchups to watch will be Smith vs. Mt. Sac's stellar freshman guard Robert Vigil from Puerto Rico, already regarded as one of the best JC players in California.

Coach Ezra Van Horn hopes his Fullerton club can get off to a fast start against San Diego Mesa after the Hornets blew hot and cold in conference warmups, finishing with a 4-10 mark.

Lack of depth may hurt Fullerton although the Hornets have good experience in lettermen Randy Rozar, John Condie, Jeff Weber and Jesse Wallace.

Coach Bob Foerster will start five freshmen in the Cerritos lineup, going into its opening crucial at Grossmont with an 11-6 record.

NEXT GAMES

Four teams scored opening wins and two of them are matched tonight at 8 as Mission Conference basketball teams settle into their Wednesday-Saturday night routine.

Citrus College (1-0) ventures south to San Marcos to face Palomar (1-0) in the first upper division confrontation.

Saddleback College (1-0) travels to San Diego City College (0-1) while Riverside (1-0) hosts Chaffey (0-1) and San Bernardino (0-1) visits Southwestern (0-1).

"Palomar is in the top half of the teams in the conference this year, and playing down there will be even more difficult for us," said Edwards, whose team is off to its best start in 11 years. "The win Saturday will help us go into that game with a little more confidence." The Owls crossed the 100-point mark for the first time since 1971 in the victory.

Citrus visits Chaffey on Saturday night and Edwards warns that the Panthers can't be taken lightly despite their overall 2-15 record. "They've picked up a 6-6 postman from UC Riverside, and they now have five starting players which will give every team in the conference a tough go," he predicted.

Mulligan and the Gauchos will try to avoid looking past San Diego to Saturday night's battle with Palomar in Saddleback's first conference home game. "It's always tough to win in San Diego," warned Mulligan.

The Gaucho coach is hoping for another offensive blitz his team delivered in the opener which produced a 106-95 win over San Bernardino. Soph forward Dennis Smith triggered the blast with a 31-point effort.

Riverside coach Dave Waxman isn't taking any chances against Chaffey. "Consistency is the key," he said. "How we do against the non-contenders will determine how we do in the conference race."

St. Michael's Battles 5 OT Periods—Wins

St. Michael's High (Orange) didn't play its first basketball game of the season until Tuesday and apparently the players liked the game so much that it took them five overtimes to subdue Los Pinos, 66-60, in Pinon League action at the Laguna Boys' Club.

The contest was tied at 45-45 at the end of regulation with each team scoring three, two, two and six points in the overtime periods before the Pioneers outscored Los Pinos 8-2 in the fifth overtime. It is the longest varsity basketball game of the year in the county.

Richard Martinez, who had 10 of his 14 points in overtime, scored on a 17-foot jumper with nine seconds left in the third overtime and scored two more points on a missed free throw with eight seconds left in the same period to keep the game alive.

Los Pinos, which had 41 fouls, had eight players foul out in the game and played two minutes of the fourth overtime and the entire fifth overtime with only four players.

Tom Detar led St. Michaels with 27 points, hitting on 21 of 37 free throws.

Los Pinos 9 15 8 13 3 2 2 6 2—60

Namath Through In N.Y., Knows It

LOS ANGELES – News Item: Namath Opts For Rams

Now isn't that nice of him? Joey Baby makes it sound as though he is calling the shots. He goes on the Carson Show and says he'll play next season in Los Angeles or not at all. You tell 'em, Joey Baby.

In the real world of football, not on the boob tube, Joe Namath is a has been, a usta was. I know that sounds callous, but it is true, and he really has no basis for going around and making it sound as though he is issuing ultimatums to the NFL. There really are very few teams that want him, and one of them is not the New York Jets.

If you want the cold, unadulterated fact of it, Joe Namath has been fired. He has been told to make a deal for himself. Or his agent has been told to make a deal for himself, which is the modern-day equivalent. The deal for himself is that somebody else will take him, please, for nothing. Just make him happy, pay him his exaggerated salary, so that the Jets can unload him without looking like big, bad ingrates. No muss, no fuss, no bother. It has been nice, Joe. Breaking up is so very hard to do.

Why Not Denver?

There are some teams who don't have a quarterback as good as what's left of Joe Namath. Denver for one. But Joe Namath doesn't care to play football in Denver. He doesn't care even to ski in Denver, or date in Denver. Denver is not his style. Los Angeles is. Chasen's is. Gatsby's is. Scandia is.

But Los Angeles, the football team, isn't so sure it wants Namath. Don Klosterman doesn't feel that Joey Baby can do that much for the ballclub, which is already the best in the NFC West. But Don Klosterman doesn't own the Rams. He is the general manager, and he must submit to the whims of Carroll Rosenbloom, the proprietor. Carroll Rosenbloom knows, too, that Joe Namath can't do much for his ballclub, but the thought of walking into Chasen's with Joey Baby on his arm, or Gatsby's, or Scandia, tickles Carroll Rosenbloom, just as it tickled Sonny Werblin 10 years ago.

Carroll Rosenbloom must decide whether that is worth $450,000 a year. Even in Hollywood, he can get an exciting escort for less than that.

NEWS ITEM: NFL Players' Union Optimistic.

For the first time, say the football players, they are in a strong bargaining position. For the first time, they have something to offer that the owners dearly want. That something is the college draft.

It doesn't seem to matter that the present members don't own the thing they are offering to the owners. In this time of distorted juris prudence, it is quite possible to sell somebody the Brooklyn Bridge.

The courts have declared that the NFL draft of college players, in existence for some 40 years, is illegal. It violates, they say, the rights of the young men coming out of college by dictating which club each young man shall go to.

Okay, let us say that sounds reasonable. An owner cannot deprive a potential player of his free choice of a team.

But a union can? The union can sit down with the NFL owners and come to some sort of agreement on a draft of future collegians, for all time?

This is what is happening. The NFL players union, trying to nail down a contract that has eluded it for three years now, will barter the signing rights of some kids in college right now, in high school, in diapers, for bigger and better pensions, bigger and better meal money, bigger and better broads in training camp.

NCAA Tables Controversial Reorganization

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP) – The National Collegiate Athletic Association tabled its controversial reorganization plan Tuesday, thus erasing in 10 minutes a proposal which was in the works for almost a year.

The action as the annual NCAA business session got under way was a victory for many big-time basketball schools, especially those without Division I football programs.

Under the plan, a school would have had to field teams in at least eight varsity sports, including football and basketball, and maintain performance standards in all eight sports to keep their Division I standing.

The move to table the issue came at the request of Peter A. Carlesimo, athletic director at Fordham University. He had the support of many schools in the Eastern College Athletic Conference, the NCAA's largest allied member.

"We gambled and won," Carlesimo said. "We made the decision at the last minute. Originally we intended to let the discussion on reorganization take place and let confusion set in. But then we realized that people who didn't want to be counted in any roll-call vote on reorganization didn't mind a show-of-hands vote to table the issue."

Division I schools such as the University of San Francisco, Marquette and Providence have highly ranked basketball teams but do not play varsity football. Another Top Twenty basketball school, Nevada-Las Vegas, is classified Division II in football.

"We know some form of reorganization must come about, but this isn't it," Carlesimo said. "Let them go back and include the basketball schools."

J. Neils Thompson of the University of Texas, a member of the policy-making NCAA Council which sponsored the reorganization plan and chairman of the Division I Steering Committee which formulated it, said there was general agreement that some form of reclassification is needed.

"It's absolutely imperative that the NCAA reorganize," he said. "It's obvious something has to be done. The vote was a victory for a combined coalition of basketball schools and those institutions who didn't feel the plan was restrictive enough. Maybe we tried to bite off too much at one time."

Pacifica Booters Edge Argonauts

Raiders' Guy Raps Payoff At Pro Bowl

SAN DIEGO (AP) – Punter Ray Guy of the Oakland Raiders said Tuesday that the $2,000 he gets for the 1977 Pro Bowl game is too little. But he declined to suggest a more appropriate payoff.

"The money means something, obviously, but it should be more," said Guy as he and the rest of the nation's professional football stars began their drills in San Diego.

"If a player got hurt and ended his career in the Pro Bowl, $2,000 doesn't seem like very much at all."

The Raiders were having trouble unwinding from the euphoria of Sunday's 32-14 victory over the Minnesota Vikings, but Guy said in an interview that next Monday night's contest at Seattle "is strictly anticlimatic."

The Pro Bowl, he said, "is not a real physical game. I'm much more relaxed than I was last week." For that victory in the Rose Bowl, the Raiders earned $20,000 apiece.

A pair of hour-long workouts were staged in sunny, 63-degree weather at San Diego Stadium by 40-man squads representing the American and National football conferences of the National Football League.

Seven players were replaced, usually because of injury.

As quarterbacks, the spots given Ken Stabler of Oakland and Fran Tarkenton of Minnesota will be filled by Ken Anderson of Cincinnati and Jim Hart of St. Louis.

Linebacker Chris Hanburger of the Washington Redskins also was out, along with Alan Page of Minnesota and running backs Chuck Foreman of Minnesota and Franco Harris of the Steelers.

The other replacements included Mike Thomas of the Redskins, Larry Brooks of the Rams, Dave Washington of the San Francisco 49ers and Otis Armstrong of Denver.

A spokesman erroneously reported earlier that O. J. Simpson of the Buffalo Bills instead of Harris would be replaced by Armstrong but Tuesday said Simpson was only delayed a few days because of a movie-making venture.

Proposed Blocking Rule Hits Storm

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP) – The nation's football coaches recommended Tuesday to outlaw almost all blocking below the waist but the suggestion immediately ran into a storm of opposition.

At the same time, the rules committee of the American Football Coaches Association sent to the National Collegiate Athletic Association's Rules Committee a recommendation to adopt a professional rule and return all missed field goals from outside the 20-yard line to the spot of the kick.

The present rule makes any unsuccessful field goal that crosses the goal line another touchback, with the ball brought out to the 20.

The blocking recommendation was opposed by such well-known coaches as Barry Switzer of Oklahoma, Bill Yeoman of Houston, Ben Martin of the Air Force Academy. Carmen Cozza of Yale and Eddie Robinson of Grambling.

"We run the Wishbone and we teach the halfback coming out of the backfield to roll block at the legs," Switzer said.

Martin said "a multitude of techniques would have to be relearned."

Current rules permit below-the-waist blocking in the legal clipping zone and on all plays except scrimmage kicks. The legal clipping zone extends 15 yards on either side of the ball and one yard deep on either side of the line of scrimmage.

A concern over injuries on blindside blocks was the reason such blocking was prohibited on scrimmage kicks but Yeoman, in voicing opposition to the latest suggestion, said such the number of injuries caused by such blocking on other plays was "infinitesimal."

Other recommendations by the AFCA Rules Committee include:

– Offensive pass interference in the end zone should not be a loss of possession.

– Reducing all 15-yard penalties to 10 yards, except personal fouls.

– Permitting a 25-second clock to reduce the number of delay of game penalties. College teams are allowed 25 seconds between plays.

The NCAA Rules Committee, which has the final say on football rules, meets next week in Fort Lauderdale, Fla.

Angel Players At UCI Golf

Frank Tanana, Andy Etchebarren and Terry Humphrey of the Angel's are among the early sports celebrities already signed up for the 10th annual UC Irvine Invitational Golf Tournament to benefit the school's athletic scholarship fund.

It is scheduled for Feb. 7 with about 150 expected to participate at Irvine Coast Country Club.

Entry fee is $75 with an awards dinner to follow the tourney. Members of the sponsoring Big I boosters group can play in the 18-hole event for a $60 fee.

Angels Look To Cuellar

By CHUCK ABAIR

With Rick Monday no longer available after finally being obtained by the Dodgers, Angels' general manager Harry Dalton can concentrate on adding batterymen to go with his vastly improved lineup.

He admitted Tuesday he is talking to old Mike Cuellar about filling a club need for a lefthanded pitcher while still trying to sign ace starters Frank Tanana and Nolan Ryan and find a lefthand-hitting catcher.

Dalton currently has signed pacts from 16 of the 39 Halos.

"We would like to bring Cuellar to camp," says Dalton about the cagey Cuban he once obtained from Houston in one of Baltimore's greatest trades.

"He is 6-3 in winter ball but at 39 you wonder about a guy. Mike was one of the most knowledgeable pitchers in the American League and never did rely on his fastball much anyway. Maybe his age has caught up to him.

"Cuellar has an excellent move to first base and we're short on lefthanders anyway. We're thinking of him possibly for long relief or as a spot starter. Texas is also interested."

Cuellar, who drew his release after eight seasons with the Orioles and 11 in the majors went from 8-11 with Houston to 23-11, 24-8 and 20-9 with the Birds. Then he won 18 twice and had a 22-10 year before tailing off. Besides a 182-116 major league mark that included 139-75 at Baltimore through 1975, he was 2-2 in the World Series and 2-2 in playoffs.

His favorite opponent with Baltimore (15-4, 2.03) until the 1976 collapse had been the Angels.

"Most of the pitchers are unsigned, but we're close on some of them," explains Dalton. "The catching market is very cool right now. It seems like everyone is waiting until spring camp to see what they have.

"I think six to eight clubs will be making deals then. Right now knowing who you can sign is almost as important as your needs.

"It's worth going to a multi-year contract with the established guys, but not a player who did well one year, because there is no protection for sub par play."

He is currently talking to Ryan personally and Tanana's agent. Solid second baseman Jerry Remy is among those not in the fold, while he claims to be "close" on third basemen Dave Chalk and Ron Jackson and has not heard from some players who are away playing winter ball.

"I think more players should do like Ryan and negotiate on their own," states Dalton. "They might get a better contract without paying an agent. The players with agents are usually not involved at all.

"Three or four years ago we had three players represented by agents and now we have 22."

"We used to negotiate on performance and now it is on their availability to you and their desire to be with you. Baseball approved for the first time some incentive clauses, but then the executive council suspended it."

Dalton revealed minor league director Tom Sommers is handling the contract talks with "eight or 10 of the younger guys because he is more familiar with them and their backgrounds."

Broncos Tune Up With 99-84 Win

POMONA – Cal Poly-Pomona tuned up for the start of conference play in a big way Tuesday night, romping over Pt. Loma 99-84 in the Cal Poly gym.

Jack Gamulian, leading scorer for Cal Poly on the season, was high man Tuesday with 21 points. Don Johnson added 20 and was the leading rebounder for Broncos with 11.

Cal Poly open CCAA play Friday visiting UC Riverside for an 8 p.m. game.

PT. LOMA (84) – Hanley 19, Elliott 7, Owens 23, Armstrong 11, Robinson 7, Balikian 13, Burliason 4.
CAL POLY (99) – Gamulian 21, Randolph 16, D. Johnson 20, C. Johnson 8, Ispis 6, Hunter 3, Bernhard 7, Weisse 10, Webb 6, Hardin 2.
Halftime: Cal Poly 48, Pt. Loma 41

Front-running Fabled Gun led every step of the way in Santa Anita's featured Old English Rancho Purse Tuesday before 17,581 startled spectators to register a $101,800 shocker in his 1977 debut.

The triumph in the one-mile event, timed in 1.35 4/5, marked seasonal first for 23-year-old jockey Pat Day and native Floridian Rose-Mary (Pinkie) Henderson, who are each competing in their first Santa Anita campaigns.

The five-year-old son of Gunflint, which had run in claiming races throughout most of last year in Florida, never looked back against his six rivals en route to becoming the meeting's fourth mutuel return worth $100 or better.

In his wake was 1975 Santa Anita Handicap winner Stardust Mel, making his second start after a year's respite and favored Bahia Key. Neither could ever manage to get closer than one length from the speedster, which reeled off fractions of 22 4/5, 46 1/5 and 1.10 2/5 en route.

Leading rider Laffit Pincay, placed his immediate future in doubt after he was disqualified aboard Rajab in the day's seventh race for stretch interference. Pincay, holding a comfortable 10-winner bulge over his nearest rivals after a double for the afternoon, may face the possibility of a five-day suspension as the result of the outcome.

Santa Anita stewards will review the films of the race before making a ruling, if any, tomorrow afternoon.

'Kindergarten' Deadline Near

Nominations to the richest horse race in California quarter-horse history, the $300,000 Kindergarten Stakes, close Saturday at Los Alamitos with foals of 1976 eligible for the 400-yard race that will have its first running in 1978.

The new kindergarten format requires that yearlings pay the intial fee to the Los Alamitos racing office either in person or be postmarked by Jan. 15.

Expected to reach a purse figure as high as $300,000, the Kindergarten also has a pair of unique late supplementary payments one after all of 1977's major quarter horse yearling sales in November and another on the day entries to the Kindergarten trials are taken in the summer of 1978.

No date has yet been set for the race or trials but racing secretary Donald Smith has indicated it will not conflict with any other major two-year-old quarter horse event anywhere in the country.

Nominations to the $25,000-added Las Damas Handicap for fillies and mares close Thursday at midnight.

The 400-yard Las Damas, which serves as a final warmup to the $50,000 HQHRA Championship for many of the season's distaff stars, will be run Jan.22.

Huskies Upset Pasadena

PASADENA – Mark Robinson hit 27 points for Pasadena City College Tuesday night, but it was not enough to overcome East Los Angeles College's upset-minded Huskies who pulled out an exciting 82-81 victory in their Metropolitan Conference opener.

Pasadena held a 39-35 halftime edge, then watched the Huskies go to work in the second half with Bobby Jones pouring in 20 of his 22 points after intermission.

PASADENA (81) – Pickens 4, Morgan 1, Robinson 27, Ewing 16, Brown 8, Muse 4, Davis 18, Sprien 3.
Halftime: Pasadena 39, East LA 35.
Fouled out: Pickens, Morgan, Davis.

Clearing The Air

READERS' POST-TIME:

"I would like to know the difference between a stakes race, a claiming race or a handicap." – Fred J. Phillips, Long Beach.

A stakes race is one where the owners of horses entered or engaged for the race contribute to the purse for which any other prize money may be added.

A claiming race is one in which any horse entered therein may be claimed in conformity with the rules established by the racing board.

A handicap is a race in which the weights to be carried by the entered horses are alotted by a handicapper or a board of handicappers for the purpose of equalizing their respective chances of winning.

"I have noticed that a horse now racing at Los Alamitos is named Lovely Louise. Is there any chance this horse is named for Lucky Louise who makes selections in your newspapers?" — Arlene Watson, Arcadia.

Indirectly I guess Lovely Louise is named for her. The three-year-old filly is out of the thoroughbred mare, Louise's Acres which had been named for Lucky Louise.

Louise's Acres was the last foal of the race mare named Louise Mason, which had been named for Lucky Louise. Louise Mason, a daughter of Count Fleet–Kinfolks, has thrown nothing but winners during her career as a broodmare.

Incidently, this is the first quarter-horse named for Louise. Quite a few thoroughbreds have been named for her. Two consistent winners named for her were Sweet as Louise and Louisador, which have since been retired as broodmares.

There is one thing in common that Lovely Louise has with others that are blood relatives to the thoroughbred mare, Louise Mason, which recently died from a fatal accident in the pastures. They all were able to win first-out in their racing debuts.

"There has been so much pro and con on inbreeding that I don't know what to believe. Actually how many generations removed do you consider breeding to be inbreeding?" – Larry Grohman, Santa Ana.

I don't really understand all the pros and cons of inbreeding. I have seen many stakes performers that were said to be inbred. Personally, as I understand it, a horse that is inbred is one that is developed from related parents. Inbreeding is when both the sire and the dam are related within three generations.

The main thing against inbreeding is that when you have a mare and that mare is bad, and if that mare was out of a bad mare, you won't get good racers. That fact has been proven many times. You are playing the roulette of the chromosomes, and when you carry the chromosomes which are bad, you tend to get them if you use animals which are close relations.

Most Exciting Moment In Sports? Big Fight Or Olympics?

By WILL GRIMSLEY

PASADENA, Calif. (AP) – As the Oakland Raiders and Minnesota Vikings lined up for Super Bowl XI, in a magnificent Rose Bowl setting with the snow-capped San Gabriel Mountains as a backdrop, a reporter in the press box could not restrain his enthusiasm.

"This must be the most exciting moment in all sports," he remarked.

Three seats away, a weather-beaten old codger who must have lugged countless typewriters up untold press box steps for numerous events of various description, overheard and demurred.

The impromptu dialogue set off a lively discussion among newsmen, even as the game progressed, on what creates the fastest pulse beat among a calloused breed not easily impressed.

The consensus: No sports event creates sparks to match those that occur moments before two outstanding heavyweights enter the ring for a title fight. At the same time, it was agreed, there is no general sports spectacle that can bring lumps into the throats of strong men like the opening and closing pageantry of an Olympic Games.

"The tension before the first Muhammad Ali-Joe Frazier fight ... I can think of nothing in my lifetime to match it," a fiftyish man observed. "I am sure it must have been the same when Dempsey went against Tunney, Louis against Schmeling, Rocky Marciano against Jersey Joe Walcott."

Another interposed, "It was pretty exciting when Ali fought George Foreman in Zaire and Frazier the third time in Manila."

A man from New Orleans again steered the conversation away from the year's premier pro football extravaganza.

"I've never been moved by anything as much as at Belmont in 1973 when Secretariat turned into the home stretch with a 31-length lead for his Triple Crown," he said. "The press box was so stunned there wasn't a sound for several seconds. Then came this deafening roar."

Everybody agreed that Secretariat's unbelievable victory at Belmont should be placed high in the list of all-time sports thrillers.

A championship pro football game, with all its attendant fanfare, can be exciting. At the same time, it can be a dud–as in the case of most Super Bowls where teams have been overly cautious.

Oakland's easy victory over Minnesota did not fall into that category. The overpowering dominance by the Raiders was enough to stir the most cynical soul.

The Super Bowl, by its very nature, isn't able to produce the warm, personal attachment that comes from a baseball World Series or, for that matter, a Masters golf tournament.

In baseball, one can walk down on the field before a game, talk to Johnny Bench at the batting cage and duck one of Catfish Hunter's warmup pitches.

Baseball players become living, breathing characters – even to the millions watching on TV. Viewers see Luis Tiant chew, spit and exude large beads of sweat. They see a batter's muscles tense up and his eyes scan an outfield wall. They share the emotion.

Football players are held in isolation. On the field, their faces are covered with helmets and masks. Their emotion isn't seen. They become little more than pawns on a plastic board.

In golf, you can walk out on the course and talk to the player. In tennis, you can almost touch the tension when Jimmy Connors whales into a two-fisted backhand shot. The football player is a man with a number.

Shed a tear when they play "My Old Kentucky Home" at the Derby or choke a bit when the band blares out "Back in Indiana" at the Indy 500. There's enough sentiment to go around.

Clearing The Hair Spray Hurdle

The fluorocarbon scare "forced us into a better spray," said Richard G. Spiegel, president of La Maur.

The fluorocarbon controversy centers on the contention of some scientists that fluorocarbon used in many aerosol sprays reacts with the ozone layer around the world and would deteriorate the layer allowing more cosmic radiation into the lower atmosphere.

La Maur manufacturers several hair spray products including Style which is marketed through Southland supermarkets and drug stores.

Spiegel was in Orange County Tuesday and explained the trauma the company experienced with the announcement of the fluorocarbon difficulty and also the economic problems which took place in 1974 – the year he was named president of the firm.

La Maur markets hair care items through beauty salons under the name La Maur. Spiegel said the company is on a campaign to increase the retail sales of La Maur products through beauty salons.

"Our goal is to become number two in that field. We are presently in third place behind the leader Redken which is followed by Helene Curtis, he said.

He expects to pass Helene Curtissoon. His company's 400 employe work force includes 125 field people. He plans to beef up the field force to work with various accounts to meet the goal.

Presently La Maur markets through about 600 out of the 180,000 beauty salons throughout the country. He aims to increase the number of outlets selling his firm's products to 18,000.

The company Spiegel heads was founded by his father in the early thirties. It struggled for many years and faced many of the financial problems that all struggling firm's endure.

He said there were times in the early years of the company that bills were behind as much as six months.

They had to resort to factoring accounts receivable to finance operation. "We paid 12 and 13 per cent when the bank was lending money at two and three per cent.

"But because of our payment record, the bank wouldn't lend us funds," he said.

This is why the firm is in a debt free situation and today actually is a lender of funds, he said.

Asked how come he followed in his father's footsteps in these days when many sons refuse to go into the family business, Spiegel responded. "There is always something going on. There are new markets and new ways of doing things."

His enthusiasm was evident when he talked about research and development of new products, the push to increase sales through beauty salons and the prospect of a good year ahead.

The far western states are the strongest market for his products followed by the southeast. "You can hardly find our product on the shelves of stores in the northeast," he said.

Spiegel said earnings were up 38 per cent for the past nine months.

Ships Blacklist Advised To Halt Tanker Mishap

WASHINGTON, D.C. – (BW) – The American Petroleum Institute (API) recommended Tuesday the U. S. Coast Guard attempt to cut down on oil tanker mishaps by regularly preparing a list of ocean-going vessels which fail to meet Coast Guard standards.

"We also recommend," said a statement issued by API president Frank N. Ikard, "That vessels appearing on this list be informed by the Coast Guard that they will not be allowed to operate in U.S. waters to deliver cargoes to U.S. ports until specific remedial measures have been taken to qualify the vessels."

Ikard said the API "deplores the recent tanker incidents and is greatly disturbed by the loss of life, property damage and pollution caused by them."

The statement urged that Congress promptly approve the National Oil Spill Compensation & Liability Fund Act which would be funded by a tax on the oil for this purpose.

This fund, which the API has strongly supported, would pay for oil spill damages in U.S. waters from any source after the exhaustion of the spillers' legal liability and other compensation funds.

The statement urged that there be uniform international standards of training for shipboard personnel; that there be minimum standards for required navigational equipment and that more use be made of vessel traffic systems in harbors, and traffic separation lanes for congested areas.

In addition, the statement advocated that Congress promptly ratify international conventions dealing with maritime pollution control and damage liabilities.

Oklahoma Drilling Highest In 15 Yrs.

TULSA, Okla. (AP) – Oil and gas drilling in Oklahoma is at the highest level in 15 years, Hughes Tool Co. reported to the International Association of Drilling Contractors today.

The state had 233 rigs active this week, the highest since Jan. 1, 1962, when 1,887 were active. The number a week ago was 206.

Container Prices Hiked

TOLEDO, Ohio – (BW) – The plastic products division of Owens-Illinois Inc. Tuesday said it will increase prices on plastic containers made of polyethylene, polypropylene and polystyrene by 4 to 6 per cent, effective Feb. 15.

William J. Graham, vice president of Owens-Illinois and general manager of the plastic products division, said the price increase is necessary because of continuing cost increases in labor, energy and general operating costs since its last price increase in April 1976.

Coffee Futures Jump Following 4-Day Decline

Traders were shaking their heads over the sudden turn of events following several days of price declines in London and New York, attributed by some to adverse consumer reaction to high retail prices.

The exchange's March contract has no limits on price movement and had fallen 24½ cents a pound over four days of trading. But on Tuesday the contract rebounded more than 16 cents to close at $2.1425 a pound.

"You have to be a little crazy to jump into a market where you are getting 600-point swings up and down all day long," said one New York trader. One point is market language for one cent.

During a five-minute telephone conversation with the trader, the contract for delivery of green coffee this March had gained nearly two cents a pound, or $750 per 37,500-pound contract.

"The people who sold contracts short Monday thinking the price rise was all over are now the ones who are going to spend a sleepless night," the trader said. "This dog isn't dead yet."

Other coffee futures contracts traded on the New York exchange are prevented from such erratic fluctuations by movement limits of 4 cents in either direction.

More Layoffs Hit Philadelphia Area

PHILADELPHIA (AP) – Two more Philadelphia area firms have announced job layoffs, increasing the number of workers idled by recent industrial cutbacks in the Delaware Valley to 2,200.

The latest layoffs, which will affect 650 persons, involve a Westinghouse Electric Co. plant in suburban Delaware County and a Mobil Oil Corp. office here.

A Westinghouse spokesman said Monday 329 workers will be laid off indefinitely from the plant in Lester.

Loan Agreement

FAIRBANKS, Alaska – (BW) – Alaska International Industries Inc. Tuesday reported it has entered into a loan agreement to borrow $23 million from a group of banks led by Seattle-First National Bank, and additionally comprised of Bank of America NT&SA and Wells Fargo Bank, N.A.

NEW V.P. — Donald E. Kueny, of Fountain Valley, has been made vice president of Heritage Insurance Service, Inc., Fullerton.

Garrett Corp. Awarded French Aviation Pact

LOS ANGELES – (BW) – Garrett Corp., one of the Signal Companies, Los Angeles, Tuesday said it has received a contract valued in excess of $82 million from the French firm of Avions Marcel Dassault-Breguet Aviation for ATF3-6 turbofan aircraft engines.

The contract became effective with the signing of a contract between the U.S. Coast Guard and Falcon Jet Corp. of Teeterboro, N.J., and Little Rock, Ark., for the delivery of 41 Falcon 20Gs for Coast Guard use as a medium-range surveillance aircraft.

The Coast Guard aircraft are based on a French design. They will be assembled in the United States and will use other U.S. subsystems and components in addition to the engines.

In addition to the Coast Guard aircraft, the ATF3 will power Falcon 20G aircraft to be produced for other customers and for retrofit of existing Falcon 20s.

Bank Merger Accord

OAKLAND. – (BW) – The directors of Central Bank and Peninsula National Bank Tuesday reported they have entered into an agreement for the purchase of assets and assumption of specified liablilities of Peninsula National Bank by Central Bank. The agreement is subject to shareholder and regulatory approvals.

Spending Spree Scheduled By Union Pacific

OMAHA, Neb. (AP) – The Union Pacific Railroad said Tuesday it plans to spend a record $246.7 million for capital improvements this year, up more than $91 million from the 1976 figure of $155.1 million.

UP President John C. Kenefick said the program includes a previously announced $160 million for new rolling stock consisting of 90 locomotives, 3,079 freight cars, 200 ballast cars and 315 racks.

Also included is another $10 million for miscellaneous work equipment and $76 million for road and fixed plant improvements.

Major items on the road and fixed plant schedule for 1977 include laying 350 miles of new continuous welded rail, installation of 875,000 cross ties, construction of 115 miles of centralized traffic control signaling on mainline trackage and continued construction of a major new 32-track automated freight classification yard at Hinkle, Ore., Kenefick said.

He said the program reflects the railroad's confidence in the continued strength of business activity in its operating territory.

Beatrice Foods, Harman Conduct Merger Talks

NEW YORK (AP) – Beatrice Foods Co. of Chicago and Harman International Industries Inc. of Lake Success, N.Y., say they are discussing merging Harman into Beatrice.

Merger terms were not disclosed in Monday's announcement.

Beatrice, with 1975 sales of $4.69 billion and net income of $153.1 billion, is a diversified producer of food products, trailers, mobile homes, luggage and other products.

Harman, with 1975 sales of $104.17 million and net income of $6.17 million, makes high-fidelity sound equipment, automobile parts and components for aircraft engines.

4 More Firms Approved To Carry Data Overseas

The Register
BUSINESS-FINANCE

WASHINGTON (AP) – Four American-based companies were authorized by the Federal Communications Commission on Tuesday to provide improved data communications services to overseas points.

The FCC said the proposals it approved were in response to a fast-growng need for overseas data communications services that are not now being met by existing carrier service offerings.

Existing data transmission services offered by the international carriers include alternate voice-data or private line, datel service and telex service.

But the commission said these are not cost-efficient for many users and do not have the inherent capability to provide transmission services between incompatible terminals.

The four applications approved are Graphnet Communications Inc., Telenet Communications Corp., RCA Global Communications Inc. and Western Union International Inc. RCA and Western Union now provide two-way overseas communications as approved international carriers.

It will be the first entry into overseas service by Graphnet and Telenet.

Graphnet's service will be one-way overseas. The authorization will permit its subscribers in the United States to input information from vitually any terminal source through interconnection with foreign networks.

It will feed the information to receiving facsimile terminal devices in Belgium, Denmark, France, Italy, The Netherlands, Norway, Spain, Sweden, Switzerland, the United Kingdom and West Germany.

Telenet's service is two-way and is authorized to extend its packet-switched data communications service from the United States to the United Kingdom and points beyond.

RCA was given permission to modify its existing authorizations as necessary to use its facilities for an enhanced class of overseas datel service.

WUI was similarily given permission to modify its existing authorization to use previously authorized facilities for the provision of database service.

Datel and database are forms of remote access to computers.

Sundesert Proposal Draws More Fire

EL CENTRO (AP) – Imperial Valley officials say San Diego Gas & Electric's proposed nuclear power transmission corridor is a threat to the county's agriculture and a hindrance to community development.

All but one of the 25 persons appearing before a state Energy Commission hearing in El Centro voiced opposition to the corridor planned to carry power from the $2 billion Sundesert Nuclear Power Plant if it is ever built.

Officials and landowners told the hearing the corridor should be much more to the north than planned by San Diego Gas & Electric.

UAW Board Prefers Fraser

DETROIT (AP) – The United Auto Workers' executive board unanimously recommended Tuesday that Vice President Douglas A. Fraser succeed retiring President Leonard Woodcock in May.

The board also recommended that the 1.4 million member union decide at a special convention in September whether to reaffiliate with the AFL-CIO.

The leadership's support for the 60-year-old Fraser, the only candidate for the presidency, had been expected. However, the plan for a special convention on the question of reaffiliation came as a surprise.

It previously was thought that the UAW, which bolted from the 13.5 million member labor federation in 1968, would rejoin in May to coincide with the formal retirement of Woodcock, a strong advocate of reaffiliation.

Woodcock, 65, who is barred from seeking another term, said at a news conference that the board would ask delegates to the May convention to set up a special one-day session in September to "decide the issue one way or the other."

Woodcock said the period from May to September would be devoted to "a full debate throughout all levels of the union."

Fraser is virtually assured of the presidency of the nation's largest industrial union.

But he still faces two procedural hurdles – endorsement by the national steering committee as the "administrative caucus candidate" in February and formal election at the May convention in Los Angeles.

Fraser, who heads the union's Chrysler Department, is a protege of the late UAW President Walter Reuther and is expected to pursue the progressive-liberal social policies set by Reuther and followed by Woodcock.

Westgate Suit Won By Air Cal Stockholders

SAN DIEGO (AP) — Dr. Clifford Nelson of San Francisco and other minority stockholders of Air California have won a $380,000 settlement of their civil suit against the Westgate-California Corp.

An attorney, Joseph Turner, said Tuesday that $108,000 of the money will go to pay attorneys' fees.

Nelson owned 8,000 shares of Air California when he filed the suit while a proposal to merge Air California with Pacific Southwest Airlines was pending. The merger fell through.

Nelson's suit accused C. Arnholt Smith and other Westgate officials of conspiring to dissipate Air California's assets to their own enrichment.

The suit said Westgate, which Smith founded and headed until he was forced out, controlled 81 per cent of Air California stock before the conglomerate filed for bankruptcy three years ago.

Most Commodities Weaken

CHICAGO (AP) – Farm commodity futures generally closed on weak price levels on the nation's major exchanges Tuesday.

Soybean futures, up 9 cents a bushel the previous session, declined 9 cents under profit taking Tuesday. Soybean meal lost $1.50 a ton while soy oil was down about 1/4 cent a pound. Corn fell back 4-1/4 cents a bushel, while wheat lost 2 and oats 1-1/4. Iced broilers maintained a gain of more than 1/4 cent through most of the session and closed that much higher.

Pork belly futures declined 185 points, while live hogs lost 80 cents per hundredweight. Live cattle were up 35 cents per hundredweight and shell eggs closed with a gain of 165 points. The rise in egg futures was linked with the cold weather and its possible damage to laying flocks.

Heavy snow and cold weather were major factors the previous day for the rise in grain futures prices.The buyers reasoned that more feed grains, soybeans and meal would be used to feed livestock. Despite continuing cold and snow, early trade included much profit taking in the major pits as prices fell. There was some good commercial buying on lower price levels, but not enough to sustain an upward drive.

The early losses were trimmed after midsession, but new selling near the close sent most pits to lows for the day at the final bell.

Two selling factors stood out before the beginning of trade. Export inspections last week of grains were considered constructive on corn, but disappointing for soybeans and wheat. Also, trade sources reported that Brazil might have a soybeans crop some 8 per cent above 1976 this year, possibly 12 million tons, most of it exportable.

As prices in the soybean complex, corn and oats fell, wheat gave way.

At the close of grain trade, soybeans were 4-1/2 to 9 cents a bushel lower, January 7.10-1/2; corn was down 1 to 4-1/4, March 2.63-3/4; wheat fell 1/2 to 2, March 2.81-1/2, and oats lost 1 to 1-1/4, March 1.75.

Live hog futures were firm for a time, with a strong cash market and low numbers at the major yards, but sellers then moved into the futures market with thoughts of increased supplies when the weather improves. Pork bellies lost ground mainly on selling associated with the weak hog futures market.

Live cattle futures rose 75 cents at one time in the session, but selling set in when allied markets weakened. The early demand for cattle was linked with a good cash market and light supplies at the major yards.

Capital Goods Spending Seen Doubling In '77

WASHINGTON (AP) – Growth in the volume of new facilities purchased by businesses this year is expected to double over last year, the government said today.

The Commerce Department based its report on a survey of business leaders in November and December. It represents a strong indication that business may be ready to provide a long-awaited boost to the economy by expanding productive facilities.

Failure of that boost to materialize as expected last year has been considered a major factor in slack economic growth and the resulting increase in unemployment last summer and fall.

Commerce said its survey shows business expects to spend $135 billion for new plant and equipment this year, an increase of 11.3 per cent over last year. The increase would compare to rises of 7.5 per cent last year and three-tenths of 1 per cent in 1975.

After adjusting for expected price increases on capital goods this year and actual price increases in previous years, the department estimated that the actual volume of machinery and other new equipment purchased will climb 6 per cent this year after an increase of 3 per cent last year and a 10 per cent drop in 1975.

The volume of goods purchased is crucial to the general economy because the number of machines put into production determines how many new jobs are likely to be created more precisely than the dollars spent.

And business spending on capital goods – or those used to produce other goods or services – has a double impact on the economy. Increasing productive capacity generally expands the need for workers to man production lines. At the same time, it generates jobs in the industries which produce the capital goods.

The Commerce survey showed the expected increase will be fairly evenly balanced between manufacturing and non-manufacturing industries.

Price Of Bonds Lower At Close

NEW YORK (AP) – Bond prices, which have been under pressure from inflation worries in recent days, closed generally lower again Tuesday in less-active trading.

Dealers said bond prices have suffered from concern over the inflationary implications of the Democrats' proposed $30 billion program to stimulate the economy.

The market also has been hit with a large number of new corporate and tax-exempt bond issues this month. The schedule this week alone lists $1.4 billion of corporate bonds and $625 million of municipal obligations.

In the corporate sector Tuesday, industrials and utilities were off ¼ and rails were unchanged in quiet trading.

Stocks Sharply Lower

NEW YORK (AP) – The stock market skidded to an early-1977 low Tuesday in an hour-long afternoon selloff blamed on Middle East jitters.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrial stocks fell 10.22 to 976.75, erasing the net advance of 8.81 it had posted in the three previous sessions.

Since New Year's the average has dropped 28 points.

The Dow tumbled from minus-4 at 2 p.m. New York time to an 11-point deficit an hour later.

Brokers said the impetus for the drop came from a pair of developments:

–France's release of Abu Daoud, a suspected plotter of the massacre at the 1972 Olympics in Munich. Israel, which had urged that Daoud be held for possible extradition, responded angrily by recalling its ambassador from Paris.

–An assertion by the Egyptian foreign minister, Ismael Fahmy, that his country would be willing to go to war with Israel should Middle East peace efforts not ultimately lead to a settlement.

The market often responds emotionally to Middle East developments, given investors' acute awareness of past troubles in the region and the importance of its oil to industrial nations.

Analysts noted that traders also had some worries in the domestic economic picture.

There was speculation that Wednesday's wholesale price index report by the government might show increased inflationary pressures.

And the first major corporate earnings report for the fourth quarter – issued by International Paper at midday – struck a sour note on Wall Street.

The paper industry giant posted profits of $1.02 a share for the quarter, down from $1.69 in the last three months of 1975.

As of the 4 p.m. NYSE close, International Paper shares showed a loss of 3½ at 62.

Among other paper issues, Union Camp fell 2½ to 60¾ and St. Regis Paper was down 1⅛ at 35¾.

International oil and oil-drilling issues were another notable weak spot. Occidental Petroleum, which has Libyan oil operations, led the active list and fell 1¼ to 24⅛.

Exxon, Mobil, Texaco and Standard Oil of California gave up fractions.

In oil service and drilling issues, Halliburton and Schlumberger posted losses of 2 points or more.

Standard & Poor's index of 400 industrials fell 1.22 to 115.61, and S&P's 500-stock index was down 1.08 at 104.12.

Other readings for the day: the NYSE's composite index, off .54 at 56.34; the American Stock Exchange market value index, down .87 at 110.01, and the NASDAQ composite index of over-the-counter stocks, off .90 at 96.41.

Pound Plunges After NY Rise

Sterling fell nearly two cents to $1.7082 at the close from its opening level of $1.7275, and thus was little changed from Monday's overnight rate of $1.7085.

The pound's gain Monday occurred mainly in the New York market after London's close on news that agreement had been reached late Monday in Basel, Switzerland, to help the British pound. Central bankers from leading industrialized countries set up a $3 billion plan to help Britain cover any withdrawals of official sterling balances held by foreigners in london.

Dealers said profit taking throughout the day gradually eroded the pounds gains. At mid-afternoon, sterling lost almost a cent as a large sale offer from continental Europe, probably from Switzerland, entered the market, dealers said. One dealer said that the large sale offer was apparently the result of an unwinding of a speculative position.

Business Briefs

OMAHA, Neb (AP) The boards of directors of Flavorland Industries Inc., and Foxley and Co. have approved a merger agreement.

Under the agreement, which is to be submitted for stockholder approval in March, Flavorland would become a fully-owned subsidiary of Foxley and Co. and Flavorland's public stockholders would receive $7.50 per share.

Foxley currently owns 85.8 per cent of Flavorland's outstanding stock.

EVER STRIVING FOR SOUTHERN CALIFORNIA TO BE AN EVEN BETTER PLACE TO LIVE

Let Peace Begin With Me

This newspaper is dedicated to furnishing information to our readers so that they can better promote and preserve their own freedom and encourage others to see its blessing. For only when man understands freedom and is free to control himself and all he possesses can he develop to his utmost capabilities.

We believe that all men are equally endowed by their Creator, and not by a government, with the right to take moral action to preserve their life and property and secure more freedom and keep it for themselves and others.

To discharge this responsibility, free men, to the best of their ability, must understand and apply to daily living the great moral guide expressed in the Coveting Commandment.

Prying Into Privacy

Indications are that Congress will make another stab at protecting people's privacy. Every year or so it gets such an afflatus, and it proposes or passes some law designed, in a superficial way, to curb invasions of privacy. And privacy is sundered more every day.

Sundered, cynically enough, by Congress itself. What is taxation but an invasion of privacy? What is the army of safety inspectors sent out of Washington to harass employers but a major assault on privacy authorized by Congress? What are the mountains of paperwork the congressionally mandated federal regulatory agencies impose on business but, yessir, invasions of privacy?

Of course, computer banks, which can do mysterious things with people's employment records and credit ratings, are every "civil libertarian's" hobgoblin, especially if the computers are operated by police agencies. One network correspondent – who probably would not think twice about releasing a purloined document – suggested that Capitol Hill is so bestirred by the rising threat to privacy that some sort of new "regulation" is inevitable.

He didn't bother to ask the ancient question, the paramount question: Who regulates the regulators?

we wish for heaven's sake these self-appointed guardians would get wise to that question next time some government spokesman announces a plan to protect us – else Orwell's nightmare will be ahead of schedule.

There is no reason to suppose a regulatory agency will be incorruptible. In fact, the corruption of such an agency, once overseeing the rest of the government, will be the most difficult to sweep away. Corruption among the regulatory agencies has been a major political theme in recent elections. The issue is transpartisan in origin: everybody from Ralph Nader to Milton Friedman can identify the evil.

The unasked question is why an agency charged with regulating data banks and police powers should be expected to remain exempt from corruption. Such an agency would be an invitation to abuses of the most mammoth sort. It is idle to think the government will police itself when that government yearns and burns for information.

A public fearing full-blown Orwellianism will demand that the question, who regulates the regulators?, be answered before Congress passes any new "protective" legislation.

Besides, if Congress is sincere about restraining invasions of privacy it will show us how sincere by curbing the Internal Revenue Service. We'll see something done about the IRS when peanuts learn to whistle.

Ears To You

Regular readers will be familiar with the ear which each day sits oracle-like on the upper left side of page one. This is the quotation, usually epigrammatic, from some famous or obscure philosopher or – for lack of a better word – statesman. Icebreakers for the morning, you might think of the ears.

Monday we treated readers to this: "The government centralizes its agency whilst it increases its prerogative – hence a twofold increase of strength."

The lines are from Alexis de Tocqueville, the 19th century Frenchman who wrote the classic sociology of America's political institutions, "Democracy in America" – which any freshman government student will have dipped into years ago.

Lo! a man identifying himself as a Fullerton College student, who allowed that he was "educated" and "versatile" and "knowledgeable of Shakespeare," called to question not only our wisdom but Tocqueville's.

"Who is this Toc-a-ville anyway?" the gentleman asked. "A Chicano?"

He then asked if Tocqueville's remark was "sufficient unto the day." That is, did it have any pertinence to our times?

Why, yes, we responded. The government is every day accumulating more power over our daily lives ... In fact, given today's government, there is more trenchancy in Tocqueville's observation than there was in the 1830s.

"But why quote an obscure foreigner?"

We could see where this was going, but we got in one more lick before he told us we'd better know Jesus "before the earth starts shaking and the gas comes up and the rest of it," which was that we here at The Register are not xenophobic and chauvinistic enough to exclude anyone from admission to page one earhood. We might even quote Confucious. He hung up his receiver. Loudly.

But for the benefit of our Shakespearean who demands timely, as opposed to antiquated, quotations, here is one from an all-American contemporary that may one day show up on page one. It is from our friend, the former editor of the Indianapolis News, M. Stanton Evans, a Tocqueville for our times:

"Any nation that can send a man to the moon should be able to abolish the Department of Health, Education and Welfare."

Unionism And Oil Spills

It is always astonishing that the critics of capitalism will support exactly the policies that lead to the crises and despoliation they blame on the market economy. Labor laws, for example.

The recent string of Liberian tanker mishaps that have fouled U.S. territorial waters immeasurably can be laid without much investigation to bad government labor policies.

Simply put, American labor unions, abetted by friends in Congress, have made shipping so costly under the U.S. flag that unsafe foreign vessels are stronger competitors even in our own waters.

The Wall Street Journal computed that, owing to high labor union costs, "it is about three times as expensive to operate a tanker under the U.S. flag as under the Liberian flag. The cost of building a tanker in the U.S. is about double the cost in Japan which in turn doubles insurance costs." Foreign ships do not meet the safety standards the U.S. demands

It is not surprising, the Journal adds, that American ship owners have elected to build and register their vessels under foreign "flags of convenience." A sure connection does not exist between flags of convenience and shipping safety records, but the U.S. maritime unions are prepared to cite the recent spills to a friendly Congress.

President Ford, in 1974, vetoed the cargo preference act, pushed by the maritime unions, which called for a target 30 per cent of all imported oil and oil products to be shipped by private American ships. It would have been an inordinate boon to the unions, and to certain U.S. shipping interests: Mr. Ford rightly sunk it. The unions want the act, or one like it, passed this year.

What's wrong with the government favoring U.S. ships if foreign ships are shoddier? Just this. The cost of the favoritism would be enormous in freight rates to U.S consumers. With favoritism like that, who needs foreign competitors?

Today In History

By The Associated Press

Today is Wednesday Jan 12, the 12th day of 1977. There are 353 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history:

On this date in 1945, German forces were retreating in disorder in the World War II Battle of the Bulge in Belgium.

On this date –

In 1643, Warwick, R.I., was founded by Samuel Gorton after his banishment from the Massachusetts Colony on grounds of heresy.

In 1737, the first signer of the American Declaration of Indpendence, John Hancock, was born in Braintree, Mass.

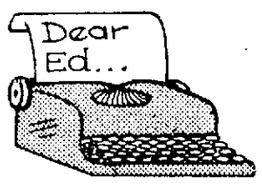

In 1919, the House of Representatives rejected a proposal to give women the right to vote

In 1933, an Arkansas Democrat, Hattie Caraway, became the first elected woman senator.

Up, Up And Away

Westminster City Council members handed themselves a 70 per cent salary raise in December, after deciding on a three per cent pay raise for firemen. I wish that I could raise my social security higher after paying into that fund since 1937.

I am able to work but the law says only to the tune of $3000 in 1977. There was a 6.5 per cent raise in social security payments in 1976.

When the council votes a raise so high, who pays for it. We, the taxpayers. So I say everyone should be at the Jan. 11 Council meeting to try to stop our taxes from going higher.

Victim's Rights

The death penalty is an emotional issue. The increasing frustration I feel personally is that there seems to be no strong voice in our nation crying out for the rights of the victim.

As I read page after page of newspapers the words murder, killing, rape, assault, etc., appear again and again.

If the criminal is apprehended his rights are read, millions of the people's tax dollars assure him fair trial, appeals follow if convicted, the best of legal aid is available (especially if the crime is bad enough), etc., all with the secure knowledge he will only be detained for a few years, then a new trial or parole after things have cooled down.

The victim, meanwhile, has been placed in a box and lowered into his grave. The tears of his family and friends fall unnoticed by the courts, lawyers, politicians and news editors. The family is left to the agony of rebuilding shattered lives. The bills have to be paid, with no assistance from tax dollars.

We read endlessly the terms 'cruel and unusual' punishment. Can't any, like yourself, visualize what the victim must suffer during and at the time of his death? Is this normal? Is it usual and reasonable punishment? What did he do to his killer to deserve the loss of his life in the manner it was taken? Is the loss to his family and friends not cruel and unusual?

Can you visualize the blade of a knife or a hatchet or bullet plunging into the body of your wife or child or relative or friend? Perhaps hearing them plead for life or watching them suffer cruelly as they die? The killer read them no rights. He gave them no trial. They had no appeal. All the power of the state did not rise to their defense. They have no hope of parole.

You and others may feel that a nation which executes killers and punishes crime is barbaric.

Others of us feel that a nation who does not protect its innocents and defend their right to life truly is the real barbaric nation.

Such opinions are forcing a trend by the people to find any means possible to defend themselves. Our government does not seem to have the courage to do it.

Wouldn't it be terrible someday to discover that your influence for the defense of killers was directly responsible for the encouragement of other potential killers to repeat the act?

If someone must die, please dear God, don't let it be any more innocents. Let it be the killer.

Letter to Governor

This letter, from a citizen to Gov. Brown, is in reference to your recent publicized statement regarding the death penalty, as passed by a two to one vote of the California electorate.

I can readily appreciate your personal feelings and your conscientious objections to the death penalty. From your religious education and background, I would be very much surprised if your feelings were, in fact, different than those you have expressed, and I commend you on your forthright stand on the matter.

However, our political system, from its inception, has been that the majority rules, and that all elected officials are duty bound to uphold, maintain and support the expressed desires and will of the people. In our society and form of government religion and politics do not mix, and by law, are separated.

You ran for office as a politician, not as a member of the clergy. You took a solemn oath to uphold, defend and maintain all the laws, rules and regulations of our State's Constitution, and to act to the best of your ability, in behalf of the will and desires of the majority of the voters who elected you to office. Therefore, having sought and won political office, in spite of what your own personal convictions may be, if you are to be truly conscientious in performing the duties of your high office, you must act in accordance with the expressed wishes of the electorate.

If your own conscience will not permit you to act in this manner, then you have sought your office under false pretenses, and in all fairness, should resign from politics and re-enter the seminary.

It is my personal opinion that if you continue to maintain the position you have now taken, you will have committed political suicide, so far as any future office is concerned whether state or national. I hope you will reconsider.

Your Tax Dollars

We are all aware of the fact that the American taxpayer has been asked to guarantee the fiscal integrity of New York City, and yet most of the latest reports indicate that the city is doing little to change its ways. One area that needs reform is the city's liberal pension system. One of the New York newspapers has calculated that Mayor Beame could retire on a yearly pension of $71,200. This is $10,000 more than his salary. And this is merely the tip of the iceberg — similar tax-supported pensions exist throughout the entire city government.

BRUDNOY'S COMPLAINT

Heroin And The Spirit Of Magnanimity

By DAVID BRUDNOY

It would not come to Miss Mary McGrory, the Tom Wicker of her sex, to lend one of the tears she has shed, for all the draft evaders and other fashionable exemplars of the culture of the Left, to Richard Nixon, whose inaugural invitation from Mr. Carter has bestirred her to the expected fit of journalistic vengeance. Miss McGrory dearly loves to hate Richard Nixon, and she is pained beyond measure that the president-elect, on that day he succeeds in office the president-reject, expects that the president-eject will, as protocol suggested, be there freezing on the Capitol steps to watch the whole bizarre affair.

Poor Miss Mary McGrory: how her eyes will be offended, for there, as luck would have it, will sit Ford, who pardoned Nixon, bravely watching Carter take the reins of power, and off in a corner will sit Nixon, the pardon of whom by Ford probably helped considerably in bringing Carter to office next week.

Brother Safire, who puns and fusses for The New York Times and other newspapers that take the Times service, proposes that the Carter pardon program extend also to the Watergaters, and there is something to be said for it. Shoot, why not just pardon everbody? That's the logic, or what passes for logic, and one might as well consider everything in this pardon-and-amnesty-giddy month.

Meanwhile, as we ramble through the lists of pardonables, there is the case of the drug offenders. Let's back up a little bit and remember that 100 New York City judges and rehabilitation specialists recently concluded that the current draconic narcotics laws in the Empire State have failed to deter illegal drug use in the city. In fact, say the wise men, the laws have actually introduced juveniles into drug trafficking, as under-18-year-olds are immune from the incredibly long prison sentences available to the judges to apply to adult narcotics dealers.

The proposal was of course bound to come, and it came; said the Commissioner of the city's Addiction Services Agency, Mr. Jerome Hornblass: let the Legislature "consider decriminalization or the dropping of criminal charges against addicts who are arrested for possession of wee amounts of drugs.

The Hornblass report contains its share of gobbledygook, the usual stuff about applying fines rather than prison terms, and so on and on, but the message is clear beneath the froth on top: accept the fact that drug use is not stopped by legal prohibitions, nor is the drug traffic hampered, so get on with the obvious next step and let the inevitable run its course.

Need anyone still be shocked to learn that marijuana smoking, and minor transactions among those who seek it to use it, are by now a common feature in our nation's life? Or that police experts are convinced that as much as half the crime committed in America's cities is related to drugs, which is to say that in pursuit of money to buy illegal drugs a frightening number of persons turn to theft and physical assault? Or that legal heroin would cost but pennies a day for an "addict"?

There remains one terribly irksome feature in all this, even for the libertarian: one may addict a fetus if one is an addict during pregnancy. Which means that a drug like heroin, even if its use and sale were to be decriminalized for consenting adults, could be inflicted on someone innocent, a to-be-born child, and that's aggression no matter how you look at it.

But for the bulk of persons and the bulk of now illegal drugs, decriminalization would so drastically reduce the price that drug-related crime would decrease significantly. And the asinine persecution of drug users and "pushers" would likewise cease, thus freeing police personnel for meaningful work, like: oh, chasing killers.

It is high time that America get off its anti-drug kick, let those who want drugs buy and use and sell them without harassment -- while retaining some penalty for those who addict their fetuses or seduce minors into drug dependency -- and put behind us (as the phrase goes for Watergate and Vietnam) our national preoccupation with censoring the drug preferences of America's adults.

Mr. Carter is determined to pass out his general pardon; Mr. Safire wants to save the Watergaters, the ever vengeful Miss McGrory wants Nixon to eat dirt. Count me out of all that, but put me down as favoring the decriminalization of drug use. Call it post-Christmas magnanimity if you like, but call it also common sense.

INSIDE WASHINGTON—

Sadlowski Out Of Gas?

By ROBERT S. ALLEN

WASHINGTON – Ed Sadlowski's so-called "insurgent" campaign for president of the 14-million-member United Steelworkers doesn't appear to be surging very much.

Latest polls of key USW districts show Lloyd McBride, head of St. Louis District 34, strongly in the lead with Sadlowski making no headway against him.

Only area in which Sadlowski still seems to be in the lead is in Chicago-Gary District 31, which he bosses, and even there indications are his backing is turning "mushy."

(1) Widespread belief that wealthy radical-liberal "outsiders" are masterminding and financing Sadlowski's drive – spearheaded by Joe ("Kingmaker") Rauh, militant leftist former head of Americans for Democratic Action who largely engineered the election of "insurgent" Arthur Miller as president of dissension-wracked United Mine Workers.

(2) Despite Sadlowski's repeated promise to disclose the list of contributors, he has yet to do so. As a consequence, McBride's suit charging him with violating the USW constitution prohibiting "employer" contributions in elections has stung hard – especially as Sadlowski, while airily disclaiming this, hasn't flatly denied it, saying: "Whatever was contributed is so meaningless it wouldn't cover the telephone bill."

(3) Blistering denunciation by A. Philip Randolph, revered long-time head of the Brotherhood of Sleeping Car Porters, of "outsiders involving themselves in the internal affairs of USW" which has scored heavily with the large black membership of the union.

While mentioning no names, Randolph, founder of the Sleeping Car Porters, pulled no punches.

"Black workers have a major interest in the stability, integrity and effectiveness of their unions. That's why I am deeply disturbed by the efforts of those outside the labor movement to interfere in the internal affairs of the USW. It has a record second to none in advancing racial and economic equality.

"I have fought the attempts of pseudo-liberals, Communists and other elements to seize unions and utilize the labor movement for their anti-democratic purposes. I have opposed their attempts to exploit racial problems. They have never wished to solve problems, they only want to manipulate blacks for their own ends.

Singled out by McBride in his suit accusing Sadlowski of "using illegal money" in an effort to "buy" the Feb. 8 election, are a number of wealthy supporters of leftist candidates and causes.

Prominent among them are – Howard Samuels, vice president of Mobil Chemical Corp., who spent large sums in an unsuccessful 1974 campaign for governor of New York; Stewart Mott, multi-millionaire General Motors heir and long-time "angel" of radical presidential aspirants (McGovern and McCarthy); Sarah Pillsbury, wealthy stockholder of the Pillsbury Flour Co.; Arnold Hiat, president of Stride-Rite Corp., Mass.

In contrast to Sadlowski's little-known and patchwork slate, the McBride group stands out strikingly in importance and stature. Example: Lynn Williams, 43, head of District 6 representing most of the 190,000 Canadian steelworkers, is McBride's candidate for secretary – first Canadian to seek international office.

Other weighty candidates running with McBride are Frank McKee, Los Angeles, for treasurer; Leon Lynch, Memphis, vice president for administration.

With Sadlowski increasingly on the defensive dodging and denying charges, he has become the butt of derisive characterizations – which clearly aren't helping him.

I.W. Abel, long-time USW president retiring for age, jumping into the intensifying fray for McBride, is tagging his rival as a "limousine liberal."

Both labels directly stem from the contention that wealthy radical-liberal outsiders are masterminding and financing Sadlowski's campaign. He himself added substances to these derogations by giving an interview to Penthouse magazine.

In it, the burly 38-year-old "insurgent" proclaims the curious view that there should be fewer jobs in the steel industry, as follows:

"I advocate putting people who work in steel mills into medical professions....With technology, the ultimate goal of organized labor is for no man to have to go down into the bowels of the earth and dig coal. No man will have to be subjected to the blast furnace. We have already benefited from what our brains have produced technologically.

"We've reduced the labor force from 520,000 to 400,000. Let's reduce them to 100,000."

Asked, "What happens to the guys who get laid off?" Sadlowski declared, "In the present structure they find employment somewhere else. Society absorbs it."

To which McBride caustically retorted:

"The evidence is now in that Sadlowski is not a true spokesman for steelworkers. He is the cocktail party candidate of employers and limousine liberals who are bankrolling him and to whom he will be beholden if he wins. These outside elements can only divert the steelworkers union from the objective of representing, defending and advancing the interests of its 1.4 million members."

Identity Needed

With the spotlight being turned on the bureaucrats and all of the misdeeds and bad judgements now on public display through the news media, I find that the sad stories all lack a villain. The victims are readily identified as "the public", "industry" or "developers". These are all clearly called out.

Why is that the names of the responsible executives in the bureaucracy are not identified? They are hidden under a cloud of anonymity, as either "spokesman for", or simply the agencies alphabetical title.

I wonder, if the names and backgrounds of the bureaucratic executives were published wouldn't it be a step toward making them more responsible. Typical of the lack of names is Gene Wekall's daily blurbs about ridiculous grants for the study of the sex life of Artic ferns. Naming the individuals who made the grant is most critical.

If we don't know who is responsible, how can we apply pressure to oust him?

White Africa

American tourists in Africa are being asked some very embarrassing questions by the white citizens there who created these modern, prosperous nations.

Tourists are put on the defensive when asked about U.S. contributions to communist gains, and the anti-white attitude of our State Department, Kissinger was a dirty name and Cyrus Vance was questionable.

Local American businessmen were vehement in expressions of dismay and disgust about U.S. approval of the boycotts that were being instigated by Russia and supported by groups of communist and socialist labor leaders from Western Europe, along with some of the black dictators. They congratulated George Meany and the AFL-CIO for not joining these enemies of free enterprise.

Some guides reminded their groups that both Ian Smith of Rhodes and John Vorster of South Africa were exceptionally strong characters and able leaders and they would not be intimidated by either the British socialists or local communist leaders.

Neither of these fine men could understand the lack of support by our news media and U.S. politicians. The general attitude was that there would be no repetition of Angola's take-over by Castro's mercenaries, who were paid by Russia.

Blood Donors

It has been brought to my attention that there are so many wonderful people, from all walks of life and all ages. These people are the great number that come to the American Red Cross Blood Center at 601 N. Circle Drive in Santa Ana, where my mother, who is 95, and I work as volunteers.

These people, some of whom come again and again, are giving the gift of life and there is no greater kindness than to help those in need.

More information may be had by calling the Red Cross Blood Center at 835-5381 in Santa Ana. Please ask for the special request department.

Saboteurs

During World War One there were hundreds of grain elevators destroyed in the middle west by enemy agents in order to deprive our country of badly needed grain. The flames from burning grain elevators could be seen in town-after-town in our grain growing States.

Isn't it about time that someone took a close look at who is behind the sinking and destruction of oil tankers bringing badly needed oil to the United States, in this day-and-age.

It is not impossible that enemy agents are responsible for the destruction and sinking of these vessels. Either by attacking a helpless vessel far at sea by submarine, or by destroying the vessels near our shore by the action of paid saboteurs.

Starving our nation for oil can ultimately ruin our economy and destroy our military capability. The enemy knows this as well as we do.

If the media will investigate this "Oil Tanker Mystery" with as much vigor and imagination as they did the "Watergate" situation, maybe they will find out that the bad guys are not always from the United States.

U.S. Canal

Regarding the Panama Canal, we do not have a treaty with Panama, we own the Canal. So far, we have spent over six billion dollars to buy it. So we cannot "re-negotiate the treaty."

On Feb. 7, 1974, Mr. Kissinger signed an agreement to surrender the canal with Oar Tarrijos. "President for life" Torrijos, who walks lockstep with Moscow's Castro, is an anit-American communist. To give them our canal would not only be unconstitutional, but criminal. It would be tantamount to giving them California.

The U.S. must retain control of the canal at all cost or lose control of our own shores. We must all write our senators to insist they support their constituents on this vital issue. This issue will top the list when our leaders reconvene in January from their present vacation.

HUD Finds Difficulty In Founding Towns

By THE LONDON ECONOMIST

WASHINGTON (LENS) – Six years after the federal government began to back selected new towns, almost all of the 13 it chose to help are broke. The Housing and Urban Development Department has ruled that seven are in default and is taking them over, but all need rescuing.

Last year it announced that no new applications for assistance would be considered.

In the 1960s, when the two best-known new towns – Reston, Va., and Columbia, Md. – were started by private enterprise, it seemed clear that planned communities were the best way to direct the surge of growth that was confidently expected to continue. They were the rational alternative to more miles of mindless suburban sprawl.

Each was expected to provide jobs, transport, good housing, lots of open space and recreation for an economic cross-section of the population.

To help developers over the costs of starting up – buying and holding land and providing roads, schools and services – HUD was empowered to guarantee up to $50 million in bonds for each new town. Not all of them needed that much; they ranged from Texas to Maryland, and their planned populations varied from 23,000 to 150,000. There were also substantial grants for sewers, water and subsidized housing.

Now a great deal of this government money is going to be lost, along with millions put up by private investors and banks. What went wrong?

The main answer is the recession and the collapse of the property market. Houses could not be sold, while costs, particularly interest rates, rose. Few developers could afford to hold on to the land they had assembled.

The federal government also bears some blame. It sometimes took three years to process applications for grants and guarantees, while President Nixon impounded much of the money appropriated for housing subsidies.

Now HUD is trying to salvage what it can. It is sorting out the hopeless cases from those that, given time, more money and better direction, may yet succeed. Grananda, near Rochester, N.Y., has been judged unsalvageable and HUD is selling off the land. For the moment it is paying the interest on all new towns' debt. So that those which still have some cash are not stripped bare. But how this money is spent will be supervised much more closely.

Urgent efforts are being made to interest industry in the new towns and to involve local governments, which have not always been sympathetic, in their success.

On Dec. 15 HUD announced new plans for two of the towns which show that it understands where much of the trouble lies: in the cost of buying and holding onto land. It will act as a land-bank itself for Flower Mound, near Dallas, Tex., while seeing whether a new-developer can turn the project around during a five-year test period.

A similar line is likely to be taken with Park Forest South, near Chicago, which may be in financial difficulties but has been notably successful in integrating blacks and whites.

Soul City, N.C. was given a grant of $800,000 in September. This black-run development is regarded as particularly experimental because it is the only new town that is not near a large city. Eventually as many as nine of the towns may pull through, though on a smaller scale than was once contemplated. The rest will revert to ordinary housing estates.

Urban experts still feel that new towns provide the right answer to sprawl, even though there are some signs that their residents are not so keen on being confined, for work and play, to a small community.

But the ideal has certainly taken a hard, if not fatal, knock. It is not just the assisted developers who have gone under, either. Private ones are pulling out, having found that building new towns from scratch is too costly and too long-term.

It is only the firms with superior management, which already held large tracts of land in fast-growing parts of the country, that have succeeded.

Irvine, in California, is one example. There the demand for houses is so great that the right to bid on them has to be settled by lottery.

Parochial Schools Face Union Troubles

By JAMES ROBISON
Chicago Tribune

Across the nation, labor unions are flexing their muscles in the Catholic schools, adding the issue of "teacher rights" to a long list of quandaries already facing the Catholic Church.

It's become a nasty fight in some instances, one that Msgr. George Higgins, a labor expert with the United States Catholic Conference, predicts "unfortunately may get considerably worse before it gets any better."

The battle over parochial school teacher rights already stretches from Brooklyn, Philadelphia, and Pittsburgh to Chicago, Kansas City and Los Angeles, with skirmishes in between in Gary and Ft. Wayne, Ind., Bay City, Mich., and even Boys Town, Neb.

In many instances, the church has taken its case to the courts, charging that the National Labor Relations Board sanction of union elections in Baltimore, Chicago, Gary, Ft. Wayne and Los Angeles is a violation of constitutional church-state separation principles.

Today, only about 20 of 150 dioceses in the nation have collective bargaining agreements with teachers. While there has been a steady increase in Catholic teacher unionization, still only about 8,000 of some 94,000 lay teachers are covered by union contracts.

Leaders of lay teachers' unions in Catholic schools are planning a national conference in Pittsburgh Jan. 22 and 23. "The main idea is for AFL-CIO Catholic teachers' unions to get together with independent and unaffiliated Catholic unions, and with anyone who is interested in teachers' unions in Catholic schools," according to Harold Isenberg, president of New York City's Federation of Catholic Teachers.

It's a curious battle since the church has long been a staunch and outspoken supporter of worker rights outside the church.

Has the Catholic Church somehow grown soft on union rights now that the issue has surfaced in its own back yard?

It's highly debatable.

"The same bishops who back the United Farm Workers and their right to representation and representative elections seems selectively ignorant of the principles of social justice when their own employes are involved," charged a group of Philadelphia Catholic teachers seeking union rights.

Msgr. Higgins, USC research director, also believes support for teacher rights within the church leaves something to be desired.

"We have, regettably, lost ground," he told Catholic school administrators recently gathered in Bethesda, Md., for a symposium on unionism in Catholic schools. "At the present time I think it would have to be said in all honesty that Catholic institutions by and large are not out in front in the field of labor-management relations."

While not everyone would agree with such an evaluation, most are uneasy about future union moves in the Catholic schools.

Such uncertainty led the National Catholic Education Association to call the special national symposium on unionism at Bethesda in October.

Still, few church officials will admit that there is any slackening of support for union rights.

They cite papal pronouncements extolling the basic human rights "of freely founding labor unions," "of taking part freely in the activity of these unions without risk of reprisal," and the right to strike as "a necessary, though ultimate, means for the defense of the workers' own rights and the fulfillment of their just demands."

Still, the National Catholic Reporter, a liberal, independent Catholic weekly, said earlier this year that it had uncovered a national pattern of Catholic school administrators firing teachers who had engaged in union activities.

If there are any problems with unionism, church officials contend, it's largely related to questions other than the basic right to organize.

Catholic school administrators say they have serious questions about the NLRB's jurisdictional rights in the disputes, about the anti-parochial stands of teacher unions, the union's adversarial style of solving problems, and the potential for parochial school bankruptcy in the face of overzealous union demands.

"I still think that if the NLRB becomes involved in our school we are dealing with entanglement between church and state," said the Rev. H. Robert Clark, superintendent of Chicago archdiocesan schools.

Particularly irksome to Catholic churchmen is what some view as the government's completely contradictory approaches to Catholic schools held by the U.S. Supreme Court and the NLRB.

"The National Labor Relations Board dismissed out-of-hand the 1st Amendment constitutional issue by stating that the schools are 'not religious institutions intimately involved with the Catholic Church,' " says Sharp Whitmore, Los Angeles archdiocesan attorney.

He said the NLRB position "flies in the face of Supreme Court decisions which have deprived Catholic school students of federal educational aid because of "excessive entanglement between state and church."

Churchmen also are perplexed by parochial school teachers' desires to affiliate with either the National Education Association or the American Federation of Teachers, both groups clearly on record against aid to parochial schools.

"It is the height of foolishness to seek aid from organizations fundamentally opposed to any forms of public assistance to children attending nonpublic schools and committed to the prevention of our parochial schools ever becoming an integral component of American education," said Gary (Ind.) Bishop Andrew Grutka, responding to diocesan teachers announced intentions of affiliating with the AFT.

There are those, however, who rule out unions altogether for the Catholic schools.

John Cicco, superintendent of schools for the Pittsburgh diocese, has said the "cannot accept a partnership of the community of faith and unionism. Secular values are emphasized and must be emphasized in any union. In a faith community, secular values are secondary to the goals of that community of faith."

He admitted, however, that ruling out unions in Catholic schools presumes "that a community of faith will provide for ideal working conditions – working in a friendly Christian atmosphere, input from teachers on local decisions, providing proper fringe benefits, recognition of seniority, opportunity for due process, and as much financial renumeration as the local parish can afford."

These are the very areas where some parochial school teachers claim there are the greatest injustices and no mechanisms for settlement.

Snafus Inherent In Transition Team

By ADAM CLYMER
New York News

WASHINGTON – The latest minor league snafu in the Carter transition – the unauthorized, but not necessarily incorrect, naming of seven White House aides-to-be – may prove only that the awesomely advertised transition operation is not the greatest thing since sliced bread, even with peanut butter.

When a senior aide in Washington, Barbara Blum, said recently that seven staffers were about to be formally appointed, the with-Carter entourage reacted sharply. They said that she was wrong, that she might be right but wouldn't know, and that she should learn to keep her mouth shut.

That flap could be taken to reflect tension between the Southern (with-Carter) branch of the presidency-elect and the Northern (in Washington) branch, in turn reflecting the conflicts that flared early between Hamilton Jorean (Southern) and Jack Watson (Northern), two key aides vying for influence.

Or it could be taken to prove that the transition operation is too big, that Carter is too slow in deciding, that ambitious aides are fighting, or that those foreigners don't understand Washington. In analytical Washington, all those views were available and there may be some truth in some of them.

Another more human explanation is that the Carter press staff had just had a difficult two days dealing with two equally too-categorical statements: That Vice President-elect Walter Mondale would be chief of staff, or something, and that Carter would not back down on a promise (which they said he hadn't exactly made) to cut the defense budget $5 billion to $7 billion. Those statements, however, could not be categorically denied. They didn't come from Mrs. Blum; they came from Carter.

With a sprawling transition operation – the most expensive in history – set up in Washington with access to the press, and a lot of vagueness left over from the campaign, a certain amount of confusion is inevitable.

But some relaxed views are also possible, and there were two good examples recently, even aside from the fact that the Carter folk in Plains no longer seemed troubled about the Blum pronouncement.

Mondale didn't sound concerned about defining his role to the nth degree, saying in an interview at the Senate that he would be a key adviser, and that when he asked for staff help, he would get it. But he was less interested than the press in the meaning of Carter's lofty phrase "chief staff person."

Rep. James Wright, D-Tex., the new House majority leader, was asked at another press session if he expected trouble when a liberal majority tried to push Carter beyond his own position, on health insurance for example. It might happen, he said, but he didn't know because "I don't know what President Carter's position is going to be."

He didn't seem bothered by not knowing Carter's position in detail this long before he will have to deal with it, and his relaxation suggests a useful way of looking at the transition. Some of it is doubtless pointless ("rediscovery of the wheel," one informed insider scoffed recently), but its value will only be measurable after Carter has been President for a while, when it may be apparent whether the $2 million spent on transition has helped make him an effective President.

When Aid Becomes Absurd

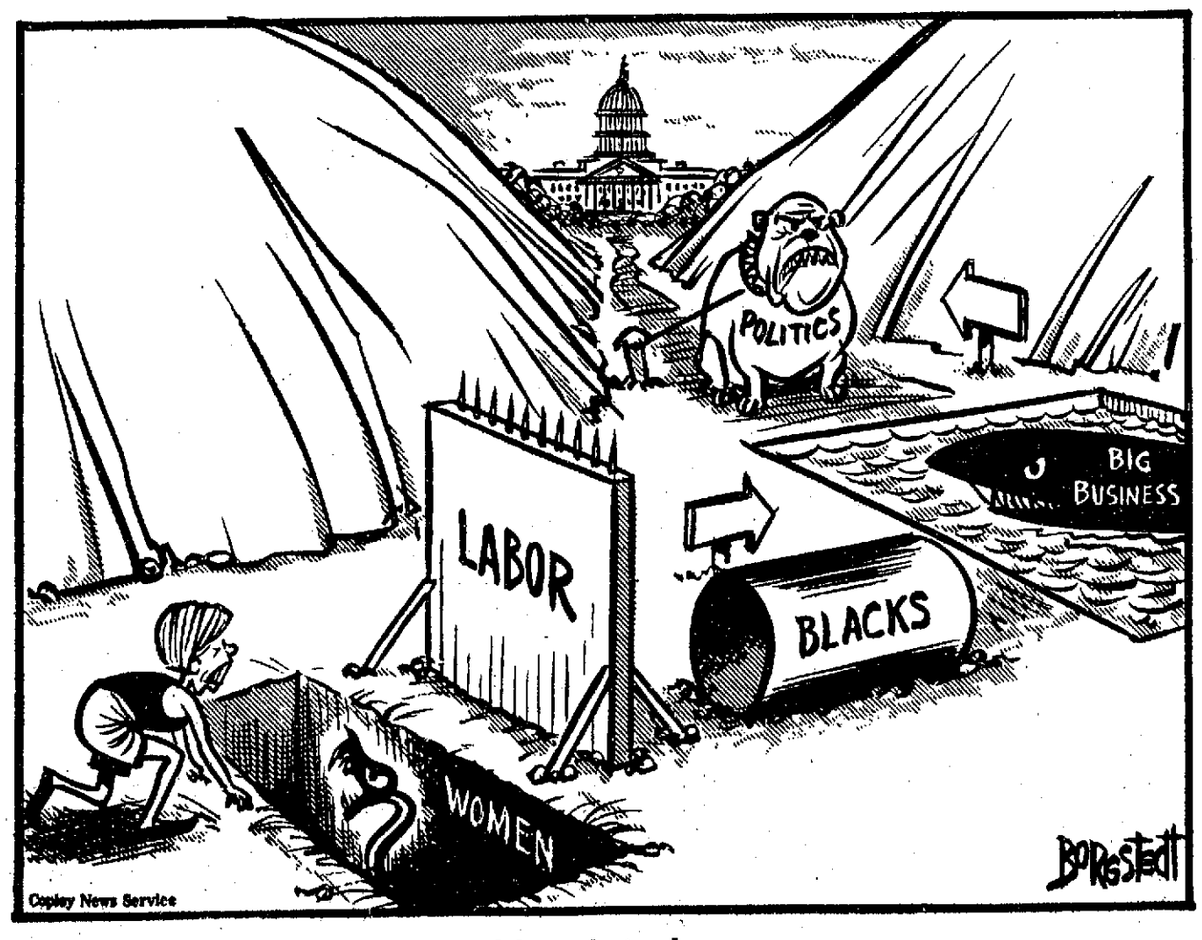

From To The Point Int.

There was a time when the Dutch used to be called a stubborn nation in the positive sense (meaning they possessed good qualities like perseverance or strength of character). They had justly earned that reputation for their exploits as a great seafaring nation and their courage under various invasions. More recently, however, the eccentricities of the left-leaning den Uyl government have frequently deserved the negative connotation of stubborn – that of biased obstinacy. This applies not only to economic policies, in which the government has shown an almost vindictive anti-entrepreneur attitude in its exaggerated campaigns against the bogy of "capitalist exploitation," but also to foreign policy.

The latest example of absurdity was the refusal last month of Development Cooperation Minister Jan Pronk to heed opposition requests to cancel $6,000,000 worth of aid to Cuba, in spite of evidence that Cuban troops are still heavily involved in the renewed civil war in southern Angola.

To argue, as Pronk did, that the grant is in order because it is not being given specifically to support the Cuban campaign in Angola, which is being financed by the Soviet Union, but for the benefit of the Cuban population as a whole, is patently fallacious. Cuba's entry into the Angolan War last year opened up a whole new chapter in the global power struggle and its continued presence there still poses a threat to international peace. This was why Angola had such difficulty getting UN membership, and why the Neto government is still scorned by a respected African leaders like President Senghor of Senegal. Cuba is also known to be actively involved in insurgency and terrorism elsewhere – even in the Middle East.

The den Uyl government has displayed doubtful judgment in its choice of friends and causes in the past, but this gift to Cuba under the present circumstances denotes shocking indifference to accepted codes of international conduct. As such it deserves the censure of all people who do have the sense to distinguish not just right from left but also right from wrong.

Transition obstacle course

And I Quote

"The possible subversion of our government by another government is so blatant. I'm not hinting that the Congress has been subverted. If they are investigating 22 members and can prove anything on five, that isn't much of a subversion. But, obviously, this is a very unhealthy thing, and that's what is terrifying."

– Rep. Richard Bolling (D) of Missouri reacting to reports that at least 22 present and former congressmen are under investigation for allegedly taking gifts from Korean businessman Park Tong-sun.

"When you're testifying three days a week on the average, sometimes four, then how in the world can one be expected to run a department of 120,000 people?

— Treasury Secretary William Simon complaining about the frequency with which he is called to testify before Congress.

–Russell Train, outgoing EPA administrator, explaining that the nation's efforts to control pollution, especially from auto exhausts and chemical compounds, must be stepped up to preserve the environment.

Prof Claims Black Marines' Attack On Whites 'Natural'

CAMP PENDLETON (AP) – A college psychology professor says black Marines who attacked a barracks room of whites may have acted naturally because the Marine Corps allowed the Ku Klux Klan to operate.

"Among blacks you are taught at an early age you don't turn the other cheek but fight back," Dr. Charles W. Thomas said at a pretrial hearing Monday.

Thomas, a professor at the University of California at San Diego, was called to testify as an expert witness for the Marine Corps.

The hearing will decide if Sgt. Herman Fletcher of Huntsville, Ala. must stand court-martial trial or whether charges of conspiracy and assault against him will be dropped.

Meanwhile, the second of 14 blacks named on those charges was ordered to stand trial Thursday. He is Cpl. Dean Edwards, 20, of Bay St. Colfax, La.

In the first trial, Cpl. E.F. Henry, 20, of Ivanhoe, N.C., pleaded guilty to assault and was sentenced Dec. 30 to three months' imprisonment, $600 in pay forfeiture and reduction in rank to private.

Lt. Col. F. Latimer Gould, the military judge who accepted a pretrial agreement in Henry's case, will conduct the special court martial of Edwards as well.

The blacks claim they attacked a barracks beer party which they believed was a meeting of the Ku Klux Klan.

Six whites were hospitalized briefly as a result of beatings and stab wounds. Marines later acknowledged Klansmen had used a nearby room.

Fletcher's civilian attorney told the hearing that Klansmen carried knives and cards with racial epithets and were involved in confrontations with blacks on the Marine base.

"The general tendency is to fight back," Thomas testified.

Miranda Misidentified In Appeal Case Story

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP) – The Associated Press misidentified the victim of a manslaughter-appeal case Thursday, Jan. 6, as Ernest Miranda, whose 1964 U.S. Supreme Court case resulted in a ruling that police must inform suspects of their rights before arresting them.

Actual victim in the case against Gregorio Valenzuela of Phoenix was Ernest Miranda, a city sanitation worker shot July 20, 1974. Valenzuela was denied an appeal of his manslaughter conviction in the death.

Ernest Miranda, whose name is attached to the landmark Supreme Court decision, was stabbed to death Jan. 31, 1976, and his killer was believed to have fled to Mexico.

STRICTLY FOR DADS

Good Husbands Should Not Be Overprotective

By CHARLIE SHEDD

Doc Wilkinson was a small town doctor in Colorado where he was the lone doctor and I was the only minister. That's why we sometimes made emergency calls together. One night a lady had frantically phoned both of us. She claimed she was about to depart this "vale of tears."

I was nervous as a rookie up to bat for the first time. But Doc was one of the greatest country psychologists I've ever known. "Relax, preacher," he drawled. "I doubt she's going to depart the vale of tears. That's one of her favorite expressions. She's not going to die. We'll fix her up. Oh, I don't mean she's got no troubles. She's got plenty, but they're all imaginary."

Then he went on to spin her story. Her husband had died the year before, and Doc summed that up like this: "Though I don't like to speak disrespectful of the dead, Henry really ruined her. He babied her something awful. Once the cholera wiped out his hogs, but he never told her. If his steers lost money, he kept that from her too." The year the barn burned, Doc allowed, she would never have known that either except she could see it going up in smoke.

"It's a real mistake to do a woman like that," Doc contended. "Sooner or later she's dreaming up allergies and headaches and even female trouble just to give her mind something to do."

The years since I heard Doc say this have proven how right he was. In counseling I have seen too many women go into that "vale of tears." Had they been overprotected? I never could know for sure, but I know this: In the very best marriages I've seen, they aren't out to make babies out of each other. Instead they face facts, dig in, and tough things through together.

(Dr. Shedd's new book, "Smart Dads I Know," is a helpful collection of advice and insight on family matters. Dr. Shedd presents 40 dads – and their solutions to the problems which face parents. An ideal gift for fathers. This cloth-bound book is only $4.95. Send to: Smart Dads, in care of The Register P.O. Box 2218, Mission, Kan. 66201.)

ITALIAN PARTY TIME – Mrs. Jim Florence, chairman of the third annual Tombola Benefit sponsored by the Orange County Council for the March of Dimes, adds a splashy ribbon to a prize wrapped for the Saturday Jan. 29, 'Italian Party Time.' Approximately 500 guests are expected to attend the event in the Jewel Court of South Coast Plaza, Costa Mesa. Mrs. Sumner Mann, left, and Mrs. Roger Marsh display a travel poster representing a cruise for two which will also be given away along with a diamond pin, season tickets to the Los Alamitos races and a week's vacation in Hawaii. The Tombola raises funds for MOD research and genetic counseling programs on birth defects.

Horsewoman Makes A Mark In Man's Racing Business

Ginger Hyland is as at home in a barn as most women are in the kitchen. She's as influential at a board of director's meeting as most females are in making out a menu. And she's as comfortable with the responsibility of planning a horse sale as many would be making out a household budget.

Ginger is a horeswoman and a businesswoman. No woman's libber, she refers to herself as a horseman and is proud to be accepted in the quarter horse industry as such. She's done it all, from cleaning out stalls to promoting sales, from delivering foals to running a race meeting.

Although the quarter horse world has its share of people who think racing is a man's business, even the most grizzled veterans are quick to recognize the quality of horsemanship in any person. Ginger is accepted as a knowledgeable judge of horses and as an astute businessman, according to a Los Alamitos Race Course spokesman.

Still, there are those, both in and out of the racing world, who are amazed when Ginger tells them what she does.

UNBELIEVABLE

"People absolutely don't believe it," she explained recently in the Los Alamitos press box where the Horsemen's Quarter Horse Racing Association (HQHRA) winter meeting is in progress. "But I'm proud to be a horseman and thrilled to be part of this industry."

The reason for this incredulity is obvious once you get a look at Ginger Hyland. She just doesn't fit the old stereotype image of the country cowboy or cowgirl who would hang around with quarter horses.

Ginger, an attractive blonde, looks as if she would be as at home in the White House as in the stable area.

As far as she is concerned, it's been a life-long love affair with horses.

PEANUTS

"I started to ride when I was four and owned my first quarter horse when I was 11," she said as a smile spread over her face. "His name was Peanuts and he was just a riding horse but I loved him and it was horses all the way from then on."

About that same time the Hyland family purchased White Oaks Ranch near Bakersfield and started buying horses to raise, breed, train, race and sell. "It was my dream come true," she beamed.

Ginger is still at the family ranch and takes an active role in both managing it and working with the horses. She helps deliver nearly every foal born there, and often works with her trainers as they develop the yearlings into race horses.

"One of my biggest thrills in this business is watching a colt grow up and then go with him to the race track and see him win his first race," she said. "It gives me a tremendous satisfaction because there's so much work and so many heartaches that go into it. Seeing the horse win is proof that it was all worth it."

The first honors graduate of the University of Kentucky in animal science and technology, Ginger has brought much in the way of scientific knowledge to White Oaks Ranch. And while she is the first to admit some horesmen can just 'see' that a yearling is going to be a good one, she uses her college training as a yardstick for measuring the annual crop.

"The industry is becoming so sophisticated that the knowledge I received in Kentucky gives our operation an advantage a lot of others don't have," she noted.

FATHER URGED HER

At the urging of her father, Pat, Ginger started taking an active role in racing management a few years ago and is currently an officer of the Pacific Coast Quarter Horse Racing Association as well as a member of the board of the HQHRA. In addition to the obvious duties connected with horse racing, Ginger is in charge of the annual Golden State Twin Classic Quarter Horse Sale and the chairman for the newly organized Horsemen's Charity Ball.

Horse racing is seven-day job for most connected with it, and for those dedicated to horses, to "get away from it all" means going riding. Ginger is no exception, as that is just what she does when she has a few days to herself.

"I go on a pack trip in Wyoming or Colorado and don't see a road or hear a telephone for two weeks," she explained. "But I never really get away from horses. That's my life."

What keeps bringing her back to horse racing, of course, is the same thing that keeps most people in the quarter horse racing industry going – the hope she will one day own the horse that wins the million-dollar All-American Futurity.

"Naturally I think I have him out in my pasture right now," she grinned. "That's the beauty of this game. We all have our dream."

Low-Calorie Linguine... That's Italian

By BARBARA GIBBONS

Ham 'n' eggs 'n' cheese. Sounds more like the makings of a breakfast omelet than a sauce for a spaghetti supper. But those are the main ingredients in our quick 'n' easy "Italian Linguine with Ham 'n' Cheese Sauce."

It is not only delicious, but protein-rich and very nutritious. And, if you didn't know it was a calorie-conscious recipe, you'd guess it was very rich and fattening!

We make this dish with linguine ... the flat, ribbon-shaped pasta (We prefer to use a brand that's protein-enriched.) You can substitute spaghetti if you prefer.

Traditionally, Italian linguine and spaghetti are cooked only till firm ("al dente" ... resistant to the teeth.) But, if you cook it longer – about 18 minutes, until tender – it will be fuller and less fattening.

The longer-cooked pasta absorbs more water, swells up plumper, and therefore less makes more! It takes only six ounces of dry raw pasta to make four cups of cooked pasta at 155 calories a cupful.

By comparison, a cupful of "al dente" pasta adds up to more than 200 calories.

In this easy recipe the hot drained pasta is returned to the same pot in which it was cooked, then tossed quickly with raw egg, yogurt, pot cheese and shredded Swiss cheese ... a self-making rich-tasting "sauce" that coats every strand. This easy, cheesey linguine is seasoned and served with diced ham and chopped parsley.

With all these protein-rich dairy goodies, all you need is a big tossed salad or hot green vegetables. A dry Italian white wine would be nice, too!

LINGUINE WITH HAM 'N' CHEESE

4 cups tender-cooked protein-enriched linguine (flat spaghetti)
One-half pound lean cooked hamsteak (or Canadian bacon), diced
One-half cup plain low-fat yogurt
1 raw egg
One-third cup 99 per cent fat-free cottage cheese or pot cheese
salt (or butter-flavored salt)
freshly ground pepper
One-quarter teaspoon oregano or pizza seasonings
One-eighth teaspoon nutmeg
3 ounces Swiss cheese, coarsely shredded
One-third cup fresh chopped parsley

You'll need about six ounces dry linguine (three-fourths of an eight-ounce package.) Cook by dropping the linguine into rapidly boiling salted water, a few strands at a time. Cook till tender (about 18 minutes.)

Meanwhile, dice the ham (or bacon) into half-inch cubes and brown the cubes in a nonstick skillet with no fat added. Set aside.

When linguine is tender, drain but don't rinse. Return the hot pasta to the same pot in which it was cooked. Quickly stir in the yogurt, then the egg (the heat of the linguine will cause the egg to thicken slightly.) Then stir in the cottage cheese, seasonings and shredded Swiss cheese.

Put the pot over very low heat and stir constantly until the Swiss cheese is melted and every linguine strand is coated with a rich sauce. Remove from heat and stir in parsley. Season to taste. Spoon onto four plates and top with diced ham. Serves four, 383 calories each.

DEAR MOTHER EARTH:

Is There Truth To Rumor Of Pests And Poinsettias?

By LYNN AND JOEL RAPP

Dear Mother Earth: We have several poinsettias and have been told by neighbors that they attract termites. Is this so or is it a myth?

We also have quite a few African violets and we use diluted Isotox every two months to keep them healthy. Is there any other insecticide that would do the job that is less poisonous? – Etta B. Westminster, Calif.

Dear Etta: We've inquired around and have been unable to come up with any evidence that poinsettias attract termites. As for your violets or any plants, for that matter, do not give them any insecticide unless they have a disease. It's totally unnecessary! Happy growing!

* * *

Dear Mother Earth: During the two weeks I spent in the hospital, I received many flower arrangements, all very beautiful and some quiet costly. They were so lovely when they first arrived, but after a few days they began to wilt and die. I was unable to move around very much and the nurses were too busy to help, so I had to sit helplessly by and watch them go. It was depressing. I also received six indoor plants. They are very much alive and I was able to take them home. They cheered me tremendously while I was hospitalized and gave me something to think about other than myself.

I thought I'd let your readers know of my experience and perhaps they'll select an indoor plant rather than a flower arrangement for a sick friend. – R.B., Dallas, Texas

Dear R.B.: We couldn't agree more. It's possible to order plants sent by wire from almost any florist! A plant continues to give, and we can't think of too many things that are more welcome, especially in a hospital situation! Thanks for your letter and we hope you are feeling fine now! Happy growing!

'Mother Was A Freshman' Becomes Real-Life Story

By JENNIFER L. HOLMES
Knight News Wire

DETROIT – If you'd love to go back to college, but think you couldn't possibly fit it into your busy life, take heart from Marie Hanna, mother of 15, class of '76.

You can do it.

It might mean, of course, that you'll have to do what she did – study after midnight, tote the kids to class, move out of the house for the summer – but if you really want a degree, you can lean on Mrs. Hanna for inspiration.

Hanna, whose age is "a military secret," was just graduated from Michigan State University. She was a teacher's aid at Courtis Elementary School here when administrators there began encouraging her to become a full-fledged teacher.

With 12 children of her own, ranging in age from 10 to 25, and three she raised for a deceased sister, Hanna was a natural for a child-oriented career. But she was too smart to spend her life grading papers or sorting out galoshes and mittens, and she yearned to have a class of her own to teach.

So, in the summer of 1972 with a burst of bravado she announced to her family that she was enrolling full time at Highland Park Community College.

"I was glad," said her husband William Hanna, who works for General Motors Corp. "It was what she wanted, so it was what I wanted for her."

No one really thought she would stick with it, and just to egg her on, Mrs. Hanna's son Anthony, then 17 and out of high school, challenged her to a race. The two started at the same college at the same time – even in the same classes – with the idea of seeing who could graduate first.

In August 1976, Mrs. Hanna completed her last five hours of credit and on Dec. 4 she was awarded her Bachelor's degree in elementary education from Michigan State. Anthony still has a year to go.

"I even got better grades," said Mrs. Hanna, laughing. "But that's because at my age you appreciate education more. You work harder."

In Mrs. Hanna's case, working hard was an understatement. She never had a minute to study until 11 p.m. when the house finally got quiet. Then she would buckle down with her books until 1:30 or 2 a.m., sleep for a few hours, and be up at six to get the family in motion.

"And that was every day," said daughter Sharon Hanna Reynolds, 25. "Every single night she studied like that."

Mrs. Hanna said her children were a help to her, rather than a hindrance. They entertained and looked after each other, and every family member took some responsibility for housework. Those who were big enough had to do their own laundry.

Perhaps the most difficult stretch of Mrs. Hanna's college career was when she had to fulfill Michigan State residency requirements and live on campus. She did all 32 hours in two summers, taking the three youngest to Lansing to live with her in married student housing while her husband held down the fort in Detroit.

Most of the time she was in Lansing, Mrs. Hanna took the three little children to class with her. She made them sit out in the hall and read or play quiet games, and they were so well behaved that the teacher invited them inside.

Alpha Upsilon To Participate In February Ball

Alpha Upsilon Chapter of Kappa Phi Sigma Sorority will meet at 7:30 p.m. Thursday at the Villa Park home of Mrs. Jack Jory.

Mrs. Steve McClelland has been chosen the chapter's "Miss Congeniality." She will represent the chapter at the sorority's annual Sweetheart Ball on Feb. 12 in the Silver Fox in Anaheim, where she will compete for the title of Sweetheart Ball queen.

Also, the chapter has chosen to help support the Tecate Orphanage in Tecate, Mexico, as its 1977 service project. Mrs. Chuck Carter, service chairman, will head the drive to collect used items that will be donated to the orphanage.

voluntary action center

Voluntary Action Center (VAC) is a United Way Agency which places volunteers in positions where they can accomplish vital work in their communities. Additional information about job openings can be obtained by calling the VAC offices in Newport Beach, Fullerton, Garden Grove and Huntington Beach.

SOUTH COUNTY

An agency which provides services for adoption of children of all ages, short term foster care and problem pregancy counseling is in need of a public relations volunteer. Duties include planning publicity and designing posters and/or brochures. Further information may be obtained by calling the VAC office in Newport Beach.

A local legal aid office has requested volunteer interviewers to work either one morning or one afternoon per week determining whether clints are eligible for free legal aid service or if clients would instead qualify for lawyer referral service.

A local chapter of the March of Dimes needs mothers and/or their families to volunteer for the "Mothers' March" during the last two weeks in January. The volunteers would walk their block or a number of blocks in their communities handing out March of Dimes kits, leaving envelopes at residences for contributions. Volunteers to do phone work from their homes requesting contributions to the March of Dimes are also needed.

WEST COUNTY

A community center in North Huntington Beach has lost its gymnastic teacher, and unless a new teacher can be found, classes will be disbanded. Anyone proficient in acrobatics and tumbling who would like to share this talent may obtain additional details from the VAC office in Garden Grove.

The Department of Social Services offers comprehensive orientations to prospective volunteers before they embark upon an actual volunteer program. People are given an overview of the agency, and can decide how they would most like to spend their time. New orientatioms are bing held in January, February and March. Orientations are also given for opportunities offered by the Probation Department.

If you have two or three hours a week to spare, there are openings from kindergarten through high schools for volunteers to work in the classroom, library or various offices of schools in the West County area.

NORTH COUNTY

A Fullerton center for young handicapped people which uses swimming classes for rehabilitation, exercise and fun needs volunteers to accompany each student. Class is held each Monday morning from 9 to 11 a.m. Additional information concerning this opportunity is available from the VAC office in Fullerton.

A Santa Ana convalescent home asks non-smokers to visit their patients any day from 9:30 to 11:30 a.m. or from 1:30 to 5 p.m. Be a game partner, a letter writer, and activity aide, a friend.

Anaheim's Free Clinic is seeking volunteers to work in the office answering phone, filing, typing, keeping records current.

Casa Placentia Community Center is in need of carpenters, electricians and dry well installers to assist with the center's remodeling and renovation project.

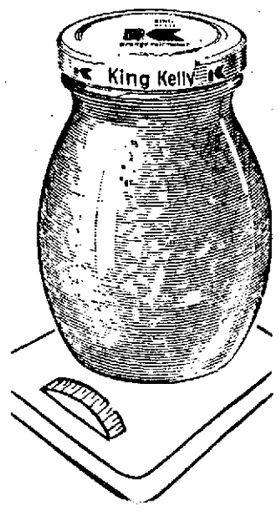

Fish is coming to Anaheim, and interested persons are being sought to take part in its organization. Emergency needs such as transportation, child care, over-night lodgings, providing meals and shopping are the focus of Fish activities. Volunteers are needed to work as dispatchers, drivers, office workers or other service providers.

The Alcoholism Council based in Santa Ana and serving Orange County calls for volunteers to answer help-line telephone calls, to conduct interviews for placement and to assist with office tasks.

The mental health section of an Anaheim hospital is seeking volunteers to assist in art, occupational or recreational therapy, to present or help develop evening entertainments for patients; and to work in the gift shop. On the job training will be provided for volunteers 18 or older.

SIZES 8-18

FASHIONED By Marge Swenson

For The Home Seamstress

Dear Mrs. Swenson, I made up two patterns. For a dress I used what I thought would be great, but it was too soft and looks like a rag. For a smock top I used fabric which turned out to be too stiff and it looks like I am still pregnant. How do I avoid these disappointments in the future? Mrs. B.F. Mesa, Ariz.

Dear Mrs. B.F. Didn't you know you were supposed to have absorbed all this information by osmosis? I remember when I was a young girl, I'd pick a fabric and my mother would say, "You won't like that." I'd get so mad, but she was always right. I despaired of ever developing the ability to look at a piece of fabric and see it made up, but it finally came after many failures such as you describe.

What you are dealing with is "Hand". The hand or drape of a fabric is of far more importance than its color, weave, fiber or price. The hand determines how the fabric will drape over the body and react with the pattern you have chosen. An appreciation of hand comes with experience. You can hasten the process if you will develop a little more awareness of what to look for in clothing. People who sew should spend more time looking at ready-to-wear and trying it on. Usually when a garment looks good, half the credit can go to the fabric chosen for the design. Develop the habit of feeling fabric in ready-to-wear, especially if you like the garment in which it is used. Then go into the yardage department and feel the bolts of fabric. Try to discern fabric of similar hand.

Spend a lot of time just studying fabric in the yardage stores. Start with knits. Note that a polyester double knit has a fairly crisp hand. If it is of good quality it will have enough stability for slacks. They would hold their shape and not drape too much to show all the secrets of the hipline and fanny. Then move to a thinner polyester double knit. It is too soft for straight cut pants, but not soft enough for the new ultra soft dresses. Now handle some nylon knits. We call them jerseys when they are very drapey. Notice that the nylon jersey has more drape than the polyester jersey. Note that Qiana is the most fluid of all. Qiana is actually a nylon fiber made by DuPont and is the most silk-like of any of the synthetics. Note that jerseys come in different weights. The heavier ones are better for formal dresses or soft styled street wear. The thinner jersey is too sheer. It shows everything underneath, underwear and lumps. The thin ones are fine for blouses or dresses with soft gathers or cowl necks.

Take the fabric to a mirror and hold it against your body in a single thickness and observe how it falls. Then consider your pattern. Will the seams give shape to the garment or are you depending on the drape of the fabric to define body contour? The dress you made may have had too many seams for a real soft which needs to lay in soft folds for best effect. Remember that softer fabrics are more slimming and crisp fabrics tend to add pounds.

The only short cut I can suggest is to learn from others. One advantage of sewing classes (I tried so hard to get you to take when you were home) is that you learn from the fabric of everyone in the class.

GOLD STRIKE

Gold is the up and coming accessory for day and night wear. On wrists, the look is thin, jangly bracelets.

Pay attention to clothers – both the ones you like and the ones you don't and analyze what makes them good or bad. Look at people who are built like you and copy what they do which is good. If you copy a dress or make up a pattern, the picture of which attracted you, try to discern what fabric they used and choose something of similar hand.

As a last resort and if you aren't in a hurry, you or any of my readers can send me a sketch of the pattern, a swatch of the fabric and a self-addressed, stamped envelope and I'll tell you if it will work.

Incidentally, Bevan, this is an effective, though sneaky way to get a letter from me. Love, Mother.

Jumpsuit Has Face Framing Neckline

For that very special evening, nothing else but Dominic Rompollo's alluring jumpsuit and scarf will do. Subtle seaming curves to top, then slides down the body into wide, wide legs. Looks like a skirt when you're standing still. Conveniently zipped in back. Don't feel you have to fill in that beautiful neckline with jewelry – it's more magnificent just framing your neck and face. Fluid knits – nylon, silk jersey, crepe – are all spectacular choices.

Much of Naoi's working day is spent high up in the tree, chipping away at his grand design.

Detail: self-immolated Vietnamese monk.

TREE SCULPTOR

Tamiya Naoi has been enthusiastically chipping away for more than three years now–and in the process turning an ancient tree trunk, blasted by lightning, into an astonishing work of art. The 700-year-old fir tree stands in the grounds of a temple in Tokyo, about 26 feet tall and 19 feet in diameter.

When Naoi, a 33-year-old Japanese painter, felt inspired to begin carving images on it, temple officials and local residents were annoyed and only reluctantly let him go ahead. Now criticism is changing to praise and the sculpted tree is attracting visitors to the temple. The figures Naoi is carving range from a goddess of mercy to ordinary men and women–the final goal is 1,000 Buddhas. What to do with the finished work is a problem, says Naoi, but one thing is certain: "I don't think I can carry it back home, can I?"

Photographed by Seiichi Kanise.

Line of protesting people represents Naoi's comment on and sympathy with present-day society.

ISRAELIS OUTRAGED

Terror Suspect Release Scored

TEL AVIV (AP) – Israeli outrage over France's release of suspected Palestinian terrorist Abu Daoud boiled up today into an angry demonstration against the president of France.

"Giscard, terrorist," roared a crowd of several hundred Israelis gathered outside the French embassy, referring to President Valery Giscard d'Estaing. Among them were families of 11 Israeli athletes slain at the 1972 Munich Olympics, allegedly on Daoud's orders.

The families earlier had pleaded with Giscard d'Estaing not to free Daoud before Israel could present an extradition request.

In Paris, French newspapers joined Israel and the United States in condemning Daoud's release.

"When acts so cruelly belie words, we are no longer in the political realm," said Le Figaro, a paper normally friendly to the government. "It's a puppet show."

In the Tel Aviv demonstration bereaved parents, wives and children hung portraits of the dead athletes around their necks. The crowd tried several times to break through police barriers and march on the iron-gated seaside embassy building.

"My little girl was one month old when her father was killed," said Anka Spitzer, widow of fencer Andre Spitzer. "It's incredible that Abu Daoud is free to see his family and my daughter will never know her father."

Some demonstrators threw eggs and fruit at an unidentified man on a balcony of the embassy. One egg-thrower was detained.

Police estimated the crowd at 600, including a party of 80 American students who bellowed obscene anti-French slogans.

Mrs. Spitzer demanded that French ambassador Jean Herly be expelled from Israel "back to France where he belongs, among the cowards and traitors."

Israel recalled its ambassador in Paris, Mordechai Gazit, and summoned Herly to Jerusalem to hear a vehement protest about Daoud's release.

Ephraim Evron, deputy director-general of the Foreign Ministry, charged at his meeting with Herly that France had given encouragement to Arab terrorism, violated its extradition treaty with Israel and performed "a hostile act."

He rejected Herly's argument that the refusal to extradite Daoud was on legal grounds, saying Jerusalem had only asked that he be held until an extradition plea could be drawn up.

Gazit said in Paris just before his departure, "It seems that in an affair as grave as one which implicates a person suspected of having committed mass murder, the minimum is to give us the necessary time to complete the dossier."

In West Germany, where Daoud is wanted on charges of being an accomplice to murder and kidnaping, Bavarian state officials said

Diedrich Probe To Be Killed?

SANTA ANA – The district attorney's office was debating this morning whether or not to cancel its investigation into charges Supervisor Ralph Diedrich illegally solicited campaign contributions for several political candidates last year.

Aides to Supervisor Ralph Clark confirmed this morning that subpoenas calling them to testify to the grand jury were canceled Tuesday by the district attorney's office.

Steve Malone, one of Clark's executive assistants, said he and Greg Sanders were subpoenaed because the district attorney's office believed they had heard damaging information about Diedrich's campaign financing role.

Malone said district attorney's investigator Bill Tynes canceled the subpoenas Tuesday after learning his information was incorrect.

It has been alleged that Diedrich, who stepped down as chairman of the board this month, told a lobbyist that his firm would be treated unfavorably by the board unless the lobbyist made a contribution to a Diedrich-backed candidate in last year's general election.

Among those who reportedly have testified before the grand jury in the matter are Donald K. Brown, a lobbyist for Hughes Airwest, and Michael Murphy, a Brown associate.

Hughes Airwest operates out of Orange County Airport and currently is on a month-to-month lease.

Malone said the district attorney's office had been told he and Sanders ate lunch with Brown and Murphy two weeks before the Nov. 2 election and that the lobbyists complained to them about Diedrich's fund raising techniques.

Malone said this morning they had not heard any complaints from Brown and Murphy and that when the district attorney's office was told this, the subpoenas were withdrawn.

Sources in the district attorney's office said today that assistant Dist. Atty. Michael Capizzi is now examining information to determine whether there is anything on which to base a case against Diedrich.

WHEELER HUBBARD ENJOYS REACTION OF BANK'S ELEANOR LEE...

...AS HE PRESENTS A HIGHLY UNUSUAL 'CHECK' FOR PAYMENT

Unmentionable But Negotiable

By CAROLE KEMP
Register Staff Writer

SANTA ANA – It was the first time bank teller Linda Stueven ever cashed a check marked "Do Not Wear Before Cashing."

She wore a puzzled expression when Wheeler Hubbard, Orange, presented her with a check for $15 written on a pair of French bikini panties (exclusive of decoration) drawn on the Continental Bank of Phoenix, Ariz.

It was Hubbard's payoff on a bet he made with Bruce Teppo of Phoenix on the USC-Michigan Rose Bowl game played New Year's Day. USC won 14-6.

Hubbard said he was surprised when he received the check. "It was originally supposed to be for $5 and a bottle of booze."

His wife Susie came down to the Park Center branch of the Crocker National Bank here, but she was "too embarrassed" to go in with him. "She lost her nerve," he said.

The teller called Eleanor Lee, assistant operations chief, who blushingly filled out a "collection form." Between giggles she explained that the check didn't meet the uniform commercial code and that the Federal Reserve Bank wouldn't accept it.

"We'll put it in an envelope and mail it back to them. They may charge at the other end," she said.

The check was carefully printed on the size seven, 100 per cent Antron III panties. Both Steuven and Lee said it was the most unusual check they had ever accepted. As Hubbard left the bank someone shouted a piece of advice.

"Don't make any more bets."

Ford Delivers His 'Swansong' Talk Tonight

WASHINGTON (AP) – President Ford's third and final State of the Union address, which is being delivered tonight, is described by a senior aide as an "upbeat, statesmanlike swansong."

When he goes before a joint session of Congress, Ford will give an accounting of his 29-month stewardship as the nation's only president who was not elected to that post or to the vice presidency. His address will be broadcast by most major radio and television networks beginning at 6 p.m. PST.

According to those who have seen drafts of the 40-to-45 minute speech, Ford will express his faith in the American system, its people and its institutions as he has viewed it in the aftermath of Watergate.

And, he will give the new 95th Congress and the new Democratic administration of Jimmy Carter his ideas of the fundamental issues for the future.

Because he is leaving office, Ford will not make any detailed legislative recommendations. But Ford is expected to set forth areas where he thinks urgent action is needed, such as the economy, energy and urban affairs. And he will list some long-range

Police Nab Boy Who Says He Set Fatal Blaze

LOS ANGELES (AP) – Police arrested a 10-year-old boy who they say admitted setting a fire in the apartment house where he lived that killed 10 persons during Christmas week.

King said the youngster, not named because of his age, was booked for investigation of murder and arson and released to his parents. Authorities said he probably would be turned over to a county probation department caseworker.

King said the boy admitted starting the Dec. 20 blaze at 335 South Witmer St., using matches to set fire to an old couch under a stairwell.

Lawyers Offer Plan To Sell Nixon Tapes

WASHINGTON (AP) – Lawyers submitted a plan Tuesday that would put the federal government in the business of selling the most damaging Nixon White House tapes – and at a bargain rate.

The proposal, filed with U.S. District Judge John J. Sirica, envisions the National Archives selling one-hour tape casettes for $3.75 to $5.75, depending on tape speed. Included in that price would be a complete transcript, packaging and mailing.

If Sirica approves, and if the Supreme Court doesn't forbid the whole thing, a full set of the 30 tapes played at the Watergate cover-up trial might be had for $100 or so.

The plan was submitted by lawyers for the three television networks, public television, a TV news directors association and a recording company.

An earlier court ruling turned down the application because it failed to set out an adequate plan for preparing the tapes and distributing them to the public.

Sirica's rejection, however, was overturned by the U.S. Court of Appeals on grounds the recording should be in the public domain like all other trial evidence.

Natural Gas Cuts Hit OC Industries

By RICH SEELEY
Register Staff Writer

It's going to be a long cold winter for industry in Orange County, perhaps the first of some very bleak winters to come.

Southern California Gas Co. announced this week that it is cutting natural gas supplies to many of its industrial customers to meet the winter demand for gas to heat homes.

Increased residential use of natural gas in winter is making severe demands on the utility's dwindling supply, a company spokesman said.

Home heating is the top priority during these months under state regulations, with small business that cannot afford to convert to other fuels ranked second.

The spokesman predicted that if the trend continues, many smaller businesses, unable to bear the cost of converting to other fuel supplies, will have to close their doors. This would mean an astronomical jump in county unemployment and possible devastation of the local economy, he said.

The industries as well as major institutions such as colleges and hospitals have been notified that they must start using fuel oil for heating and industrial processes.

This hurts because heating oil costs about twice as much as natural gas, according to Chuck Ritchie, who heads facility planning for Cal State Fullerton.

Ritchie said the state university received a partial supply of natural gas for heating in November, but has been totally cut off by the gas company since Dec. 1.

At Rockwell International's plant in Anaheim, a spokesman said the company was notified that its supply of gas

Jobless Rate Declines; Wholesale Prices Rise

WASHINGTON (AP) – Unemployment declined from 8.1 to 7.9 per cent last month, the government said today, but the good news was offset by another sharp jump in wholesale prices, particularly for food.

Coffee, pork and poultry costs were the chief ingredients in the biggest rise in farm and food prices in eight months and pushed over-all wholesale prices up nine-tenths of a per cent in December. Industrial price increases slowed, with natural gas costs turning down after rapidly increasing for several months.

The improvement in the nation's job picture was an indication the economy is beginning to revive after a summer-fall period of stagnation and rising joblessness. The pause in the business recovery had aroused concern among economists and prompted President-elect Carter to propose a two year package of tax cuts and rebates and job-creating measures.

The 7.9 per cent unemployment rate in December was still slightly higher than the rate at the beginning of the year, when 7.8 per cent of the labor force was jobless in January.

Unemployment had dropped from a recession peak of 8.9 per cent in May 1975 to a low of 7.3 per cent last May. The rate then started rising and stuck on a plateau of 7.8 to 7.9 per cent from July through October, before jumping to 8.1 per cent in November.

The unemployment rate in 1976 averaged 7.7 per cent for the year, down from 8.5 per cent in 1975.

The Labor Department said the number of Americans unemployed in December dropped by 210,000 to a total of 7.6 million. Total employment rose by 220,000 to a record high of 88.4 million, with most of the increase among adult men.

After holding steady from July to October, total employment has risen by nearly 600,000 over the last two months.

The size of the civilian labor force was virtually unchanged last month at 95.9 million. It had expanded sharply throughout most of the year, rising by 2.8 million workers, the majority of them women.

Within the 7.9 per cent total unemployment rate last month, joblessness declined from 6.5 to 6.2 per cent for men over age 20, and edged down from 7.7 to 7.6 per cent

Bell To Replace FBI Chief Kelley

WASHINGTON (AP) - Atty. Gen.-designate Griffin B. Bell today said Clarence M. Kelley will be replaced as director of the Federal Bureau of Investigation in the near future.

Under questioning by the Senate Judiciary Committee for the second consecutive day, Bell said that he had been looking for a possible FBI director while interviewing persons for jobs in the Justice Department.

(Related Story on Page A3)

He noted that Kelley, who was appointed by former President Nixon in July 1973, is 64 years old.

"We can look forward to having a new FBI director before too long," Bell said.

Asked by Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., if he could be more precise, Bell said he could not give an exact date for Kelley's departure, adding that it "will not be long".

Bell said that Kelley has expressed an interest in assisting with the transition that will take place when a new director is named. He said Kelley may be given a role as an adviser.

President-elect Carter has never stated that Kelley would be replaced, but has said that he believes in "the general principle" that the head of the FBI should change with the administration.

Kelley has publicly stated that he would not resign voluntarily for fear of setting a precedent leading to political appointments of FBI chiefs by each incoming president.

Prior to his testimony today, Bell had been noncommittal about Kelley's future. He met with the FBI director Jan. 4, but said they didn't discuss Kelley's tenure.

Fair Weather

Fair weather is forecast for Orange County through Friday. There will be some late night and early low clouds but temperatures will remain about the same.

High Thursday will be 66 inland and 60 along the beaches. Overnight lows will be in the low 40s.

For late news of weather and road conditions, call 547-0501.

Solons Quietly Earmark $4 Billion For State Employe Pension Fund

SACRAMENTO (AP) – Almost without notice, the legislature has committed more than $4 billion in future state funds to pensions in the last five years, a legislator says.

Almost all of the money was contained in legislation aimed at shoring up the beleaguered pension plan for teachers, said Sen. Newton Russell, R-Tujunga.

Russell, chairman of the Senate Public Employes and Retirement Committee, said Tuesday that legislation is needed to guarantee that employes get the pensions they're counting on.

In addition, he said, measures are needed to make sure "it will not be a big surprise to some taxpayers 20 to 30 years down the road" when the bill comes due on massive retirement payments.

He said actuaries assigned to his committee by the Senate Rules Committee will enable the legislature to act on future pension bills with full knowledge of what they'll cost.

Russell said teachers' pension legislation accounted for $4 billion of the $4.148 billion that has been approved by the state.

The bills have ranged from cost-of-living increases to reductions in the minimum age to qualify for payments, he said.

In addition, he said, "no one has any idea what costs local government has accumulated by adopting local option benefit increases."

Russell said a detailed study of 150 government employe pension plans in California is expected to be released in late February.

Zaire Volcano Impact Unclear

BRUSSELS, Belgium (AP) – The Nyragongo volcano in eastern Zaire erupted Monday, according to reports reaching Brussels today. The government of that African nation, denying earlier reports of about 2,000 deaths, said no one was killed.

Diplomatic sources quoting Zaire's Kinshasa radio had given the large casualty figure.

Vince Hovanec, press attache at the U.S. Embassy in Kinshasa, said there were no casualties "to the best of our knowledge." Reached by telephone from Washington, he said American missionaries in the area were reported safe.

NEWS BRIEFS

Callaway Cleared Of Wrongdoing

WASHINGTON (AP) – The Justice Department has cleared former Army Secretary Howard "Bo" Callaway of wrongdoing in connection with his Colorado ski resort, it was announced Tuesday.

"The matter is no longer under investigation and no further action is contemplated at this time," Asst. Atty. Gen. Richard L. Thornburgh said in a letter to Callaway's attorney. The department made the letter public.

A department spokesman said Thornburgh, head of the criminal division, and other officials concluded that no criminal charges were justified.

Callaway was forced to resign as President Ford's campaign chairman after it was disclosed that he sought a Forest Service permit benefiting his Crested Butte Development Corp. while he was still Army secretary. He has denied any wrongdoing.

Ford Accepts Levi Resignation

Levi has been attorney general since Feb. 6, 1975.

Levi, former dean of the University of Chicago law school, was named to the post by Ford in the wake of Watergate investigations that had tinged some of his predecessors.

President-elect Carter's choice for attorney general, Atlanta lawyer Griffin B. Bell, is undergoing Senate Judiciary Committee confirmation hearings, where he is encountering opposition from some civil rights groups.

Ford also accepted today the resignations of Harold F. Eberle, deputy undersecretary of the treasury, effective Jan. 20, and of Richard A. Wiley as general counsel of the defense department, effective Jan. 15.

Oregon Voters OK School Taxes

COTTAGE GROVE, Ore. (AP) – Residents who had four times rejected higher school taxes voted by a 2-1 margin Tuesday to approve a $2.8 million tax increase and thus allow classes for 3,300 pupils to resume on Jan. 14 for the first time in nearly two months.

And in two other Oregon districts – Eagle Point and La Grande – voters also approved tax increases without which officials had said the schools might be forced to close.

Unofficial returns showed the levy to support the South Lane school district here passed by 3,327-to-2,068 margin.

Alpine Avalanche Kills Nine

BERGAMO, Italy (AP) – An avalanche crashed onto six houses in the nearby Alpine ski resort of Foppolo today, killing nine persons, police said. One person was reported missing.

About 200 miles to the northeast in Austria's Tyrolean Alps, a schoolgirl was reported killed today when an avalanche buried her and two companions as they waited for a bus. The two other girls suffered slight injuries, police said.

Austrian authorities said part of the province of East Tyrol was virtually cut off by snowslides.

Rescue teams had difficulty penetrating seven-foot-deep snows to reach Foppolo, an isolated village about 25 miles north of this northern Italian city. But by afternoon, rescue helicopters had reached the village.

Police said they feared further slides.

Supermarket Strike Meeting Set

OAKLAND (AP) – Federal mediators called a meeting for today in an attempt to avert a threatened strike by 20,000 supermarket clerks in eight San Francisco Bay area counties.

Jerry Finley of the Federal Mediation and Concillation Service said Tuesday both sides agreed again. Talks stalemated Monday and a strike was scheduled for 12:01 a.m. Friday.

The AFL-CIO Retail Clerks International Association is demanding the same pay as butchers.

The walkout would affect numerous supermarkets in San Francisco, San Mateo, Santa Clara, Alameda, Contra Costa, Napa, Solano and Marin counties.

Union spokesman Dave Selvin said negotiations with the Food Employers Council broke down over "the total money package."

Selvin said clerks are asking for a pay-fringe benfit package equal to $2.72 an hour over a three-year contract, the same as was granted previously to meat cutters.

Hope Abandoned For Tanker Crew

BOSTON (AP) – Thirty-eight Chinese crewmen on the missing oil tanker Grand Zenith and a Rhode Island seaman lost when another tanker broke up Monday have been given up for dead by the Coast Guard.

The 644-foot, Panamanian-registered Grand Zenith was last heard from Dec. 31 when it was believed to be 60 miles south of Yarmouth, Nova Scotia. It was heading for Somerset, Mass., with 8 million gallons of fuel oil and the seamen from Taiwan.

"We've been evaluating the reports sent to us by the (Coast Guard cutter) Dallas, and we no longer feel there is any chance for survival," Coast Guard spokesman Richard Griggs said. "We really don't think there is any further need to keep searching."

Tanker Officer Killed By Fumes

SAN JUAN, Puerto Rico (AP) – A ship's officer was overcome and killed by naphtha fumes in a tanker's hold Tuesday and two seamen lost conciousness, the U.S. Coast Guard reported.

Authorities said the other man, James F. Neal, 63, of McAllen, Tex., the ship's chief pumpman, and seaman Johnny M. Johnson, 55, of Port Arthur, Tex., were hospitalized in satisfactory condition. Both were revived shortly after the accident.

A Coast Guard spokesman said the accident occurred early Tuesday after the tanker offloaded 252,000 barrels of naphtha.

More Czech Dissidents Questioned

VIENNA, Austria (AP) – More Czechoslovak intellectuals who signed a recent human rights manifesto were questioned by police Tuesday in what was seen as continuing harassment of outspoken dissidents.

Informants reached in Prague said the authorities summoned at least 12 persons, including playwright Vaclav Havel who was back for a fourth day of interrogation. Some others were also repeat witnesses in what officials called an investigation of suspected subversion.

Carter To Tackle Welfare Reform

WASHINGTON (AP) – President-elect Carter flew to Washington on Tuesday for top-level foreign policy and defense talks and said en route that he will create a congressional-White House task force to deal with welfare reform.

Carter also said he will announce his White House staff Friday and that he has permitted most staff members to work out for themselves where they think they can best serve with the least possible friction.

Carter said that soon after he is inaugurated, he hopes to have a "joint House-Senate-White House and Health, Education and Welfare task force and work on basic welfare reform."

SA Schools Ask Funds For Immigrants

By JIM BROCK
Register Staff Writer

SANTA ANA – An application for $2.45 million in federal funds to set up a massive instruction program for 4,600 limited-English or non-English speaking immigrant students and other projects next year was approved Tuesday night by Santa Ana school trustees.

The board, in a 3-2 vote, instructed Supt. Charles Kenney to forward the application to the federal school office in San Francisco by the Monday deadline.

Trustees Mary Pryer and Elizabeth Robertson opposed the application because of what they said was "unnecessary expansion" of the district's current federally funded programs.

Funds would be allocated from the federal Emergency School Aid Act (ESAA), which is designed to assist school districts with a high percentage of minority student enrollment. Santa Ana has a minority enrollment of 62 per cent this year.

This year the district received $391,875 from the ESAA fund.

Kenney wants $1.36 million to retain 70 bilingual teachers in the English language training program currently funded by a countywide non-citizen alien tax imposed by state law. The special tax may be canceled next year, he said.

The superintendent also wants ESAA funds to train "master teachers" in bilingual instruction at all of the districts 20 elementary schools, $497,724; a special teacher and administrator training project, $106,418; an on-campus basic skills program for high school students, $121,257, and expansion of the bio-medical instruction program at Valley High School, $60,150.

The district also seeks funds for a career guidance program, $108,363, a community resource center, $65,572; an administrative overhead cost budget, $72,986, and $91,605 for extending the district's immigrant teaching program to local church-affiliated schools: St. Anne, St. Joseph, Immaculate Heart, Our Lady of Pilar, Mater Dei High School and Maranatha Christian Academy.

IMF Approves $36 Million Loan To Viets

WASHINGTON (AP) – "They're eligible in the same way any other country is eligible for any of the fund facilities," says an American official of the decision by the International Monetary Fund to loan $36 million to war-torn Vietnam.

The IMF approved the loan Tuesday, stating its purpose was to compensate for the export earnings Vietnam lost in 1976 due to war damages.

The loan to Vietnam by the 129-member agency was the first since the Communist government was admitted to membership over U.S. opposition late last year.

No country was recorded as formally opposing the Vietnam loan Tuesday. Sam Cross, the U.S. representative on the IMF board, refused to say how he had voted. "We don't usually comment on these transactions. There are too many of them," he said.

Cross did say the U.S. raised some questions about technical aspects of the loan.

The United States provides about 20 per cent of the financial support to the IMF, but would have been unable to prevent the IMF loan to Vietnam on its own, an IMF spokesman said.

Vietnam is one of only a handful of communist members of the IMF, which was set up after World War II at the urging of the United States to operate the international monetary system.

The Hanoi regime was allowed by a majority of the IMF members to take the seat formerly held by the old government of South Vietnam, even though the United States opposed seating the communist government.

It was also allowed to take the old South Vietnamese seat in the World Bank, a sister agency to the IMF that provides development loans to its member nations.

Many Bid Farewell To 'Dolly' Sinatra

PALM SPRINGS (AP) – The famous names of Hollywood have said goodbye to the woman many of them called "Mama," as a grieving Sinatra family gathered here to bury its matriarch – Natalie "Dolly" Sinatra.

Mrs. Sinatra, 82, was killed in an airplane crash last Thursday. Funeral services were scheduled at noon today at St. Louis Catholic Church in nearby Cathedral City, with burial at Desert Memorial Park here.

Nearly 1,000 Sinatra family and friends gathered in two cities Tuesday night for simultaneous rosaries.

The strains of "Ave Maria" and "Hello Dolly" rang through St. Louis Catholic Church after the rosary was recited for Mrs. Sinatra.

Her son, Frank Sinatra, sat in the front row of the modern octagonal church, his eyes unswerving from the casket covered with white lilies and pink roses.

Beside him were members of his family, including his wife, Barbara, and children, Frank Jr. and Nancy Lambert. The singer remained solemn-faced throughout the brief ceremony, seeming to submerge his grief.

More than 100 miles away, nearly 400 friends of the Sinatra family crowded into the Church of The Good Shepherd in Beverly Hills where a similar service was held.

Members of the entertainment community sat quietly as Danny Thomas – Frank Sinatra Jr.'s godfather – eulogized the woman he called "the consummate wife, sweetheart, mother and grandmother."

U.S. Economy

for women over 20. The rate for teen-agers declined from 19 to 18.9 per cent.

Unemployment for white workers dropped from 7.4 to 7.1 per cent, while the rate for blacks and other minorities was unchanged at 13.6 per cent.

For the key breadwinner group – heads of households – the rate dropped from 5.4 to 5.2 per cent.

On the plus side, there was a decline in the number of persons working part time because they were unable to find full-time jobs. Their number dropped by 200,000 to 3.4 million, marking the first substantial drop since June, the government said.

Another sign of an improving economy was the increase in the length of the average work week last month. It edged up to 36.3 hours, the third consecutive monthly increase of one-tenth of an hour.

The longer work week and a one cent gain in average hourly earnings to $5.01 helped push average weekly earnings up $1.86 over the month to $182.36.

The nine-tenths of a per cent rise in wholesale prices last month, adjusted to eliminate seasonal factors, marked the fourth sharp monthly increase in a row and equaled September's rate, which was the biggest jump in more than a year. It helped raised wholesale prices 4.7 per cent over the year, slightly higher than the 4.2 per cent rise in 1975.

Some analysts are worried that inflation may be heating up again, and this concern has been intensified by the trend in wholesale prices which eventually are reflected at the retail level.

Farm and food prices rose 2.7 per cent last month, the largest jump since a 4.2 per cent increase last April. Prices for processed foods and feeds were up 2 per cent.

Coffee prices continued their upward spiral, posting an 11.5 per cent gain for roasted coffee up at wholesale. That left coffee prices 68.9 per cent in twelve months.

In December, poultry prices were up 4.7 per cent, while hog prices were primarily responsible for a 7.6 per cent climb in livestock prices.

Also indicating higher prices in the supermarket in the months ahead were higher prices for fresh and dried fruits and vegetables, cocoa, tea and fish. Lower prices were recorded for cotton, vegetables oils and sugar.

However, industrial prices, where increases had been averaging between seven-tenths and one per cent a month since the summer, rose only three-tenths of a per cent in December, the smallest rise since May.

Economists regard industrial prices as a more reliable measure of inflationary trends than food prices, which often fluctuate from month to month.

Terror Suspect

several witnesses have identified him as being present in Munich at the time of the 1972 massacre.

While West German officials said they regretted Daoud's release, the French government tried to shift the blame to them for the decision to let the Palestinian leader go. French officials said the Bonn government did not follow the proper extradition procedure by confirming a Munich judge's request for extradition.

German authorities said that under the French-German extradition treaty, 20 days are allowed to prepare its case requesting delivery of an arrested person. Daoud was arrested only last Friday.

Meir Rosenne, the Israeli Foreign Ministry's legal adviser, branded the French move "a breach of an international treaty binding on both states."

Ship Disabled; 391 Transferred To Sister Vessel

MIAMI (AP) – As the stricken cruise ship Monarch Star drifted about in tropical waters off the coast of Cuba today, its 391 passengers sailed for Haiti aboard a sister ship.

A Monarch Lines spokesman said the mid-ocean transfer of passengers, some of the 368 crew members, luggage and provisions to the Monarch Sun was completed without mishap Tuesday.

The 617-foot Star, which left Miami Sunday on a 14-day cruise, stopped dead with a pump problem early Tuesday, a U.S. Coast Guard spokesman said. The Sun, with its own 431 passengers, arrived at the site later in the day.

The transfer involved lowering passengers into smaller boats in calm seas and motoring them to the Sun, which left Miami Sunday for a seven-day cruise.

He said the Sun cruise would go for 14 days as planned – with the ship's original passengers getting an extra seven days free if they wanted.

Gas Cutbacks

will be reduced beginning today. It will receive only part of the natural gas it needs through March 2, the spokesman said, and will make up the difference by burning oil.

At Hunt-Wesson's cannery in Fullerton, the boilers are burning fuel oil. Bill Blodgett, director of corporate relations there, said higher fuel bills are bound to be reflected in higher prices for canned goods.

Conversion of boilers from natural gas to fuel oil is enormously expensive, he said.

At gas company headquarters in Los Angeles, spokesman Bob Eggert has some even bleaker forecasts of what will happen if new supplies of natural gas are not found to meet the increasing demands of homeowners and residents.

Under a priority system set by the State Public Utilities Commission, the gas company has been making up for the loss of natural gas during winter months by curtailing supplies to large industrial firms who were able to convert to the more expensive fuel oil.

The gas company projects that until 1980 it will be able to supply fuel to the small businesses in the second priority group. But after that even they will be cut off – even during the summer months – Eggert says. Cutting off those businesses is expected to cause many of them to fold, he said.

This could lead to the loss of 76,000 jobs in Orange County and a possible unemployment rate of 19 per cent, according to statistics supplied by Joseph Rensch, president of Pacific Lighting Corporation, the gas company's parent firm.

Those unemployed people may find themselves sitting out the winter in chilly homes, said Eggert. He said there is a possibility there won't even be enough natural gas for residential heating by the early 1980s.

The best hope of turning this potentially disastrous situation around is to tap the vast supplies of natural gas in Alaska, Indonesia, Maylaysia, Australia and the Middle East, he said. Domestic fields, Eggert added, are playing out.

But natural gas can only be economically imported in liquefied form by tankers, he said and the gas company is having trouble getting approval for the proposed liquefied natural gas (LNG) port and storage facilities in Long Beach.

"The earliest we could get liquefied gas into use would be 1980," he said, adding that the deadline depends on approval of the LNG port.

At Hunt-Wesson, Blodgett sees a tough go for industry but believes that the economy will survive, even if it has to convert totally to fuel oil.

The major obstacle to a massive conversion to fuel oil, he and Eggert agree, is that there aren't adequate systems on the West coast to store and deliver it.

problems the nation will continue to face.

One aide familiar with the speech said it will be more like "a major summing up – a general valedictory addressed to his countrymen."

Ford also is expected to touch on his own future role "in a general way," a White House aide said, adding that "the general tone will indicate he isn't about to go off and vegetate on a desert island."

Post Urges Health Agency Break-Up

SACRAMENTO (AP) – Legislative Analyst A. Alan Post urged the legislature Tuesday to break up the troubled state Health Department and to take a long look at tax relief schemes.

The nonpartisan analyst also said he will propose alternatives to Gov. Edmund Brown Jr.'s $480-million property tax relief plan. Post said his proposals will include state takeover of administration and financing of $250 million a year in county court costs.

Brown said Post's suggestion about the Health Department "warrants careful consideration."

"For several months my staff has been evaluating alternatives to the present complexity of the state department of health. In the weeks ahead, we will incorporate Mr. Post's suggestions in our overall view," Brown said in a statement.

He did not comment on Post's intention to propose alternatives to Brown's tax relief plan.

Post said Brown's homeowner and renter tax relief plan can be financed without a state tax increase. But he said the legislature should not limit itself to Brown's approach and should consider others.

He urged major changes in the Health Department, which has been troubled by reports of deaths in state hospitals, allegations of mismanagement of prepaid health plans and rising Medi-Cal costs.

The department, which directs $4.3 billion a year in health programs, is too big to be managed as a single unit, Post said in his review of Brown's proposed $15.2 billion budget for 1977-78.

"In 1972, we concurred with the proposal to consolidate the then existing Departments of Public Health, Mental Hygiene, Health Care Services, and the social services function of the Department of Social Welfare," Post told the Assembly Ways and Means Committee.

"The consolidation has proven to be a substantial failure. Therefore, we think we ought to admit our mistakes and take corrective action."

TEACHERS GET DOUBLE WAGES DURING STRIKE

SALINAS (AP) – School officials called in more than 100 substitute teachers at double wages Tuesday when teachers refused to cross picket lines set up by nonteaching employes.

Lawrence LeKander, superintendent of the Salinas Union High School District, said substitute teachers were being paid $60 a day instead of the usual scale of $29.

The district's 387 cafeteria attendants, custodians, bus drivers, groundskeepers, secretaries, instructional aides and clerks walked off their jobs Monday afternoon.

That evening, members of two teachers' unions voted not to cross picket lines.

LeKander said 24 per cent of the district's 9,155 pupils were absent Tuesday, up from the usual 10 per cent daily absence rate.

Arthur McLoughlin, a field representative of the California Teachers Association, said more than 300 of the district's 450 teachers honored the picket lines.

The district has offered union members a five per cent salary and fringe benefit increase plus a $200-a-year raise for employes with 10 years of seniority or more.

The union has asked for a six per cent package plus $350 more for senior employes.

Claudine Will Tell Version Of Shooting

ASPEN, Colo. (AP) – Claudine Longet will testify in her manslaughter trial that her lover "quite pointedly told her that little gun wouldn't kill anybody" several months before he was killed by a bullet from the pistol, Miss Longet's lawyer said today.

"Claudine will tell you there was no aiming, no pointing," defense attorney Charles V. Weedman said as he opened the case for the 35-year-old Frenchborn entertainer.

Weedman said he will call about eight witnesses, including her ex-husband, singer Andy Williams, in an effort to prove the dark-haired defendant did not recklessly kill pro skier Vladimir "Spider" Sabich last March 21.

"She asked Spider about the safety on this gun ... I'll leave it to you to decide how her finger pulled that trigger," Weedman said.

"We're going to call Andy back," he said. Williams testified for the prosecution Tuesday, but delivered a vigorous defense of his ex-wife's character.

"We're going to ask him some questions about Claudine's attitude toward security," Weedman said. "... we anticipate he will tell us Claudine had no knowledge of guns."

Weedman said five witnesses will be called to counteract prosecution testimony that Miss Longet was "a crazy gal" who liked to ski fast, drive fast and take chances.

Miss Longet was expected to take the stand to tell jurors her version of what happened when a .22-caliber gun went off in her hands, pumping a single slug into Sabich's abdomen.

Weedman said that by Friday, the manslaughter case could be in the hands of jurors, who must decide whether to accept Miss Longet's claim that the shooting was a tragic accident, or the prosecution's argument that she disregarded a serious risk to Sabich. If convicted, she faces a maximum penalty of 10 years in prison and a $30,000 fine.

Williams, 48, wearing an open-neck white shirt, dark sweater and slacks, said of the mother of his three children: "I wouldn't say she was the type to take chances. She was especially careful around children and other people."

Williams came to Aspen the day after Sabich was shot in the $250,000 mountainside chalet he shared with Miss Longet for two years.

The singer said he talked with his ex-wife after they left the guest house of singer John Denver to stop at the home of Peter and Mary Ann Greene, where their children stayed the night of the shooting.

"She said, 'Spider was showing me how to use the gun, it went "Boom! Boom!" and went off, and I shot him,' " Williams testified.

"She said, 'You know that if I meant to kill him, I would tell you that,' and said it was an accident."

Deputy Dist. Atty. Ashley Anderson asked Williams:

"Would you deny that you told the Greenes that Claudine was a crazy type of gal who liked to drive fast, ski fast and take chances?"

"I would deny that, yes," Williams answered calmly. "I didn't say that." He then added:

"I recall thanking them, telling them how grateful I was for their taking care of the children. I may have said, 'I can't believe this thing. It's crazy.'

Williams continued, testily, "I would have never said she was a crazy gal. I don't say 'gal' anyway."

But Mrs. Greene, disputing Williams' statement, quoted him as saying: "She's a crazy chick. She likes to drive too fast. She likes to ski too fast. She likes to be reckless."

Also testifying was Steve Sabich, the victim's younger brother. "I never saw him pick up a handgun without unloading it and before he handled it," Sabich said of his dead brother.

Kidnapers Nab Two In Italy

PADUA, Italy (AP) – The 35-year-old daughter of a chain store owner and a Milan industrialist are Italy's first kidnap victims of 1977, police report.

Energy Task Force Urges Emergency Oil Stockpile

To A New Embargo Threat It Says 'Don't Try It'

NEW YORK (AP) – A task force of energy specialists recommended on Tuesday the establishment of an emergency national oil stockpile, financed by a tax on all petroleum products, to reduce the effect of another possible oil embargo.

The 3-to 6-month stockpile also would discourage oil-producing nations from restricting exports again as they did in 1973-74, according to a report by the 15-member task force of economists and businessmen. The group was organized by the Twentieth Century Fund, an independent research foundation.

"It would actually reduce the risk that somebody will impose an embargo," said Peter Kenen, an economics and international finance professor at Princeton University.

"We would be saying to those countries who might try it: 'Don't, it won't work,' " he said at a news conference.

Based on the current price of oil and the cost of storing and shipping it, a three-month stockpile would cost more than $6 billion.

The group suggested the reserve could be financed by a small "security" excise tax on all refined petroleum products. There were no specifics, such as how high the tax might be.

The federal government is planning for the storage this year and next of 150 million barrels, equal to 25 days of imports, at a cost of about $2 billion. A larger reserve has been discussed.

Herbert Cohn, vice chairman of American Electric Power Co. and chairman of the task force, said the United States met more than 40 per cent of its oil needs through imports last year, compared with only 23 per cent in 1970. The cost of the imports last year was $35 billion.

Cohn said the group's points have been made by others.

"The recommendations after each study seem to be the same. The trouble is, nothing is done," he told reporters.

One other suggestion was that the government's energy activities be coordinated through one administrator, something President-elect Carter and others have proposed.

The Ford Administration sent to Congress on Tuesday a bill to bring the Federal Energy Administration, the Energy Research and Development Administration and other federal energy agencies under one roof.

Commerce Secretary Elliot Richardson, who headed a study leading to the bill, said it provides essentially the same changes Carter proposes and that the incoming administration can submit the bill to Congress with modifications.

Angry Prosecutor Rips Yoshimura's Testimony

OAKLAND (AP) – The prosecutor at Wendy Yoshimura's trial bitterly disputed Tuesday the defendant's contention that she fled arrest on weapons possession charges because she feared the police would kill her.

Jeff Horner, in his closing statement to the eight-woman, four-man jury, told of her association in the terrorist underground with Patricia Hearst and so-called Symbionese Liberation Army members William and Emily Harris.

"These people were the most actively and relentlessly sought fugitives in the United States at that time," Horner said, his voice rising in anger. "If she fled out of fear of police then she never in ten million years would have associated with these people. Every cop in the country was looking for Hearst and the Harrises.

"She would have avoided these people like the bubonic plague. When you are in a lightning storm, you don't grab hold of a lightning rod. But Wendy Yoshimura did – for more than a year."

Horner attempted to portray Miss Yoshimura, 33, as a woman with a dual personality.

Alluding to the defense testimony of two of her former roommates, Horner said, "They didn't know she had bought guns, that she had rented a garage where weapons were stored, that she had used phony identities. This was a side of Wendy Yoshimura they were not to know."

Horner, nearing the end of his summation, said, "There are two sides to Miss Yoshimura, one side is presented to the world and one side is concealed."

The prosecutor recounted the array of chemicals and components he said were found in the Berkeley garage rented by Miss Yoshimura.

"There was ammonia nitrate, fuel oil, smokeless powder, picric acid and blasting caps," Horner said in a soft voice. "There was a completed bomb – a very powerful bomb."

When it was detonated by Berkeley police shortly after the raid on the garage on March 31, 1972, Horner said, "it made a considerable crater in the ground."

As Miss Yoshimura, 33, listened impassively, the prosecutor suggested that the garage was a secret workshop for political radicals who intended to bomb military buildings as a protest against the Vietnam war.

Miss Yoshimura, who was arrested with Patricia Hearst in September 1975, has been on trial since last Oct. 18. She is charged with possessing an explosive and a machine gun found in the garage as well as materials and destructive devices that Horner said "were intended for the injury and intimidation of people and the destruction of property."

CUT YOUR OWN TAXES – 4

Senior Citizens Get 2 New Tax Breaks

By RAY DE CRANE

Senior citizens received two tax breaks under the Tax Reform Act.

The first one, a new Credit for the Elderly, can start paying off with the filing of their current tax return.

The second one, more favorable treatment on the sale of a home by someone 65 or older, doesn't take effect until this year. This means they will get the advantage of it when they file their tax return a year from now.

The Credit for the Elderly replaces the old Retirement Income Credit, which was complex, difficult to claim, and which applied to relatively few taxpayers.

Not only is the new credit more generous in its terms, the form on which it is claimed is far simpler to complete.

It is easier to qualify for the new credit, since the former requirement that you must have received $600 of earned income in each of the preceding 10 years has been eliminated.

It is a 15 per cent credit and the maximum amount on which the credit may be applied is $3,750 on the joint return of a couple both over 65; $2,500 for single persons and married couples filing jointly if only one is 65 or older.

The maximum credit is reduced in two steps in determining what amount will be multiplied by 15 per cent.

The first reduction is by one-half of the amount of the adjusted gross income above $7,500 for the unmarried, $10,000 for couples filing jointly and $5,000 for married filing separately.

The two-step reduction may eliminate the possibility of a credit for many. But the purpose of the credit is to provide some additional tax relief for those on reduced Social Security and limited other sources of income.

Whatever amount remains from the maximum following the second reduction is multiplied by 15 per cent to establish the credit which becomes a direct reduction against tax otherwise due.

Government employes retiring before 65 are still eligible for the credit, as they were under the old law. As with other taxpayers, government employes get the benefit of the increased credit base and the waiver of the prior work experience requirement.

Panel Okays Bergland For Agriculture

The nomination will not be formally submitted to Congress until after Carter is sworn-in as president. However, the committee voted to authorize Chairman Herman Talmadge, D-Ga., to notify the Senate at that time that the committee has approved the nomination.

Nine of the committee's 16 members were present for the unanimous voice vote which constituted the first approval of any Carter Cabinet member.

In his testimony before the committee earlier in the day, Bergland said there should be a global food strategy, but he did not rule out the possibility of future U.S. export curbs in extreme circumstances.

Bergland said he will move nate Agriculture Committee, reviewing his nomination, that it is "imperative that this Congress act soon on food stamp reform" and that government food programs should remain in the Agriculture Department.

ROBERT BERGLAND
First Approved

Bergland said that USDA responsibilities should be broadened to include other parts of the food sector now overseen by some other agencies. Also, he said, USDA should show more interest in consumers.

Begland said he will move quickly to rescind an order by President Ford almost a year ago which would have reduced food stamp benefits sharply to many people. The order was blocked by a court action last summer and the program has continued the same as before.

Patient Files Suit Seeking Laetrile Use

SAN DIEGO (AP) – A man with inoperable cancer of the pancreas filed suit Tuesday to obtain a supply of the prohibited drug Laetrile for use in treatment of his illness.

Ray Carnohan of San Diego, the cancer patient, named both David Mathews, the current secretary of Health, Education and Welfare, and incoming secretary Joseph A. Califano in the suit filed in U. S. District Court.

Carnohan's petition said he is fully aware of a Food and Drug Administration contention that Laetrile, which is derived from apricot kernels, is of no use in treating cancer.

But Carnohan calls the drug his "last hope of sustaining life" and, by necessity, the treatment of his choice.

The suit asks a court order preventing the Food and Drug Administration from enforcing its ban on the importing and administering of Laetrile, a second order finding denial of the drug is a violation of Carnohan's constitutional rights, and a third order giving the patient's physician immunity from criminal or civil prosecution for administering the drug if obtained.

Iran To Cut Foreign Aid Due To Oil Revenue Dip

TEHRAN, Iran (AP) – Iran announced Tuesday it will cut back foreign aid and switch to a barter system in its overseas trade because of a dramatic drop in oil revenues since it raised prices 10.4 per cent Jan. 1. Iran is the second largest exporter of oil in the world.

A massive loan promised to Britain may become one of the first victims of Iran's economic pinch. The British, fighting their own financial problems, so far have received only $400 million of the $1.2 billion loan.

Dr. Abdulmajid Majidi, minister for planning and budget, said oil exports fell by more than one-third in the first nine days of January – to an average of 4,209,424 barrels a day from the December 1976 average of 6,789,026 barrels.

He estimated that revenue was $460 million, compared with $672 million under the lower price in the same January period last year.

The fall-off in demand had been expected since last month, when Iran and 10 other members of the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries decided to boost their crude oil prices by 10 per cent Jan. 1 and by an additional 5 per cent July 1.

Saudi Arabia, OPEC's biggest producer, and the United Arab Emirates split from the OPEC majority and decided to hold their increase to 5 per cent for the entire year. Foreign buyers appear to be flocking to the cheaper Saudi and UAE oil, and Saudi Arabia has announced it will step up production to undercut the other OPEC members.

Majidi said the revenue loss will necessitate revisions in the Iranian national budget, including cutbacks in a foreign aid program that has provided more than $2 billion in assistance to other countries since 1974.

British Trade Minister Edmond Dell met with Shah Mohammed Reza Pahlavi here Tuesday to discuss possible expansion of British trade with Iran. Dell reportedly was also negotiationg for payment of the second and third installments of the $1.2 billion loan.

As another measure to bolster Iran's financial position, Majidi said, all future imports by the government will be obtained through a barter system – oil for imported commodities or manufactured goods.

Iran for several years has been using this system in trading with Soviet bloc countries and it recently announced a similar agreement with the British Aircraft Corp. BAC is to provide $660 million in Rapier missiles in exchange for oil.

Iran is also negotiating with U.S. firms, including Grumman and General Dynamics, to trade oil for warplanes and submarines.

Majidi said direct sales by the National Iranian Oil Co. – NIOC – dropped to 651,000 barrels a day in early January from the December average of 1,335,520 barrels – a 51 per cent reduction.

Sales through a consortium of Western oil companies that handles most Iranian oil marketing fell by 35 per cent, he said – from 5,453,506 barrels a day to 3,558,424 barrels.

Last week the NIOC announced that 25 of its customers had failed to take delivery of crude oil sold to them directly. The company said it had rejected the customers' demands for a discount.

Mother Given Three Life Terms In Slaying Of Three Daughters

DELAWARE, Ohio (AP) – Twenty-year-old Margo Davies was sentenced to three life terms in prison Tuesday after admitting she killed her three young daughters by tying plastic garbage bags over their heads.

After pleading guilty to three counts of aggravated murder, she told the court she bound the girls hands and feet, placed the bags over their heads and left them to die.

"They were not dead until after I left," Mrs. Davies said in a slightly audible voice during a sudden court appearance a week before she was scheduled to go on trial.

Mrs. Davies, who is separated from her husband, told Judge Henry E. Shaw of Delaware County Common Pleas Court she left her daughters – Laurie Jo, 18 months; Christine 2½, and Tonya, 3 – bound and in plastic bags at three different rural locations, two in park trash cans and one in a field.

Neither Mrs. Davies nor the authorities have commented publicly about a motive for the slayings.

Dr. Robert Zipf, a veteran pathologist who performed the autopsies, had said earlier in the investigation that the slayings were "one of the cruelest cases I've ever seen ...

MARGO DAVIES
Pleads Guilty

"They must have screamed and clawed in their anguish," Zipf said. "It would take several minutes to die in that fashion."

The guilty plea came after defense attorneys decided there was no case for previously entered pleas of innocent by reason of insanity to the three counts of aggravated murder with death penalty specifications.

Thomas Clark, a court-appointed defense attorney, said he and his co-counsel began talks with prosecutors last week after receiving results of a medical report on Mrs. Davies' sanity.

"We advised this woman only after she fully understood her rights in this case," Clark said. "She made all of the decisions. She changed her own plea."

Prosecutors agreed to drop the death penalty specifications in exchange for the guilty pleas.

Attorney General Appointee Defends Record As 'Moderate'

By SAUL FRIEDMAN
Knight News Wire

WASHINGTON – Griffin Bell, Jimmy Carter's nominee for attorney general, acknowledging Tuesday the "added burden on me as a southerner," defended his record as "a moderate" who helped the South through its desegregation trauma.

He admitted, however, that as a lawyer for a Georgia governor he had helped "delay" compliance with orders to desegregate. He conceded that several key decisions while he served as a federal appeals court judge were wrong. And he declined to recant on his support for a segregationist Supreme Court nominee. Bell pledged to search for women, blacks and other minority group members as federal attorneys and Justice Department officials. And he disclosed under questioning that he intends to name Wade McCree of Michigan, a black and a judge on the U. S. Sixth Circuit Court of Appeals as the solicitor general.

Bell, an old family friend and political ally of the President-elect, testified in a soft drawl in a packed hearing room as the Senate Judiciary Committee opened informal hearings on his nomination.

And it became evident as the confirmation hearing began that Bell's nomination probably would be approved by the majority composed of Republicans and southern Democrats, unless liberals caught Bell in a serious goof.

The committee chairman, James O. Eastland of Mississippi, announced he would vote for Bell who, ironically, presided over school integration in Eastland's home state.

Much of the questioning focused on Bell's role, from 1959 to 1961, as special counsel to then Georgia Gov. Ernest Vandiver who won office on a pledge to maintain segregated schools in his state or close them. Bell acknowledged that he helped advise Vandiver on legislation designed to evade Supreme Court decisions to desegregate Georgia's school system.

But Bell argued that he was among those who counseled Vandiver to save the tax-supported school system and was a moderating influence between the hard-line segregationists and blacks.

"It may be that we delayed, but we never defied the law," Bell said. And he called his success in keeping the schools open through the traumatic change "the finest piece of legal work I ever did."

Sen. Edward M. Kennedy of Massachusetts, one of the liberals who questioned Bell closely, noted that while some may have viewed Bell's performance in those years as moderate, others have suggested he helped "undermine" Supreme Court rulings.

Bell contended that he didn't join in Vandiver's inflammatory, segregationist rhetoric and, instead, acted as a lawyer-advisor, subtly guiding the state towards peaceful, if slow, desegregation.

"We were there, trying to persuade the people to change a custom of centuries," Bell said. "In Georgia we think of it as historical...It was a sort of privilege to have had a part in it. I was in the middle of it."

Committee members also questioned Bell on his support, in 1970, of Federal Judge G. Harrold Carswell, a Richard Nixon nominee to the Supreme Court who was eventually turned down because of alleged incompetence and segregationist views.

Bell insisted that his letter in support of Carswell, even after Carswell's segregationist attitudes became known, was "a recommendation, not an endorsement." And Bell said he did it because he had known Carswell personally for a number of years and felt he was needed on the high court.

Pressed on whether he would now support Carswell, Bell replied candidly: "If I knew then what I know now, I'd have to reconsider... I'm in a tough spot on this. I have decided I'm not going to repudiate Carswell (who has since left the federal bench). It would serve no useful purpose."

Earlier he told the senators that his support of Carswell, who had been a law school classmate, "is just part of my record and I have to stand on it."

Under questioning by liberal Republican Charles Mathias of Maryland, Bell acknowledged that two of his opinions while on the U. S. Circuit Court of Appeals were wrong.

In one, which has been strongly criticized by liberal and civil rights groups, Bell upheld the right of the Georgia legislature to bar black Georgia Rep. Julian Bond from taking his seat because of statements he made opposing the Vietnam War.

Bell maintained he was guided by the law at the time, but added that "it is quite obvious we were wrong and the Supreme Court (which reversed him) was right."

Bell also conceded that one of his opinions authorizing the President to approve a wiretap without a warrant was wrong and that he now favored legislation providing for judicial review of such taps.

He told Sen. James Abourezk (D-S.D.) that he intends to "have a vigorous civil rights division" to carry out desegregation laws, and if busing is necessary to desegregate schools in large cities, "I would bus...you would have to bus."

He told Kennedy that he favored enforcement of open housing laws and striking down zoning and other regulations that bar minority groups from some neighborhoods because "I would prefer to have open housing than busing to desegregate neighborhood schools." He also pledged enforcement of civil rights statutes which prohibit granting or loaning federal funds to areas which perpetuate discrimination.

Bell said he favored the "merit selection" of U. S. District Attorneys who ordinarily are political appointees. Bell said present, Republican-appointed attorneys could apply to remain on the job and they would be screened by him and members of the Senate from their states.

Bell said that some Republicans might remain, but he indicated that because such appointments are political plums for senators most of those chosen under the "merit" system would be Democrats.

Bell's appointment has been Carter's most controversial. But there was evidence on the committee that even the most potentially hostile liberals were reluctant to go to the mat with nominee of a Democratic President.

Most of the liberals were solicitous, even in their critical questions. And as four-and-a-half hours in the witness chair, under the television lights, ended, Bell's openness, his soft candor helped turn the questioning from his controversial past and blunt the criticism of opponents who followed him before the committee.

FIRED IN SEPTEMBER

Ex-Building Checker 'Warned' Of Hazards

PHILMONT, N.Y. (AP) — A former building inspector says he was fired in September because he tried to warn officials of fire hazards in the 19th century mill which burned here.

The four-story brick mill, used since September by the X-Tyal Corp. to produce and assemble rafts and other rubber goobs for the federal government, was a total loss in Monday's fire. A state disaster official estimated damage at "will over a million dollars."

No one was injured in the fire, which also destroyed two smaller building across the main street.

"The wind was just right, and the snow on the roofs of nearby houses kept them from catching," Fire Chief Richard Morris said Tuesday. "We had almost 20 fire companies here, and they were just great. They saved this town."

About 30 people evacuated from homes near the fire spent the night at the Pine Haven Home just east of the village.

Philip Paul Finkle, former building inspector for this Columbia County village of 1,300, said Tuesday that he was fired after insisting that the former textile mill should be inspected before X-Tyal began operations there.

But Village Mayor Clinton Mossman said that Finkle's firing had "nothing to do with the plant inspection." He added, "There were other disagreements with Finkle and he was already on his way out when this whole thing came up."

The reopening had been praised by village officials, who said it would have been a "real economic boost" for Philmont. The building employed 57 people at the time of the fire, but X-Tyal had expected employment to rise to 300.

A local insurance agent said it would cost "over $5 million" to replace the building and also said, that "as far as he knew." X-Tyal had no insurance on the building. Company officials were unavailable for comment.

Finkle said, "They (the village board) wanted industry, apparently at any cost. They knew if I inspected the building it would cause problems and they didn't want that."

He said he told them the building had exposed wiring and lacked an adequate sprinkler system and adeqate fire escapes. That sprinkler system did not operate during the massive blaze, and Fire Chief Richard Morris acknowledged that "It would have made a difference. It probably would have contained the blaze."

OUSTED BUILDING INSPECTOR PAUL FINKLE SAYS HE WARNED OFFICIALS OF FIRE HAZARDS

EXTINCTION AVERTED

Alligators Off Endangered List

WASHINGTON (AP) — The nation's alligators still are a threatened species, but are being removed from the list of animals considered to be in imminent danger of extinction.

"This shows we can do it," said assistant interior secretary Nathaniel P. Reed, in announcing on Tuesday that most of the nation's alligators have been removed from the endangered species list.

Reed said about 75 per cent of the alligator population has been reclassified to the less restrictive "threatened" list.

The adjustment marked only the second time since approval of the Endangered Species Act in 1973 that an animal species has improved enough to be taken off the list. Last year three endangered species of western trout were reclassified.

Reed said the action shows that "we can reverse the trend toward extinction and save a species ... if we want to."

He credited the conservation community and officials in southern states with leading the struggle to save alligators which, 20 years ago, "were headed for extinction as hide hunters indiscriminately slaughtered them and their habitat was steadily being destroyed by development."

He said conservationists "withstood the disinterest and ridicule from a largely uninformed public long before the word conservation became fashionable. And in about 20 years, it was the conservation community that succeeded in rescuing a species that had already existed for 50 million years. That's quite a feat."

The action affects about 600,000 alligators in Florida and the coastal regions of Georgia, Louisiana, South Carolina and Texas. These constitute about three-fourths of all the alligators in the country.

Still classified as endangered are alligators in the inland portions of those states and in Mississippi, Oklahoma, North Carolina, Arkansas and Alabama.

Under the new designation, certain state and federal officials will be allowed to kill sick or dangerous alligators as well as specimens for scientific or conservation purposes.

Border Patrol Hunts Heroic Illegal Alien

IMPERIAL BEACH (AP) — A young Mexican boy who saved the life of a U.S. Border Patrol agent's son, risking capture as an illegal alien, apparently is hidden again in the shadows along the border.

"The home address he gave me in Tijuana — just a few blocks from the line — is nonexistent," patrolman Frank Pearce said today. "We just can't find him."

Although he promised to telephone Pearce early Monday, Jose Ruben Garibay Canal never called. Pearce wants to help him get into the United States legally if Garibay's papers are in order.

Pearce's 14-year-old son Kevin was thrown from his horse and his leg pinned in an accident witnessed last Saturday by Garibay, hiding in bushes just north of the border.

Young Pearce could barely keep his head above water in the rain-swollen pond. Garibay sloshed through 60 feet of chest-high water to free the struggling boy.

Together, they rode back to the Pearce home, and the border patrolman later took Garibay back to Tijuana in his car, promising to help him into the United States, where the boy said his father is a resident alien.

"I think he's afraid now," Pearce said at the Border Patrol office here. "Young Mexicans like him have an inherent dislike of the law and the system, and he knows what my job is."

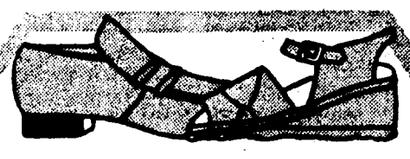

The patrolman plans to don civilian clothes tonight and drive alone through Tijuana to search for the boy.

WEATHER AHEAD – Continuing cold weather is forecast for the northern and central Plains and the East. Seasonably cool weather is forecast for the West. Snow is forecast for most of the Plains and rain is expected for the central and western Gulf and the central Pacific Coast.

Cold Front Enters Pacific Northwest

By The Associated Press

Stormy weather eased away from much of the nation, but cold temperatures remained the rule this morning.

A cold front just entering the Pacific Northwest caused widespread rain across portions of northern California, south Oregon and western Washington. Snow fell across parts of Oregon and Washington.

Locally heavy snow hit portions of the Oregon Cascades and southeast Oregon, and travel advisories were issued for these areas. Snow also was widespread across Michigan and the lower Great Lakes region.

A travel advisory was up across western New York, where the combination of snow squalls and gusty winds produced low visibility in some areas.

Light rain and drizzle was reported across much of south Texas. Extensive low cloudiness reached northward into southwest Arkansas.

Unseasonably cold temperatures dominated most sections of the nation, with more seasonable readings restricted to the Pacific states, the Southwest and Texas.

Sub-zero temperatures reached from the northern Rockies across the north half of the plains, the upper Mississippi valley and a portion of the lower Ohio valley.

Skies were clear over most sections, but it was cloudy over the Gulf coast states, the Great Lakes region, the Ohio valley, the Pacific states and the northern Rockies.

Waldheim To Visit Mideast To Promote Geneva Talks

Secretary-General KURT WALDHEIM will visit the Middle East for two weeks starting Feb. 1 for talks aimed at resuming the Geneva peace conference, a well-placed U.N. source says. Waldheim will visit Egypt, Israel, Jordan, Syria and possibly Lebanon, and also will talk with officials of the Palestine Liberation Organization at an unspecified location, it was stated. His visit would be in accord with a General Assembly resolution asking him to contact parties to the Mideast conflict in an effort to get the conference resumed by the end of March.

President IDI AMIN of Uganda is reportedly planning to invite to the Jan. 19 anniversary observance of his rise to power a Japanese World War II straggler who surrendered after hiding out for 29 years. The Kyodo news service, in a dispatch from Nairobi, reported Amin said the invitation to the straggler, HIROO ONODA, "is expected to greatly contribute to raising the morale of Uganda's army." Omoda, 54, surrendered in March 1974 after repeated attempts were made to reach him in the jungles of the tiny Philippine island of Lubang to convince him that World War II had ended.

SHERMAN ADAMS, who was chief of staff and confidant to President Dwight D. Eisenhower, has been hospitalized after falling at a New Hampshire ski resort. A spokesman for the Loon Mountain Resort said Adams, 78, fell and injured his head while walking during the worst blizzard in 10 years. He was reported in satisfactory condition and being held for observation at Mary Hitchcock Hospital in Hanover.

Funeral services are scheduled in Calexico today for EARL D. ROBERTS, 85, two-time mayor and former U.S. customs collector for the San Diego-Imperial County District.

British-born actress EVA LE GALLIENNE celebrated her 78th birthday in award-winning fashion. The actress was presented the American National Theatre and Academy's prestigious National Artist Award for her contributions in a theatrical career spanning more than 60 years. American actors PETER FALK, KARL MALDEN and BURGESS MEREDITH were among a group who paid tribute to Miss Le Gallienne at a luncheon at the University of Southern California. The actress made her stage debut in 1914 at the Queen's Theatre, following studies at the Royal Academy of Dramatic Arts in London.

RUTH WAKEFIELD, who was credited with originating the toll house chocolate chip cookie, has died at a Plymouth, Mass., hospital. She was 73. Mrs. Wakefield had operated the Toll House Inn in Whitman with her husband since 1930. The restaurant was once the toll house on the road between Boston and New Bedford. The couple sold the restaurant and inn in 1967.

PRINCE JEAN-FELIX DE MERODE, 33, a descendant of one of Belgium's oldest noble families, was found dead Tuesday on the stairway of his Paris apartment building, apparently the victim of a fall. Police said their early suspicions he had been beaten to death were apparently not sustained by an autopsy, which found only one wound at the base of the skull, consistent with his having hit the staircase in falling.

Glen Tidball, Ex-Excelsior Official, Dies

SANTA ANA – Private graveside services will be held Thursday at Fairhaven Memorial Park for David Glen Tidball, retired secretary-treasurer of the Excelsior Creamery Co. and a resident of this city since 1910, who died Monday.

Friends are invited to a memorial service for Mr. Tidball at 7:30 p.m. Thursday in the First Presbyterian Church, Santa Ana Boulevard and Sycamore Street, with Dr. Robert Ball and Rev. Lawrence Brown officiating.

Mr. Tidball was born in Brookings, S.D., whence he came with his parents to Santa Ana. He served in the Army during World War I. He retired in 1974 after 59 years with the same company.

Mr. Tidball was a charter member and past president of the Santa Ana Lions Club, a charter member of Toastmasters International, a member of the Chamber of Commerce here, a past president of the local YMCA, and a former chairman of the Community Chest Campaign in this city.

The family suggest that memorials be made to the First Presbyterian Church scholarship fund. Blower Bros. Mortuary is in charge of funeral arrangements.

Supreme Court Rules On Cost Of Food Stamps

WASHINGTON (AP) – The Supreme Court ruled Tuesday that a welfare recipient may be required to pay more for food stamps if he receives a separate allowance for school transportation.

In a unanimous decision written by Justice John Paul Stevens the court said that such costs may be considered when officials determine income for the welfare recipient.

The case was brought by a Karen Hein of Muscatine, Iowa, a divorced woman with custody of two children who was receiving a grant from the state to pay her tuition at a nurses training school and a transportation allowance of $44 a month.

At the time, Mrs. Hein was paying $46 for food stamps with a retail value of $92. The transportation allowance increased the income that determined the price of her food stamps and the government required her to pay $12 more for them.

Court Says Teacher Can Rap Officials

WASHINGTON (AP) – The Supreme Court Tuesday ordered a federal court to take another look at the case of an Ohio school teacher whose contract was not renewed after he criticized the schoolboard.

The high court, like two federal courts earlier, found that the teacher had the constitutional right to criticize the board publicly. But it said the lower courts should have determined whether the teacher might not have been rehired even if the criticism had not surfaced.

The teacher, Fred Doyle, had won a decision that he should be reinstated and paid $5,158 damages because of his firing by the Mt. Healthy, Ohio, school district.

Carter's Defense Team Warned To Trim Costs

WASHINGTON (AP) – The Carter administration's prospective Pentagon leaders are on notice that the Senate Armed Services Committee expects them to crack down on cost overruns that have helped swell defense spending.

"You might just as well roll up your sleeves," committee chairman John Stennis, D.-Miss., told defense secretary designate Harold Brown and Charles Duncan, deputy secretary-designate.

"You're going to find your problem table piled high" with procurement matters, Stennis warned.

Sen. Howard Metzenbaum, a new Democratic senator from Ohio and a millionaire businessman in private life, said it is "time for a businessman's approach to defense spending."

Brown and Duncan spent Tuesday testifying in public at a confirmation hearing before the committee. The panel will make recommendations on their nominations after President-elect Carter is inaugurated next week.

They were called back for closed-door questioning today.

During Tuesday's hearing, Metzenbaum expressed concern whether the incoming Carter administration's announced intention to save $5 billion to $7 billion in defense spending "is a matter of mirrors."

His comment came after Brown warned the committee that "it's not going to be easy" to cut that amount from the defense budget submitted to Congress by President Ford.

"I don't think that it's something we can promise for the first budget we prepare, but that is our goal," Brown said.

The Carter administration's first full budget will go to Congress a year from now and will cover the fiscal year starting in October 1978.

Brown indicated he doubts very much can be cut from the Ford administration's final defense budget, which is expected to total a record $123 billion when it reaches Capitol Hill next week. That budget will apply to the fiscal year starting this October.

Vietnam War Mistake, Vance Informs Panel

WASHINGTON (AP) – Secretary of State-designate Cyrus R. Vance, a prime architect of American Vietnam policy in the 1960s, said Tuesday that the Vietnam war had been a mistake.

At the same time he set down for the Senate Foreign Relations Committee during confirmation hearings, a guide that the Carter administration will follow in foreign policy.

Foremost will be a diplomacy based on "fundamental human rights" and an openness with Congress and the American people. "We must stand for human rights, without intervention" in other nation's affairs, he said.

It was the mistaken view that the United States could unilaterally impose its views on Vietnam that led to the failure of American policy in Southeast Asia, Vance suggested.

Vance, who was secretary of the Army and undersecretary of defense during the Kennedy-Johnson administrations, said the United States erred in trying to "prop up" a regime that didn't have popular support, in thinking it could impose Western values in Asia, in failing to consult with allies and in thinking U.S. military might was unlimited.

EMOTIONAL SPEECH

Kissinger Adieu To Jewish Leaders

New York News

NEW YORK – His voice choking with emotion, Henry A. Kissinger said farewell as Secretary of State to the organized American Jewish community Tuesday. He pledged that he would persevere as a private citizen as "long as I live" in the struggle for peace in the Middle East.

Kissinger's speech in the afternoon to the Conference of Presidents of Major Jewish Organizations and his remarks in the evening to the Foreign Policy Association were his last major appearances before leaving office on Jan. 20 with the inauguration of President-elect Carter.

The Secretary of State chose New York City for his swan songs because he grew up here, and his parents still live here – in the Washington Heights area of upper Manhattan.

Kissinger's appearance at a luncheon tribute to him by the Jewish leaders at the Hotel Pierre was particularly warm, and he responded to it with great emotion.

"Thirteen members of my family died in concentration camps....I cannot forget what it was like to live in Nazi Germany," he said in a quavering voice in response to remarks by Rabbi Alexander Schindler, chairman of the conference.

Kissinger said that his Jewish background had created for him "a complicated relationship" with Israeli leaders in his quest for peace in the Middle East during his tenure for the last eight years as a main architect of United States foreign policy.

He said, however, that the thrust of American policy in the Ford and Nixon administrations was to create a situation in which Israel remained strong and was "not dependent for survival on the goodwill of its neighbors." He said that this policy "transcends whoever may be President."

"Israel must always be strong enough to defend itself and the United States must see to it that it is strong because only then can a lasting peace be negotiated

Kissinger, tanned from a vacation in Mexico, got off several one-liners before he turned serious. He spoke after a sumptuous meal of fish, meat and coconut cake and quipped:

"I am fulfilling the wish of every Jewish mother for her son: To do something for the people of the world and never miss a meal. I am eating myself out of this job."

Supervisors Call Energy Seminar

By SANDI MOSLEY
Register Staff Writer

SANTA ANA — Fearful of another Arab oil embargo, county supervisors Tuesday called a meeting of city, state and utility company officials to begin preparing for future energy shortages.

Under an already-adopted state emergency plan, residents here could be subjected to rolling blackouts and a mandatory one-day-a-week ban on automobile use.

Purpose of the supervisors' one-day seminar, to be scheduled in May, is to develop a county plan for implementing the state's policies, and, if necessary, for recommending changes to lessen the economic impact.

State law does not require counties to adopt implementation plans, but Supervisor Laurence Schmit said the county and cities should understand how they will be required to enforce the state plan.

"I feel that, in spite of the internal problems OPEC (Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries) has been having recently, we should not sit back and hope that the 'cartel' will deteriorate further," Schmit said in a letter to fellow supervisors.

"The elementary fact of the matter is that this nation is still very much dependent upon OPEC oil and is, therefore, vulnerable to its whims and changing dispositions," the letter said.

As county administrative analyst Al Nestlinger put it, the oil embargo of 1973 may have caught state and county officials unprepared, "but we don't have any excuse for that happening again."

Supervisors authorized spending up to $2,000 to put on the by-invitation-only seminar but hoped to recoup the costs from an admission fee to cover lunch and the cost of literature to be distributed during afternoon workshops.

The seminar is to be cosponsored by the county and the two-year-old state energy resources conservation and development commission.

University economics authorities, representatives of the federal Energy Administration, city and county law enforcement agencies and utility company spokesmen are to attend the seminar, Nestlinger said.

Schmit said Robert Ham, state emergency planning manager, has endorsed the seminar and indicated it "might serve as a model for future meetings of this nature in other parts of the state."

The state plan, presented by the energy commission to the legislature last year, spells out energy priorities for business, residential and automotive use in case of a shortage.

Ray Hillier, state emergency planning coordinator, said motorists may be issued colored stickers for their cars, indicating which day of the week they may be banned from driving.

Electrical and natural gas customers also could be asked to curtail use or face stiff surcharges if they don't, he said.

"The situation is such that we're subject to more problems than before (1973)," he added. "With the drought this year (and a lack of water to power electricity generators), we'll be needing two times more oil this year in Northern California."

Gas Rate Increase To Raise Bills 4.6¢

LOS ANGELES (AP) – The Southern California Gas Co. won permission from the state Public Utilities Commission on Tuesday to raise its rates effective immediately.

The average residential customer would get a monthly increase of 4.6 cents in his gas bill to provide the firm with $3.3 million needed to help finance gas exploration operations, company spokesmen said. Commercial customers also are affected by the rate hike, they said.

The increase comes as the giant utility is cutting back supplies to many commercial customers as supplies dwindle and new sources remain entangled in controversy.

But so far no residential customers have had supplies cut back and none are expected to until after 1981, gas company officials say.

None of the cutback projections takes into account millions of barrels of liquefied natural gas which the utility wants to ship in on specially adapted supertankers from Alaska and Indonesia and perhaps later from ports in the Middle East.

Environmentalists and residents of harbor areas where the LNG ports are planned have delayed approval of the proposals.

CM Wins Another Round In Fight With Landowner

By RITA ROBINSON
Register Staff Writer

COSTA MESA – An 81-year-old woman resisting a city move to condemn her property has lost another skirmish but still says she will continue her fight.

An "immediate possession" order took effect Saturday on Ruth Swope's property at 574 W. Center St. The city wants the property for its nearly $3 million downtown community center project.

But Mrs. Swope said she's determined not to let the city take the property away from her.

"We're going to court with the city before anything like that happens," Mrs. Swope said.

Even though the city now technically owns the property, Mrs. Swope said she doesn't recognize the order. "I'm still the owner, I still collect the rent," she said.

The property and the three-bedroom, 750-square-foot house on it have belonged to Mrs. Swope for 30 years. She rents the house to a family for $200 a month.

"They're still over there," she said of her tenants. "They gave me this month's rent right on time as usual. They aren't moving."

The city condemned the property last October for its "super block" project, which includes a new fire station, a senior citizens' center, an expanded library and a youth center across from Lions Park.

A new law effective last July 1 allows cities to take "immediate possession" of property it deems necessary to serve the public's interest.

The city's last offer to Mrs. Swope for her property was $36,000. She flatly refused.

All but three of the 15 property owners in the "super block" have accepted the city's offers.

Mrs. Swope said she's not holding out for more money, although she said selling it for $36,000 was "giving it away." She says she simply doesn't want to sell it to the city.

"I would rather give a lawyer every cent I have than give the city one dime's worth of my property," she stated.

City Atty. Roy June said there are no immediate plans to evict Mrs. Swope's tenants.

"Obviously, we aren't going in and tell them to leave," June said. "We can't relocate them until we find another place."

June said that according to the Relocation Assistance Act the city must find the tenants a "comparable" place to live in the city, and pay moving and incidental costs.

"In other words, we have to assure that they move from one spot to the other without any out-of-pocket costs (to them)," he said.

June said that in this case the city will probably find something better for the tenants because "what they've got down there is pretty grim."

He said the city is having trouble relocating the tenants because they "aren't cooperating."

Mrs. Swope's attorney, Richard Lynn, said he's working on a letter requesting the courts to repeal the "immediate possession" order.

He said he's also compiling a two-part argument: 1. Does the city have the right to take Mrs. Swope's property and is it in the best public interest? 2. What is the right price for the property?

He said a judge will answer the first part of his question while a jury will decide the latter, "if it gets to that point."

Lynn said no date has been set yet for the preliminary hearing on the case. He said he expects a date to be issued anywhere between two and six months, adding that it could be a year before the case is decided.

Assembly Speeds Up Anti-Smog Loan Bill

SACRAMENTO (AP) – The Assembly voted Tuesday to hasten action on a $2-million loan proposal aimed at keeping the state's largest anti-smog program breathing.

The measure, by Assemblyman Jerry Lewis, R-Highland, would provide operating money for the South Coast Air Quality Management District. By a law he sponsored, it replaces the voluntary Southern California Air Pollution Control District on Feb. 1.

Los Angeles County's Board of Supervisors has refused to allocate $2.6 million as its share of financing the four-county district. Its members from Orange, San Bernardino and Riverside counties pay on the basis of population.

The Assembly voted 69-0 to waive rules that would have required a 30-day wait before Lewis' loan bill could be heard.

Lewis, who wants the bill acted upon in time to keep the district from going into limbo, plans to take up the bill in the Assembly Ways and Means Committee next week.

Meantime, the state has sued the county in an effort to force its participation under the law, but Lewis said he doesn't expect a ruling before mid-March.

Lewis said that the Assembly's vote to accelerate action should be a signal to the district administration that it would be "ill-advised" to go ahead with a plan to lay off some 200 workers, about half the district's payroll.

"There's a good chance" the bill will go to the governor in two weeks, Lewis added.

Another bill, introduced Monday by Sen. Nate Holden, D-Culver City, would give the district $2.4 million with no strings attached.

Los Angeles County, which has dominated the voluntary district, has taken the position that it should have the largest voice on the new district board because it pays 70 per cent of the local government costs.

Lewis' bill is AB 181. Holden's is SB 108.

BRIDAL GOWNS
Dear Trouble Shooter

A year ago, your readers were helpful in making our annual "Sweetheart Banquet" a huge success by lending us wedding gowns of yesteryears for our "Brides of Yesterday" fashion show.

This year, because the Feb. 12 event is also the kick-off banquet for a missionary conference at the Broadway Baptist Church (Santa Ana), the fashion show will have an international flavor. We need native garments or costumes from countries around the world and are hoping your readers can help us again.

Needless to say, each garment loaned us will receive tender loving care and will be returned shortly after the banquet.

R. McC.
Santa Ana

Let's ask folks who can help if they'll give Rosalie McCuistion a jingle at 546-1671 any evening or weekend, all right?

MEDIC NEEDED
Dear Trouble Shooter

I have a son who attends Nueva View School, a school for handicapped children in the Ocean View School District.

The children were given forms to fill out for the upcoming Special Olympics. This year, they require a medical check up and doctor's signature in order to participate.

Many of these children come from families that just can't afford a $25 or $30 physical at this time.

Is there any doctor in this area who would be willing to come to the school to perform these checkups?

B. DeC.
Huntington Beach

Doesn't do any harm to ask, does it? Let's ask doctors who want to help to get in touch pronto with Rose Lee at Nueva View School. The phone number is 842-8718.

MEND YOUR OWN
Dear Trouble Shooter

Thought your readers might like to know that classes in porcelain restoration and furniture restoration will begin Jan. 17 at Attic Unlimited, 285 S. Glassell, Orange.

Those who need further details can call us at 997-1222.

S.S.
Orange

Always happy to tell folks about special classes like yours. Hope you have a good turn-out, and that lots of Trouble Shooter readers are able to restore family treasures as a result of your instructions.

INTERESTED?
Dear Trouble Shooter

I have a 6-ft. artificial Christmas tree, ornaments, tinsel, and assorted toys and games for the 5 to 12 age group that I would like to donate to a person or organization that can really use them. Will you ask interested persons to contact me by writing you a letter with the words "tree and toys" on the outer envelope, and will you forward the letters to me?

T.D.
Buena Park

You betcha! And, folks should be sure to include a phone number where you can contact them.

Another reader (J.D. of Anaheim) writes the Trouble Shooter that she has close to a dozen bowling trophies she'd like to see put to good use. The Trouble Shooter from time to time receives requests for such trophies. If interested folks will contact him by mail, he'll put them in touch with J.D.

CAN YOU HELP?
Dear Trouble Shooter

I have a developmentally disabled 11-year-old son who needs daily therapy at the Day Treatment Center on Chapman Avenue in Orange. His first therapy session is today. He attends school in Tustin. In order to get to the treatment center, he has to be picked up at school at about 1:30 p.m., taken to the center, picked up when his therapy is finished at 5 p.m. and taken home. I work 8 a.m. to 5 p.m., so this is impossible for me.

My son is incapable of taking the OCTD, because he would have to change buses three times. Dial-A-Lift services only the physically handicapped. The Nickel Bus services only Tustin. I have contacted every organization I can think of with no success.

I can't believe that there isn't some agency or person to help children like my son who desperately need therapy, but have no way to get it.

J.B.
Tustin

If an agency can't help, Ma'am, perhaps an individual will. Let's ask anyone who can solve your dilemma to call you after 6:30 p.m. at 544-7120.

YOUR REUNION?
Dear Trouble Shooter

The Villa Park High School Class of 1967 is planning its 10-year reunion to be held Aug. 27 and 28.

Since less than half of our classmates have been contacted, will you please ask any class members who read your column if they'll write the VPHS Reunion, P.O. Box 1326, Orange 92668, or call 832-3322?

K.F.
Tustin

Always happy to help round folks up for their class reunions. The 10-year ones are the hardest because lots of name and address changes have taken place.

MISSING SON
Dear Trouble Shooter

We have a son who has been missing since he left home to go hiking in the Cleveland National Forest off Ortega Highway in Orange County. We haven't heard from him since he left two and one-half years ago. He was told to call us when he needed a ride, so we could pick him up wherever he was, and we told him to call collect.

We notified the police he was missing, gave them all the information and his picture. No results.

We don't know what else to do. We are parents who love our children, yet we were told he is of age, an adult, and free to go wherever he wants. He left on July 13, 1974. His name is Angelo "Nick" Gatti. He was born Sept. 19, 1952. He loves to go hiking and surfing. He likes farming and gardening. He is 5 feet 2, has blue eyes and weighs 120 lbs. He has very light brown hair and a short reddish brown beard.

Will you ask anyone who may have given him a ride or who knows where he is to give us a call? We are heartsick over his disappearance.

V.G. and A.G.
Newport Beach

The phone number, for anyone who can provide a lead to your son's whereabouts, is 642-0552. If necessary, call collect.

IN-BETWEENERS
Dear Trouble Shooter

The Ol' Trouble Shooter did it again! You became the "angel" for the In-Betweeners.

The response to our letter in your column was overwhelming. I had to eat standing up the first night, never got off the phone.

We had our first meeting on Dec. 18, thanks to the kindness of the Santa Ana First Federal Bank who allowed us to use their Friendship Room. Now, we're getting ready for our second get-together.

Looks like we're in for some fun times with some real fine people. Thanks again. You gave us a wonderful Christmas present.

J.C.
Santa Ana

Folks will recall that J.C. wrote the Trouble Shooter in November asking if there were some sort of organization for folks who were between the ages of "the swinging singles" and the "golden agers." He suggested that J.C. help organize an "In-Betweeners" club, and that's what she did.

Others who are interested can contact J.C. for details on the club by calling 546-2185 evenings.

FURNITURE NEED
Dear Trouble Shooter

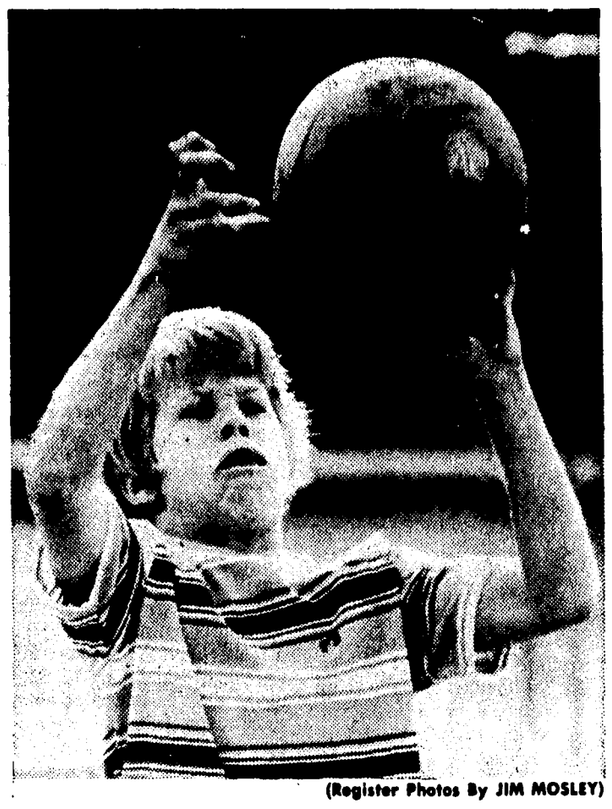

The Southwest Recovery House, 1717 W. McFadden, Santa Ana, is in need of two couches, kitchen utensils, chests of drawers and linens. This is a rehabilitation unit for alcoholics.

Do you think some of your readers will be willing to donate some of the articles (used) that I've mentioned?

D.G.
Fullerton

Doesn't do any harm to ask, does it? Folks who want to help should call 558-9851, (558-9851, and ask for "Pete" or "Pedro."

SWEET, BUT SHORT, VICTORY — Bert Carr of Mission Viejo stares at the hoop, an oversized basketball grasped firmly in his small hands. Slowly, he raises the ball, every muscle thinking "basket." And by the smile on his face, photo below, it's easy to tell he made his shot. Bert made six out of 15 shots as the only 11-year-old boy competing in a recent free throw contest sponsored by the Saddleback Valley Knights of Columbus. He thought he'd won it, but later learned his eleventh birthday was after the July 1976 deadline. But Bert's brother, Wayne, was luckier — he won in the 13-year-old category. Other winners were Sherri Sommers, 11, Beth Bergan, 12, and Greg Grumdeman, 12, all of Mission Viejo.

Remap Plan 'Redesigned'

3 OC Supervisors Agree Not To Divide Up Newport Beach

By LARRY PETERSON
Register Staff Writer

SANTA ANA – The most controversial portion of political strategist William Butcher's supervisorial redistricting plan is dead.

While county supervisors are far from agreeing on just how to redraw their political districts, three of the five board members have agreed on what should not be done.

Specifically, supervisors Thomas Riley, Laurence Schmit and Philip Anthony don't like Butcher's proposal to take half of Newport Beach from Riley's fifth district and graft it onto Schmit's second district.

The remainder of Butcher's apparently unsolicited redistricting plan, however, still has a lot of appeal to most board members.

And the plan could be implemented – with a few adjustments – without ripping Newport apart.

The Butcher plan goes a long way toward achieving the supervisors' shared goals of equalizing district populations and reducing the number of cities split by district lines. And it appears to have to have at least as many pluses as minuses for everyone but Riley.

The other major thrust of the Butcher plan shifts Ralph Diedrich's north county third district far to the south, picking up half of what is now Riley's Saddleback Valley.

To accommodate that relocation, Diedrich would leave his district's Anaheim, Cypress, La Palma and Buena Park areas to fourth district Supervisor Ralph Clark.

Riley concedes that his sprawling south county district which has some 82,000 too many residents to conform to the court-mandated one-man, one-vote rule, will have to be reduced in size.

But his reaction to Butcher's proposal to give half his home town to Schmit's district was, "No way!"

While neither has publicly stated whether any further agreement was reached, both supervisors and their aides have hinted that they would be happy to see the line between their districts drawn along the Santa Ana River.

That would preserve for Schmit the best features of the Butcher plan – consolidating within his district all of Huntington Beach and Fountain Valley – while eliminating the Newport Beach division which both he and Riley say they don't want.

Use of the river as a boundary still would leave Riley's district with about 25,000 residents more than it should have if all five supervisorial areas are to be equal in population.

But, as an aide to a north county supervisor suggested, the difference could be more or less eliminated by canceling another feature of the Butcher plan – the proposed addition of all of Tustin to Riley's district.

To achieve equal population in a redistricting move, the following could be done:

Anthony, who already represents a small piece of Tustin, could get the remainder of that city, in turn giving more of his already fragmented Garden Grove holdings to Schmit – moving the dividing line between the first and second districts east, rather than west as Butcher proposed.

Or, Tustin could remain in Riley's district while eliminating another little-noticed feature of the Butcher plan – a proposal to transfer much of south Santa Ana from Anthony to Riley.

Riley hasn't expressed interest in acquiring new constituents in Santa Ana, while Anthony has indicated he would like to see all of Santa Ana – most of which he already represents – in his district.

A Butcher plan, adjusted to keep Riley's district out of Santa Ana, would come close to achieving that goal.

Riley aide Dennis Horn claims that, even without the Newport Beach split, the Butcher plan would "violate democratic principles" by placing large numbers of people under supervisors they had no voice in choosing.

But those whose districts would be most affected by population shifts, Clark and Diedrich, have not objected.

Clark is enthusiastic about Butcher's designation of all of his home town of Anaheim – now split among four supervisors – for inclusion in the fourth district.

Diedrich, while refusing to concede that acquisition of the Saddleback valley would be a political asset for his district, said he's not alarmed by the potential loss of three cities the Butcher plan would earmark for Clark.

The reason Butcher submitted the plan remains shrouded in mystery. The professional campaign manager, said by his office to be "out of the country," remains unavailable for comment.

Each supervisor denies asking for the plan, and Butcher reportedly didn't ask to be paid for his work.

Diedrich said he obtained demographic data from the county administrative officer's staff at Butcher's request.

But Diedrich said he obtained the information merely as a courtesy to Butcher, who could, he said, have gotten it on his own.

Schmit and Anthony have suggested the plan could improve the image of the election firm operated by Butcher and Arnold Ford.

The firm has been criticized because of allegedly unfair campaign tactics and because of Butcher's ties to campaign bankroller Dr. Louis Cella, convicted last year of resorting to fraud and embezzlement to support his political largesse.

"But I don't think he (Butcher), was looking for any publicity at this point," Anthony added.

Riley, Clark and Diedrich and their respective aides are working proposals of their own. Riley aide Dennis Horn said his plan will be ready for consideration within "a few weeks."

A committee of staffers from each district office is expected to begin comparing notes within a month.

Diedrich, interviewed last month, said he's been working on remapping ideas for a year and a half and is honing a plan which will split only three cities, which he would not name.

"I don't think what the board will come up with will be specifically aimed at any one supervisor," he said. "But you've got to remember that redistricting is a purely political act and that there isn't a great deal of reasonableness to it.

"Anyway you look at it, at least three supervisors are going to agree on a plan. I hope to be one of them."

Diedrich said that, for about $6,000, supervisors could have the lines drawn by computer.

"But I don't think its worth the money to have the job done that way," he said. "And I kind of like the idea of playing with the numbers."

Districts Balk At Extra Cost Of Providing School Lunches

By ESTHER BAUER
Register Staff Writer

Roger is in the fourth grade, but he reads at a second-grade level.

Although tests show he has above average intelligence, his teacher has recommended that he be held back.

She is confident, however, that his learning ability is curtailed because he is hungry most of the time.

Back in 1973 state senate subcommittee hearings on nutrition and human need established a relationship between hunger and learning.

In an apparent effort to remove the "hunger handicap" from children like Roger, legislators have decreed that all tax-supported school districts provide a lunch beginning in the fall to all so-called needy children at no cost, or at a reduced price.

The catch is that districts have to make lunches available to all students, however, so that the students eligible for free and reduced-price meals can receive the food without other students knowing they don't have to pay.

Many districts throughout California are balking at implementing the program – some complaining they don't want to further burden local taxpayers who will have to pick up the tab.

Federal and state reimbursements pay for only part of a district's initial cost to set up a lunch program, but most of Orange County's 29 elementary, unified and high school districts already have weathered any reimbursement deficits.

The district must offer a food program to 6,250 elementary students in 16 elementary schools by September, but combined federal and state reimbursements will cover only $65,000 of the $100,000 equipment costs.

But, depending upon the area, only two per cent or up to 25 per cent of a school's enrolled students could be classified as "needy," said Lawrence Sutherland Jr., district business manager.

Qualification is determined by family size in relation to monthly income on a formula set up by the state.

Central kitchens at two of the district's four intermediate schools currently supply 2,400 lunches daily for seventh and eighth graders.

Both, now operating at capacity would have to be expanded to handle the load from the elementary schools, as several years ago, the elementary schools dropped lunch programs and converted cafeterias into libraries, Sutherland explained.

State law permits the district to add a maximum five-cent tax rate to property tax bills to pay for needy-student meals, he said. Non-needy students pay for their meals.

Less than one-third of the students are expected to participate in the lunch program – paying and non-paying, he said. "Some schools will be serving less than 60 lunches. There's no way we can operate in the black considering transportation costs.

"Even though the state shares the expense of the program, we don't feel it's justified," he said.

District trustees are expected to approve a pilot program to begin after the Easter recess in four elementary schools to comply with the state mandate.

Another school district, Fountain Valley Elementary, was hit with $178,230 equipment costs to equip cafeterias in its 19 schools last February, said Charles Woodfin, district business manager.

However, combined federal-state reimbursements covered all but $5,000 of the total. The deficit was paid from general fund monies, he said.

Although about 7,100 students have access to the program, on the average only 2,400 students buy lunches. Ten per cent qualify for free or reduced price meals, he said.

The district still has six schools without lunch programs, but all 19 will have the program by March, he said.

The district contracts with a Los Angeles County district for food preparation, and transports the lunches to each school.

All other elementary, unified and high school districts in the county have programs in full operation at a combined budget of $24.1 million.

Combined federal and state grants to the districts total about $6.9 million for the year.

Builders Ask County To Handle Coastal Development Permits

By LARRY PETERSON
Register Staff Writer

SANTA ANA – Claiming that coastal building activity will otherwise grind to a halt, groups representing developers and construction industry unions have asked the county to take over issuing of local coastal development permits as soon as possible.

Under state legislation adopted last year, development applications may be ruled on by the south coast control commission, or the county can handle the applications on its own.

The groups fear the transition from the coastal controls administered under terms of a law that expired in December to the new law now in effect may impose a virtual moratorium in construction. Such a halt, they claim could cost thousands of jobs.

Permit applications submitted since mid-November were not acted on, due to the lack of sufficient time to process them before the end of the year and the fact that the south coast commission already had hundreds of pending applications.

As of Tuesday, the commission had a backlog of 210 official permit applications left over from last year and has this year received 165 new applications which it cannot yet begin to handle, said commission executive director Mel Carpenter. It will be at least a month before it begins approving any of them, he added.

"It's like a conveyor belt" said Gil Ferguson, executive director of Californians for Environment, Employment, Economy and Development (CEEED).

"Since November or so the

G.G. TO SEEK SPECIAL REVIEW OF GLASS CATHEDRAL PLANS

By STEVE EDDY
Register Staff Writer

GARDEN GROVE – When Garden Grove and other cities adopted the Uniform Building Code, they probably had no inkling that someone would want to construct a 12-story, star-shaped glass cathedral.

So city officials are going to have to ask for help in estimating how safe Garden Grove Community Church's proposed $10 million facility would be in the event of earthquake or severe winds.

This week, the city council approved a general development plan for the 4,100-seat Crystal Cathedral that will be about the length of one and a third football fields. Its star-shaped shell of more than 10,000 reflective glass panels is to be supported by geometrical webs and pipes and rods.

The council's action does not preclude the city staff's ultimately refusing to okay specific engineering plans for the mammoth worship hall.

"We are not anticipating any major problems," said Richard Rafanovic, city director of public works and development. "But this building is not something you can approve by looking at a set of existing tables. We will institute a close review of some of the more complicated aspects of the proposal."

He said members of the International Conference of Building Officials, as well as a special committee of the state's Structural Engineers Association for Unusual Buildings will be asked to assign experts in specific engineering areas to review aspects of the preliminary plans after the city receives them in about a month.

The church has agreed to foot the bill for that review, which Rafanovic said could amount to around a half per cent of the structure's cost. With the current price tag for the cathedral figured at $10 million, the church could have to pay about $50,000 for the special review.

"I don't think they have the slightest idea how much it (the review) is going to cost," said Bain Fisher, director of church business affairs. "They don't know what we're going to submit yet. But what they are requiring appears reasonable, and we're willing to do anything we have to do.

"What our architect submits may be entirely satisfactory," said Fisher."

Fisher said the church has already collected or received pledges for $6 million toward cathedral cost, primarily through offerings of $500 for each glass pane. Three persons have promised to donate $1 million each, he said.

The structure, according to church pastor the Rev. Robert Schuller, "will stand for centuries as a lasting monument to the glory of God."

The cathedral, which city officials believe will be the first of its type in the world, has been designed by New York architects Philip Johnson and John Burgee.

Rafanovic said the Unusual Buildings group is "the cream of the crop" of engineers, and offers expertise in specific areas not available on the city's staff.

"What would happen in the event of an earthquake?" asked Rafanovic, "or a good Santa Ana wind? What would happen if both occurred at the same time? These are the things we'll try to find out."

He said many design aspects of the cathedral – such as electrical, gas and mechanical requirements – will probably be the same as other structures of similar size.

"In addition, there are things like the Astrodome, which utilize some of these engineering principles. But there is nothing else quite like the cathedral. It's not the kind of thing for which we have developed standards. Hundreds of them have not been built."

What if the reviewers say the cathedral plans won't fly?

"That's an unlikely event," said Rafanovic. "They might suggest revisions, and we would in turn suggest those to the church. We would say that the plans have to be changed on the basis of extremely competent, technical advice.

"If they should refuse to change the plans, we'll just have to find out who will hold."

Supervisors Cut Expenses Review

SANTA ANA – County Supervisors took advantage of a new state law Tuesday to eliminate a legal inspection of their claims for expense reimbursement.

But supervisors chairman Thomas Riley appeared surprised that the issue passed by a narrow, 3-2 vote. "I don't know what's the matter," he said. "One day we want it, and now we're fighting over it."

The new state law, which the supervisors proposed for legislation in Sacramento last year, allows them to bypass the county counsel if they make such a vote at the local level.

The county counsel has screened supervisors' expense claims since 1941. County Auditor-Controller Vic Heim will get the claims directly following Tuesday's action.

Supervisor Ralph Diedrich said he will continue to send his to County Counsel Adrian Kuyper.

Diedrich, under investigation by the district attorney for alleged illegal political activity on behalf of other candidates, said he would "feel more comfortable" if Kuyper continued to be a "check and balance" to prevent any "innocent mistakes" from getting through.

Diedrich and Schmit opposed the change in accounting procedure.

Kuyper called the old procedure "an anachronism" from the days when supervisors personally passed on all payment by the county for supplies and salaries. State law already has given them the power to delegate approval of all other bills to the auditor-controller.

He said he still may be reviewing supervisors' bills, if Heim asks him for a legal opinion on an expenditure.

"It doesn't change my policy at all," Heim an elected official, added later. "The fact that the county counsel approved a claim ahead of time never mattered. We've always looked at them just as though they had come directly to us."

Plan To Hire Asian Welfare Workers OKd

SANTA ANA – Nine new welfare workers will be hired by the county to help Southeast Asian immigrants with emotional, financial and medical problems they are encountering in this county.

County supervisors Tuesday approved a $71,485 budget to hire the employes through August when federal funding of the Indo-Chinese welfare program is to end.

Supervisors, though, also called for a complete report on how much is being spent by all county agencies on the refugees.

About $2.3 million is being given out in federal welfare payments to the refugees, but that does not include cost of health and mental health care that is budgeted separately.

Robert Love, county interim welfare directory, said the number of refugees on welfare has spiraled from 293 in July 1975 to 3,331 last November.

In August 1976, he said, the refugee problem was compounded by the arrival of Thailand immigrants who have a separate language and culture and did not have to pass the same health screening given to the earlier Vietnamese refugees.

2c Gas Tax Hike Favored In SCAG Transit Plan

By TIM SKROVE
Register Staff Writer

SANTA ANA – A regional transportation plan calling for a two-cent-per-gallon gasoline tax hike, mandatory maintenance and inspection of automobiles by 1981 and completion of the Newport Freeway through Costa Mesa, was reviewed here Tuesday at a public hearing.

The plan, drafted by the Southern California Association of Governments (SCAG), a regional planning agency composed of representatives from six counties and 126 cities in Southern California, outlines a long list of objectives in transportation and air quality.

But the hearing drew only about 25 individuals, half being members of the press and SCAG staff and most of the remainder representing cities.

SCAG transportation planner Jim Gosnell said some of the long range goals of the plan include increasing the use of public transportation. Currently, 2.5 per cent of all trips taken are made on tax supported transportation, a figure SCAG would like to increase to 6 per cent by 1985.

The plan also outlines the amounts of auto emissions that could be eliminated and the amounts of gasoline saved by reducing the total number of miles driven by 5 per cent in 1980 and by 20 per cent by 1995. The percentage estimates are based on projections of how many miles would have been driven had measures not been taken to control private driving.

To reduce the total number of miles driven, SCAG proposes the use of high-occupancy vehicles (such as buses), metered freeway on-ramps and preferential lanes–similar to the ill-fated diamond lane project on the Santa Monica Freeway last year.

Gosnell said, however, the public's reaction to the diamond lane and a SCAG decision last week not to open a similar lane on the San Diego Freeway in Los Angeles County, may be a prelude to an entire review of the preferential lane concept.

Gosnell said an estimated $12.8 billion will be spent on transportation in the SCAG planning region, which includes Orange, Los Angeles Riverside, San Bernardino, Imperial and Ventura counties, during the next 10 years, based on existing tax fund resources.

If additional money becomes available, that figure could climb to $19.7 billion, accoring to the report.

Gosnell said the transportation plan also calls for the revamping of how transportation funds can be spent. Currently, those funds must be used for capital improvements.

But the increasing costs of maintaining and operating transportation systems may require use of transportation funds for those costs.

The two-cent gasoline tax, which would have to be approved by the state legislature, would provide local funds for streets and roads.

Gosnell said the transportation plan calls for no major construction other than three improvement projects including the completion of the Newport Freeway through Costa Mesa.

The plan also calls for the maximum use of existing facilities before new ones are constructed.

OC Car Dealer Settles Suit On False Ads

SANTA ANA – An Anaheim car dealership has agreed to pay $7,500 to the Orange County general fund in settling a false advertising suit filed by the District Attorney's Office.

Vern Trider Chevrolet, 215 S. Euclid Ave. admitted no liability in agreeing to the settlement, according to Deputy Dist. Atty. Doug McFarland.

The suit alleged that the car dealership engaged in false advertising by representing that the public could buy new cars at dealer's cost or for $1 over dealer's cost, when such deals were not made.

McFarland said the dealership was ordered to refrain from engaging in similar activity in the future.

Sunset Beach Sandbagging Cost $1,100

SANTA ANA – Sandbagging and other flood prevention measures during high tides last month in Sunset Beach cost county taxpayers $1,100.

Flood officials submitted the figure in a report to county supervisors that showed they used 1,500 sandbags to divert the tide from flooding beach community homes.

DOES WAY GIRLS DRESS DRIVE MEN TO RAPE?

By Abigail Van Buren

© 1977 by Chicago Tribune-N.Y. News Synd. Inc

DEAR ABBY: It's no wonder so many girls and women are raped these days. They go around without bras, wearing halters and skin-tight pants, and some of them even leave their whole midsections bare naked. They practically ask for it!

I'm not saying we should be easy on the rapists who commit these terrible crimes, but the way some girls dress I can understand how a man can be tempted beyond his ability to control himself.

GRANDMA: GARDEN CITY, N.Y.

DEAR GRANDMA: The theory that girls "ask for it" by the way they dress is not valid. What's so tempting about a 10-month-old baby wearing a diaper? Or an 85-year-old woman in a housedress?

Rapists are more interested in humiliating and degrading a female than in satisfying themselves sexually. Any female (of any age) will do.

One piece of advice to women on how to dress to protect themselves against rape: Wear shoes you can RUN in.

DEAR ABBY: The continuing discussion in your column regarding "recycled dentures" brought to mind an old limerick, which you may have heard:

"There was an old man of Tarentum
Who gnashed his false teeth 'till he bent 'em.
When they asked him the cost
Of what he had lost,
He replied, 'I can't say, for I rent 'em'."

My research reveals that 70 years ago, British weekly newspapers carried this advertisement: "Old artificial teeth bought. If forwarded by post, utmost value per return or offer made..."

So you see, Abby, what happens to old dentures has intrigued people for a long, long time.

M.E. RING, D.D.S.

DEAR M.E.: Thanks to the editor of the Bulletin of the History of Dentistry.

DEAR ABBY: You printed a letter recently from a former G.I. who said he's yet to see an Army chaplain who would help a G.I. marry a girl who wasn't round-eyed, Anglo-Saxon and Christian. I agree with you; that was an unfair knock to chaplains. But we're hardly a "melting pot" in this country yet, either.

Years ago, I was in love with a wonderful girl I'll call "Rosita." We worked and saved—even picked prunes together. We had a few acres and a shack picked out. I put a tractor together from salvage parts, and we went shopping for used furniture. God knows how much I loved that little dark-haired girl!

But she was Catholic and I, Protestant. She, Italian and I, English. After a struggle with parents, preacher and priest, they finally said they could overlook the difference in nationality, but religion—NO! Each side insisted it had to be their church all the way. Nobody would give in, so we had to say goodbye. Now I see how foolish we were.

Religious freedom? What a joke. Were I to do it again, I'd tell the whole bunch to go fly a kite. A man has only one love like this in a lifetime.

BLEW MY CHANCE

your horoscope

By Jeane Dixon

THURSDAY, JAN. 13

Your birthday today: Adjustment to things as they are comes first. Next a surge of idealism plus an urge to improve your personal world sets in for an active, generally successful year. This is a time to translate past experience into wisdom through meditation. Relationships lead to many incidents you wouldn't plan. Today's natives are militant, bluntly candid. Those born this year will be smoother, plan a long series of intermediate phases to get where they are going.

Aries [March 21-April 19]: Pressure, interference factors decrease; life returns to normal. Review your financial status, make minor readjustments as indicated by competent advisors.

Taurus [April 20-May 20]: Talks are circuitous, involve people who aren't part of the basic situation, but do relieve many problems. Take legal action only on professional counsel.

Gemini [May 21-June 20]: Special opportunities are at hand if you've gotten through this week's endless squabbles unscathed. Apply for privileges, pay raises, new jobs where appropriate.

Cancer [June 21-July 22]: Where you move on sudden impulse or obey somebody's whim, the one area that needs exceptional care is money. Older folk's concerns are your responsibility.

Leo [July 23-Aug. 22]: Make sure home, workplace are free of hazard. Leave unfamiliar repairs to technicians. Go it alone on things you know. Put in overtime if adequately paid.

Virgo [Aug. 23-Sept. 22]: Check important deals with experienced people, leave nothing to chance. Don't trust unmotivated friends with any of the action or promise any rewards to come.

Libra [Sept. 23-Oct. 22]: Serious effort to persuade VIPs to help is in order. Advice lacks understanding of your position; forget it. Let go the past to improve emotional climate.

Scorpio [Oct. 23-Nov. 21]: Budgets suffer as you respond to an urge to indulge in a moment of luxury. Find a balance between work and pleasure. Romantic invitations are likely.

Sagittarius [Nov. 22-Dec. 21]: You get more done by not being on the spot to take all the credit and blame. Keep your ears open, learn others' intentions, keys to handling them.

Capricorn [Dec. 22-Jan. 19]: Propriety keeps you on honesty's straight and narrow path. Conniving wastes money, engenders conflict. Be thrifty; solid planning takes cash.

Aquarius [Jan. 20-Feb. 18]: Not all nearby are dependable. On crucial items deal with those who proved reliable long ago. In seeking truth, unsuspected facts come to light.

Pisces [Feb. 19-March 20]: Well-intentioned friends are meddlers, more hindrance than real assistance. Listen to their palaver, then do as you please. Emotional ties deepen.

Dog Vivisection Plan Draws Protests

DETROIT (AP) - A proposal to kill nearly 140 dogs for classroom study at Wayne State University Medical School has provoked protest from animal protection groups and some students.

"One Wayne student who asked that her name be withheld, said medical students shouldn't have to kill laboratory animals.

"Most of the things we'll be learning can be learned from looking at a film," she said.

But Dr. Walter Seegers, chairman of Wayne's physiology department, defended the practice.

"We have a responsibility here of hiring a person certified to be able to work on a human being, and you don't learn by using motion pictures or video tapes or anything of that kinds," Seegers said.

"Do you want the student to go to a hospital and pass out the first time he sees a little blood? Let him pass out in front of some dogs instead.

"If nothing else, the feel of your first incision is certainly better experienced here on a dog than in the emergency room of Detroit General Hospital," Seegers said.

The animal protection groups have criticized the Detroit city pound's policy of selling stray dogs to the university for $5 each.

Dr. Alfred Edward, chairman of the university's comparative medicine department, said the dogs - scheduled to die at the pound anyway - will experience no pain during the classroom work.

Joseph Zaremba, manager of the city pound, said Wayne State gets about 300 dogs a year, all of them unclaimed strays.

Seegers said the dogs will be anesthetized before they are taken to laboratory classrooms where students will make incisions, practice heart massage procedure and make other tests.

New Fault Found In HB Complex

By JOANNE TAEUFFER
Register Staff Writer

HUNTINGTON BEACH — A 50-foot-long crack has developed in the concrete plaza between city hall and the police station of this city's three-year-old $12 million civic center complex already plagued with corroding water and gas pipes now being replaced.

The new problem developed last Friday, according to public works director Bill Hartge, when a 10-foot-wide section of the concrete near the city's three flag poles began to sag in the middle.

Eventually a crack developed and has been temporarily filled, Hartge said.

"I don't think this is anything too serious," he said, blaming the problem on soggy soil after a week's rain.

"We'll have to dig out that soil, probably, and fill in with sand; then replace the concrete," Hartge said.

The new repair work probably will get under way before workers have even completed making the last set of city hall repairs.

Underground steel pipes started to deteriorate a year and a half ago, apparently because they were inadequately protected against the area's corrosive soil.

A study of that problem, plus the work to correct it, has cost taxpayers about $15,000.

Farm Women Muscling Into Management

CHICAGO (AP) - More women are taking an active interest in managing farms, but the male-dominated farm organizations are not yet willing to treat women as equals, according to Jim Thomson, editor of a national farm-magazine.

"Are farm organizations ready to treat women as equals? Not so you would notice it, but some changes may be in the wind," he said. "Farm organizations have traditionally had boards of directors that were 100 per cent male. If women were considered, it was for an auxiliary organization.

"With farming becoming more of a business that involves someone handy with a pencil and a calculator, more women are taking on this chore. Modern law has adapted to the idea that the wife owns half the farm. She co-signs the loan, balances the books, and drives the tractor."

People are losing interest in Southern California.*

If you were faced with a sudden need for a substantial amount of cash, what would you do? Dip into your hard-won savings account? Borrow money at today's interest rates? Either way, you'd lose interest. But if you had your savings in an account at Mutual Savings, you'd have another choice.

The 1% Account Loan.

Savers who have certificate accounts with Mutual Savings can borrow up to 90% of their savings account balance. The interest charge is 1% per year more than the interest their account is earning.

We look on these savings account loans as "just-in-case" loans. Having them available means you can put your savings in a certificate of deposit that pays considerably higher interest than a passbook account. For instance, a six-year, $1000 minimum, certificate account pays 8.06% interest per annum when 7.75% is compounded daily. And your account, like all Mutual Savings accounts, is insured to $40,000 by an agency of the federal government with returns guaranteed. If you do need cash, account loans are easily arranged because your account is the security for the loan. The account remains intact, earning full interest, and you avoid the penalties for early withdrawal of funds required by law.

Compare before you choose.

Our 1% loan proves that all savings institutions are not alike. Call a few of the others and ask them about 1% loans. Then bring your passbook to any of our 16 offices in Southern California and a Savings Counselor will arrange the transfer of funds to your new high-interest account.

OC Man's Book Made Into Film On Noah's Ark

Register Staff Writer

NEWPORT BEACH — Noah's ark wouldn't have won any awards for beauty, says the man whose book on the subject reportedly has sold more than a million copies.

The ark was an ugly, barge-like vessel about half the size of the Queen Mary but probably far more seaworthy, said author Dave Balsiger. His book was made into a movie that opens today in Orange County.

The movie, "In Search of Noah's Ark," is a family-oriented film that has done well in other parts of the country, producers claim.

Balsiger, 31, is a Costa Mesa resident and former photographer for the Anaheim Bulletin. He, presently, is conducting a wirlwind tour to promote both his book and the G-rated film.

"In 1969 I read my first article about Noah's ark in The Register," the author recalled. "At that time, I was a little skeptical about the whole thing."

Yet, the news accounts of a French explorer discovering what led scientists to believe was Noah's ark ignited Balsiger's interest in the subject, he said. He began collecting every bit of information he could lay his hands on dealing with the reported find. After numerous letters back and forth to explorer Fernand Navarra, Balsiger decided he had enough material to write a book.

His first book on the topic was "Noah's Ark: I Touched It," which was the story of Navarra's four expeditions atop the 14,000-foot peak in Eastern Turkey, where Navarra recovered some pieces of a wooden structural beam thought to be part of the ark.

"I had that book finished in 1971," said Balsiger. "I couldn't find anyone to publish it until 1974. Nobody was interested. The book was probably rejected 25 times."

Eventually, however, it was published and sold 125,000 copies.

Balsiger's second book on the subject, "In Search of Noah's Ark," hit the bookstands in June 1976 and has sold more than a million copies, he said. He said he interviewed about 250 scientists over a four-year period to help authenticate his research.

"When I first started out I figured we could probably prove it (the ark) was some kind of religious shrine or some kind of a building," the author said. But the finding atop Mt. Ararat is permanently encrusted with snow and ice in a region where temperatures drop as low as 40 below zero in the summer.

"People have been killed and have never returned," Balsiger said. "It's a very superstitious mountain because of this."

But explorers and fliers have reported sighting the mysterious wooden structure since the 19th century, the author said, holding up a scale model of what the ark is supposed to look like.

"It's not like people might think," he said of the ark. "It's like a huge barge. It's ugly." He said the vessel high atop the frozen mountain is about 450 feet long, 75 feet wide and perhaps 45 feet tall.

Some of the ice encrusting the wooden structure tastes salty, Balsiger said he was told by Navarra.

Balsiger, here to promote the film that has been saturating television sets with up to 65 ads daily, said the movie already has caught fire with the public — and even the great flood would have difficulty in extinguishing it.

In Balsiger's book, there are some hazy areas, he conceded. "Where there is sufficient evidence to support the facts, we say that, too," he added.

Despite the fact that Balsiger has never seen what others contend may be the real McCoy, the author says he's positive the ark is the genuine article.

"I'm 110 per cent convinced this is THE ark. No doubt about it."

Hospital Opens New Facility

ANAHEIM — Ceremonies to mark the opening of the new 12-bed intensive care and coronary care units at Anaheim General Hospital, 3350 W. Ball Road, will be held Saturday during a 2-5 p.m. open house of the new facility.

Refreshments will be served and informal tours conducted for the public, a hospital spokesman said.

you needn't suffer from painful symptoms of: HAY FEVER ASTHMA, HIVES ALLERGIES

A UNIQUE NEW ALLERGY TREATMENT IS BEING USED WITH GREAT SUCCESS BY THE ALLERGY CONTROL MEDICAL CLINIC of Orange County called auto-immune therapy for allergies. Simply stated, it is a vaccination-type therapy of proven effectiveness, "recycling" immunizing agents naturally present in the patient's own body. The treatment has brought lasting relief to more than 7,000 Californians treated by the physicians at the allergy control medical clinic with auto-immune therapy for allergies with these documented results:

- The most severe symptoms of "classic" headaches, hay fever, asthma, and eczema disappeared.
- It was the only known treatment which had a dramatic, curative effect of food allergies.
- Cause of allergy was not pertinent, thus eliminating costly, discomforting skin and other tests.
- There were no harmful side effects.
- The treatment period was of short duration.
- The drugless, natural therapy built a vigorous antibody defense of long effectiveness. For most patients, the effect was permanent.

Spiral Underpass Eyed For Rail Crossing In SC

SAN CLEMENTE – Drawings for a novel spiral railroad underpass, based on a design by local building designer Eric Boucher, were presented this week to the Public Utilities Commission (PUC) on the first day of a public hearing here.

The drawings, prepared by Glenn H. Manda, an assistant architect for the Santa Fe Railway Co., were presented to PUC examiner Norman Haley as an alternative to the city's request for an at-grade crossing.

For years the city has wrestled with the problem of how to revamp the area of the existing railroad underpass and entrance to the municipal pier. Complaints have been aired that the existing steps at the underpass preclude people in wheelchairs and the infirm from reaching the pier and the beach. And the tunnel under the track has been described as a hang out for "undesirable elements."

The city council in recent years pursued a proposal for replacing the underpass with an at-grade crossing over the tracks as the easiest solution to the problem. But the proposal met with resistance by PUC and the railroad officials who questioned the safety of at-grade crossings.

In May, designer Boucher made public a plan for a spiral ramp descending into the tunnel and another one at the end of the tunnel leading to the pier.

Boucher's design, which he said he prepared to help the city find a solution, met with resistance from city officials who had expected approval for their at-grade crossing before the PUC.

The PUC granted the city a re-opening of the hearing to view alternatives to the at-grade crossing.

Meanwhile, Boucher's plan was revised by Manda allowing an 8.33 per cent grade rather than the five and six per cent that Boucher had considered. The steeper grade was permissible by law, officials said.

Manda said that the revised plan did not require any changes to the existing tunnel, with the steeper grade.

Total cost of the project would be an estimated $151,100, excluding landscaping and engineering fees.

General Services Agency Acting Director Chosen

SANTA ANA – Tom Egan, assistant director of the county general services agency in charge of elections and of Orange County Airport, was named acting agency director Tuesday.

County supervisors selected Egan, 52, from four assistant directors to head the 802-employe agency while a permanent director is being sought.

Egan, a candidate for the permanent position, will become interim director Feb. 1, the day after the retirement of R.I. (Cuba) Morris. Morris, a 24-year veteran of county government who organized the agency two years ago, reaches mandatory retirement age this month.

Recruiting for a permanent director already is under way in Southern California, and Egan's temporary appointment is not expected to last more than three months, supervisors said.

Supervisors said they will consider a temporary raise next week for Egan, now making $31,512.

Egan began working for the county 11 years ago as an auditor-appraiser for then-county assessor Andrew Hinshaw.

Egan was named by Morris as assistant agency director for special services, making him responsible for the soon-to-be-released environmental impact report on Orange County Airport and administration of the county registrar's office, library system and emergency services.

The agency also is responsible for purchasing, land and building acquisition and maintenance, the countywide law enforcement communications system, the county vehicle fleet and county dumps.

Courthouse Opens Children's Room

SANTA ANA – A room in the new county courthouse, designed to be a first aid station but taken over for use by the grand jury, will become a children's "waiting room."

County supervisors overlooked the objections of county judges Tuesday and approved an $11,000 remodeling project to convert the space into a courthouse nursery.

Supervisors began planning the children's area last June on the recommendation of former supervisor Robert Battin, an attorney who later was removed from office after being convicted of using his county-paid staff to do political campaign work.

County building officials have been negotiating with the judges since then for mutually agreeable space.

The nursery, not expected to be ready until summer, will be located on the first floor of the courthouse, near the east entrance.

County Asked To Handle Permits

commissions haven't been putting anything on the belt. Construction projects are still coming out the other end of the belt, but, by the end of May or June, a blank space is going to reach the other end..."

The result, he said, could be a $500 million blow to the building industry statewide, a large portion of which would be concentrated in Orange County.

CEEED and the Orange County Building and Construction Trades Council want the county to assume the permit issuing role in order to cut red tape and speed up approvals.

We urge you to accept this reponsibility before the economic harm becmes irreparable," said trades council executive director Alfred Gray in a letter received this week by county supervisors.

But county planning officials have not yet determined whether they will recommend that the county begin issuing permits.

Environmental Management Agency (EMA) Director George Osborne said his office will forward a report to supervisors sometime in the next two weeks.

Osborne said the county might be able to do a better and quicker job of processing the permits than can the commission, but added that his staff still lacks sufficient information about the rules the county would have to work under.

The newly appointed state commission, he said, has yet to issue guidelines covering the issuance of permits by counties, and the EMA staff has been using commission staff-prepared guidelines which could be changed soon.

Osborne said he doesn't know how much the task will cost but believes that the new law said the county will be reimbursed by the state. But Carpenter said the law states that the county won't be reimbursed.

Other county officials, both in and outside EMA have said privately they doubt that the county will issue permits because the job would involve expenses and controversy without necessarily speeding up the permit issuing processes.

Carpenter said procedures for county-run coastal control programs will become more flexible after comprehensive plans for the implementation of the new coastal law are approved. But that is probably at least two years off he said.

LEGAL NOTICE

Under the provisions of Comprehensive Employment and Training Act of 1973, the Orange County Manpower Commission announces a proposed increase of $3,741,786 to its FY 77 Title I Comprehensive Manpower Plan, bringing the overall total to $12,478,019.

The source of the increased funds is as follows:

Additional allocations	$2,411,348
Consortium incentive bonus	925,537
Carryover from FY 76	404,901
TOTAL	$3,741,786

CETA Title I funding is administered by OCMC to provide vocational training and employment opportunities for economically disadvantaged, unemployed and underemployed residents of Orange County. The additional funding will allow 1311 more residents who meet the eligibility criteria to be enrolled in employment and training activities. This will bring the planned number of enrollees for FY 77 from 6726 to 8036.

The allocation of funds in the FY 77 Title I Comprehensive Manpower Plan by program activity is now projected as follows:

Activity	Funds
Classroom Training	$3,466,289
On-the-job Training	1,271,716
Public Service Employment	497,712
Work Experience	4,938,334

Woman Gets OK To Split Land Into 4 Plots

YORBA LINDA – Mrs. Kathleen Huff has won a writ of mandate from Superior Court ordering this city to let her divide four acres of her property without dedicating part of it for a horse trail.

The order handed down last Friday by Judge William Murray will allow Mrs. Huff to split her land adjoining the old El Cajon canal into four parcels which she plans to sell.

The city is trying to convert the canal into an equestrian-hiking trail where it runs through several private properties – including Mrs. Huff's – on the city's eastern border.

The property owners were required to dedicate an easement, even though they purchased from the former owner all interests to the canal.

Mrs. Huff said the trail to which she would have been required to donate at least half an acre, "is especially dangerous for horseback riders and bicyclists."

It would "plunge down over a very steep incline right onto busy, high-speed Kellogg Drive," she said.

She said "the claims they (the city) made on the property could be logically extended to any abandoned right-of-way on anyone's property – even if it led to within five feet of their front door."

She said the city appeals, she plans to file suit. "But what a waste of the taxpayers' and our own money," she said.

Programs Set On King At OC Schools Friday

Orange County's 33 tax-supported schools and community colleges have scheduled informal programs Friday to observe the Jan. 15, 1929 birth of Martin Luther King Jr.

The schools are required to establish assemblies, ceremonies or classroom programs to comply with a state law authored by State Sen. Nate Holden, D-Los Angeles, which became effective Jan. 1.

Some districts have recommended that teachers spend about an hour discussing and reading excerpts from King's addresses, "I Have A Dream" or "I've Been to the Mountain Top." Other districts have scheduled special ceremonies or assemblies.

In a Nov. 18 letter, the state senator urged all of the states 1,068 school districts to review King's "role in the non-violent civil rights movement in the United States."

Santa Ana College has scheduled a film called "King" to be shown at 1 p.m. and 7 p.m. Friday in Phillips Hall on campus. The county's other six community colleges have no programs scheduled.

Cal State Fullerton plans a memorial service April 1. UCI has no commemorative programs planned.

Buy Portable Classrooms, Panel Urges

PLACENTIA – Purchase of portable classrooms to relieve future overcrowding has been recommended to Placentia Unified School District trustees by a citizens committee.

The committee on classroom facilities urged the board to delay any action, however, until a 1977 growth projection report is completed in September.

Currently enrollment at three schools – Tuffree and Bernardo Yorba junior high schools and El Dorado High School – is 546 over capacity, according to the committee.

Relocatable classrooms could handle the district's uneven growth patterns, the report said. While enrollment in the fast growing eastern half of the district is increasing, it's declining in the already-developed western portion.

By using portable classrooms, enrollment could be increased from 800 to 1,200 at junior high schools and from 1,800 to 2,400 at senior high schools without the administration costs new facilities would bring, the report said.

HOPE STILL PERSISTS FOR SOLVING SAL MINEO'S MURDER

LOS ANGELES (AP) – They found the veteran actor lying in a pool of clotting blood, breathing rapidly, eyes wide, dying, his heart pierced by an assailant's knife.

One bystander tried mouth-to-mouth breathing, but nothing would help this wound.

Sal Mineo, 37, who thrilled movie audiences with leather-jacket-and-switchblade roles, who rose above New York street gang violence to become successful on several entertainment fronts, pumped out his life on the hard surface of a parking lot behind his Hollywood apartment.

Minutes earlier, neighbors heard him shout his cries for help, his plea, "Oh, my God, no!" ringing in the night.

It was over for the Bronx-born son of Italian immigrants. He died on Feb. 12, 1976, and police have been tracking his killer for a year without success.

They began with witnesses who had seen a man run from the parking area, and released a description: 20 to 30 years old, white, about 5-foot-8 with dark brown or black hair. Investigators know a knife was used and can tell from the wound how large it was. But no weapon was taken as evidence.

The motive was unclear.

Detectives from the Los Angeles County Sheriff's Department began the nuts-and-bolts work that continues to this day, questioning everyone who had any connection with Mineo in a search for clues.

"We're still talking to anyone we can," said Lt. Robert O'Sullivan. "This is a live, active case and we have hopes of including it in our resolved cases file. We're tracking down every lead, talking to anyone with any connection."

Twice, detectives have gone as far as Texas in their search for the killer.

"The country is full of would-be actors who come out here, find out they can't make it and go back home. Mineo knew some of them, regarded them as friends. We wanted to talk to them," O'Sullivan said.

Mineo, who never married, apparently had lived alone in the Hollywood apartment near the Sunset Strip for about three years.

His acting career, which saw Academy award nominations for his roles in "Rebel Without a Cause" and "Exodus," had bottomed out but appeared to be on the upswing again with a stage role and the chance to direct a movie.

"For the first time since I had known him, everything appeared to be going right," said close friend Elliot Mintz, a radio and television interviewer who was among honorary pallbearers at the actor's funeral.

"I have reason to believe that an arrest will be made, and I'm hopeful that a conviction will be obtained. My feelings have nothing to do with revenge, I just want the man who did this to have a real sense of the extent of loss to us all in Sal Mineo's death."

CB License Fees Suspended

Citizen's Band radio operators won't have to pay $4 for a permanent license, at least for the present.

The Federal Communications Commission (FCC) has suspended collection of CB license fees as a result of a court decision based on four suits, of federal consumer information office spokesman said.

The court ruled that FCC must justify all its fees. While the cost basis of the fees is being decided, collection fees collection has been suspended, the spokesman said.

It is still necessary, however, to apply for both temporary and permanent licenses, he added.

Opening lead — Deuce ♣

By Oswald & James Jacoby

North's two-club call was a decided underbid. His 19-point hand was really worth some sort of jump after his partner responded with one spade. On the other hand, North did not know just what jump to make. He didn't like the idea of a jump raise with just three trumps or a jump in clubs or hearts with his actual holdings in those suits. So he bid two clubs and hoped his partner would not pass.

South didn't pass. He raised clubs to three. North bid three spades, South went on to game and all of a sudden West doubled.

The double looks insane but there was a lot of method in West's madness. He was sure that his partner could ruff a club!

So West opened a club. East ruffed and returned a diamond to West's ace. A second club ruff was the third trick for the defense and then, as West explained later on, it was only reasonable to assume that East could produce a trick of his own.

East did. He held the ace of trumps and since the game was match points, West's double had given them a top score.

Ask the Jacobys

A British Columbia reader wants to know why a "finesse" is called by that name.

The answer is that the term goes way back to whist and was obviously coined by some unknown player of that game.

Construction Under Way On NB Art Museum

NEWPORT BEACH — Construction is under way on the $1.5 million Newport Harbor Art Museum being built on a two-acre site in Newport Center.

Harvey West, hired last July to head the new facility, said the 21,000-square-foot structure is scheduled to be completed by mid-April.

The new facility will be located on a bluff adjacent to the future home of the city's new library building on San Clemente Road. It will feature five galleries, a sculpture garden, a special projects area, bookstore, kitchen and administrative offices, West said.

Museum personnel plan to move into the facility in April, West said, then spend the summer months preparing for the first major exhibit in September.

In mid-September, the museum will host a series of special instructional lectures, films and guided tours for groups in the area. The first exhibit is entitled "David Park Retrospective," set for showing during September and November. A second exhibit by Tony DeLap also will be featured through Oct. 30, West said.

The business community here has contributed about half the $1.5 million in costs, West said, donating the two acres of land, architectural services, landscaping, roofing, cement and construction labor at cost.

The city also waived the usual charges for building permits.

The museum presently is located at 2211 W. Balboa Blvd., where the facility has been since 1970, West said, adding that the existing quarters were outgrown long ago.

Aside from a $5,000 federal tax grant, the museum has sustained itself by revenues generated through memberships and contributions from corporations and foundations, West said. The new museum also will raise some revenues through admissions, new memberships and bookstore profits.

Founded in 1961 by a small group of art-oriented citizens, the museum will have a staff of nine, West said.

NB Planners To Consider Two Projects

NEWPORT BEACH – Two major residential development projects will be considered by the planning commission Jan. 20.

One proposal calls for a 453-unit condominium project and the other for an $8 million 226-unit luxury apartment complex.

The condominium project is targeted for a 21-acre parcel south of Hospital Road and southeast of Superior Avenue atop the bluffs overlooking Coast Highway. Once completed, it will become the second phase of the existing 266-unit Versailles apartments built nearby about three years ago.

The proposed apartment development if approved, will be built opposite the Newporter Inn on the Newport Center side of Jamboree on a 29-acre site adjacent to the Irvine Coast Country Club.

PUBLIC DEFENDER GETS CASH FOR IDEA

SANTA ANA — A deputy public defender has received the largest cash award in the history of the Orange County employe suggestion program for his plan to reduce paperwork in Superior Court.

The cost-saving idea submitted by James G. Merwin could save the county more than $50,000 a year, and will net Merwin $1,500, said Supervisor Ralph Clark.

Merwin suggested consolidating a 21-page court form into a single page. The idea, already implemented by the courts, will save 300 hours of judges' time in the next year, said Judge Kenneth Williams.

Mesa Residents Protest Revised Apartment Plans

COSTA MESA – A two-hour hearing which brought out nearly 150 homeowners and a troop of developers at the planning commission meeting ended without a decision.

George L. Argyros, a developer who wants to build 127 single-family homes and 552 apartments on 46 acres of South Coast Drive west of Bear Street, was asked by the commission Monday to revise his plans and return to its next meeting on Feb. 14.

The commission asked Argyros, who works for the Arnel Developing Co. of Santa Ana, to consider revising the street patterns of his plan, adding an emergency access to the single-access apartment complex and cutting back the number of units.

Paul Diehl, president of the North Costa Mesa Homeowners Association, expressed concern on again getting members of his association back for another meeting to protest the development. Meetings on the development have been held since last May.

The city's planning staff recommended that the commission deny Argyros' plan. The maximum number of units allowed for 46 acres under the city's planning code is 633. Argyros is seeking for 629 and calling the project medium density because it combines single family homes and apartments. The planning staff considers his request too high under the allowed medium density classification.

Argyros originally asked for the maximum of 15 units per acre because he was combining the homes with the apartments.

This makes the single family homes less dense than the maximum but the apartments more dense," said Perry Valentine of the city's planning staff. Valentine said the Argyros project averages 14.9 units per acres.

The plan calls for 50 single family homes on eight acres north of South Coast Drive and 77 single family homes and 552 apartments on 38 acres south of South Coast Drive adjacent to Bear Street.

Homeowners in the area originally asked to have all single family homes built there. They later agreed to apartments as a noise buffer along the San Diego Freeway, but objected to the number of apartments proposed by Argyros.

Newport Raps DMV's Sale Of Mail List

NEWPORT BEACH – A Department of Motor Vehicles practice of selling information from its records concerning registrations of motor vehicles was rapped this week by city councilmen here.

Council members adopted a resolution objecting to the controversial DMV practice, which elected officials here said results in unsolicited junk mail that ultimately causes increases in operating costs to the U.S. Postal Service.

A copy of the council's resolution objecting to DMV's selling names and addresses of vehicle owners will be sent to the DMV, councilmen said.

Leisure World Chief To Head Advisory Panel

LAGUNA HILLS – Leisure World administrator Robert Price has been elected president of the Saddleback Area Coordinating Council (SACC), succeeding outgoing president Rick Bohay.

Other officers elected Tuesday were William Monoson, first vice president; Mary Phillips, second vice president; Mike Clancy, secretary and James Bone, treasurer.

The annual SACC banquet will be held Jan. 19 at the new Holiday Inn at La Paz Road and San Diego Freeway. The annual awards event will be highlighted by presentation of recognition for merit and exceptional service to the community.

NB Fireworks Plan Fizzles

NEWPORT BEACH — A bicentennial group's request for a July 4 fireworks extravaganza fizzled here as city council members balked at granting the group $6,500 for the display.

During the past two years, the city has spent $4,000 for each July 4 fireworks show and a local business contributed $2,500. But councilmen balked this year, saying the bicentennial is over.

Iowan Gulps 50 Raw Eggs

Raikow gulped 50 raw eggs in 42 minutes recently at a local supper club as a large crowd watched. He broke his previous record of 33 eggs.

NB Eyes Remodeling Pier Concession Stands

NEWPORT BEACH – The city may have to pay for refurbishing Balboa and Newport piers' concession stands before getting anyone to operate the shops.

Both concessions, which dispensed bait, tackle and snacks, have been closed down since last month.

The two stands apparently will be closed indefinitely, at least until the city council decides upon a course of action.

Monday, the council voted to reject an offer made by the previous leaseholders, Betty and Noel Phoenix. It was the only offer received by the city.

In the same action, councilmen directed staff to get estimates on remodeling the stands and to determine if remodeling is economically feasible.

The city's problems with the pier shops erupted last fall when the Phoenixes, who have leased the stands for more than a decade, notified the council they wouldn't operate the shops under the existing lease agreement.

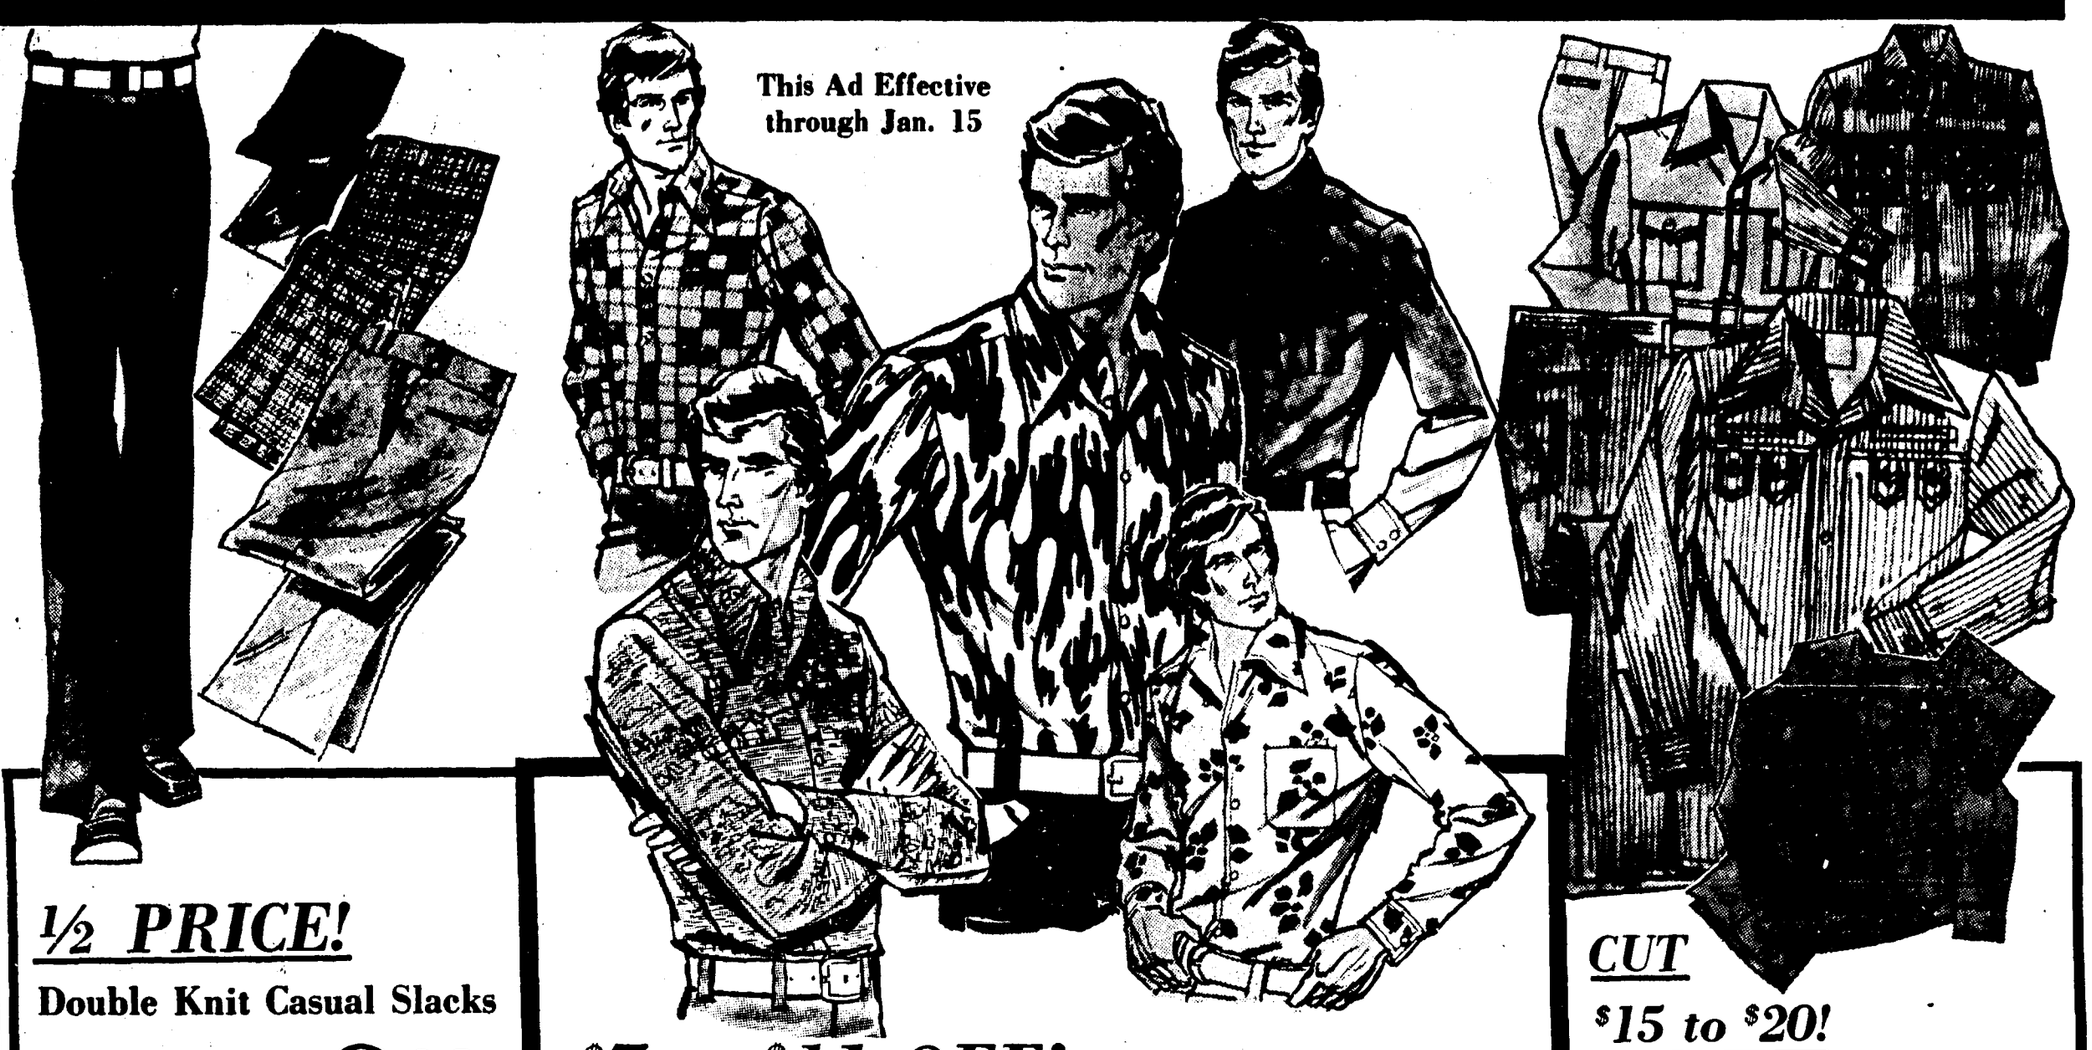

They said they couldn't afford to pay the lease fees, hiked from $600 per month to $660 monthly or 10 per cent of gross, whichever is greater. During the peak summer months, the Phoenixs said, the new rate quadrupled the $660 figure, eating up whatever profits they made.

Noel Phoenix told the council he wanted the 10 per cent provision dropped altogether. In addition, he asked the city to tear down the shop on Newport Pier and build a new one.

Instead, councilmen declared Phoenix in default of the lease agreement and elected to seek other bidders.

GENERAL PLAN FOR PARKS WINS OKAY OF M.A.C. COUNCIL

By LINDA GRANELL
Register Staff Writer

MISSION VIEJO — Newly seated municipal advisory council (MAC) member Jack Dodge cast the only dissenting vote as the council approved a general plan for the 9.5-acre Alicia Park.

The general plan for the five-acre Castille Park was approved unanimously, with deletions of restrooms and two unbudgeted but proposed tennis courts. The cost of the Castille was estimated at $75,000.

Approval of the $240,000 Alicia site was passed, contingent on final review of maintenance costs — estimated at between $175 and $300 per acre per month.

Dodge's complaint with Alicia Park plans was not with maintenance costs but with lack of parking space. "I don't think it's good planning not to require parking areas," he said repeatedly.

William Ackerman of EDAW Inc., which prepared the plans, said parking would be available on residential streets and in industrial lots surrounding the park. He estimated there would be 128 available spaces within 300 feet of the park — more than enough, he said, because only 59 spaces would be needed.

Ackerman explained how he arrived at the 59-slot figure:

First, he said, you assume a family group equals 3½ persons. Then, he said, you assume that of the four planned baseball diamonds, only three would be occupied at any one time. He estimated the diamonds would contain 60 players and that half of these players (or family groups) would drive to the game, making only 30 parking spaces necessary.

With the diamonds full, he said, 231,000 square feet of park space would be left. If you assume that each family group would require 1,600 square feet to move around in comfort, you have 145 groups in the park. Now, if you assume that 20 per cent of these groups drive, only 29 more parking spaces are needed. The grand total: 59 spaces.

Traffic committee chairman George Whaley responded simply, "With no parking, there's going to be a problem."

Plans for Alicia Park call for two children's play areas, restrooms, covered picnic areas, the four lighted baseball fields and facilities for soccer and football.

A children's play area, picnic tables, open park space and volleyball courts are planned for Castille would run only about $150 per acre per month because of the lack of restrooms.

The Alicia Park site is bounded by Via Logrono, Via Galcia and Via Talvarea. Via Rocio, Via La Coruna, Via Oviedo, Via Navarra and Via Boyona border the Castille site.

Park funds come from state and county taxes and $17,000 per acre from Mission Viejo Co. for landscaping.

Noguchi Sculpture

RICHMOND, Va. (AP) – A sculpture by American artist Isamu Noguchi has recently been acquired by the Virginia Museum. The sculpture, "Open Lock," was completed in 1964. It is made of polished stainless steel and stands nearly three feet tall.

DOCTOR SAYS

DEAR DR. LAMB — I read your article stating that none of the vegetable oils contain cholesterol. While the department of agriculture does agree with this, the American Heart Assn. does not.

Their folder "The Way to a Man's Heart" contains these statements: "Saturated animals fats are found in beef, lamb, pork and ham; in butter, cream and whole mile; and in cheeses made from cream and whole milk." Saturated vegetable fats are found in many solid and hydrogenated shortenings; and in coconut oil, cocoa butter and palm oil (used in commercially prepared cookies, pie fillings and non-dairy milk and cream substitutes).

DEAR READER — I have included your letter in my column as an example of the confusion that the public has about cholesterol. The statement by the American Heart Assn. has nothing to do with cholesterol. Look at your folder again and notice you are quoting from the paragraph on saturated fats — not cholesterol.

The problem is that the public at large does not yet realize that saturated fat and cholesterol are not at all the same thing. While plants may contain saturated fat they do not contain cholesterol, and the American Heart Assn. has never said that they do. The statements you quote do not say that either.

Cholesterol is an animal product. Saturated fats are found in both animal and vegetable foods. Too much saturated fat in the diet is believed by many scientists to increase the body's formation of cholesterol. That is why the American Heart Assn.'s pamphlet you cite emphasized what foods contain saturated fat, not because these foods all contain cholesterol.

It is extremely important that the public learn what is meant by cholesterol, saturated fats and polyunsaturated fats. Without this understanding and its application to the food you eat, there is no way you can really profit from the recommendations by the American Heart Assn. or any other group interested in preventing heart attacks, strokes and other complications of fatty-cholesterol deposits in the arteries.

I am sending you The Health Letter number 1-2, Cholesterol, Triglycerides, Blood Fats, Atherosclerosis, to help you understand these important facts. Others who want this information can send 50 cents with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it. Just send your letter to me in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019.

DEAR DR. LAMB — What are histamines?

DEAR READER — Histamine is a complex chemical manufactured by animal and plant tissues. It contains an amine group of nitrogen and hydrogen the same as the amine group in an amino acid from protein.

Histamine is important in certain circulatory reactions, stimulates the stomach to produce acid digestive juice and is an irritant that causes the symptoms people have during an allergic response. The offending, "allergic agent" enters the body and the body releases histamine from sensitive cells. The histamine release causes symptoms, such as a runny nose, asthma attack or hives. Antihistamines counteract the action of histamines and relieve the symptoms of allergic reactions.

COLLEGE ATHLETE'S LIFE AS IMPOSTOR SUDDENLY UNMASKED

WICHITA, Kan. – Patrick Lajko loves the challenge of a fine-honed performance and the demands of precise maneuvers.

He delights in the tight edge of performing tension and has met its challenges well as an award-winning gymnast and a skilled performer on a high diving board.

But Patrick Lajko's most challenging performance is over and, this time, there are no awards at its end.

For more than a year, Patrick Lajko, 24-year-old graduate of Iowa State University, has been Scott Johnson, 19-year-old senior at East High.

It began as a joke, Lajko said in an interview, but the joke soon outgrew its beginnings.

It became a challenge, a chance to go back again – a rare opportunity to relive a part of his life.

"There is in everyone of us a bit that says, if I could only do it over again, wouldn't I do it differently," Lajko said quietly as he sat, wrapped in a heavy sheep-skin coat, behind a battered oak table in an East High classroom, and began to review the past 18 months.

"I got caught up in that desire that is in everybody not to grow old, to return to something and do it better. I had that opportunity and I took it.

"I was happy here. The past six months at East High have been the happiest time of my life. I really don't want to have to leave."

Lajko came to Wichita in June 1974, immediately after his graduation from Iowa State, to accept an engineering position at NCR. He had a degree in computer science and minors in math, telecommunicative arts and electrical engineering.

And he had three athletic letters for gymnastic performances during his college years in Ames.

As a result of the hoax, the high school has to forfeit its victories in five dual meets, four invitational tournaments, including its own, according to school officials. The medals won by Lajko will go to other competitors who finished behind him.

He had captured two individual chamionships in the city league's championship meet last December.

Lajko's first touch with the tempting challenge of fulfilling a hazy dream, of reliving a bit of his past, came during the summer of 1974 when he began working out with three East High gymnasts at the downtown YMCA.

They liked Lajko. They admired his skill as a gymnast. And, Lajko said, they began to tell him about a long-standing scheme that had filled their jokes and wild speculations for months. They wanted to enroll a fake student at East.

Lajko seemed made to order. Slight. Young looking. And a gymnast certain to boost the team score.

For six months, Lajko said, the students checked entrance requirements and minimum class loads with which a student could qualify for athletic competition. They watched the system work carefully, but it was easy - one of the three was a student aide in the office.

Then, early in 1975, Lajko went for entrance interviews with counselors at the school and asked them to set up a schedule which would fit around the demands of a full-time job.

With assistance from the students, a transcript request to his previous high school was intercepted. Together, the friends created a false transcript and returned it to the school.

When they were done, Lajko had become Scott Johnson, 19-year-old Iowa high school drop-out living alone and supporting himself in Wichita, and eager to complete his education.

"Once it started, the whole thing happened very rapidly and I was kind of swept up in it," Lajko said. "I was curious and things were so involved I couldn't figure a way to get out of it without hurting other people.

"When someone goes to all that work for you, you get confused. Suddenly, it was there and all arranged."

HAVE PHONE, WILL CALL FOR ANYONE

SEATTLE (AP) – For $5, Rich Fowler will call up your boss and tell him – anonymously – that you hope his socks rot.

He'll also deliver any other message to anybody, as long as it isn't scandalous, slanderous or obscene.

His brainchild, Confidential Communication Service, is a scheme to make money from other people's cowardliness, he admits.

"The last company where I worked there was a fellow, actually a good friend, who sat at the desk adjacent to mine and he didn't use any deodorant," said Fowler, 31. "I didn't know how to tell him without hurting his feelings ...

"The other people in the office felt the same way and I'm sure we all would have chipped in five bucks to have somebody tell him, 'Look, the people in your office like you, but how about trying a little Old Spice in the morning?'"

That episode, and news of a similar message business in San Francisco, got Fowler and his wife Gina started in business in mid-December. He said he uses common sense in his dealings and consults a lawyer if a message seems out of order.

"If a lady calls and says, 'Call Mabel and tell her her husband is running around with Joan down the street and she should know it,' I won't do it," he said.

Not all of the requested messages are negative.

"Maybe a person wants a raise but is too shy to tell the boss. Or say a new guy in the office his first day is kind of shaky. Have an anonymous caller call and tell him, 'It'll be a better day tomorrow. Hang in there.'"

Fowler said that when the message is positive, the sender often asks to be identified.

Fowler, who has also sold life insurance and worked with senior citizens, said he expects heavy business in love notes.

"A fellow called last night and wanted to give his wife a bit of an erotic message and he wanted to keep her guessing who it was from," Fowler said.

CB ACTIVITY FOULS UP FOREIGN AUTOS' FUEL INJECTION

MILWAUKEE (AP) – Some Citizens Band operators with European-made cars are complaining about interference – with the car's fuel injection system.

The combination of a two-way radio and a fuel-injected car can pose problems, even if the two aren't in the same vehicle.

"The wiring in the car acts as an antenna," said Bob Radke, chief engineer for Kris, Inc., a Cedarburg, Wis., CB manufacturer. "Any wiring you have, like your house wiring or your car wiring or any wiring will act as an antenna for certain frequencies."

The problem arises when the wiring picks up radio transmissions from the CB or any other kind of two-way radio.

The fuel injection system controls the flow of gasoline to the motor by means of electronic signals from the engine. It cannot, however, tell the difference between a valid engine signal and a spurious signal from a two-way radio.

"It causes it to open too long or out of sequence," said Helmut Buchwald, service manager for Mossner Motors, a Milwaukee foreign car dealership. The fuel injection system, in its confused state, either speeds up or cuts the fuel flow.

The problem is restricted to European cars, said Radke, because they are the only ones equipped with vulnerable fuel injection systems.

For drivers whose radios interfere with fuel injection, Radke said owner's manuals for both radio and antenna are the best place to start looking for the source of the trouble. "Make sure you did everything the manufacturer recommends," he said.

A good antenna ground is mandatory – occasionally it's necessary to run a grounding line between the antenna base and some point known to be connected to the car's chassis. And the radio's power source should be as close to the battery as possible, connected with heavy wire.

The problem might be with the fuel injection system, Radke said. "You might find that over the miles, the fuel injection unit itself, which is in a metal-plastic box, might be suffering from some corrosion where it's mounted to the car chassis," Radke said.

The first step then, he said, is to clean the ground connections and tighten the screws. If that doesn't work, things might get complicated.

For the radio operator, checking those two areas should clear up the trouble. If it doesn't, the operator is in the same, if less common, boat as the driver whose fuel-injection system is thrown into a tizzy by a passing transmitter.

In some cases, said Radke, the problem might be on the transmission end. "The operators are sometimes running far in excess of the power they're supposed to be running."

The last alternative in any case is to have the car equipped with radio frequency filters, a job that almost always must be done by a professional two-way radio technician. Such filters block out specific radio frequencies or groups of frequencies, Radke said.

Suddenly, Lajko was Scott Johnson, well-liked student and exhibition performing gymnast – the center of new attention. And soon it began to feel good.

"I was sitting on top, not sure where the ride was going to take me," he said. "It was frightening in the beginning, but it came to bother me less."

He stayed at NCR for two years, fitting the demands of a full-time job as engineer Pat Lajko, into a schedule as full-time student Scott Johnson after he enrolled at East in March 1976.

After a few months he dropped both his job and his true identity to take a night job as Scott Johnson in the local bowling alley and concentrate on his own business interests – electronics work and the repair of theater pipe organs.

Lajko said recently he was fired from the night job at the local bowling alley because the owner did not like what he had done.

Neither the idea of posing as a 19-year-old, nor the continuing motivation which brought the plan to completion, Lajko stressed, was his. The scheme was the creation of his friends.

"If it had not been for them, I would not have been involved in this at all," he said. "But once you're into something you begin to enjoy it. I didn't want to disappoint people I liked and it never seemed the right time to kill it."

Suddenly, later in December, someone else killed it for him.

Lajko's identity was uncovered after his performance in the city league championship was filmed by KTVH-Channel 12. The film was shown on the station's 6 and 10 p.m. Saturday sports programs.

Someone who saw the program recognized Lajko as a former Iowa State gymnast and contacted East High principal Dr. Claradine Johnson, who then unraveled the tale.

Now, both relief and sorrow figure in Lajko's response to his unmasking.

"There is good and bad in everything," he said. "I hope the people that know me don't stay mad at me. I'm really no different than I was.

"I have done something that's a black mark against East, but I think I have done some good here, too. I would like to stay and help."

Lajko doesn't know what's next for him, now that his enrollment has been withdrawn at East and he's done as a high school student.

He'd like to stay in Wichita and he'd like to stay on as Scott Johnson.

He'd never liked his real name, anyway, he said. The fake name was one that he chose himself to go with the new life he entered.

He'd like to hang on to the name and the good things – the awards and the friends and the memories the past year has brought him. But he's through with the role of impostor.

"I wouldn't do it again," he conceded. "It was a lot of work."

'Brain Drain' To United States Serves To Alienate Poor Nations

By BOB CALVERLEY
Knight News Wire

Along with a lot of oil, the Shah of Iran has been shipping physicians to this country.

By most estimates there is a surplus of oil in Iran and as long as we're willing to pay the Shah's price we're welcome to it. But he'd like to have the doctors back.

In 1972, 701 doctors graduated from Iranian medical schools and 485 of them migrated to the United States, according to the Journal of Medical Education. In Iran in 1972 there was one doctor for every 3,250 people, compared to one for every 650 people in the United States.

It isn't just Iran that has been sending us doctors. Since 1963 about half of the new physicians in the United States have been foreign medical graduates from places like India, Pakistan, the Philippines, Thailand, Korea and Mexico.

"There are currently more Filipino physicians practicing in America than there are black American medical graduates," says Dr. Solomon Axelrod of the University of Michigan School of Public Health. "These doctors are desperately needed in their own countries."

America has been more successful in cutting back its dependence on foreign doctors than on foreign oil. Recent changes in the immigration laws have made it more difficult for doctors to stay in this country.

But the fact that the richest country in the world has drained badly needed professionals (engineers and scientists as well as doctors) from some of the poorest nations has been a sore point internationally and has disturbed authorities here too.

"I think that when historians look back at this period they'll say that the worst thing we did was the Vietnam war and next was the brain drain," says Dr. Marilyn Heins of Wayne State University Medical School.

According to an article in the magazine Science, last year a total of 66,575 foreign medical graduates migrated to the United States between 1965 and 1973. By 1973 they comprised one-third of hospital staff physicians and a fifth of all doctors.

The doctors come to this country to receive advanced medical training. Hooked on sophisticated equipment, higher salaries, greater intellectual freedom and better living conditions for their families, many want to stay. Axelrod says that after studying here many of them are overtrained in respect to their own country's needs.

Dr. Yvan Silva, Wayne State University Medical School professor, a respected surgeon, a graduate of a medical school in India and the author of a book written to help foreign medical graduates who come to this country, says, however, that many foreign doctors are disappointed.

"They are disappointed that the educational opportunities are not as good as they had expected," he says. This is because some of the internships and residencies which are filled by foreign doctors really involve little education.

One of the most popular specialties for the doctors, some of whom have profound communication problems because they can't speak English very well, is psychiatry. It is not easy to find an American doctor who will work in a large state mental institution, so foreign graduates have filled many of these slots.

The number of residency and internship positions in the United States bears no relationship to the number of graduating American doctors available or even the need for medical care in an area.

In 1969, Silva says, there were 15,000 resident or intern slots to be filled and only 8,900 domestic medical graduates available. This resulted in hospitals actually going abroad to recruit doctors.

Questions have been raised about the competence of foreign doctors. They are all required to pass a test given by the Educational Commission of Foreign Medical Graduates (ECFMG) before they come here. Only about a third who try pass the first time.

It isn't language which makes the test so hard, because American-born graduates of foreign medical schools do just as poorly on the test.

Axelrod says that many foreign medical schools have much larger classes than U.S. schools and that opportunities for clinical studies are limited.

It is the Americans attending foreign schools who have upset the brain drain applecart more than anyone else. Rejected from American medical schools which have for years produced a limited number of new doctors, they have gone abroad, received medical degrees, come back and practiced here.

While they may have difficulty passing the ECFMG test, they have little trouble becoming licensed. American medical schools are now expanding so that the United States is catching up with its own health manpower needs.

Next year, under legislation passed in the last Congress, American medical schools will be forced to accept a quota of third-year Americans now studying abroad.

The number of foreign medical graduates entering the United States has already dropped and the law now says they must return home after their training.

Silva is not sure that more doctors will have the impact on poorer countries which might be expected. He says better health is more often associated with better education and a raised standard of living accompanied by improved public health than by additional doctors.

The United States doesn't suffer so much from a doctor shortage as from poor distribution of those available.

In most other countries this problem is even more severe. India, for example, has unemployed doctors. Those who work for the government are paid very poorly and must be willing to work where the government sends them – rural sections. It seems hardly surprising that Indian doctors want to come here.

CBers In Michigan Switch To Helping The Smokeys

DETROIT – Michigan motorists who cherish their CB radios as ultimate weapons on the ongoing war with state police "smokeys" should beware.

There are traitors among you.

During the past six months increasing numbers of Michigan CBers have been going on the air to aid – rather than evade – state troopers by alerting them to speeders and other traffic violators.

The state police say this new brand of smokey report has been responsible since June for 300 speeding tickets, 203 drunk driving arrests, 35 warnings, and a handful of felony arrests.

In November alone, CBers were credited with assisting in 36 drunk driving arrests, 44 speeding tickets, and two felony arrests on Michigan highways, according to Lt. Rod LaMore of the State Police Safety and Traffic Divison.

"More and more CBers are actively taking part in calling troopers to report drunk and high-speed drivers," he said, "and we're totally enthused about it."

LaMore said the CBers' anti-crime efforts have come in response to a motorist-assistance and traffic-safety program launched by the state police last Memorial Day.

The program encourages CBers to contact troopers on CB channels 9 and 19 to report anything from a stranded motorist to a high-speed drunk in the wrong lane. Although not all of the state's patrol cars and police posts are equipped with radios, LaMore said the airwaves in most of Michigan's larger metropolitan areas and major interstates are now being monitored by official "ears."

"We've had a tremendous response from both individual drivers and private CB clubs," he said. "Since June we've had a total of 6,316 contacts from CBers, including 1,370 reports of stranded motorists and 205 reports of car fires."

Looking at the most recent World Chess Federation women's rating list, we see 42 players rated 2,200 or above. Twenty-seven of them are in the Soviet Union. Twelve are in East European countries. Three are in Western Europe.

Of the three in Western countries, Dr. Jana Hartston of England (she married England's international master, Bill Hartston) emigrated from Eastern Europe. Alla Kushnir of Israel recently emigrated from the Soviet Union. Van d. Mije of Holland is the third.

That distribution of ratings between East and West has been skewed toward the East for many years.

In the women's Olympiads, where each nation's best players compete in team matches, the results have followed the ratings.

Looking at the cumulative scores from the first women's Olympiad in 1957, through the sixth in 1974, we find six East European nations and the USSR holding the top seven positions. The USSR, with the largest number of the world's top-rated players, was the winner in each of those tourneys.

Holland is in eighth place in that list, England is ninth and Poland 10th. West Germany, Canada, the United States and Spain follow in that order in a total list of some 37 nations that have participated in one or more of the six events.

Israel finished 18th in its first Olympiad in 1972.

With former Soviet players on its team in 1974, it finished 12th. Alla Kushnir, who had won top second-board prize while playing on the Soviet teams in the 1969 and 1972 Olympiads, was not allowed to play on the Israeli team in 1974 because of an emigration arrangement with the Soviet Union.

Kushnir is the second-highest-rated player in the world behind women's world champion Nona Gaprindashvili of the Soviet Union. Gaprindashvili played first-board on the Soviet team in five Olympiads from 1963 through 1974, and won a top-board gold medal on each occasion. Kushnir lost three successive world title matches to Gaprindashvili in 1965 through 1972.

Then we come to the 1976 Olympiad held in Haifa, Israel, concurrent with the men's Olympiad.

With Kushnir playing first-board, and with former Soviet players on each of the other boards, the Israeli team won the Olympiad. Kushnir won the gold medal for top-board honors.

England and Spain tied for second and third positions. The United States was fourth. Holland, West Germany, Denmark and Australia followed in that order. The top seven finishers from previous Olympiads did not compete in 1976 because of a boycott.

By dwelling on the ratings, tourney results and emigrations here, we're defining the phenomenon of the significant contribution to world chess that has been made by the Soviet Union and the Eastern European nations.

The fact that these nations and their contributions were absent at the recent world Olympiads means that we're experiencing a major breakdown in the unifying force of the World Chess Federation, sponsor of the 1976 Olympiads.

Game of the Week: Meanwhile, as the politicians play their games, we're missing a lot of good chess games. Elisabeta Polihroniade played first-board on the Romanian team in the 1974 women's Olympiad and finished second behind Gaprindashvili for first-board honors. This is the game they played in the USSR-Romania match.

Judge Quashes Burglary Case Against Two

SANTA ANA -- Charges against two men accused of committing 10 commercial burglaries were dismissed this week for lack of evidence.

The district attorney's office sought the dismissal after evidence in the case was declared inadmissible at trial because of an illegal search and seizure.

Charges were dismissed against Raymond Earl Trecartin, 42, of Redding, and Gary Laverne Olson, 36, of Corona. Olson and Trecartin's 41-year-old brother, Robert, of Westminster, were indicted April 22, 1976, on 15 burglary counts and recieving stolen property. Raymond Trecartin was indicted on five counts in the indictment.

Robert Trecartin still is wanted on a bench warrant for failing to appeal in this and one other case against him.

This was the second attempt to prosecute the men for the burglaries which occurred between June 4 and Sept. 22, 1975. They were arrested originally in October, 1975, when approximately $10,000 in purportedly stolen goods were recovered during a searches of their automobile and homes.

However, that case was dismissed on Jan. 26, on a municipal court ruling that the search was illegal.

A grand jury indictment was obtained and a new preliminary hearing held on the search and seizure issue, but the court again ruled that it was illegal. An appeal of that decision to the Fourth District Court of Appeal in San Bernardino was denied.

New Transit Panel Plans First Meeting

SANTA ANA — The Orange County Transportation Commission, which will have sweeping new powers over how federal and state funds are spent locally for highways, streets and mass transit will hold its first meeting Thursday at 9:30 a.m. in the board of supervisors hearing room.

The meeting place is located on the fifth floor of the county hall of administration, Sycamore and Santa Ana streets.

Two county supervisors — Ralph Clark and Ralph Diedrich — and two city councilmen appointed by the League of Cities — Al Hollinden of Fountain Valley and David Brandt of Santa Ana — have been appointed to the new commission.

In the weeks ahead, these commissioners will have to select a fifth member to complete the commission and together with him hire an executive director.

The public member cannot be the same individual who serves in that capacity on the Orange County Transit District board and he cannot have been an elected official within the past 10 years.

In addition to an executive director, the law which created commissions in Los Angeles, San Bernardino, Riverside and Orange counties, says that the commission will have a "small but competent staff."

To provide funding for the new commission, the Southern California Association of Governments (SCAG) has allocated $106,466 in state tax funds to the Orange County commission. However, the commission could apply for federal transportation matching funds on a ratio of 4-1 and increase its bankroll to more than $500,000.

The principal duties of the new commission, which sprang to life Jan. 1, are the drafting of 3-5 year improvement plans for highway and transit systems in the county and the allocation of federal and state funds for local transit and road projects.

Water District Director Named

SAN CLEMENTE -- Wayne T. McMurray, 2012 Calle de los Alamos, will be seated as new director on the board of the Tri-Cities Municipal Water District at the Jan. 19 meeting.

McMurray, a partner in the Weymouth Crowell Construction Co., was appointed by the board to fill the seat vacated by Director Wallace M. McKay Jr.

WORRY CLINIC

By George W. Crane, Ph.D., M.D.

Albert's nudism arguments are malarky! But he suffers from what we call "Libido Regression," so scrapbook this case. And send a copy to anybody guilty of chronic "indecent exposure."

CASE K-603: Albert P., aged 39, is a sex problem to his wife.

"Dr. Crane," she said, "we have 3 teenage children.

"The boys are 13 and 15 while our daughter is the youngest and 11.

"But they aren't my real problem, though it indirectly affects them.

"For my husband has recently developed a craze to shed all his clothes and go nude around our house.

"You can imagine the consternation he causes among our youngsters when their classmates come over to play or study here!

"Despite my protests, my husband insists nudism is healthful and that it relaxes him when he gets home from the office.

"Dr. Crane, how would psychologists or psychiatrists diagnose him?"

LIBIDO REGRESSION

That "healthier" argument of nudists is malarky!

For the Almighty protects the bare skin of animals by fur and the bare epidermis of fowls by feathers! Why?

Because heavy doses of sunshine produce a higher incidence of skin cancer!

Nude bodies also get more infection from scratches, insect bites, etc.

One of the first discoveries of primitive mankind was the fact that clothing is medically desirable.

Indeed, even the modern nudist campers wear shoes and often hats so they renege on their own attempts to claim that nudism is logical!

But Albert's stupid behavior is what we call "Libido Regression," meaning, a sexual return to the toddler state where he caused excitement by parading before guests in the raw.

Even before pre-school children have acquired much understanding of sexual matters, they soon learn that they cause undue giggles and excitement if they toddle downstairs in their birthday suits to where mamma is entertaining guests.

This often registers an early sexual impression on toddlers to find that nudism makes people notice them.

After a man like Albert has been married for 15 or 20 years and finds that his wife doesn't show much excitement in the boudoir, such a husband may then become a victim of that earlier toddler exhibitionism.

For many a semi-impotent husband thus obtains an indirect erotic thrill by feminine vocal reaction to the mere visual exposure of his nude body, even though he is still relatively platonic!

So his wounded sex ego thus is bolstered by the excitement he thinks he can still develop among the opposite sex.

At the age of 40, many husbands also become victims of the "Ponce de Leon" complex where they start chasing girls half their age in a vain effort to revive their earlier erotic ability.

They become so selfish, they don't even seem to recognize the shame they cause their wives and teenage children.

Likewise, male victims of the "indecent exposure" complex also lack empathy for their teenage children, for a scared male who is in a panic about his deficient libido, can become totally selfish!

Wives, you can remedyboth types of complex by sending for the booklet "How To Prevent Impotence In The Male," enclosing a long stamped, return envelope, plus 25¢.

(Always write to Dr. Crane, Hopkins Bldg., Mellott, Indiana, 47958, enclosing a long stamped, addressed envelope and 25¢ to cover typing and printing costs when you send for one of his booklets.)

King, Kennedy Probe Put On House Shelf

WASHINGTON (AP) — Recreation of the Select House Assassination Committee was pulled off the House floor Tuesday amid attacks on its scope, possible investigating techniques and its staff director.

Several leaders predicted a limited investigation of the assassinations of President John F. Kennedy and Martin Luther King Jr. will ultimately be approved. But prospective committee chairman Henry B. Gonzalez sounded pessimistic.

"I never had a fair chance," Gonzalez told reporters after the decision to postpone the vote. "I'm like a prize-fighter who gets knocked out before he even gets in the ring."

The United States will supply 50 per cent of the wheat and about 70 per cent of the soybeans moving in world trade in 1976.

Ford Asks Cabinet-Level Energy Agency

WASHINGTON (AP) – President Ford on Tuesday proposed combining key federal agencies into a Cabinet-level energy department to solve one of the nation's most urgent problems, achieving energy independence.

Ford sent Congress legislation similar to a plan proposed by President-elect Carter, thus setting the basis for a bipartisan approach to the problem.

The President's plan would combine functions of the Federal Energy Administration – FEA – Energy Research and Development Administration – ERDA – the Federal Power Commission, Bureau of Mines, Rural Electrification Administration and power marketing functions of the Interior Department into the new department.

Carter has said one of the first goals of his new administration will be to establish a single energy department. He has mentioned joining FEA and ERDA, and he has named former Defense Secretary James R. Schlesinger to manage energy programs with authority of a cabinet member.

Secretary of Commerce Elliot Richardson told a White House news conference Tuesday the main difference between the Ford and Carter plans is the inclusion of the Bureau of Mines and REA in the President's proposal.

Richardson said under the Ford plan, 22,860 employes would be transferred from the various agencies into the new department. It would have an estimated initial budget $7.189 billion.

In his message to Congress, Ford said the Federal energy effort is now fragmented among several agencies and that a new energy department would be instrumental in developing the technology needed to make the United States independent of foreign oil. Included would be development of such alternate sources of energy as solar power.

"Energy has played a progressively more important part in our national life as our economy and society have evolved," the President said.

"However, it was not until the oil embargo of 1973 and the energy crisis it precipitated that we began to understand just how energy dependent we are," he said.

"The sudden curtailment in oil imports also demonstrated vividly that our national energy supply and demand are part of a world market and that energy has become a major force in world affairs."

Ford said the events of recent years have made it apparent that a national energy policy is needed.

His bill is the outcome of an eight-month study by the Energy Resources Council headed by Richardson.

Asked why Ford is submitting the bill in the final days of his presidency, Richardson said a law passed by Congress required that a reorganization plan be submitted at this time.

"It is in many respects like the Carter proposal and therefore it is likely something like this will be approved," he said.

"The work done by the Ford administration can be used by both the new Congress and executive branch in determining what needs to be done on restructuring the energy agencies.

FEA administrator Frank Zarb added: "President Ford has put energy on the map and has devoted much of the last two years to it. It seems particularly important for him to leave a legacy of energy realignment."

Microwave Oven Repair Pact Reached

WASHINGTON (AP) – General Electric Co. has agreed to repair 36,000 microwave ovens that may be leaking excessive radiation, the Food and Drug Administration announced Tuesday.

The ovens, now in customers' homes, are all GE and GE's Hotpoint "Versatronic" and "Cook Center" combination thermal-microwave ovens made from November 1973 through October 1975.

GE will send repairmen to customers' homes and make the repairs at no expense to the customers, the FDA said.

GE will start the repairs next month and expects to repair 25,000 ovens by June 1

Career Tribulations Of Fonzie's Ex

By GARY DEEB
Chicago Tribune

HOLLYWOOD – Four months ago she was headed straight for the top, an overnight sensation whose appearances on "Happy Days," the most popular program on television, were seen by 60 million viewers a week.

For awhile it looked as though she'd become a regular on that show, as a sort of female equivalent of Fonzie, the macho greaser with girls at his command and a fast answer to most of life's problems. Later she seemed to be a shoo-in to go even further – as the star of her own weekly show.

But today, those blue-sky dreams have vanished for Roz Kelly. The girl who plays Pinky Tuscadero is the victim of a series of strange circumstances that have put her career at a standstill.

"Roz has a very special magic," says "Happy Days" producer Garry Marshall. "It's just a matter of finding the right spot to use it."

That testimonial notwithstanding, the fact remains that Kelly, who a few weeks ago thought she was destined for stardom, now finds herself in a cruel limbo. She's not sure what will happen next. Her future is on "hold."

It's an intriguing story and a textbook example of the fragile nature of show business, particularly TV.

One day you're nobody; the next day you're the lightening rod for coast-to-coast gossip and adulation. For Roz Kelly, it's already back to "nobody" status, though perhaps only temporarily.

It all started last spring when ABC program whiz Fred Silverman "discovered" Kelly in the pilot episode of the "Lorenzo and Henrietta Music Show," a dreadful talk-variety series that died after just three weeks on the air. Large-busted and pretty, Kelly attracted Silverman's interest as a potential idol of the children and teen-agers who make up a huge segment of ABC's nightly audience.

Just like that, Silverman and producer Marshall decided to hire Kelly to get "Happy Days" off to roaring start for its new fall season. Plucked from obscurity, Kelly became Pinky Tuscadero, the motorcycle riding doll who almost married Fonzie.

And although she played her part well and hypoed the ratings of "Happy Days," Roz also suffered her first surprise setback.

"Our original idea was to possibly make Roz a regular or a semi-regular on the show," Marshall explains. "But we got such a tremendous flow of mail from viewers who didn't want Fonzie to have a steady girl. Our audience got very nervous. You see, Pinky was a hit with the viewers, but they didn't want her to be Fonzie's girl. They wanted him to keep spreading himself around with a lot of girls, so they could continue to fantasize about the Fonz."

As the protest mail poured in, ABC also screened the Pinky episodes for "test audiences" in New York, Chicago, Los Angeles, and other cities. The conclusion was the same:

The Fonz should play the field.

Meanwhile, Kelly and Henry Winkler, who plays Fonzie, weren't exactly becoming fast friends in real life. One reliable report has it that Winkler handed his producers an ultimatum – either Kelly goes or he walks.

With all those strikes against her, Kelly quickly was written out of "Happy Days." But ABC still was impressed with her prospects as a major TV star and so the network ordered a pilot called "Pinky," in which the character becomes a Las Vegas showgirl.

Unfortunately, the project was high on glamor and low on laughs. ABC passed on it.

Then, a crazy twist of fate: ABC's "Nancy Walker Show" was doing poorly in the ratings, but the network wanted to save Walker by placing her in a new program. The Las Vegas pilot was revived, this time with Walker starring as a den mother to a group of chorus girls and Kelly costarring as Pinky. The series was retitled "Mrs. Blansky's Beauties" and set for Saturday nights.

Everybody finally seemed happy. It didn't last long, however, because Walker reportedly now wants Kelly out of the show.

And at last report, that's precisely what's happening. Kelly will costar in the first two "Blansky" episodes in February, then drop out of sight as Walker becomes the absolute star of the show.

"Yes, we conceived the show as a starring vehicle for Roz," says producer Marshall. "But ABC now wants it as a starring vehicle for Nancy Walker.

And with so many characters in the supporting cast, it's gonna be hard to put Roz in a true costarring position. So after the first two episodes, we'll have to play it by ear."

What it all means is that Roz Kelly, who thought she had caught the proverbial lightning in a bottle just a few months ago, now is looking for work.

Sometimes superstardom and heartbreak are just inches apart.

HOLLYWOOD BRIEFS: "The Practice" with Danny Thomas and the "McLean Stevenson Show" are being canceled by NBC. They'll be replaced next month in the Wednesday night lineup by "Grizzly Adams," a family series about a mountain man. In addition, NBC will kill "Serpico" in favor of "Quincy" with Jack Klugman on Friday nights. And "Kingston," starring Raymond Burr as a tough newspaperman, will premiere in March, probably on Thursdays.

– NBC News staffers privately are worried about the promotion of Herb Schlosser, president of NBC, Inc., to the additional post of corporate chief executive. They fear that Schlosser, a lawyer and "bottom-line" specialist, will slash the news division's budget to increase profits.

– And it's now official, "Laugh-In" makes a comeback next fall in the form of six monthly specials on NBC. Dan Rowan and Dick Martin won't return as hosts. But producer George Schlatter and comedy writer Digby Wolfe, creators of the original, again will guide the show.

Sha Na Na Back On TV.

By GEORGE MAKSIAN
New York News

NEW YORK – If you haven't caught Sha Na Na in one of their infrequent TV guest appearances, you're in for a big surprise. They are one of the wackiest, flashiest, greasiest rock 'n' roll groups to ever face the screen. (The special aired last night on channel 7).

Naturally, they'll be dressed to the hilt for the occasion, complete with motorcycle jackets, pegged pants, skin-tight gold lame suits and ducktail hairdos. The zany delinquents will turn back the clock and take viewers back to the fabulous '50s, singing such oldies as "Alley Oop," "Yakety Yak" and "Tell Laura I Love Her," and dancing up a storm.

The group recalls many a fond memory of yesterday: The malt shops, the senior proms, the drive-in movies. They grease their hair, they roll their cigarets up in their T-shirt sleeves, they dance the hand jive, the mashed potato and the twist. Some have said they perform an outrageously funny show.

Sha Na Na, in case you didn't know, is taken from the lyrics of "Get a Job," a 1958 rock hit. "And that's the theme of our special," said Jocko, the drummer in the 10-member group. "The cops want to get us off the streets, so they arrange for us to get work by having our own TV show.

"And does that make Rita Moreno mad. She plays Rosa Dolores, one of the women in the neighborhood, who is not unlike the character, Googie Gomez, that she played in 'The Ritz.' Rita says those crazy cucarachas shouldn't have their own show. She should. Harvey Lembeck is also in the show, playing the local deli owner, Sidney, and Pamela Meyers plays our dippy blonde girl friend."

Jocko, 26, is one of the original members of Sha Na Na, which was formed in 1969. The youngest in the troupe is Johnny (The Kid) Contardo, now 23. "But he was a kid when he started," said Jocko, whose surname is Marcellino. The oldest is Lennie Baker, 30, the sensuous kid of rock 'n' roll.

"Lennie is not only the oldest member of the group, he's the biggest," said Jocko. "He weighs over 250 pounds. He plays sax and on the special he'll sing 'Blue Moon,' but not in the manner you've been used to hearing it. It's absolutely mad.

"We use Lennie as a prize in our dance contest skits. The winner gets to dance with Lennie. It's out of sight watching the two of them strutting away on the floor. Another skit we'll be doing on the program is 'The Monster Mash,' in which I play Dracula. Tony Santini will be Frankenstein. We'll be dressed in black leather jackets, pink socks and high-cut sneakers. It's a wild number."

Jocko said the special did not feature the skit, "From the Streets of New York," in which Jocko dresses in drag and gets mugged in the park. "We're saving that one until we get our own series," he said.

Contrary to previous reports, Sha Na Na is not made up entirely of performers from New York. "We're from all over," said Jocko. "Some are from New York. Screamin' Scott Simon came from Kansas City, and a couple of others came from Boston. I'm from Quincy, Mass."

Jocko also squashed reports that the group first got together when they sang in the glee club at Columbia University. "I don't know where they got that story. Maybe a couple of the guys went to Columbia, but that's about all. I think we met at a bus stop on the Upper West Side," he said, with a chuckle.

Commenting on the future of rock 'n' roll, Jocko said, "Its success will depend more and more on its exposure on TV. But that's not to say that live concerts and records will diminish. They will all complement each other. I don't know if the songs of the '50s will survive, but rock 'n' roll is here to stay.

"Fortunately, we sing not only the hits of the '50s, we sing everybody's greatest hits. Sometimes we dig way back and do tunes like Cole Porter's 'Night and Day.' Wait 'til you hear that number. We do it with a greasy character dressed in tails. You've never seen anything like it."

Asked for advice to today's teenagers, the performer hunched his shoulders and in his best Dead End kid manner said, "Keep off the streets. Get a job and don't get into no trouble. And be sure to watch our special. If you don't we're going to personally come down and take care of you."

Princess Grace A TV Subject

NEW YORK – Princess Grace of Monaco, the former Grace Kelly of Philadelphia who rose to royalty after working in TV and movies, will be the subject of a 90-minute special to be televised on NBC's "Big Event" in April.

"The Story of Princess Grace...Once Upon a Time Is Now" will cover her life from movie princess to royal princess. Before going to Hollywood in the early 1950s, the actress appeared in about 50 TV dramas here, including "Studio One" and "Lights Out."

Budd Schulberg is writing the script for the special that will begin filming next month in Monaco, Paris and other locales. In reviewing her theatrical career, the show may include reflections by some of her former movie colleagues, including Alfred Hitchcock, Cary Grant, Bing Crosby and William Holden.

Producer Packaging New Suspense Series

By JERRY BUCK
AP Television Writer

LOS ANGELES (AP) – Producer Quinn Martin, long noted for tough cop shows, doesn't see his new anthology series as a departure but as a return to his origins.

His new show, his fourth on the air, is "Quinn Martin's Tales of the Unexpected," which premieres on NBC at 10 p.m. EST Wednesday, Feb. 2.

"It's back to square one," he said. "The first show I ever wrote for was 'Four Star Playhouse.' The first show I ever produced was 'The Jane Wyman Show.' The second I produced was 'Desilu Playhouse,' from which emerged 'The Untouchables.'"

It was "The Untouchables" which stamped Martin with an image for two-fisted series. Such as "The Fugitive," "Dan August," "Cannon," "Manhunter" and the current "Streets of San Francisco," "Barnaby Jones" and "Most Wanted."

"Quinn Martin's Tales of the Unexpected" – it's not often that you see a producer's name on a show – is an anthology series of terror and suspense. It came about after NBC's research computers spit out his name as the producer best known to the public.

"NBC came to me and asked, 'How do we package your name?'" he said. "I said I didn't want to do another copy show. I said I'd always wanted to do my version of Hitchcock."

Martin said "I think television in general has to renovate itself and get into departures. We can't keep giving the public the same thing.

"We tend to drive people away from television. We did it with the Western. We're going to do it with the cop shows. I've got the last successful definitive cop show I think we'll see in 'Most Wanted.'"

In his office at Samuel Goldwyn Studios, Martin said behind a huge desk piled high with scripts. Scripts from his current series and scripts for numerous pilots and new projects he is juggling.

He said he couldn't estimate how many shows he's working on. "You just keep the pot brewing," he said. "There are no more seasons. You submit all the time. You write all the time.

"If you're a creative person you never stop thinking. I think about shows in the shower. Driving to work. I jot down all the ideas and three times a week I talk them over with my development director."

Martin, of course, is far from one-dimensional. He raises thoroughbred horses, is a tennis enthusiast, is on the board of the Buckley School and provides scholarships to aspiring motion picture students.

He's also branching out into other fields. He's developing a variety show for Sally Kellerman and has situation comedies in the works. Other projects are more familiar: a London-based private eye, a spy thriller and a World War II submarine epic.

SEARCHING — Robert Forster, right, stars as Los Angeles Police Lt. Matt Lewis and Don Johnson portrays Sgt. Brian Scott in "The City," a 90-minute NBC-TV world premiere movie. Show will be screened tonight from 9:30 to 11 p.m.

Movie-Goers Guide To Films Screening

A STAR IS BORN (R): Barbra Streisand proves her greatness as a singer in a film that magnifies her deficiency as an actress. There are great stretches of vacuity punctuated by her lack of talent. Kris Kristofferson is the one redeeming feature.

BUGSY MALONE (PG): There is one thing worse than adults behaving like children and that is children behaving like adults. Especially in a musical pastiche of gangster movie conventions. Thoroughly grotesque.

CAR WASH (PG): A deluge that consists largely of vulgar drivel in which largely unknown actors make a determined effort to hold on to their anonymity. The film is a frenzied lather of jive-in humor in which the motley assortment of characters become pegs for jokes about vomiting, dog droppings and other hilarity.

CARRIE (R): This time the child is possessed by telekinetic powers, or the ability to move objects. The film is not embraced by this ability and Brian De Palma, the talented director, seems to take but fitful interest. Sissy Spacek is the high school girl wreaking vengeance on her fellow seniors at the prom.

KING KONG (PG): The ape returns after a 43-year absence courtesy of Dino De Laurentiis and $24 million-plus, by some accounts, $15 million in promotion (but maybe that's hype, too), Jessica Lange, Jeff Bridges and Charles Grodin. "No one cry when 'Jaws' die," says Dino in his Baroque English. "But when monkey die people gonna cry." Simian sympathy test showing (apparently well) all over the nation.

MARATHON MAN (R): A superior thriller from John Schlesinger in which the enduringly popular theme of latter-day Nazism is intertwined with the distrust of government power and paranoia. The imagery is heavy and the plot sometimes reaches exasperating points as Sir Laurence Olivier, in a stunning portrayal of evil, pursues Dustin Hoffman and a cache of war loot. A thoroughly professional film that lives up to one's expectatioms and, in Sir Laurence's case, exceeds them.

COMMUNITY THEATER NEWS

Huntington Beach Playhouse, Inc. Needs Rescue From Financial Woes

Huntington Beach Playhouse, Inc. is calling for donations needed to keep the organization alive. Last fall the group left The Barn and is currently seeking a new theater home. Meanwhile, Howard Solomon, treasurer of the Playhouse, reports that the fund solicitatiom has been "less than reassuring" to date.

President Paul Sullivan has agreed to continue the $200 life membership for another 60 days or until March 1. The cutoff date for $200 memberships was to have been Jan. 1. After the new extension is ended, a new price tag of $300 will be placed on the membership. Send donations to the Life Membership Committee, P.O. Box 451, Huntington Beach, California 92646, c/o Huntington Beach Playhouse, Inc. Your money will help keep fine theater in that growing Orange County community. Donations are tax deductible.

Sebastian's West Dinner Playhouse has just announced the two week extension of their latest musical "The Sound of Music". . . . .Now to play through Sun, March 6.

The request for tickets was just too over whelming to ignore, stated Ernie Verre, president and producer of Sebastian's West Binner Playhouse. There are 2 days open in January and several in February. Weekends are the first to go so they urge people wishing to see TSOM to purchase their tickets early. We're open nightly, except Monday.

Friday, Jan. 14, is the opening date for the new season of the Intimate Dinner Theatre at the Holiday Inn of Costa Mesa. Black Tie 'n Levi's all Hollywood cast production of "Lovers and Other Strangers", written by Renee Taylor and Joseph Bologna, and directed by Michael Tortsov, will be the first show to grace the stage this new year.

This set of five comedies based on the superiority of women will leave the critics in a dilemma as to which is the funniest. A fun filled evening may be expected by all.

As usual, the Holiday Inn will be offering its delicious buffet dinner. Cocktail hour begins at 6 P.M., dinner at 7, and curtain time at 8:30. Reservations should be made early to ensure seating on opening night.

Frank Childress, star of "Norman Is That you?", Black Tie 'n Levi's first production at the Holiday Inn last June, will make his second appearance at this popular Dinner Theatre on March 25, in the world premiere of "The Fly Trap". Orange County theater goers will then have the opportunity to see an original comedy, never before seen on any stage, which will be the forerunner of a planned Broadway show to be produced later this year.

Director Ben Jutzi of Mission Viejo has announced the cast for Saddleback Valley Community Theatre's presentation of Moss Hart's "Light Up The Sky" as follows: Irene, Jane Nigh Davidson; Sydney, Joe Cordio; Frances, Pat Cullen; Carleton, Robert E. Truhlar II; Stella, Jean Spears; Owen, Ellis Estes; Miss Lowell, Cynthia Logan; Peter, Todd S. Humphrey; Shriner, Dick Vara; Sven, Max & Cop, Chuck Logan and Miller L. Key as Tyler Rayburn.

Anyone interested in any aspect of theater production is invited to attend the meeting Jan. 12th at Great Western Savings in El Toro.

Harriette F. Witmer, Chairman of the South Coast Repertory Building Campaign, has announced a gift from the James Irvine Foundation in the amount of $125,000. The money will be used to underwrite stage lighting equipment and landscaping for SCR's proposed 500-seat theatre to be built next to the South Coast Plaza Hotel in Costa Mesa. Construction completion is scheduled for the fall of 1977.

SCR is currently involved in a $2.5 million building campaign. The Irvine grant brings the total amount raised to date to $992,000.

As part of its Expedition Series of plays South Coast Repertory Theatre will present an original silent comedy on Jan. 22 at 3 p.m. and the 24th at 8 p.m. at SCR's Third Step Theatre. Entitled "The Daring Dardolases," or "Love Finds Cosmo C. Cosmo." the work was written especially for SCR by company members Ronald Boussom and Steven DeNaut and it is, according to the authors, suitable for family viewing.

The storyline of the world premiere event concerns itself with Enesto, Alfredo and Lucy Dardolas, two brothers and a sister, who tour as a juggling-magic act. "Cosmo is their stage manger/sidekick who falls in love with Lucy, to her brothers' dismay," explains Boussom, "giving the work a play-within-a play dimension." He adds that "The Daring Dardolases" was developed in the style of the American silent film comedy, "with everything from swashbuckling duels, slapstick humor and fumbling showmanship, to romantic conflict and, of course, true love winning out in the end."

The Alex KOBA Actors workshop will present a special premiere performance by Linda Jamie on Jan. 25th at the Westminster Community Theatre, 7272 Maple Street, Westminster, CA. At 8:30 P.M. For the workshop students and supporters. Miss Jamie a well known Orange and Los Angeles County actress makes her debut as a single performer in an evening impersonation of the famous French actress and singer, Edith Piaf, whose tragic life ended in 1963.

"To Life", a rollicking musical comedy by Howard and Edith Goodman of Fullerton will be presented at Fullerton College on Saturday, Feb. 5 at 8 p.m.

All performers are temple members with many having backgrounds in community theater work.

OC STAGE REVIEW

SCR Produces Pinter Production

By BERNARD WEINER

The South Coast Repertory has just opened a very fine and sensitively acted production of Harold Pinter's strangely symbolic and bizarre comedy, "Old Times." The play will run through Feb. 19.

Pinter has created a moving work filled with many levels of symbolism. Three people, a married couple and the wife's girlhood friend come together for a reunion after twenty years. They reminisce about their youth and life, each with distorted memories of the others. Reality, imagination, and fantasy intermix so that neither the friends nor the audience knows which is which.

The author has created a beautiful surrealistic work that is open to a multitude of interpretations. We can be watching an actual reunion, or it might be a figment of one of the players imagination, or possibly a dream, or, for that matter, it might not be happening at all. Pinter has left the overall meanings wide so that the viewer can interpret them in any way he or she wishes.

Yet the play has an almost magical quality about it which holds the audience spellbound for the entire two acts.

Cherie Patch wonderfully portrays the mostly silent Kate. She is the wife, always present, but constantly in a state of revery with an intriguing enigmatic smile on her face. Kate, though she says very little, is the dominant character in the drama. It is to her that the other two pay court. It is in their memories of having been with her that the other two find as high points in their lives. Ms. Patch's interpretation of this role is outstanding.

Charles Lanyer's performance as Kate's husband, Deeley, is equally well conceived and carried out. He is the possessive yet dependent male, lonely for his wife even, at times, when he is with her. He is also jealous of her relationships before he met her. Mr. Lanyer beautifully interprets the role.

Irene Roseen also does an outstanding job in the role of Anna, Kate's old friend. She beautifully tries to recapture, their moments, real and other-wise, in the past. It's a fine interpretation.

Direction is by David Emmes. The wonderful symbolic setting was designed by Michael Devine. Lighting was by Thomas Rusika and costumes were by Jennifer Platt.

Dance Production Scheduled

"Thru the Looking Glass" is the title of the dance production to be presented by the El Modena Dance and Choreography Club Thursday and Friday (Jan. 13-14) in the high school cafetorium.

The 26 member club has been rehearsing since September on this year's production, which will feature a variety of numbers, including ballet, jazz, modern, mime and ethnic dances.

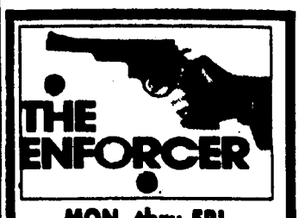

Curtain time is 8 p.m. Tickets will be available at the door and will be $1 for students and $1.50 for adults. For further information contact the El Modena High School on Spring Street, girl's PE department.

Connie Stevens Stars As 'Scorchy'

Connie Stevens, in the role of a provocative Federal Narcotics Undercover Agent prepared to go to any lengths to bring dope smugglers to justice, stars in American International's "Scorchy," opening Wednesday, Jan. 19 in a multiple engagement in theatres and drive-ins throughout Southern California and Nevada.

Cesare Danova, who co-stars in the film, enacts the role of a businessman under the guise of operating an export-import business but actually heading an international narcotics ring with headquarters in Rome and Seattle.

The film was written, produced and directed by Hikmet Avedis.

Never A Dull Moment For Dorothy Provine

Dorothy Provine is not the forward type, but when the occasion demands she can throw her weight around, as light as it is, with the best of her fellows pros. The script for Walt Disney's "Never A Dull Moment," in which she stars with Dick Van Dyke and Edward G. Robinson, called for Dorothy to toss, judo style, middleweight Dick Van Dyke and heavyweight Mickey Shaughnessy.

It seems that in the movie Dorothy finds herself in a kind of Pearl White serial situation when she is held prisoner in the home of a gangland czar. At one point in the story she has to ward off what she believes are the intentions of an over-amorous hood, played by Van Dyke. Actually he's only trying to get close enough to let her know that, in reality, he's an actor posing as a crook. Nevertheless, she decks him faster than he can follow through with the pass.

Next in turn of events comes a mad chase sequence in which heroine, Dorothy, is trying to give the dodge to bodyguard Shaughnessy. When he finally overtakes her she sends him over her shoulders too, in nothing flat.

Dorothy pulled off the action herself, sans stunt double, and to think that she never had a judo lesson in her life.

20 Year Old Adam Arkin Awed By Sudden Stardom On Video

No wonder. He is not old enough to buy a legal drink in California, and he is headlining a new CBS sitcom, "Busting Loose," which makes its debut on Monday. But Adam comes better prepared than most 20-year-olds. He has been acting off and on for seven years and has enjoyed the best of training from his father, the multiply talented Alan Arkin.

There is a resemblance. The curly black hair, the questioning brown eyes, the guppy mouth, the slow delivery with a dash of wry. But Adam is handsomer and taller (6 feet 1½).

Between father and son there is an obvious bond.

"He's a tough act to follow," admits the young actor of his famous father. "I suffered from some competition problems, as do all children who follow in the same profession. But my father is my best friend; I am closer to him than anyone else in the world. He was too good a father, and I was too good a son, for us to develop any antagonisms.

"There were so many benefits that I enjoyed, and I don't mean getting jobs because of him. I am talking about benefits in terms of experience, in observing how he handles acting problems.

"I also learned about fame and what it does to you. I realize that it can be a hazard, but it can also be a blessing. If this series does prove a success, I'm not set up for any large amounts of disillusionment. There will be surprises, God knows. But I'm not set up for a huge fall, and I thank God for that."

"Busting Loose," comes from the same hit factory that produced "Happy Days" and "Laverne and Shirley." The executive producers and creators are Mark Rothman and Lowell Ganz, who wrote the "Laverne and Shirley" segment of "Happy Days" and then produced the offshoot.

The series was originally called "The Last Markowitz." CBS considered it too ethnic sounding, and the title was changed to "On Your Own." That had too much of a sitcom ring to it, hence "Busting Loose." The new title is faintly descriptive, since the show concerns a young engineering graduate, Lenny Markowitz (Arkin) who leaves the family home to seek work as a sports telecaster.

The show is filmed before a live audience at Paramount studios with a large resident cast. Included are Jack Kruschen as the parents, Barbara Rhoades as a sexy neighbor, plus Danny Goldman, Stephen Nathan, Greg Antonacci and Paul Sylvan as his neighborhood buddies.

Adam Arkin was born in Brooklyn at a time when his father was starting to make a living as a folk singer. His parents separated when he was 4, and Adam lived with his mother in St. Louis and San Luis Obispo, Calif. At 11 he began living with his father. After Alan made his film debut in "The Russians Are Coming, The Russians Are Coming," young Adam spent much of his time on movie sets.

"I always felt more alive when I was on sets," he recalled. "I had the makeup people decorate me with fake blood or make me up as a monster. I observed what everybody did. I guess I had it in the blood."

Adam made his acting debut at 13 with young brother Matthew in "People Soup," a short his father filmed in three days and drew an Academy nomination for. Adam attended the Professional Children's School in New York between stage roles. His film debut came with "Made for Each Other" in 1971, and he has appeared on TV in "Hawaii Five-O," "Barney Miller" and "Happy Days."

If "Busting Loose" is a hit, Adam is ready for it. But he is also realistic: "CBS could call up tomorrow and say the show is cancelled."

Stripers Showing At Lake Havasu

Striped bass fishing is improving in the lower area of Lake Havasu, according to sources there, and most of the stripers are hitting trolled plugs in the region from Parker Dam to the power station on the California side of the lake.

The largest striper taken recently, according to Ed McWilliams of Havasu Resort, was the 31-pounder caught by Dennis Richardson of Havasu Springs. Some fishermen who trolled all day were taking 3-fish limits of stripers in the 8- to 15-pound class, says McWilliams.

Local resident Jim Jordan checked into Black Meadow Landing on Lake Havasu with a 15 1/2-pound striper, according to Loran Perry at the resort facility.

Good to excellent trout fishing is rewarding fishermen at Irvine Lake, says lake concessioner Russ Cleary.

"Actually, it's pretty hard not to catch a limit of trout right now if you'll use the right light gear and not fish too deep," Cleary contends. "I'd recommend not fishing over 15 feet deep at this time of year."

In addition to the usual weekly planting of 2000 pounds of rainbow trout, Irvine also received a load of 1850 pounds of channel catfish last week.

Some large trout highlighted recent fishing. Mitchell Connair of Huntington Beach topped his limit with a 5-pound and 9-ounce trout taken on a salmon egg in Sierra Cove, Don McDade of Torrance registered a 5 1/4-pound trout in his Sierra Cove limit and Otis Kissler of Long Beach boated a 5-pound trout taken on Velveeta cheese off the west shore. Tom Smith of Cypress had a west shore limit headed by a 4-pound and 6-ounce trout.

Thomas McMinn of Santa Ana tried a new winkle at Irvine Lake – fly casting – and caught five trout to 2 1/2 pounds on dry flies.

Fishing pressure has been light in the Cottonwood Cove Resort sector of Lake Mojave, although some fair catches of bass and crappie are being made. Otto Kuntz of Lancaster was one of the more successful fishermen, taking nine crappie totaling 18 pounds, plus a pair of 3-pound bass. Herschell Whitmer of Long Beach used nightcrawlers to catch eight bass to 3 1/2 pounds. Garden Grove angler Dan Feyo nabbed a 6-14 bass on a leadhead jig.

Other reports and big fish catches follow:

CASTAIC LAKE – Fair fishing overall for bass, with majority of the fish hitting jigs and spoons. A few pan-size trout hitting near the dam. Ron Spencer and John Potorf, Rio Hondo, 10 bass to 4 pounds; Don Finwall, San Fernando, 3-6 bass.

SALTON SEA – Fair to good for corvina in deep water, with best catches taken by hooking a minnow to hula skirted jig. Corvina most active three to four miles offshore. Ray Thomas and Red Wedgeworth, Salton Sea, corvina limits to 8-8.

LAKE ISABELLA – A few large bass hitting. Action fair for trout in Kern River, above and below lake, where DFG is planting. Chic Hill, Torrance 8-0, 6-0, 5-0 and 5-0 bass.

VAIL LAKE – Planted with 100 pounds of trout last week. Fair for trout on nightcrawlers, cheese and floating baits. Bass fishing slow. Kent Ross, Whittier, 5-7, 5-3 and 7-6 bass.

LAKE CASITAS – Fair action for trout, following weekly plants. Trout hitting trolled, gold lures or still-fished baits. A few bass taken.

LAKE HENSHAW – Some limits of trout being taken in shallow water on nightcrawlers. Scheduled for a trout plant this week – 3500 pounds. Bass fishing slow, with Sonic lures best.

LAKE CACHUMA – Fair to good for trout in Santa Cruz and Cachuma bays. Bass beginning to move to shallow water, with action rated fair, but improving on nightcrawlers and crank plugs. Fair for redear perch off Jackrabbit Flats.

LAKE MEAD – Overton Arm producing a few striped bass, crappie and bass, but angling pressure down. Dwight Colbert, Las Vegas, 22-8 striped bass, plus 21 crappie; Andrew Jackson, Las Vegas, 13 1/2-pound striped bass.

Fishermen, Hunters Taxed To Limit
DFG Problem: Inflation, No Money

By CHUCK GARRISON
Register Outdoor Writer

The changing role of the Department of Fish and Game has thrust Director E.C. (Charley) Fullerton into a search familiar to all of us in this time of economic inflation – the search for more money.

"Our problem is that we are operating on a fixed income in an era of rapidly inflating costs," Fullerton says in an interview in the current issue of Outdoor California, bimonthly publication of the DFG.

Approximately two-thirds of the Department's $35.7 million budget comes from the sale of hunting and fishing licenses, permits and tags, Fullerton says.

"It's very possible you could slightly increase the fishing licenses on the basis of average fees in the western states," he says, "but realistically, we may be at the maximum we can ask the fishermen in California to pay. With respect to hunting licenses, I think there is no chance for an increase."

But increased interest in and concern for the environment has meant more and more of the DFG's time and finances are spent leading an effort not aimed soley at hunting and fishing.

"There are so many things now that the total public of California – some 21 million people – are interested in us doing such as preserving habitat, preserving open space, making sure there are fish in the rivers, maintaining the streams, maintaining all wildlife.

"I think providing these things should be the obligation of all the people of the state and not just a limited group, although I feel that user groups such as hunters and fishermen should pay an extra fee over and above the general cost to the public," the DFG director adds.

How to provide these new services to the public and still take care of the state's billion dollar hunting and fishing industry is a problem Fullerton will face for some time to come. But he emphasizes the hunters and fishermen will not be "thrown over" if the financial base of the Department is somehow changed.

The Department's mission now, however, is to protect all wildlife in California, not just the ones which attract sportsmen. There are more than 1,000 species of mammals, birds, fish, amphibians and reptiles in the state, according to DFG biologists, yet less than 100 of these are sought by the state's hunters and anglers.

Actually, hunters and fishermen have been paying the bill for everything so far, according to Fullerton, including the DFG's past work in the conservation and environment fields. So the search today is for a source of revenue which will escalate along with the cost of living. Among the possibilities being explored are a user tax on wildlife areas, excise taxes on recreational equipment and a fluctuating fee structure for licenses which would be tied to the cost of living.

Fullerton points out that money from the state's general fund has been available to the Department of Fish and Game only in the past three years. The 1976-77 budget of $35.7 million includes $1.5 million from the general fund and another $1 million from the sale of personalized license plates, but it was not enough to carry the combined weight of inflation and added responsibility for the Department, according to Fullerton.

So while the search goes on, the DFG is taking the only strategy available – cutting costs.

Record Crowds

Big crowds have been showing up at the current Sports, Vacation and Recreational Vehicle Show at the Anaheim Convention Center, according to show publicist Hank Levy. The largest crowd in the 12-year history of the event showed up for last Sunday's opener and attendance should be brisk until the show's close this Sunday.

Outdoor vacation resorts from all over the state and the West have exhibits in the "Resort Row" section of the show, with personnel on hand to assist visitors in making their 1977 vacation plans. In addition, a large array of motor homes, campers, vans, camping trailers and tent trailers are featured in the RV area of the show and fishing equipment by Fenwick, Straggler, Lowrance, Sabre, Vichek, Bomber, Eppinger, Dick Miller, Shakespeare and others can be viewed and tested on "Tackle Row."

S. Tahoe Boat Club No. 1

The 172-member South Tahoe Boat Club has been named top boating club for 1976 in an annual contest sponsored by the Outboard Boating Club of America.

This was the third top prize for the club. Club members were tops in 1969 and in 1965. In between times, the club has won numberous special category awards.

Second place went to the Daytona (Fla.) Beach Outboard Club.

Boating editors and writers also presented special category awards to the Green Bay Boating Club, (boating safety education); Fifth Street Yacht Club, Franksville, Wis. (facilities development); OBC of San Diego, (legislative activities); Muskingum Valley Boating Association, South Zanesville, Ohio (social activities); and Dale City Boating Association, Woodbridge, Va. (community service).

Early Sellout For Boat Show

The earliest sellout of the entire 240,000 square foot exhibit hall in the 21-year history of the event is reported for the Southern California Boat Show.

The all-marine exhibition will take place Feb. 4-13 at the L.A. Convention Center.

Exhibitor demand has been at a peak, according to Chairman John Cordes, of the sponsoring Southern California Marine Association.

Demand is such that it could fill another substantial hall if it were available at the $43 million downtown center.

The show will represent a who's who of the pleasure boating industry in the U.S., along with several exhibits from other countries, Cordes noted.

Weather Cools Ocean Angling

Recent rainy, cold, winter weather has hampered ocean sportfishing along the Southland coast, but most partyboat landings reports fair to good rockfishing when the sun shines.

That same inclement weather cooled off an emerging run of white seabass and yellowtail at the Coronado islands, below San Diego, according to Gary Black, owner-operator of the charter boat Conquest at Fisherman's Landing.

"There were some yellows and whites starting to hit south of South Island (of the Coronados)," Black said, "but the rainy weather over New Year's dirtied the water and at least temporarily shut off the fish."

Prior to that time, the boat New Lo-An was taking a few whites and yellows, says Loyd Asdel at Point Loma Sportfishing in San Diego. He said the yellowtail were running from 16 to 20 pounds and the white seabass were ranging from 12-to 30-pounders. Top catches for the New Lo-An included 12 white seabass to 30 pounds for 25 passengers and four yellowtail and eight white seabass for 24 passengers.

Local rockfishing has been fair to good off the San Clemente area, according to Don Hansen at Dana Wharf Sportfishing. Hansen says sculpin, salmon grouper, barber poles, some sheephead and a few sand and calico bass are being taken in the area.

Tiger Shark Frenzy Frightening Sight

By JIM HARDIE
Knight News Wire

Five tiger sharks were circling our 38-foot boat, obviously upset because we had taken away their free lunch. And from the way they were behaving, some retaliation was in the offing.

The sharks were estimated from 1,100 to 1,800 pounds, and were in a feeding frenzy when we took away the remains of a fish we had out for bait in order to gain time for reloading our cameras.

First the sharks began lifting their giant heads out of the water, apparently looking for their meal. Their teeth were bared menacingly.

Then they began to bump against the boat as if to say, give us back our meal or else.

When one shark opened its mouth and chomped on the transom at the boat's corner, I hardly could believe my eyes.

The big one swam beneath the boat and grabbed the propeller in its mouth. We could feel powerful thumps as it banged its head against the bottom.

We had anchored in the lee of the Great Barrier Reef off Cairns, Australia, and had an enormous gamefish on a rope to entice the sharks. The water was crystal clear and the current of the nine-foot drop in tide was practically guaranteed to bring a giant shark to our transom within 30 minutes.

Captain Peter Bristow was prophetic when he said: "You are about to witness something you will find hard to believe. Tiger sharks will attack that bait with a viciousness that will make the hair stand on the back of your neck."

The bait was a black marlin which weighed over 1,000 pounds. It was being returned to the sea, or recycled, providing food not only for the sharks but a host of other fish and crustaceans.

"The sharks will make an apple core out of that marlin within 30 minutes," Bristow said. "They will eat everything but the head, tail and backbone. The remains will look as if a bunch of cats had a feast."

Why don't they eat the tail?

"The tail is big, too big for one bite, and there isn't enough meat to it to interest them," he said.

The words barely had cleared his lips when the 1,800-pound shark surfaced like a submarine behind the marlin. Its first bite took the tail and a large portion of the marlin.

"Did you see that?" Bristow said. "I can't believe it. That's the first time I've seen one do that."

Within minutes, four other tiger sharks began crashing into the marlin, and chunks disappeared with each attack.

DANDY DOLPHIN – Bill Stark of Costa Mesa, co-owner of the Bent Rod Tackle shop in Tustin, hoists up a 41-pound dolphinfish he caught recently during a long range to Baja aboard the Searcher, out of Fisherman's Landing in San Diego. Stark barely missed catching the largest fish of the trip, as Orange Countian Jack Doyle of Anaheim caught a 43-pounder.

Hawaii Boar Hunting: Knives More Sporting

HONOLULU (AP) – For hunters in Hawaii, the beginning of pig hunting season signals a sharpening of knives rather than the oiling of guns.

And to some, it means walking just a few miles from town to the beginning of thousands of acres of forest reserve the island's wild pigs call home.

"Tackling a 200-pound boar with tusks up to three or four inches long is not for the clumsy or hesitant hunter," warns a booklet from the Hawaii Division of Fish and Game.

But each year hunters, armed with knives and accompanied by dogs, take to the forest reserves. Many hunt on the island of Oahu, where 30,000 acres of state land are open either daily or on a seasonal basis. Hunters also can request permission from a private landowner to stalk game on his land.

The wild boar has been pushed back by urbanization, but hunters say it will have the last say in the homesteading matter.

"There will always be a huntable population of pigs," said L. Steve Rohrmayr, president of the Pig Hunters Association of Oahu. "The mountains are so rugged that urbanization can push them back only so far."

The wild pig was introduced to the Hawaiian Islands by early Polynesian explorers and later settlers. Through crossbreeding, wild pigs come in a wide variety of colors. Common weights range from 80 to 250 pounds, though some pigs weigh more.

Some hunters use the pork to augment their diets, while others display tusks of captured boars as a trophy.

Because of dense trees and underbrush in forest reserves, use of rifles is not feasible because the hunter can barely see his game.

The only type of firearm used is the short-range, easily maneuverable "brush gun." A few hunters in more open areas use a bow and arrow.

The most common method of forest boar hunting uses dogs and knives. The specially trained dogs are allowed to run ahead, sniff out a pig and attack him.

Once it appears that the dogs have the boar pinned, the hunter kills it with a knife – a method that makes some unseasoned hunters squeamish.

"Once you've tried it," said Rohrmayr, "it's not as horrible or as dangerous as it sounds."

The cautious hunter who approaches the pig from the back or side probably will go home without serious injury. There is an element of danger, however.

"I've seen six or seven dogs on a pig, and the pig will give a shake," recalled Roy Gusukuma, who has hunted on Oahu since 1933. "He'll drop every dog, and by golly he's after you."

Of the five Hawaiian Islands that contain pigs, the island of Hawaii offers the most varied terrain, said Ronald Walker, chief of the state wildlife office. But the number of hunters is few because of the disparity in population among the islands.

Seven out of 10 of the state's residents live on Oahu – a statistic that worries wildlife officials, who see the hunting grounds become more crowded each year.

Dedication Set For Ecological Lagoon Reserve

Buena Vista Lagoon Ecological Reserve, a 190-acre oasis for wildlife within the cities of Oceanside and Carlsbad in northern San Diego County, will be dedicated in ceremonies Jan. 21 at the reserve.

On hand to make the dedication will be State Sen. John Stull of Escondido, who as an assemblyman in 1968 authored the bill which provided for establishment of reserves such as Buena Vista Lagoon.

ENTHUSIASM FOR BROWN DWINDLES, POLL SHOWS

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) – The proportion of Californians who think Gov. Edmund G. Brown Jr. is doing a poor job has increased, but overall his constituency is still enthusiastic, a poll reported Tuesday.

The California Poll said 37 per cent of those surveyed in November felt Brown is doing a good job compared with 46 per cent who gave him that ranking in August. In the same three month period the poll found the number saying the governor does a poor job increased from 11 per cent to 13 per cent.

"The extravagantly enthusiastic view Californians have taken of Governor Brown since he assumed office two years ago appears to be abating," concluded pollster Mervin Field.

SA Killer, 17, Gets Life; Judge May Reconsider Later

SANTA ANA – Ruben Barela, 17, of Santa Ana, was sentenced to life in prison Tuesday on his first-degree murder conviction, but Superior Court Judge Everett W. Dickey said he would consider reducing the sentence in four months.

Barela was found guilty last month along with Anthony Soza, also 17, of Orange, in the shooting death of Edward P. Velasquez, 21, of Santa Ana last May 31.

Soza was granted a continuance on his sentencing until Jan. 25.

Dickey told Barela Tuesday that he would retain jurisdiction on the case pending receipt of a diagnostic evaluation from Chino State Prison.

The judge said he would consider re-sentencing Barela under a "youthful offender" section of the penal code if the evaluation comes back favorable to the defendant.

A sentencing under the youthful offender section would reduce Barela's prison term to six months-to-life. He would become eligible for parole immediately because Dickey gave him credit for 216 days already served in Orange County jail while awaiting trial. Under a straight life commitment in prison, Barela would become eligible for parole in seven years.

Barela took the sentencing calmly, but his friends in the gallery murmured loudly at certain remarks by Dickey and prosecutor Bryan Brown.

Dickey earlier denied a request by attorney Terry Giles that Barela be granted a new trial because of alleged prosecution misconduct during the six-week jury trial.

Dickey also affirmed two stipulations agreed to by the jury, which deliberated for five days before returning with their verdicts. Those stipulations, which result in stiffer sentence possibilities, were that Barela was armed with a deadly weapon during the commission of the murder and that he used a firearm.

Velasquez was shot once in the head as he was driving his car through the Delhi Park area of Santa Ana.

Brown argued several times during the lengthy trial that Velasquez' death was "an F-Troop execution." He charged that Barela and Soza, who were reportedly affiliated with the Mexican gang "F-Troop," although no direct evidence was offered proving their association, got together the night of May 30 and decided to drive to the Delhi area and kill someone indiscriminately.

Brown contended that Barela had a brief discussion with Velasquez, and determined that Velasquez lived in the Delhi Park area. Immediately thereafter, Brown charged, Barela fired the fatal shot and drove from the scene.

Iran Bachelor Buys Ford's Virginia Home

WASHINGTON (AP) – Moussa Moaadel, a bachelor from Iran who bought President Ford's suburban home for $137,000, says he considers Ford "the most important man in the universe and it will be a great honor to live in his house."

He paid cash for the four-bedroom house in Alexandria, Va., across the Potomac River from Washington. Ford and Moaadel did not meet personally during the transaction.

The President paid $34,000 for the home in 1955 and put another $7,500 into a backyard swimming pool. He will have to pay the 6 per cent commission to the real estate firm that handled the deal.

Moaadel was getting more telephone calls than he could handle at Shannon & Luchs Co. here, where he works as a real estate salesman.

"To me, with my background, the head of government is a very important person," Moaadel said Tuesday after it was announced that he was the buyer. "I am very honored and very delighted. It's the most important pleasure I have ever had in my life."

He confided that he plans to get married and he will live in the Ford home at 514 Crown View Drive, Alexandria, after making some changes he thinks are needed in the home.

The fact that Ford had a 20 x 40 foot swimming pool in the backyard of his home also appealed to Moaadel, who says, "I like to swim. I'm an outdoor man."

Moaadel, not yet an American citizen, but a permanent resident of the United States, came to this country from Teheran eight years ago. He Now lives alone in Bethesda, Md.

The Ford home he plans to occupy is a colonial-style brick and clapboard dwelling, with four bedrooms, two full baths, four half bathrooms, a living room with fireplace, den, kitchen, dining room and pine-paneled recreation room. It had been on the market since early December and Ford got the price he asked for it.

The Ford family, meanwhile, has rented a house in Rancho Mirage, near the desert resort community of Palm Springs. They will make that their home base, after Jan. 20, while deciding whether to buy or build a home in that area.

SCAG SOUTHERN CALIFORNIA ASSOCIATION OF GOVERNMENTS

Public Hearing

This Thurs., Jan. 13
1-5 p.m. and 7-10 p.m.
Los Angeles Convention Center, Room 211
1201 S. Figueroa St., Los Angeles

We need you now.

You can help mold the SCAG 1977 Regional Transportation Plan.

We're holding a public hearing this Thurs., Jan. 13, so you can tell us what you want done. A panel of local elected officials will hear your suggestions. Your comments—and how they affect SCAG's final plan and environmental impact report—will become part of the permanent record.

There are important decisions to be made, and we'll all have to live with them.

What do you know and feel about transportation? Are new freeways a boon or a bust? How much public transit is enough? And how about bikeways, railroads and airports?

What do you want done?

If you can't attend the public hearing, you can still be heard.

We'll be accepting calls and letters until Jan. 28, the close of the public record. In person or by letter, you can help affect transportation in Southern California.

For more information, copies of the draft reports, or to pre-register for the public hearing, call or write:

Spanks, Topley To Leave Lionettes

If, and or when the Santa Ana Lionettes begin their second summer of women's professional softball, they'll go without their 1976 general manager (Shirley Topley) and her assistant (Carol Spanks). Both have notified franchise-holder Ed Goldstein that they are leaving the club for which they have played as well as guided for many years – Spanks for 19, Topley for 13.

They also have notified the players they directed through last season's rigorous campaign in the International Women's Professional Softball Assn. which had teams in San Diego, San Bernardino, San Jose, Phoenix, Chicago, Detroit, Buffalo, Connecticut and Pennsylvania.

"We wanted the team first to hear about it direct from us rather than reading about it," said Miss Spanks, a Norwalk high school physical education director who operated the Lionettes most of the recent years the girls played at

Carol Spanks

Orange. The success of the Lionettes since 1967 was primarily due to the enterprise and skills of the two veterans who combined to make it a "class" organization.

The women issued this statement: "It was a difficult decision and we made it only after careful consideration. You just don't toss away a lifetime of something you do well, and like more than anything else, without a lot of apprehension and forethought." We have been in softball many years and have been in charge of the Lionettes the past 10 seasons. We have some basic beliefs about how the team should be run and we like to think we were instrumental in making it a first class organization. We also have too much deep feeling for the Lionettes, women's softball, and the community to continue when it appears that the structure and general club organization and philosophy will not coincide with ours."

'RESPONSIBILITY NEEDED'

Having been with the club so long, Topley and Spanks said "we feel the public, to some extent, associates the Lionettes with us, and we do not want that association without the responsibility for the team's action."

Neither Spanks nor Topley said they felt any regret about moving the Lionettes from Orange and into professional company. Spanks turned over the franchise to Goldstein last year so it could establish national stature. Spanks said: "We feel it was the right move and a great experience. At the time it was the only way of advancing women's softball and providing greater opportunities for female athletes."

They continued: "Ed Goldstein gave the Lionettes the chance. He was enthused about the program and able to make it go from a financial standpoint. He spent considerable money on the team and deserves a lot of credit for his part in the entire program. A person in his position must run the organization the way he sees fit. We are disappointed it hasn't developed in the same direction we had thought it would, we wish him, the team and pro softball every success."

Club owner Goldstein, expressing regret at losing the services of his experienced field generals, suggests that he intends to keep the Lionettes in business. His three-year agreement for use of the Santa Ana Bowl has two more years to go and he apparently intends to exercise the option in 1977.

CITY DISCUSSION PLEASANT

"I had a friendly discussion with city officials Monday," he said. "We have a mutually satisfactory understanding about use of the stadium."

However, he conceded that there are some hills to climb and that he has certain reservations about continuing in the major league of women's softball, an organization which had problems elsewhere during its infant season. San Jose, the eventual Western Division champion, was the only California franchise that did not lose heavily.

"Frankly," Goldstein said, "there is a question running through my mind if it would be advisable to operate the franchise again. There are many factors to consider and losing Shirley and Carol must be taken as a minus. We are going to assess the impact made on the community last year and see if the people want us to maintain the professional softball image. If it is a matter of satisfying our own ego, then it would be financially unsound. When you lose super-people like Shirley Topley and Carol Spanks, it is time to do some hard thinking. We will have a meeting of the team soon and go over all the problems. From what I hear, most of the girls are anxious to play ball. After we make our survey we will be in a better position to determine if it should be on a professional level, or if women's softball should remain on an amateur status in this area."

Monday To Dodgers For Buckner

RICK MONDAY

LOS ANGELES (AP) – The Los Angeles Dodgers ended a long quest Tuesday when they traded outfielder Bill Buckner and two others to the Chicago Cubs for centerfielder Rick Monday and relief pitcher Mike Garman.

Monday, 31, is an 11-year veteran who hit .272 in 1976 with the Cubs. A product of Arizona State, Monday hit 32 home runs – third best in the National League last season – and his slugging percentage of .507 was fourth best in the league. He drove in 77 runs.

Monday also was outstanding in the field, making only two errors in 284 chances for a .993 percentage.

Buckner, playing left field who has had big league experience at first base, batted .301 with the Dodgers last year in 154 games. He has a .289 lifetime batting average. The Dodgers also sent reserve infielder Ivan DeJesus and minor league pitcher Jeff Albert to the Cubs.

"We're quite happy to have Rick Monday," declared Dodger vice president Al Campanis. "We've tried to get him the past few years. He's an outstanding hitter and a great fielder. He will play center for us and Garman should help us in the bullpen. Garman throws hard and has excellent control."

Garman is 27 and a righthander. He was 2-4 with a 4.97 earned run average with six saves in 47 games last year with the Cubs. He broke in with the Boston Red Sox after he was their No. 1 choice in the June, 1967, free agent draft. He was traded to St. Louis in 1974 where he spent two years before coming to the Cubs in 1976. His best year was in 1974 when he was 7-2 with six saves.

DeJesus, who has spent parts of three years in the majors, batted .300 at Albuquerque of the Pacific Coast League last season plus 22 games with the Dodgers when he hit .171.

Albert was a No. 21 draft selection in 1976, signed out of C.W. Post College. The 22-year-old was 7-5 with a 2.95 ERA last season with Bellingham, Wash., in the rookie Northwest League. In the Arizona Instructional League last fall, he was 3-1 with a 4.03 ERA.

Monday, the man the Dodgers wanted, broke in with Kansas City in 1966 when the A's played there. He stayed with the club when it switched to Oakland. He was traded to the Cubs in 1972. Monday gained national acclaim when he saved the American flag from a possible burning in left field at Dodger Stadium on April 25. When two fans came onto the field and attempted to burn a flag, Monday snatched it away.

UCLA, Notre Dame Clash Over 'Need'

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP) – The controversial issues of reorganization and financial aid based on need again got nowhere Tuesday while bitter words developed between Notre Dame and UCLA, two of the National Collegiate Athletic Association's bigger members.

First, more than 1,000 delegates to the NCAA's 71st annual convention voted in 10 minutes to table a reorganization plan which had been in the works for almost a full year.

Then, the touchy issue of putting athletic scholarships strictly on a need basis was rejected across-the-board. The membership turned down proposals that would have put all athletic aid on a need basis, as well as some which would have excluded football and basketball.

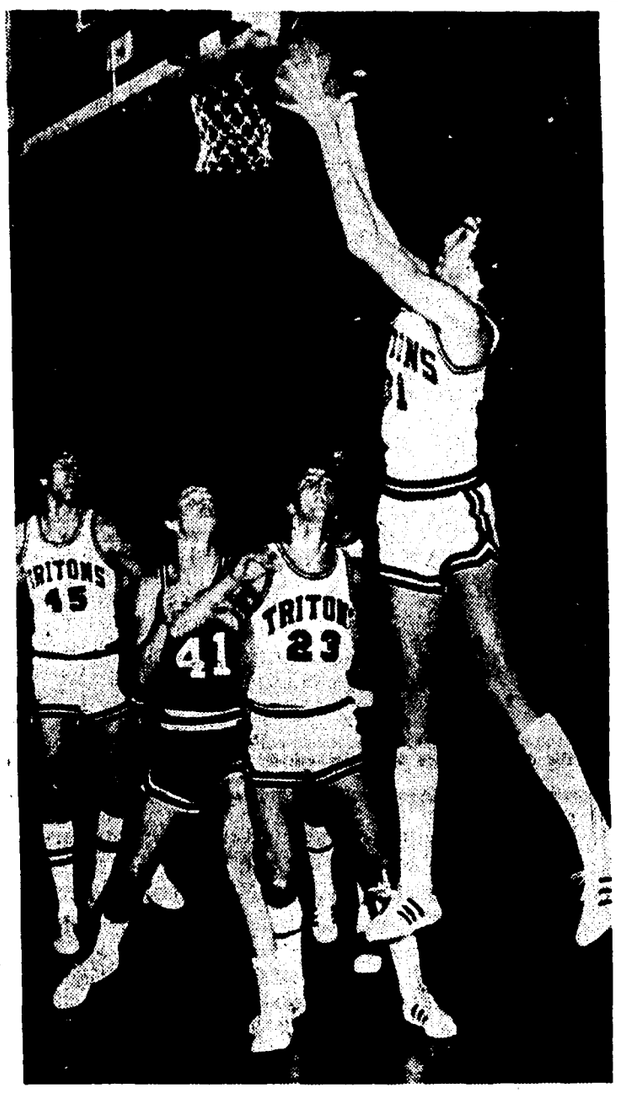

The feud on the convention floor surfaced when the Rev. Edmund P. Joyce, executive vice president and faculty moderator of athletics at Notre Dame and an outspoken opponent of need, pointed out that UCLA and some other West Coast schools had violated recruiting regulation 20 years ago.

"They were caught redhanded and then they screamed that the rules were not feasible," Father Joyce said. Opponents of the need plan say it would lead to widespread cheating.

That brought an angry reply from UCLA athletic director J.D. Morgan, who said he resented the remarks, calling it "the low of all time."

Father Joyce later apologized, saying his remarks were not directed at current UCLA personnel.

The apology came shortly after Division I schools defeated by a 102-146 vote the proposal to place athletic scholarships strictly on a need basis.

TALL TRITON – San Clemente's lanky John Carson (31) had this rebound all to himself during last night's South Coast League contest at Costa Mesa. Carson finished the game as high scorer with 16, while teammate Tim Dunham (14) scored 14. Jim Mulligan (41) was on defense for the Mustangs, with the Tritons' Bill Neely (45) waiting to help out. San Clemente scored a tough 55-53 victory. (Prep basketball on page E-2)

Jabbar Philosophical

RICHFIELD, Ohio (AP) – As the towering form wheeled toward the basket the scoreboard clock showed :05 and the roar of "Defense" from the crowd of 11,994 at the Coliseum was suddenly muffled.

The ball arched through the air, bounced once on the side of the rim and fell through as the crowd moaned.

Kareem Abdul-Jabbar had struck for the last and most important time in the Los Angeles Lakers' 101-99 overtime victory over the Cleveland Cavaliers Tuesday night.

"It was more of a jump shot than anything else," Jabbar said in his quiet voice. "I just turned and it (the shot) was there."

The 7-foot-2 Jabbar finished with 40 points, including six in the overtime period, and 12 rebounds. Lucius Allen added 25 points and Kermit Washington 16 points and 14 rebounds.

The Cavaliers, who lost centers Jim Chones and Nate Thurmond on fouls in the overtime after tough duels with Jabbar, had one more chance with four seconds remaining, but Bobby Smith's shot over the onrushing Jabbar was off and Austin Carr's follow-up effort bounced away as the game ended.

For Los Angeles, it was the third straight victory and fifth in seven games. For Cleveland, it was bitter disappointment in a game they led 89-87 with 12 seconds to go in regulation.

Allen tied the game on a driving layup with five seconds left and it was tied five times in overtime before Jabbar's winning basket.

Despite rushing to get to the airport for a late flight, it was a relaxed and philosophical Jabbar who talked about the game and the Lakers in the dressing room.

"Anyone you can win on the road is a big one," he said. "And we're enjoying this because it's been a long time since we've been winners.

"There's an old African proverb," Jabbar added. "It goes: 'Success has many parents and failure is an orphan.' You can enjoy when you win, but you can't talk about much when you're losing."

Cleveland Coach Bill Fitch said, "If you go back to the ballgame tonight, I'd like to have Allen defended a little bit better on that tying basket (at the end of regulation). And Kermit Washington hurt us a couple of times on the offensive boards. Then they just beat us with their strength.

"But, if we play that well every night, we'll win as many as we lose," Fitch added. "And I think you were looking at two teams that are going to be in the playoffs."

Pro Bowl Game Sold Out

SEATTLE (AP) – The 1977 Pro Bowl game in the Kingdome Monday night has been sold out–the first sellout in the 27-year history of the game, John Thompson, general manager of the Seattle Seahawks, announced today.

Thompson said the last of the 64,752 available seats were sold Tuesday. Some 59,000 tickets, however, were included in the Seahawks' season ticket package.

The game, featuring the stars of the American Football Conference against the National Football Conference, will be televised nationally by the American Broadcasting Co. The sellout means the game also will be televised locally, Thompson said.

The crowd at the Kingdome could be the largest for a Pro Bowl since the AFC-NFC game format was adopted in 1971 following the merger of the American and National football leagues. The biggest crowd since then was 53,647, for the 1972 game at Los Angeles' Memorial Coliseum. The all-time Pro Bowl record crowd is 72,250 set in 1959, also at the Coliseum.

Angels Select 13

Major Leagues Draft Nine From County

Four Orange Countians, three from Orange Coast College, were among the 13 players selected Tuesday by the California Angels at the annual winter baseball draft, held in New York.

Chosen from Orange Coast College in the regular phase were first baseman Daryl Sconiers (third round) and righthanded pitcher Ron Cooper (ninth) while righthanded pitcher Monte Pries was the second pick in the secondary phase. Marty Castillo of Santa Ana College was selected by the Angels in the eighth round.

The San Francisco Giants chose three Orange County players, including Gary Ledbetter (formerly Villa Park High and presently Cal Luthern) in the first round. Jeff Evans of Golden West (fifth round) and Jay Pettibone of Fullerton College (eight round) were also picked.

Other Orange Countians selected include Handsome Roundtree of Bolsa Grande in second round by Chicago White Sox and Russ Penfold of Cypress High by Minnesota in the 15th round.

The bulk of the secondary phase will be announced today.

Opening pick by the Angels was Al Wiggins, a shortstop from Muir High, presently attending at Pasadena City College. He was a member of the National Babe Ruth champions of San Gabriel Valley last season.

Top Angel prospect is Robert Healy, first pick in the secondary phase. He is from St. Louis.

The top two Dodgers picks were Tim Gloyd, a shortstop from Sacramento City College and Jessie Daniels, a second baseman from Louisberg (N.C.) Junior College.

The other Angel selections were:

Guy Jones, RHP, 19, 6-4, 195, College of Sequoias; Steve England, 18, 6-0, 205, catcher, righthanded batter, Flat Rock, Mo; Brian Winship, 3B, 20, 6-0,190, righthanded batter, Yuba College, Marysville; John Hartnell, LHP, 22, 6-0,180, El Camino College; Barry Aquistapace, RHP, 20,6-3,200, Santa Barbara CC; Dave Bertelli, 3B and C, 20, 5-11,170, Orlando, Fla., and Marty Barrett, 2B, 18, 5-10, 160, righthanded batter, Mesa, Ariz.

Hail Nater As New Star

MILWAUKEE (AP) – After three seasons in the now defunct American Basketball Association and three months in the National Basketball Association, collegiate benchwarmer Swen Nater has emerged as one of pro basketball's outstanding centers.

Nater was Bill Walton's understudy at UCLA. Both Walton and another ex-UCLA great, Kareem Abdul-Jabbar, have moved on to NBA stardom. Now, Nater is doing the same thing. Since Milwaukee Bucks Coach Don Nelson made him a starter Dec. 10, Nater has averaged 15.2 points and 14.2 rebounds in 28 minutes per game.

The Bucks, 4-25 until Dec. 15, won eight of their next 11 games until Nater turned an ankle in practice Monday. He is expected to miss two to five games, and Nelson can't wait to get him back.

"We've been relying more and more on Swen," Nelson said. "He's been a big part of what we've done lately. And he should continue to improve. He can be one of the four or five best centers in basketball."

Nater isn't sure about that, but he is certain he will improve. That's because, although he will be 27 Friday, he has been playing basketball only nine years.

"Everybody in this league will be ahead of me until I'm through because I got such a late start and most of them have been playing since they were little kids," he said. "I've still got a lot to learn, not by book, but in playing experience."

A native of The Netherlands who came to the United States at age 9, Nater was tall but weak and uncoordinated in high school.

"I started my senior year 6 foot-4 and finished it 6-8, but the only basketball I played in high school was in gym classes. When I reached 6-8, I weighed only 180," he said. "I was so weak, I couldn't do one pullup." Maturity and extensive work with weights have filled out Nater's 6-foot-11 frame with 255 pounds of rippling muscle. He is one of the most impressive physical speciments in the NBA.

Nater enrolled at Cypress, Cal., Junior College. He played sparingly as a freshman, but averaged 23 points and 18 rebounds as a sophomore, attracting offers from some 200 major colleges.

"I chose UCLA because it was close to home, because Coach (John) Wooden was there and because of its basketball tradition," he said.

"Then they signed Walton," he said. "I was redshirted and then played behind Bill. People ask me if I ever regret not going somewhere else, but I wouldn't trade one practice session under Coach Wooden for one year somewhere else."

Nater was the Bucks' first round draft choice in 1973, but chose to sign with the ABA because he didn't relish the prospect of playing behind Abdul Jabbar in Milwaukee. He finally signed with the Bucks last June 9 after the demise of his ABA team, the Virginia Squires, and eventually that of the rest of the ABA.

"Early last summer, there was no certainty the leagues would merge," Nater said. "I guess eventually I would have been put in the dispersal draft, but I didn't want to make a mistake. I signed with the Bucks because they had rights to me and because I wanted to be sure I had a place to play this season."

He found one, all right. Just ask Don Nelson.

Report Finley To Move A's

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) – Charles O. Finley of the Oakland A's baseball team is ready to leave the San Francisco Bay Area to the San Francisco Giants, a newspaper reported.

The San Francisco Chronicle said Tuesday Arthur "Bud" Herseth, the Arizona cattleman whose $4 million helped keep the Giants in San Francisco, is certain Finley wants to move the A's out of Oakland.

He said Finley has callzd him several times trying to make a deal that would leave the territory to the Giants.

Herseth also said that two serious bids have been made – and rejected – to move the Giants to Washington, D.C. or New Orleans. They were turned down because "we're in this thing to stay," Herseth said.

Herseth, speaking from his Phoenix office, said Finley had offered a plan calling for the Giants to pay off the A's contract commitment on the Oakland-Alameda County Coliseum, which still has several years to run.

UCI's Davis Ineligible

A long-awaited decision was finally made at UC Irvine and veteran guard Kevin Davis has been declared ineligible for the remainder of the basketball season.

Senior Davis, a three-year standout featuring quickness and good shooting, played his last game Dec. 18. Then he was put on probation pending a check into his academic performance so head coach Tim Tift elected to keep him off the team until a decision was made.

The 5-7, 165-pounder from Riverside sparked wins in his last two games with 36 points to total 78 for six contests.

San Clemente High outstreaked Costa Mesa Tuesday night and emerged with a key 55-53 victory in South Coast League basketball action.1 The Tritons, now 3-0 in league play and 10-3 on the year, remain tied with Corona del Mar, which edged Mission Viejo, 37-33 in a slowdown game.

In other South Coast action, Laguna Beach edged University, 49-47 and El Toro defeated Dana Hills 56-45.

Costa Mesa's big streak came at the end of the game, when the Mustangs, behind some balanced scoring by Jack Snow, Steve Parrino and Stan Miller, ran to a 13-3 bulge over the final five minutes of the game. The streak fell two points shorts though, as San Clemente was able to preserve the lead down the stretch.

The Tritons had taken a commanding 52-40 lead early in the fourth behind three 'streaks' of their own.

The first came in the first period when the Tritons scored 11 straight points to take a 16-6 lead.

Costa Mesa pulled within five midway through the second, but sixth straight San Clemente points, four by Tim Dunham and another two by Ted Hettinga made it 31-22 at intermission.

The final Triton streak came late in the third, when Costa Mesa had again pulled within five.

Glen Franks hit a three-point play to finish the third and John Carson, Bill Nelly and Tim Dunham contributed two each early in the fourth to take a 12-point lead.

Carson and Dunham finished with 16 and 1; points respectively for Mission Viejo. Dunham contributed several assists for the Tritons.

Gary Wills led Costa Mesa with 15 points, while Parrion had 14. Miller had 13.

Mission tried a stall to stop the Sea Kings double post of Jack Tuz and Alex Black. The strategy failed though as Corona del Mar led the whole way for their 11th win of the year.

Titans Struggle, Outlast Chapman

BY CHUCK ABAIR

Playing some of its best basketball of the season, Chapman College made a strong bid to repeat last year's home upset of Fullerton State Tuesday night at Orange High School before bowing 80-68 in a wild affair.

The setting was the same. Fullerton had romped in the first meeting and was heavily favored, but the Titans were forced to work right down until the last two minutes before they could pull away to a fifth straight win.

"I am just glad to get out of here with a win," said Bobby Dye after his charges had improved their record to 9-4 in an intense battle that was marred by four technical fouls – two on each team – and 38 personals (23 on the hosts). "Chapman is much better than its record. I feel they have some good players.

"We played with very little intensity in the first half. I guess we were all looking forward to the start of conference play."

The Titans play the first of three straight PCAA home games Saturday after winning a road opener so that might have been part of their problem, but the Panthers were impressive despite their 4-9 record.

Free throws turned out to be the difference as each team finished with 28 field goals — Chapman in just 73 attempts and Fullerton in just 58. Chapman led the rebounding 34-27 with seven-footer Guy Kinsey of the hosts matching Titan Kerry Davis at 10.

The victors sank 24 of 31 free throws compared to the losers 12 of 17.

Another key was 17 field goals in 31 second half attempts by Division I CSF while hitting 16 of 21 fouls.

Mike Niles of Fullerton took game point honors with 16 featuring 10 charity points on 12 attempts – divided by halves. He had 11 points at intermission when the Titans led 30-28 and then Davis matched him over the last 20 minutes to tie Keith Anderson with 14. In between was Greg Bunch at 15 and 13 of his were in the last half when Fullerton kept trying to pull away, but Chapman refused to fold.

Tim Davis nipped Marv Thurman, who had 10 in the last half, 13-12 in home scoring. Then came Reg Newson at 11.

There were five ties in the first half when Fullerton led most of the time. The Titans led by eight early in the last half only to get tied again at 38. It stayed close until an eight-point spree made the score 60-51 with 7 1/2 to play. Chapman, which goes to Redlands, got back within five but no closer.

FULLERTON ST. (80) – Bunch 15, Shaw 6, Davis 14, Anderson 14, Niles 16, B. Miller 2, Heenan 13.
CHAPMAN (68) – Davis 13, Bauler 8, Kinsley 7, Thurman 12, Newson 11, Maze 6, Johnson 9, Owens 2.
Halftime score – Fullerton 30, Chapman 28.

Lowell, Lancers Face Showdown

Buena Park High got its second win in Freeway League action Tuesday night, defeating Western 62-55 at Buena Park.

The win gives the Coyotes a 2-1 record in the Freeway League behind Sunny Hills and Lowell, which set the stage for their first place showdown Friday night.

The Lancers whipped Savanna 81-62 and the Patriots crushed Anaheim 93-52 to give each squad a 3-0 league mark and remain tied for the league lead. The two teams meet Friday at Sunny Hills.

Buena Park had to come from behind to beat Western. Trailing 28-21 at the half, the Coyotes came out shooting in the third period. André Smith and Russ Kiethly each had eight points in the quarter to lead Buena Park's 26 point burst.

Smith was the top point man for the Coyotes with 19 points and Kiethly followed with 17. Luther Miller had 20 points for Western.

Sunny Hills, after a slow start, came alive behind the hot shooting hands of Paul Bernstein and Sloan Carlson. The two top Lancer scorers has 23 and 21 points respectively.

Lowell's sophomore forward Gary Heil pumped in 22 points and pulled down 10 rebounds to lead the Patriots to their largest point total of the season. The Pats held high scoring Anaheim forward Chad Kominek to just 11 points, nine below his season average.

NEXT GAMES
FRIDAY (8:00) – Golden West at Cypress, Santa Monica at Los Angeles City, Harbor at Rio Hondo.

Tyrone Branyan turned in his biggest effort in two seasons Tuesday night to lead Cypress College to a clutch 88-77 Southern Cal Conference basketball win Santa Monica College.

The talented Charger sophomore scrambled for 18 rebounds in a spectacular display on the boards, connected on 12 of 15 shots from the field and converted nine of 12 opportunities at the foul line to trigger the important Cypress victory.

Thanks to the solid work of Branyan, Rory Lovell, Barry Weston, Rick Cromwell and Bobby Diaz, the Chargers zoomed to a 44-34 halftime lead and held off a Santa Monica comeback that whittled the lead to 56-51 with 13:17 left to play.

Diaz connected on seven clutch free throws in the last four minutes to cement the win, helping Cypress reach a 28 of 34 showing at the foul-line. The Chargers connected on 30 of 40 shots from the field for a sizzling 60 per cent shooting average which bettered Santa Monica's 29 of 63 for 45 per cent.

Golden West shocked Rio Hondo 84-73 and Los Angeles Southwest turned back Los Angeles City 85-68 in other conference action.

UCLA Wrestlers At Fullerton St.

Fresh from an impressive 26-11 romp over New Mexico, the Fullerton State wrestling team battles UCLA and Mike Fleming tonight at 7:30 in its final home match until next month.

Fleming, who almost entered CSF after starring at El Dorado High School, is now considered one of the outstanding 118-pounders in the nation. He made all-state at Fullerton College.

Orange Lutheran Hangs On, 56-55

SAN JACINTO – Orange Lutheran High withstood a 10-0 outburst by host San Jacinto in the final five minutes Tuesday night to edge the Tigers 57-56 in Arrowhead League action.

Orange Lutheran took a 57-46 lead when Steve Hight made a basket and sunk a technical foul shot. The technical foul ultimately was the difference in the game, as San Jacinto began a furious rally.

Cuero-Led Canyon Topples Wildcats

Carlos Cuero scored seven points in the last 35 seconds of the contest to break up a close contest and give Canyon High a 58-48 win over Brea-Olinda in Orange League basketball action Tuesday night.

It was the first win in league play for Canyon.

El Dorado remained in first place with a 66-41 win over Esperanza while Fullerton tripped Valencia, 72-55, and La Habra stopped Sonora, 72-57.

Cuero, who had only nine points in the contest, scored on a layup, was fouled, made a free throw, stole the inbound pass and scored another layup to open up the game for Canyon.

El Dorado employing their tough press, exploded in the second and third quarters to coast to the victory. Steve Teacock scored 18 and John Heller tallied 17 to pace the Golden Hawks.

Full court press proved effective for Fullerton also as the Indians outscored Valencia, 20-8 in the second quarter en route to their victory. Roger Childs had 22 and Hoby Brenner scored 17 for Fullerton.

Pro Bowl And Then The Japan Bowl

Lest you fear they have removed football from your way of life, do not despair. There is more.

An affair entitled the Pro Bowl will next appear on your television screen on Monday night featuring the final talking contest between Frank Gifford and the two wearers of the cap and bells.

The Pro Bowl is a game played between those members of the National Football Conference who can be rounded up and whatever collection of American Conference guys that can be brought to gaff. This classic will be conducted in the enclosed arena at Seattle where it is a sellout.

In their first year as pro football subjects, the Seattle clients were required to purchase Pro Bowl seats in a package with season tickets. Don Andersen, a member of the Seahawks' executive family, dismisses any suggestion there was a squeeze involved.

"The same thing will apply at Tampa Bay," Andersen explains with logic defying dispute.

Shed The Dread

At any rate, shed the dread of football being removed from your weekly TV calendar. In addition to the Pro Bowl thing, several 1976 highlight shows are scheduled to appear during the upcoming year.

Furthermore, one airline is featuring a replay of Super Bowl XI on flights between the West Coast and New York. Another offers the NFL playoff games between here and Detroit and a third carrier is showing regular season games during flights to Chicago.

Presumbably, between here and Sacramento you can get the pre-season exhibition games.

Anyway, the good news is that we shall not be required to endure cold turkey in the matter of getting off football. As outlined above, we are being permitted to withdraw gradually much in the manner of the clinic which removes your smoking habit in 16 days.

You will note that all of the above involves professional football but the college people are contributing in no insignificant way. The colleges brought us up to Super weekend with the Hula Bowl and Senior Bowl, which would seem to be consideration enough but we still won't be left dangling.

Upcoming is the Japan Bowl which will be played, fittingly enough, in Tokyo. It will feature much of the cast from the Hula Bowl and, hopefully, one important rule change. That is, it is to be hoped the player of the game committee will not vote until as least halftime.

Reports from Japan indicate a tremendous interest in the game and a brisk ticket sale which is sufficient to warm the cockles of the hearts of those of us on these shores. I mean, if the Japanese gave us transistor radios and portable television, the least we can do is show them Ricky Bell and Tony Dorsett.

The greatest single contributor to this gridiron gesture to Japan is the University of Southern California. Besides Bell, the Trojans will be represented by Vince Evans, Gary Jeter, Marvin Powell and Sheldon Diggs.

Then too, USC is sending six song girls to perform on the sidelines during the playing of the Japan Bowl. There is nothing intentional but this figures to add to the confusion of the audience which will not be all that familiar with the formations of American football.

The Japanese crowd will somehow have to figure out that college song girls do not sing. They dance. At least, they jump up and down when the band strikes up the music.

One-String Guitar

Of course, there is to be some difficulty experienced by the song girls. They will quite likely find it awkward dancing to the music of a one-stringed guitar.

But the entire thing is in the spirit of good fellowship and it figures to be enjoyed by the people of Japan, not to mention those of us here at home suffering the pains of football withdrawal.

At that, it won't be easy. We will not see college football again for nearly five months.

South Coast Race Looks Wide Open

"Every team has to be optimistic. That's normal thinking. There's something wrong if they don't think that way."

That's Gene Victor, the dean of South Coast Conference basketball coaches talking, and clear indication the coach at Mt. San Antonio College hasn't lost any vim or vigor going into his 19th campaign with the Mounties.

Victor's remarks also signal the start of another heated South Coast pennant chase, one he believes will be a wide open race between four or five teams.

Tonight's opening volley looms particularly crucial because of the predicted balanced race.

Defending co-champions Santa Ana and Mt. Sac tangle on the Mountaineer court while Cerritos visits Grossmont and San Diego Mesa travels to Fullerton. Orange Coast draws an opening bye.

Victor believes his Mounties will be facing two of the South Coast's toughest entries back-to-back tonight and Saturday night when Grossmont visits Mt. Sac.

"Grossmont may be the best team. They are eight or nine deep with experienced veterans. Obviously, they have the most depth," Victor explains.

"Santa Ana has fine talent. They have the best player in the state in Steve Smith, plus other very talented people," he continued.

Victor hopes to have two of his key starters 100 per cent healthy for the battle with the Dons. Soph guard Dick Rockwood sprained an ankle more than a week ago and soph newcomer Earner Mays also is coming off an ankle sprain.

Santa Ana coach Rolland Todd has his Dons primed for a fast start toward another South Coast title, but the abundance of new faces in his lineup have made him restrict his optimism until he sees them perform in conference action.

Much of Santa Ana's success will ride on the artistry of sophomore guard Steve Smith who is averaging 25.9 points per game. Blended with newcomers Sylvester Pritchett, Dave Nelson, Steve Hair, Kevin Williams, Ricky Patterson, Tom Clark and Reggie Traylor plus lettermen George Curington and Sean Reily, the Dons produced a 12-6 pre-conference record. Mt. Sac was 11-6.

One of the key matchups to watch will be Smith vs. Mt. Sac's stellar freshman guard Robert Vigil from Puerto Rico, already regarded as one of the best JC players in California.

Coach Ezra Van Horn hopes his Fullerton club can get off to a fast start against San Diego Mesa after the Hornets blew hot and cold in conference warmups, finishing with a 4-10 mark.

Lack of depth may hurt Fullerton although the Hornets have good experience in lettermen Randy Rozar, John Condie, Jeff Weber and Jesse Wallace.

Coach Bob Foerster will start five freshmen in the Cerritos lineup, going into its opening crucial at Grossmont with an 11-6 record.

NEXT GAMES
TONIGHT (8:00) — Saddleback at San Diego, Chaffey at Riverside, Citrus at Palomar, San Bernardino at Southwestern.
SATURDAY (8:00) — Palomar at Saddleback, Citrus at Chaffey, Riverside at San Bernardino, Southwestern at San Diego.

Four teams scored opening wins and two of them are matched tonight at 8 as Mission Conference basketball teams settle into their Wednesday-Saturday night routine.

Citrus College (1-0) ventures south to San Marcos to face Palomar (1-0) in the first upper division confrontation.

Saddleback College (1-0) travels to San Diego City College (0-1) while Riverside (1-0) hosts Chaffey (0-1) and San Bernardino (0-1) visits Southwestern (0-1).

Owl coach Neil Edwards hopes his club's 110-78 opening romp over San Diego will have momentum going against Palomar.

"Palomar is in the top half of the teams in the conference this year, and playing down there will be even more difficult for us," said Edwards, whose team is off to its best start in 11 years. "The win Saturday will help us go into that game with a little more confidence." The Owls crossed the 100-point mark for the first time since 1971 in the victory.

Citrus visits Chaffey on Saturday night and Edwards warns that the Panthers can't be taken lightly despite their overall 2-15 record. "They've picked up a 6-6 postman from UC Riverside, and they now have five starting players which will give every team in the conference a tough go," he predicted.

Mulligan and the Gauchos will try to avoid looking past San Diego to Saturday night's battle with Palomar in Saddleback's first conference home game. "It's always tough to win in San Diego," warned Mulligan.

The Gaucho coach is hoping for another offensive blitz his team delivered in the opener which produced a 106-95 win over San Bernardino. Soph forward Dennis Smith triggered the blast with a 31-point effort.

Riverside coach Dave Waxman isn't taking any chances against Chaffey. "Consistency is the key," he said. "How we do against the non-contenders will determine how we do in the conference race."

St. Michael's Battles 5 OT Periods—Wins

St. Michael's High (Orange) didn't play its first basketball game of the season until Tuesday and apparently the players liked the game so much that it took them five overtimes to subdue Los Pinos, 66-60, in Pinon League action at the Laguna Boys' Club.

The contest was tied at 45-45 at the end of regulation with each team scoring three, two, two and six points in the overtime periods before the Pioneers outscored Los Pinos 8-2 in the fifth overtime. It is the longest varsity basketball game of the year in the county.

Richard Martinez, who had 10 of his 14 points in overtime, scored on a 17-foot jumper with nine seconds left in the third overtime and scored two more points on a missed free throw with eight seconds left in the same period to keep the game alive.

Los Pinos, which had 41 fouls, had eight players foul out in the game and played two minutes of the fourth overtime and the entire fifth overtime with only four players.

Tom Detar led St. Michaels with 27 points, hitting on 21 of 37 free throws.

Los Pinos	9	15	8	13	3	2	2	6	2—60
St. M.'s	12	17	6	10	3	2	2	6	8—66

LOS PINOS — Vasquez 12, Marcado 9, Taylor 6, Tisher 11, Van Dyke 8, Valdez 2, Holland 6, Fuca 4.
ST. MICHAEL'S — Richard Martinez 14, Tom Detar 27, Ed Attanasio 14, Ergar Winegart 5, Pat Flynn 4, Aseves 2.
Fouled out — Vasquez, Marcado, Eaves (LP), Taylor, Tishler, Van Dyke, Valdez, Fuca, Aceves, Winegart, Detar.

Namath Through In N.Y., Knows It

LOS ANGELES – News Item: Namath Opts For Rams

Now isn't that nice of him? Joey Baby makes it sound as though he is calling the shots. He goes on the Carson Show and says he'll play next season in Los Angeles or not at all. You tell 'em, Joey Baby.

In the real world of football, not on the boob tube, Joe Namath is a has been, a usta was. I know that sounds callous, but it is true, and he really has no basis for going around and making it sound as though he is issuing ultimatums to the NFL. There really are very few teams that want him, and one of them is not the New York Jets.

If you want the cold, unadulterated fact of it, Joe Namath has been fired. He has been told to make a deal for himself. Or his agent has been told to make a deal for himself, which is the modern-day equivalent. The deal for himself is that somebody else will take him, please, for nothing. Just make him happy, pay him his exaggerated salary, so that the Jets can unload him without looking like big, bad ingrates. No muss, no fuss, no bother. It has been nice, Joe. Breaking up is so very hard to do.

Why Not Denver?

There are some teams who don't have a quarterback as good as what's left of Joe Namath. Denver for one. But Joe Namath doesn't care to play football in Denver. He doesn't care even to ski in Denver, or date in Denver. Denver is not his style. Los Angeles is. Chasen's is. Gatsby's is. Scandia is.

But Los Angeles, the football team, isn't so sure it wants Namath. Don Klosterman doesn't feel that Joey Baby can do that much for the ballclub, which is already the best in the NFC West. But Don Klosterman doesn't own the Rams. He is the general manager, and he must submit to the whims of Carroll Rosenbloom, the proprietor. Carroll Rosenbloom knows, too, that Joe Namath can't do much for his ballclub, but the thought of walking into Chasen's with Joey Baby on his arm, or Gatsby's, or Scandia, tickles Carroll Rosenbloom, just as it tickled Sonny Werblin 10 years ago.

Carroll Rosenbloom must decide whether that is worth $450,000 a year. Even in Hollywood, he can get an exciting escort for less than that.

NEWS ITEM: NFL Players' Union Optimistic.

For the first time, say the football players, they are in a strong bargaining position. For the first time, they have something to offer that the owners dearly want. That something is the college draft.

It doesn't seem to matter that the present members don't own the thing they are offering to the owners. In this time of distorted jurisprudence, it is quite possible to sell somebody the Brooklyn Bridge.

The courts have declared that the NFL draft of college players, in existence for some 40 years, is illegal. It violates, they say, the rights of the young men coming out of college by dictating which club each young man shall go to.

Okay, let us say that sounds reasonable. An owner cannot deprive a potential player of his free choice of a team.

But a union can? The union can sit down with the NFL owners and come to some sort of agreement on a draft of future collegians, for all time?

This is what is happening. The NFL players union, trying to nail down a contract that has eluded it for three years now, will barter the signing rights of some kids in college right now, in high school, in diapers, for bigger and better pensions, bigger and better meal money, bigger and better broads in training camp.

NCAA Tables Controversial Reorganization

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP) – The National Collegiate Athletic Association tabled its controversial reorganization plan Tuesday, thus erasing in 10 minutes a proposal which was in the works for almost a year.

The action as the annual NCAA business session got under way was a victory for many big-time basketball schools, especially those without Division I football programs.

Under the plan, a school would have had to field teams in at least eight varsity sports, including football and basketball, and maintain performance standards in all eight sports to keep their Division I standing.

Of the 247 Division I member schools, only 137 play major college football.

The move to table the issue came at the request of Peter A. Carlesimo, athletic director at Fordham University. He had the support of many schools in the Eastern College Athletic Conference, the NCAA's largest allied member.

"We gambled and won," Carlesimo said. "We made the decision at the last minute. Originally we intended to let the discussion on reorganization take place and let confusion set in. But then we realized that people who didn't want to be counted in any roll-call vote on reorganization didn't mind a show-of-hands vote to table the issue."

Division I schools such as the University of San Francisco, Marquette and Providence have highly ranked basketball teams but do not play varsity football. Another Top Twenty basketball school, Nevada-Las Vegas, is classified Division II in football.

"We know some form of reorganization must come about, but this isn't it," Carlesimo said. "Let them go back and include the basketball schools."

J. Neils Thompson of the University of Texas, a member of the policy-making NCAA Council which sponsored the reorganization plan and chairman of the Division I Steering Committee which formulated it, said there was general agreement that some form of reclassification is needed.

"It's absolutely imperative that the NCAA reorganize," he said. "It's obvious something has to be done. The vote was a victory for a combined coalition of basketball schools and those institutions who didn't feel the plan was restrictive enough. Maybe we tried to bite off too much at one time."

Pacifica Booters Edge Argonauts

Craig Campbell scored from the left side with two minutes left in the game as Pacifica High nipped Garden Grove, 3-2, in the battle for first place in the Garden Grove League soccer action Tuesday afternoon.

It was the first time that the Mariners had the lead after goals by Steve Rehmeyer and Mark Moore gave Garden Grove 1-0 and 2-1 leads. Pacifica tied the game on scores by Norman Johnson and a penalty shot by John Sledge.

Raiders' Guy Raps Payoff At Pro Bowl

SAN DIEGO (AP) – Punter Ray Guy of the Oakland Raiders said Tuesday that the $2,000 he gets for the 1977 Pro Bowl game is too little. But he declined to suggest a more appropriate payoff.

"The money means something, obviously, but it should be more," said Guy as he and the rest of the nation's professional football stars began their drills in San Diego.

"If a player got hurt and ended his career in the Pro Bowl, $2,000 doesn't seem like very much at all."

The Raiders were having trouble unwinding from the euphoria of Sunday's 32-14 victory over the Minnesota Vikings, but Guy said in an interview that next Monday night's contest at Seattle "is strictly anticlimatic."

The Pro Bowl, he said, "is not a real physical game. I'm much more relaxed than I was last week." For that victory in the Rose Bowl, the Raiders earned $20,000 apiece.

A pair of hour-long workouts were staged in sunny, 63-degree weather at San Diego Stadium by 40-man squads representing the American and National football conferences of the National Football League.

Los Angeles Coach Chuck Knox was overseeing the NFC squad and Pittsburgh's Chuck Noll the Americans.

Seven players were replaced, usually because of injury.

As quarterbacks, the spots given Ken Stabler of Oakland and Fran Tarkenton of Minnesota will be filled by Ken Anderson of Cincinnati and Jim Hart of St. Louis.

Linebacker Chris Hanburger of the Washington Redskins also was out, along with Alan Page of Minnesota and running backs Chuck Foreman of Minnesota and Franco Harris of the Steelers.

The other replacements included Mike Thomas of the Redskins, Larry Brooks of the Rams, Dave Washington of the San Francisco 49ers and Otis Armstrong of Denver.

A spokesman erroneously reported earlier that O. J. Simpson of the Buffalo Bills instead of Harris would be replaced by Armstrong but Tuesday said Simpson was only delayed a few days because of a movie-making venture.

Proposed Blocking Rule Hits Storm

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP) – The nation's football coaches recommended Tuesday to outlaw almost all blocking below the waist but the suggestion immediately ran into a storm of opposition.

At the same time, the rules committee of the American Football Coaches Association sent to the National Collegiate Athletic Association's Rules Committee a recommendation to adopt a professional rule and return all missed field goals from outside the 20-yard line to the spot of the kick.

The present rule makes any unsuccessful field goal that crosses the goal line another touchback, with the ball brought out to the 20.

The blocking recommendation was opposed by such well-known coaches as Barry Switzer of Oklahoma, Bill Yeoman of Houston, Ben Martin of the Air Force Academy. Carmen Cozza of Yale and Eddie Robinson of Grambling.

"We run the Wishbone and we teach the halfback coming out of the backfield to roll block at the legs," Switzer said.

Martin said "a multitude of techniques would have to be relearned."

Current rules permit below-the-waist blocking in the legal clipping zone and on all plays except scrimmage kicks. The legal clipping zone extends 15 yards on either side of the ball and one yard deep on either side of the line of scrimmage.

A concern over injuries on blindside blocks was the reason such blocking was prohibited on scrimmage kicks but Yeoman, in voicing opposition to the latest suggestion, said such the number of injuries caused by such blocking on other plays was "infinitesimal."

Other recommendations by the AFCA Rules Committee include:

– Offensive pass interference in the end zone should not be a loss of possession.

– Reducing all 15-yard penalties to 10 yards, except personal fouls.

– Permitting a 25-second clock to reduce the number of delay of game penalties. College teams are allowed 25 seconds between plays.

– A player blocked into a kick receiver by a member of the receiving team will not be called for a foul.

The NCAA Rules Committee, which has the final say on football rules, meets next week in Fort Lauderdale, Fla.

Angel Players At UCI Golf

Frank Tanana, Andy Etchebarren and Terry Humphrey of the Angel's are among the early sports celebrities already signed up for the 10th annual UC Irvine Invitational Golf Tournament to benefit the school's athletic scholarship fund.

It is scheduled for Feb. 7 with about 150 expected to participate at Irvine Coast Country Club.

Entry fee is $75 with an awards dinner to follow the tourney. Members of the sponsoring Big I boosters group can play in the 18-hole event for a $60 fee.

Miller Goes For No. 4 At Tucson

By BOB GREEN

TUCSON, Ariz. (AP) – Johnny Miller, upset in Phoenix last week, goes after a rare, fourth consecutive victory in the $200,000 Joe Garagiola-Tucson Open Golf Tournament on the bright green-dyed fairways of the Tucson National Golf Club course.

"I don't feel like I own the Phoenix course like I do this one," said Miller, who seeks to become the first man to win the same event four consecutive times since Walter Hagen swept the PGA in 1924-27.

"This course gives me an advantage. It's pretty much wide open and you can reach back for a little something extra and let it fly.

"The fairways are always perfect. You can't get a bad lie. If you give me a perfect lie every time, I won't say I'll hit it closer to the flag than anybody, but I'll hit it as close."

Miller, the current British Open champion, is unbeaten in Tucson since 1974. He also won Phoenix in 1974-75, but has lost the last two times out in that neighboring city.

"Maybe it's a good thing," Miller said of his relatively poor showing last week. "That just makes me more hungry for this one. I really want to play well here again. I'd love to win it four times in a row."

The 72-hole chase for a $40,000 first prize begins Thursday on the par-72, 7,305-yard wide-open desert layout that ranks as the longest on the tour. The fairways and greens have been dyed a bright green for the benefit of the national television cameras (NBC-TV) that will provide coverage of portions of the final two rounds Saturday and Sunday.

The event has, in the past, drawn the highest TV ratings of the year for a golf telecast, even larger than the Masters and Bing Crosby.

This year, the tournament's name has been altered to include former baseball player Joe Garagiola, who has lured a number of his show-business and pro athlete friends to participate in today's pro-am, often one of the largest and most successful on the tour.

The chief challenge to Miller's domination of the Tucson tournament is Jerry Pate, the bright young man who won the U.S. Open last year in his rookie season and confirmed his credentials with a victory Sunday in Phoenix.

Other standouts include Masters king Ray Floyd and PGA champ Dave Stockton, who took Pate to a playoff before losing last week.

The strong field also includes such $100,000 winners from last season as J.C. Snead, Dave Hill, Tom Watson, Jerry McGee, Don January and Ben Crenshaw, making his first start of the season, and $1 million career winners Gene Littler, Billy Casper and Miller Barber, along with Al Geiberger, who can go past the $1 million mark with a third place finish here.

Angels Look To Cuellar

By CHUCK ABAIR

With Rick Monday no longer available after finally being obtained by the Dodgers, Angels' general manager Harry Dalton can concentrate on adding batterymen to go with his vastly improved lineup.

He admitted Tuesday he is talking to old Mike Cuellar about filling a club need for a lefthanded pitcher while still trying to sign ace starters Frank Tanana and Nolan Ryan and find a lefthand-hitting catcher.

Dalton currently has signed pacts from 16 of the 39 Halos.

"We would like to bring Cuellar to camp," says Dalton about the cagey Cuban he once obtained from Houston in one of Baltimore's greatest trades.

"He is 6-3 in winter ball but at 39 you wonder about a guy. Mike was one of the most knowledgeable pitchers in the American League and never did rely on his fastball much anyway. Maybe his age has caught up to him.

"Cuellar has an excellent move to first base and we're short on lefthanders anyway. We're thinking of him possibly for long relief or as a spot starter. Texas is also interested."

Cuellar, who drew his release after eight seasons with the Orioles and 11 in the majors went from 8-11 with Houston to 23-11, 24-8 and 20-9 with the Birds. Then he won 18 twice and had a 22-10 year before tailing off. Besides a 182-116 major league mark that included 139-75 at Baltimore through 1975, he was 2-2 in the World Series and 2-2 in playoffs.

His favorite opponent with Baltimore (15-4, 2.03) until the 1976 collapse had been the Angels.

"Most of the pitchers are unsigned, but we're close on some of them," explains Dalton. "The catching market is very cool right now. It seems like everyone is waiting until spring camp to see what they have.

"I think six to eight clubs will be making deals then. Right now knowing who you can sign is almost as important as your needs.

"It's worth going to a multi-year contract with the established guys, but not a player who did well one year, because there is no protection for sub par play."

He is currently talking to Ryan personally and Tanana's agent. Solid second baseman Jerry Remy is among those not in the fold, while he claims to be "close" on third basemen Dave Chalk and Ron Jackson and has not heard from some players who are away playing winter ball.

"I think more players should do like Ryan and negotiate on their own," states Dalton. "They might get a better contract without paying an agent. The players with agents are usually not involved at all.

"Three or four years ago we had three players represented by agents and now we have 22."

"We used to negotiate on performance and now it is on their availability to you and their desire to be with you. Baseball approved for the first time some incentive clauses, but then the executive council suspended it."

Dalton revealed minor league director Tom Sommers is handling the contract talks with "eight or 10 of the younger guys because he is more familiar with them and their backgrounds."

Front-running Fabled Gun led every step of the way in Santa Anita's featured Old English Rancho Purse Tuesday before 17,581 startled spectators to register a $101,800 shocker in his 1977 debut.

The triumph in the one-mile event, timed in 1.35 4/5, marked seasonal first for 23-year-old jockey Pat Day and native Floridian Rose-Mary (Pinkie) Henderson, who are each competing in their first Santa Anita campaigns.

The five-year-old son of Gunflint, which had run in claiming races throughout most of last year in Florida, never looked back against his six rivals en route to becoming the meeting's fourth mutuel return worth $100 or better.

In his wake was 1975 Santa Anita Handicap winner Stardust Mel, making his second start after a year's respite and favored Bahia Key. Neither could ever manage to get closer than one length from the speedster, which reeled off fractions of 22 4/5, 46 1/5 and 1.10 2/5 en route.

Leading rider Laffit Pincay, placed his immediate future in doubt after he was disqualified aboard Rajab in the day's seventh race for stretch interference. Pincay, holding a comfortable 10-winner bulge over his nearest rivals after a double for the afternoon, may face the possibility of a five-day suspension as the result of the outcome.

Santa Anita stewards will review the films of the race before making a ruling, if any, tomorrow afternoon.

'Kindergarten' Deadline Near

Nominations to the richest horse race in California quarter-horse history, the $300,000 Kindergarten Stakes, close Saturday at Los Alamitos with foals of 1976 eligible for the 400-yard race that will have its first running in 1978.

The new kindergarten format requires that yearlings pay the intial fee to the Los Alamitos racing office either in person or be postmarked by Jan. 15.

Expected to reach a purse figure as high as $300,000, the Kindergarten also has a pair of unique late supplementary payments one after all of 1977's major quarter horse yearling sales in November and another on the day entries to the Kindergarten trials are taken in the summer of 1978.

No date has yet been set for the race or trials but racing secretary Donald Smith has indicated it will not conflict with any other major two-year-old quarter horse event anywhere in the country.

Nominations to the $25,000-added Las Damas Handicap for fillies and mares close Thursday at midnight.

The 400-yard Las Damas, which serves as a final warmup to the $50,000 HQHRA Championship for many of the season's distaff stars, will be run Jan.22.

READERS' POST-TIME:

"I would like to know the difference between a stakes race, a claiming race or a handicap." – Fred J. Phillips, Long Beach.

A stakes race is one where the owners of horses entered or engaged for the race contribute to the purse for which any other prize money may be added.

A claiming race is one in which any horse entered therein may be claimed in conformity with the rules established by the racing board.

A handicap is a race in which the weights to be carried by the entered horses are alotted by a handicapper or a board of handicappers for the purpose of equalizing their respective chances of winning.

"I have noticed that a horse now racing at Los Alamitos is named Lovely Louise. Is there any chance this horse is named for Lucky Louise who makes selections in your newspapers?" — Arlene Watson, Arcadia.

Indirectly I guess Lovely Louise is named for her. The three-year-old filly is out of the thoroughbred mare, Louise's Acres which had been named for Lucky Louise.

Louise's Acres was the last foal of the race mare named Louise Mason, which had been named for Lucky Louise. Louise Mason, a daughter of Count Fleet–Kinfolks, has thrown nothing but winners during her career as a broodmare.

Incidently, this is the first quarter-horse named for Louise. Quite a few thoroughbreds have been named for her. Two consistent winners named for her were Sweet as Louise and Louisador, which have since been retired as broodmares.

There is one thing in common that Lovely Louise has with others that are blood relatives to the thoroughbred mare, Louise Mason, which recently died from a fatal accident in the pastures. They all were able to win first-out in their racing debuts.

"There has been so much pro and con on inbreeding that I don't know what to believe. Actually how many generations removed do you consider breeding to be inbreeding?" – Larry Grohman, Santa Ana.

I don't really understand all the pros and cons of inbreeding. I have seen many stakes performers that were said to be inbred. Personally, as I understand it, a horse that is inbred is one that is developed from related parents. Inbreeding is when both the sire and the dam are related within three generations.

The main thing against inbreeding is that when you have a mare and that mare is bad, and if that mare was out of a bad mare, you won't get good racers. That fact has been proven many times. You are playing the roulette of the chromosomes, and when you carry the chromosomes which are bad, you tend to get them if you use animals which are close relations.

Most Exciting Moment In Sports? Big Fight Or Olympics?

By WILL GRIMSLEY

PASADENA, Calif. (AP) – As the Oakland Raiders and Minnesota Vikings lined up for Super Bowl XI, in a magnificent Rose Bowl setting with the snow-capped San Gabriel Mountains as a backdrop, a reporter in the press box could not restrain his enthusiasm.

"This must be the most exciting moment in all sports," he remarked.

Three seats away, a weather-beaten old codger who must have lugged countless typewriters up untold press box steps for numerous events of various description, overheard and demurred.

"Naw," he said. "Can't compare with a big heavyweight prize fight."

The impromptu dialogue set off a lively discussion among newsmen, even as the game progressed, on what creates the fastest pulse beat among a calloused breed not easily impressed.

The consensus: No sports event creates sparks to match those that occur moments before two outstanding heavyweights enter the ring for a title fight. At the same time, it was agreed, there is no general sports spectacle that can bring lumps into the throats of strong men like the opening and closing pageantry of an Olympic Games.

"The tension before the first Muhammad Ali-Joe Frazier fight ... I can think of nothing in my lifetime to match it," a fiftyish man observed. "I am sure it must have been the same when Dempsey went against Tunney, Louis against Schmeling, Rocky Marciano against Jersey Joe Walcott."

Another interposed, "It was pretty exciting when Ali fought George Foreman in Zaire and Frazier the third time in Manila."

Down on the chalk-lined grass, the Raiders reversed an early bad break and stormed to a 16-0 lead at halftime. Interest spewed from the massive stadium like air from one of the colorful balloons.

A man from New Orleans again steered the conversation away from the year's premier pro football extravaganza.

"I've never been moved by anything as much as at Belmont in 1973 when Secretariat turned into the home stretch with a 31-length lead for his Triple Crown," he said. "The press box was so stunned there wasn't a sound for several seconds. Then came this deafening roar."

Everybody agreed that Secretariat's unbelievable victory at Belmont should be placed high in the list of all-time sports thrillers.

A championship pro football game, with all its attendant fanfare, can be exciting. At the same time, it can be a dud – as in the case of most Super Bowls where teams have been overly cautious.

Oakland's easy victory over Minnesota did not fall into that category. The overpowering dominance by the Raiders was enough to stir the most cynical soul.

The Super Bowl, by its very nature, isn't able to produce the warm, personal attachment that comes from a baseball World Series or, for that matter, a Masters golf tournament.

In baseball, one can walk down on the field before a game, talk to Johnny Bench at the batting cage and duck one of Catfish Hunter's warmup pitches.

Baseball players become living, breathing characters – even to the millions watching on TV. Viewers see Luis Tiant chew, spit and exude large beads of sweat. They see a batter's muscles tense up and his eyes scan an outfield wall. They share the emotion.

Football players are held in isolation. On the field, their faces are covered with helmets and masks. Their emotion isn't seen. They become little more than pawns on a plastic board.

In golf, you can walk out on the course and talk to the player. In tennis, you can almost touch the tension when Jimmy Connors whales into a two-fisted backhand shot. The football player is a man with a number.

Shed a tear when they play "My Old Kentucky Home" at the Derby or choke a bit when the band blares out "Back in Indiana" at the Indy 500. There's enough sentiment to go around.

Stu Holcomb Dead At 66

SARASOTA, Fla. (AP) – Stu Holcomb, longtime college football coach and retired general manager of the Chicago White Sox, died here Tuesday. He was 66.

Holcomb retired in 1973 after two years as general manager of the Chicago baseball team. He went to Chicago in 1966 after 10 years as athletic director at Northwestern, where one of his acts was hiring Ara Parseghian as football coach.

Holcomb played college football at Ohio State, and was captain of the 1931 team. After graduation, he served as head football coach at Findlay College and Muskingum College in Ohio, Washington and Jefferson in Washington, Pa., and Miami of Ohio.

Clearing The Hair Spray Hurdle

The fluorocarbon scare "forced us into a better spray," said Richard G. Spiegel, president of La Maur.

The fluorocarbon controversy centers on the contention of some scientists that fluorocarbon used in many aerosol sprays reacts with the ozone layer around the world and would deteriorate the layer allowing more cosmic radiation into the lower atmosphere.

The propellants, developed by the company, in the hair-spray containers allow more holding content to be added, he said.

La Maur manufactures several hair spray products including Style which is marketed through Southland supermarkets and drug stores.

Spiegel was in Orange County Tuesday and explained the trauma the company experienced with the announcement of the fluorocarbon difficulty and also the economic problems which took place in 1974 – the year he was named president of the firm.

La Maur markets hair care items through beauty salons under the name La Maur. Spiegel said the company is on a campaign to increase the retail sales of La Maur products through beauty salons.

"Our goal is to become number two in that field. We are presently in third place behind the leader Redken which is followed by Helene Curtis, he said.

He expects to pass Helene Curtis soon. His company's 400 employe work force includes 125 field people. He plans to beef up the field force to work with various accounts to meet the goal.

Presently La Maur markets through about 600 out of the 180,000 beauty salons throughout the country. He aims to increase the number of outlets selling his firm's products to 18,000.

The company Spiegel heads was founded by his father in the early thirties. It struggled for many years and faced many of the financial problems that all struggling firm's endure.

He said there were times in the early years of the company that bills were behind as much as six months.

They had to resort to factoring accounts receivable to finance operation. "We paid 12 and 13 per cent when the bank was lending money at two and three per cent.

"But because of our payment record, the bank wouldn't lend us funds," he said.

As the company prospered, it paid off its debt and avoids it as much as possible today.

This is why the firm is in a debt-free situation and today actually is a lender of funds, he said.

Asked how come he followed in his father's footsteps in these days when many sons refuse to go into the family business, Spiegel responded. "There is always something going on. There are new markets and new ways of doing things."

His enthusiasm was evident when he talked about research and development of new products, the push to increase sales through beauty salons and the prospect of a good year ahead.

The far western states are the strongest market for his products followed by the southeast. "You can hardly find our product on the shelves of stores in the northeast," he said.

Spiegel said earnings were up 38 per cent for the past nine months.

Ships Blacklist Advised To Halt Tanker Mishap

WASHINGTON, D.C. – (BW) – The American Petroleum Institute (API) recommended Tuesday the U. S. Coast Guard attempt to cut down on oil tanker mishaps by regularly preparing a list of ocean-going vessels which fail to meet Coast Guard standards.

"We also recommend," said a statement issued by API president Frank N. Ikard, "That vessels appearing on this list be informed by the Coast Guard that they will not be allowed to operate in U.S. waters to deliver cargoes to U.S. ports until specific remedial measures have been taken to qualify the vessels."

Ikard said the API "deplores the recent tanker incidents and is greatly disturbed by the loss of life, property damage and pollution caused by them."

The statement urged that Congress promptly approve the National Oil Spill Compensation & Liability Fund Act which would be funded by a tax on the oil for this purpose.

This fund, which the API has strongly supported, would pay for oil spill damages in U.S. waters from any source after the exhaustion of the spillers' legal liability and other compensation funds.

The statement urged that there be uniform international standards of training for shipboard personnel; that there be minimum standards for required navigational equipment and that more use be made of vessel traffic systems in harbors, and traffic separation lanes for congested areas.

In addition, the statement advocated that Congress promptly ratify international conventions dealing with maritime pollution control and damage liabilities.

Oklahoma Drilling Highest In 15 Yrs.

TULSA, Okla. (AP) – Oil and gas drilling in Oklahoma is at the highest level in 15 years, Hughes Tool Co. reported to the International Association of Drilling Contractors today.

The state had 233 rigs active this week, the highest since Jan. 1, 1962, when 1,887 were active. The number a week ago was 206.

Prices Hiked

TOLEDO, Ohio – (BW) – The plastic products division of Owens-Illinois Inc. Tuesday said it will increase prices on plastic containers made of polyethylene, polypropylene and polystyrene by 4 to 6 per cent, effective Feb. 15.

William J. Graham, vice president of Owens-Illinois and general manager of the plastic products division, said the price increase is necessary because of continuing cost increases in labor, energy and general operating costs since its last price increase in April 1976.

Coffee Futures Jump Following 4-Day Decline

Traders were shaking their heads over the sudden turn of events following several days of price declines in London and New York, attributed by some to adverse consumer reaction to high retail prices.

The exchange's March contract has no limits on price movement and had fallen 24½ cents a pound over four days of trading. But on Tuesday the contract rebounded more than 16 cents to close at $2.1425 a pound.

"You have to be a little crazy to jump into a market where you are getting 600-point swings up and down all day long," said one New York trader. One point is market language for one cent.

During a five-minute telephone conversation with the trader, the contract for delivery of green coffee this March had gained nearly two cents a pound, or $750 per 37,500-pound contract.

"The people who sold contracts short Monday thinking the price rise was all over are now the ones who are going to spend a sleepless night," the trader said. "This dog isn't dead yet."

Other coffee futures contracts traded on the New York exchange are prevented from such erratic fluctuations by movement limits of 4 cents in either direction.

More Layoffs Hit Philadelphia Area

PHILADELPHIA (AP) – Two more Philadelphia area firms have announced job layoffs, increasing the number of workers idled by recent industrial cutbacks in the Delaware Valley to 2,200.

The latest layoffs, which will affect 650 persons, involve a Westinghouse Electric Co. plant in suburban Delaware County and a Mobil Oil Corp. office here.

A Westinghouse spokesman said Monday 329 workers will be laid off indefinitely from the plant in Lester.

The spokesman blamed the layoffs on an unexpected reduction in the construction of power plants.

Loan Agreement

FAIRBANKS, Alaska – (BW) – Alaska International Industries Inc.Tuesday reported it has entered into a loan agreement to borrow $23 million from a group of banks led by Seattle-First National Bank, and additionally comprised of Bank of America NT&SA and Wells Fargo Bank, N.A.

NEW V.P. — Donald E. Kueny, of Fountain Valley, has been made vice president of Heritage Insurance Service, Inc., Fullerton.

Garrett Corp. Awarded French Aviation Pact

LOS ANGELES – (BW) – Garrett Corp., one of the Signal Companies, Los Angeles, Tuesday said it has received a contract valued in excess of $82 million from the French firm of Avions Marcel Dassault-Breguet Aviation for ATF3-6 turbofan aircraft engines.

The contract became effective with the signing of a contract between the U.S. Coast Guard and Falcon Jet Corp. of Teeterboro, N.J., and Little Rock, Ark., for the delivery of 41 Falcon 20Gs for Coast Guard use as a medium-range surveillance aircraft.

The Coast Guard aircraft are based on a French design. They will be assembled in the United States and will use other U.S. subsystems and components in addition to the engines.

In addition to the Coast Guard aircraft, the ATF3 will power Falcon 20G aircraft to be produced for other customers and for retrofit of existing Falcon 20s.

Bank Merger Accord

OAKLAND, – (BW) – The directors of Central Bank and Peninsula National Bank Tuesday reported they have entered into an agreement for the purchase of assets and assumption of specified liablilities of Peninsula National Bank by Central Bank. The agreement is subject to shareholder and regulatory approvals.

Spending Spree Scheduled By Union Pacific

OMAHA, Neb. (AP) – The Union Pacific Railroad said Tuesday it plans to spend a record $246.7 million for capital improvements this year, up more than $91 million from the 1976 figure of $155.1 million.

UP President John C. Kenefick said the program includes a previously announced $160 million for new rolling stock consisting of 90 locomotives, 3,079 freight cars, 200 ballast cars and 315 racks.

Also included is another $10 million for miscellaneous work equipment and $76 million for road and fixed plant improvements.

Major items on the road and fixed plant schedule for 1977 include laying 350 miles of new continuous welded rail, installation of 875,000 cross ties, construction of 115 miles of centralized traffic control signaling on mainline trackage and continued construction of a major new 32-track automated freight classification yard at Hinkle, Ore., Kenefick said.

He said the program reflects the railroad's confidence in the continued strength of business activity in its operating territory.

Beatrice Foods, Harman Conduct Merger Talks

NEW YORK (AP) – Beatrice Foods Co. of Chicago and Harman International Industries Inc. of Lake Success, N.Y., say they are discussing merging Harman into Beatrice.

Merger terms were not disclosed in Monday's announcement.

Beatrice, with 1975 sales of $4.69 billion and net income of $153.1 billion, is a diversified producer of food products, trailers, mobile homes, luggage and other products.

Harman, with 1975 sales of $104.17 million and net income of $6.17 million, makes high-fidelity sound equipment, automobile parts and components for aircraft engines.

Harman International's president, Sidney Harman, has been nominated as undersecretary of commerce in the incoming Carter administration.

4 More Firms Approved To Carry Data Overseas

WASHINGTON (AP) – Four American-based companies were authorized by the Federal Communications Commission on Tuesday to provide improved data communications services to overseas points.

The FCC said the proposals it approved were in response to a fast-growng need for overseas data communications services that are not now being met by existing carrier service offerings.

Existing data transmission services offered by the international carriers include alternate voice-data or private line, datel service and telex service.

But the commission said these are not cost-efficient for many users and do not have the inherent capability to provide transmission services between incompatible terminals.

The four applications approved are Graphnet Communications Inc., Telenet Communications Corp., RCA Global Communications Inc. and Western Union International Inc. RCA and Western Union now provide two-way overseas communications as approved international carriers.

It will be the first entry into overseas service by Graphnet and Telenet.

Graphnet's service will be one-way overseas. The authorization will permit its subscribers in the United States to input information from vitually any terminal source through interconnection with foreign networks.

It will feed the information to receiving facsimile terminal devices in Belgium, Denmark, France, Italy, The Netherlands, Norway, Spain, Sweden, Switzerland, the United Kingdom and West Germany.

Telenet's service is two-way and is authorized to extend its packet-switched data communications service from the United States to the United Kingdom and points beyond.

RCA was given permission to modify its existing authorizations as necessary to use its facilities for an enhanced class of overseas datel service.

WUI was similarily given permission to modify its existing authorization to use previously authorized facilities for the provision of database service.

Datel and database are forms of remote access to computers.

Sundesert Proposal Draws More Fire

EL CENTRO (AP) – Imperial Valley officials say San Diego Gas & Electric's proposed nuclear power transmission corridor is a threat to the county's agriculture and a hindrance to community development.

All but one of the 25 persons appearing before a state Energy Commission hearing in El Centro voiced opposition to the corridor planned to carry power from the $2 billion Sundesert Nuclear Power Plant if it is ever built.

Officials and landowners told the hearing the corridor should be much more to the north than planned by San Diego Gas & Electric.

UAW Board Prefers Fraser

DETROIT (AP) – The United Auto Workers' executive board unanimously recommended Tuesday that Vice President Douglas A. Fraser succeed retiring President Leonard Woodcock in May.

The board also recommended that the 1.4 million member union decide at a special convention in September whether to reaffiliate with the AFL-CIO.

The leadership's support for the 60-year-old Fraser, the only candidate for the presidency, had been expected. However, the plan for a special convention on the question of reaffiliation came as a surprise.

It previously was thought that the UAW, which bolted from the 13.5 million member labor federation in 1968, would rejoin in May to coincide with the formal retirement of Woodcock, a strong advocate of reaffiliation.

Woodcock, 65, who is barred from seeking another term, said at a news conference that the board would ask delegates to the May convention to set up a special one-day session in September to "decide the issue one way or the other."

Woodcock said the period from May to September would be devoted to "a full debate throughout all levels of the union."

Fraser is virtually assured of the presidency of the nation's largest industrial union. But he still faces two procedural hurdles – endorsement by the national steering committee as the "administrative caucus candidate" in February and formal election at the May convention in Los Angeles.

Fraser, who heads the union's Chrysler Department, is a protege of the late UAW President Walter Reuther and is expected to pursue the progressive-liberal social policies set by Reuther and followed by Woodcock.

Westgate Suit Won By Air Cal Stockholders

SAN DIEGO (AP) — Dr. Clifford Nelson of San Francisco and other minority stockholders of Air California have won a $380,000 settlement of their civil suit against the Westgate-California Corp.

An attorney, Joseph Turner, said Tuesday that $108,000 of the money will go to pay attorneys' fees.

Nelson owned 8,000 shares of Air California when he filed the suit while a proposal to merge Air California with Pacific Southwest Airlines was pending. The merger fell through.

Nelson's suit accused C. Arnholt Smith and other Westgate officials of conspiring to dissipate Air California's assets to their own enrichment.

The suit said Westgate, which Smith founded and headed until he was forced out, controlled 81 per cent of Air California stock before the conglomerate filed for bankruptcy three years ago.

Merger Announcements Dip To Less Than 1% In 1976

CHICAGO – (BW) – Merger announcements in 1976 numbered 2,276, dowm less than 1 per cent from 2,297 recorded in 1975, according to W.T. Grimm & Co., Chicago-based merger intermediaries.

Compared with the 20 per cent drop in 1975 and the 29 per cent decline in 1974 over the preceding year, the 1976 results were encouraging and indicate a rise in merger activity in 1977.

A comparison of quarters 1976 with 1975 shows mergers held steady in the first quarter, rose 14 per cent in the second quarter but fell 4 per cent in the third quarter and more than 11 per cent in the last quarter.

Willard T. Grimm, president, said the recent economic "pause" affected merger activity in the second half, specfically in the fourth quarter.

The final quarter's decline, he added, can be particularly ascribed to the extremely low merger count in November which coincided with the Dow Jones industrial averages' 10-month low of 924.04.

Investors were hesitant because of the slow economic recovery and the uncertainty with respect to the new administration's proposals to stimulate the economy.

Although merger announcements declined slightly, there was a substantial increase in transactions valued at $100 million or more. Such sizeable consolidations in 1976 numbered 39, with a total value of $10 billion.

This compared with only 11 in 1975, with a total value of $3.8 billion. Among the largest transactions announced in the fourth quarter of 1976 were the following:

– Kennescott Copper Corp.'s divestiture of Peabody Coal Co. to a group of companies headed by Newmont Mining Corp. for $1.2 billion in cash and notes.

– American Distilling Co.'s proposed acquisition of Rapid-American Corp.'s Schenley Industries Inc. for $355 million in cash, preferred stock and dept.

– Champion International Corp.'s offer of $322.1 million in common stock for Hoerner-Waldorf Corp.

– Gannett Co.'s common stock offer of $172.8 million for Speidel Newspapers Inc.

The largest transactions completed in 1976 — or ever — was the acquisition of Utah International Inc. by General Electric Co. for $1.9 billion in common stock. First announcement of the merger was made in 1975.

Large consolidations will be more closely examined by the FTC or the Justice Department, which will soon require advance notice of intentions to merge in certain cases, said Grimm.

For example, to quote from the Dec. 24, 1976, FTC news summary:

"The premerger notification requirement applies generally to acquisitions in which one involved firm has net sales or total assets of at least $100 million and the other has net sales or total assets of $10 million where, as a result of the acquisition, the acquiring company has at least 15 per cent or more than $15 million of the stock or assets of the acquired firm."

Tender offer proposals reached 83, or 4 per cent of the 1976 announcements, up from 72, or 3 per cent in 1975. Competitive bidding continued to be a popular acquisition method as exemplified by the experiences of the following target companies: Booth Newspapers Inc., Gray Tool Co., Royal Industries Inc. and Sea World Inc. Each of these firms had more than one suitor during the fourth quarter. This may help explain why 27 per cent of the 70 gross public tender offers counted in 1976 were cancelled.

Tomislava Simic, research analyst, remarked 178 foreign buyers, comprising 8 per cent of all merger announcements, were involved in acquisitions of American firms.

She added the acquisition of American companies by foreign corporations reflect their greater faith and confidence in the U.S. economy than that of their own country. Of the European buyers, English companies, despite the weak pound, bought the largest number of American companies.

Sales of divisions or subsidiaries totalled 1,204 transactions, or 53 per cent, compared with 1,237 or 54 per cent, in 1975. Due to the high percentage of divestitures, cash continued as the dominant form of payment.

Based on those transactions were payment data was available, cash was utilized in 52 per cent of the deals, up from 1975's 48 per cent.

Stock transactions fell to 26 per cent from 27 per cent. A combination of cash/stock and/or debt was used in 20 per cent of the cases, compared with 23 per cent in 1975. Payments in the form of debt amounted to 2 per cent for both 1976 and 1975.

The 177 cancellations in 1976 comprised 7 per cent of gross merger announcements, down from 10 per cent in 1975.

Duesenberg To Make Comeback This Year

By JAMES MATEJA
Chicago Tribune

CHICAGO – Harlan and Kenneth Duesenberg had planned to begin production on a new luxury car bearing the family name on March 1, but things have changed.

They still plan to bring a car out then, but now it will only be a prototype. The production model won't roll out of their Chicago plant until July at the earliest.

The brothers had hoped to unveil the car at the Chicago Auto Show in February. Financing has been no problem and "is almost settled," according to Harlan, but getting the vehicle off the drawing board and into metal is taking longer than planned.

The brothers are grandnephews of Augie and Fred Duesenberg, who brought out one of the finest and fastest vehicles in auto history during the '20s and '30s. They hope to preserve the family name with a luxury 1977 version that will resemble the original only by the famous Duesenberg grille bow-tie bumper, and apple green engine.

The car is based on a Cadillac Fleetwood Brougham shell along with the engine, drive train, and chassis from that GM luxury car. Through hand conversion the car will have a definite Lincoln flair.

The downsizing program at GM in 1977 has delayed the new Duesenberg, Harlan explained. The 121-inch wheelbase has to be stretched back to 133 inches to allow for the cabinetry in the rear passenger compartment.

The brothers also have opted for a lighter weight all-aluminum body for the conversion, another factor which contributed to the delay.

After the prototype is ready Harland said he plans to transport the car across country to show potential customers. The private showings will serve to prove a car exists and allow the brothers to take orders before production begins.

They plan to build 40 Duesenbergs annually.

The delays may have some influence on the eventual price, which originally was to be $75,000 a copy. All Harlan will say to that is, "We are still close."

Exxon Mulls Pulling From Texas Seadock

HOUSTON (AP) – Exxon Corp. has indicated that it may have to withdraw from participation in the proposed $650 million Seadock crude oil loading facility off the Texas Coast.

Exxon and two of its subsidiaries, Exxon Co. USA and Exxon Pipeline Co., said Tuesday they could not accept some of the terms of the proposed license.

Exxon offered, however, to discuss the areas of concern with the Department of Transportation.

Transportation Secretary William T. Coleman Jr. outlined on Dec. 17 the details of proposed licenses for both Seadock and LOOP, a similar project proposed off the Louisiana coast.

Included were several regulations based on recommendations made by the Federal Trade Commission and the Department of Justice.

The licenses are scheduled for delivery next week, and Seadock and LOOP will have 90 days to decide on acceptance or rejection.

Hugh Scott, president of Seadock, has expressed hope that the licensing regulations will not jeopardize the project and that negotiations with the Department of Transportation can lead to more favorable interpretations of the restrictions, if not modification.

Seadock is a consortium of nine companies who plan to finance and operate the supertanker facility 25 miles south of Freeport. In addition to Exxon Pipeline, the consortium includes Cities Service, Continental, Crown Central, Dow Chemical, Gulf, Mobil, Phillips, and Shell.

In a letter to Coleman, Randall Meyer, president of Exxon USA, said he and the secretary are in agreement on significant national benefits that could be realized from deepwater ports.

"These benefits include lower environmental risks, reduced costs of imported oil, added national energy security and new employment opportunities," the letter said.

"However, we must advise you that Exxon Pipeline Co. and Exxon Corp. will not be able to participate in the project if the license is issued in its present form."

Meyer said areas of concern would make Seadock liable for negligence or willful acts of government agencies and would completely disregard the financial viability of Seadock as a separate corporate entity by requiring each Seadock owner or its parent company to guarantee unconditionally several major obligations of the project.

Meyer said another area of concern would give the Department of Transportation power to force a 25 per cent expansion of the port.

Dymally's Kin Asks $5 Million In RI Job Suit

LOS ANGELES (AP) – The brother of Lt. Gov. Mervyn Dymally has filed a $5.75 million dollar damage suit against Rockwell International Corp., alleging that he was fired by the company because he brought the company's attention to irregularities in Rockwell's affirmative action program.

Romer Joseph Dymally, 46, said he learned of the alleged iregularities while he was working as liaison officer between Rockwell and members of the U.S. Congress' Black Caucus on behalf of Rockwell's B-1 bomber project.

Dymally's suit, filed Tuesday in Los Angeles Federal Court, claims that Rockwell accused him of causing trouble and then fired him without good cause on Jan. 16, 1976.

Dymally is seeking $5 million in punitive damages, plus $750,000 for mental distress, and back pay for the last year.

Stock Slide Continues

NEW YORK (AP) – The stock market sustained its second steep loss in a row today, unsettled by news of a jump in wholesale prices.

Trading remained active.

At the opening, the Labor Department reported that its consumer price index climbed 0.9 per cent in December – the equivalent of a 10.8 per cent annual rate.

It was the fourth month in a row of substantial increase for the index, a measure of underlying inflationary pressures.

The Dow Average closed down 8.40 points to 968.25. A roundup of earlier activity follows.

At 1 p.m. the Dow Jones Industrial Average was down 5.16 points to 971.49 on a volume of 13.55 million shares compared to 13.38 million at the same hour on Tuesday. The NYSE index stood at 56.05, off 0.29, and the Amex index was at 109.73, off 0.28.

The noon Dow was down 5.74 at 970.91, on top of a 10.22-point drop on Tuesday.

Losers outpaced gainers by more than a 3-1 margin among New York Stock Exchange-listed issues.

As the market opened, the Labor Department reported a 0.9 per cent rise in the wholesale price index during December – the fourth substantial monthly increase in a row for the key measure of underlying inflationary pressures.

The Dow showed a loss of more than 7 points late in the morning, and then recovered a bit before the noon hour.

Middle South Utilities topped the active list, up ⅛ a 16⅝. A 150,000-share block traded at 16¾.

The NYSE's composite index of all its listed common stocks was down .32 at 56.02.

Otis Elevator To Lay Off 78

YONKERS, N.Y. (AP) – Otis Elevatog Co. is laying off 78 of its employes Friday to pare operating costs.

The Otis plant manager, William Drummond, said Otis will lay off 14 management, 22 white collar and 42 hourly workers to cut back in its operating costs.

Drummond said the firm has to economize to compete in the elevator market.

In November, Otis laid off 30 white-collar workers for the same reason.

Otis is now a subsidiary of United Technologies Corp.

New Gremlin Engine Introduced By AMC

DETROIT (AP) – American Motors Corp., hoping to perk up faltering Gremlin sales, today introduced a lightweight, more fuel efficient four-cylinder engine to power the subcompact car.

The two-liter 121-cubic-inch engine, which AMC purchased from Audi in West Germany and produces in Richmond, Ind., will increase the Gremlin's fuel economy an average of at least two miles per gallon of gasoline, the company said.

The car also comes standard with a four-speed manual transmission.

The Gremlin previously was the only domestic subcompact powered by a six-cylinder engine, and thus offered poorer fuel economy than other small autos.

However, the suggested retail price of the car with the smaller engine will be $253 more than the six-cylinder, 232-cubic-inch version with three-speed transmission.

The Gremlin with the smaller engine will carry a sticker price of $3,248, excluding options, taxes or shipping charges. That had been the 1977-model Gremlin's base price until last November, when the firm slashed it to $2,995 to stimulate sales.

AMC officials, explaining the higher price, said the four-cylinder version comes standard with more features and trim than the stripped model selling for $253 less.

The body dimensions of the four-cylinder Gremlin remain the same, although the weight has been trimmed 250 pounds to 2,560 lbs.

Government test measurements showed the new engine would deliver 33 m.p.g. on the highway and 21 m.p.g. in the city, for an average 25 m.p.g., AMC said.

Air Bags OKd By Auto Maker

WASHINGTON (AP) – A major auto manufacturer has tentatively agreed to equip some of its new cars with air bags, according to Secretary of Transportation William T. Coleman Jr.

Coleman said Monday he hopes to get a second automaker to agree to the trial before he leaves office later this month, and that an insurance firm has agreed to offer reduced premiums for cars equipped with the controversial safety system.

The secretary did not identify the automaker which has agreed to the testing program and gave no details of what the agreement entailed. He said the agreement was subject to the approval of the corporation's board of directors.

Coleman announced on Dec. 6 that he would not require automakers to install air bags and other passive restraint devices in new cars but said he would try to get at least two firms to agree to market the devices on at least 250,000 selected 1979 and 1980 model cars.

Coleman said the cost of the devices should not be more than $50 for the driver's side and $100 for a driver and front seat passenger system.

The secretary acknowledged in that announcement that it would cost automakers more than the $50 and $100 figures to market the devices but said he expected them to pick up the difference as part of their social responsibility.

Egypt Charges Boeing Paid Off

CAIRO (AP) – A former Aviation Ministry adviser took a commission of $20,000 on the sale of four airliners from the Boeing Co., the government prosecutor reported today.

The prosecutor's report, published in all Cairo newspapers, also held two former Egyptian cabinet ministers reponsible for buying the aircraft "under unfavorable terms."

The report said former ministry adviser Helmy Shams received a check for $20,000 in Geneva from Boeing with a note saying, "Sorry for the low payment but the sale cost us a lot of other payments."

The two ministers who were involved in the 1972 deal were Economy Minister Abdullah Merzaban and Aviation Minister Ahmed Nuh. They may have to stand trial, one paper said.

Egypt purchased four Boeing 707s with a loan arranged by the American investment firm Kidder Peabody and Co., which obtained the financing from Arab oil states in the Persian Gulf.

It was the first time financing was obtained in the area and not from Western banks, and was Egypt's first major purchase of Western planes.

Since then, Egypt has grounded its Soviet-built commercial planes and operates mostly a fleet of Boeings. It has bought at least 10 707s and eight 737s.

According to Egyptair, the national airline, Kidder Peabody arranged two loans, one for $53 million in October 1972 and another for $7 million the following year to complete the deal.

According to the terms, total interest will come to $64.8 million when the loan finally is settled in 1984. Egyptair says so far it has paid only one installment but has met the interest payments.

The prosecutor's report said the ministers concerned accepted the deal at annual interest of 8 per cent, even though Egyptair received other offers at 5 per cent interest, with a longer period to settle.

It added that the ministers did not seek the advice of Egptian bankers, and that when questions finally were raised a year ago, a top official forged minutes of a meeting saying Egyptian bankers had approved the contract.

The chairman of Egyptair, Gamal Erfan, submitted his resignation after a member of parliament charged that Egyptair officials had taken commissions from Boeing.

A spokesman for Kidder Peabody in Cairo refused to comment on the terms of the loan. He also said his firm, while arranging the financing, "Had nothing to do with the purchase of the Boeings."

Boeing has said it has paid about $70 million dollars to foreign consultants since 1970.

Busch To Test Market For Its Low Cal Beer

ST. LOUIS (AP) – Anheuser-Busch Inc. will begin test marketing a new low-calorie beer this month, company president August A. Busch II said.

The new, less filling beer, called "Natural Light," will be introduced in test markets to be announced later.

Busch said Wednesday the firm was introducing the new beer because it was "significantly better" than the other light beers on the market.

Anheuser-Busch sales were off last year, partly because of the popularity of the new light brews. The firm makes Budweiser, Michelob, Busch and Classic Dark beer.

Bean Futures Jump 11½ Cents

CHICAGO (AP) – Soybean futures advanced 11½ cents a bushel on the Chicago Board of Trade today under a strong, mixed demand.

Prices in the other major pits on the exchange also improved as traders fought to buy soybean futures. Soybean meal rose $3.50 a ton. Oats, corn and wheat futures were 1 to about 2½ higher. Iced broiler prices were little changed through the first hour, then eased about ½ cent a pound, just short of the gain posted the previous session.

There was a good, mixed commercial demand on the opening in the soybean pit. Two of the major exporters, processors, large commission houses and independent professional traders all vied for soybeans. Within minutes prices moved up 11 cents then retreated under light profit-taking only to rise again to the early high. Chart watchers noted that the early highs were a fraction from the recent highs.

Demand was largely speculative in the complex but it appeared that the commercial need was of a hedging nature, too. There were some export sales of soybeans and buying of the commodity in the country.

The weather also served to kick off the demand in the complex, and in corn and oats. More snow and cold could mean greater use of feed grains. Wheat futures appeared to bask in the demand for other commodities.

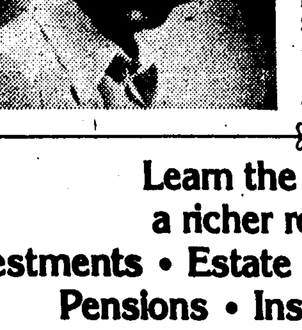

At the halfway point, soybeans were 8½ to 10½ cents a bushel higher, January 7.19; wheat was ½ to 1¼ higher, March 2.81¾; corn was ¼ lower to 1¼ higher, March 2.64¼ and oats were unchanged to ½ higher, March 1.75.

Business Briefs

HARTFORD, Conn. AP — For the third successive year, underwriting losses plagued Connecticut's property-casualty insurance business, according to the Insurance Association of Connecticut.

Based on preliminary data, the association said Connecticut-based property and casualty insurance companies expect to end 1976 with losses running to at least $200 million. The insurance organization said inflation was to blame.

The association said in the year-end roundup that the 1976 loss follows a half-billion-dollar loss in 1975 and a $360 million loss in 1974.

MANILA (AP) — The Chamber of Commerce of the Philippines will send a trade mission to Hanoi early next month, a spokesman for Chamber President Fred J. Elizalie said.

The mission's program was discussed during a meeting between Thran Hoy Choung.

EVER STRIVING FOR SOUTHERN CALIFORNIA TO BE AN EVEN BETTER PLACE TO LIVE

Let Peace Begin With Me

This newspaper is dedicated to furnishing information to our readers so that they can better promote and preserve their own freedom and encourage others to see its blessing. For only when man understands freedom and is free to control himself and all he possesses can he develop to his utmost capabilities.

We believe that all men are equally endowed by their Creator, and not by a government, with the right to take moral action to preserve their life and property and secure more freedom and keep it for themselves and others.

To discharge this responsibility, free men, to the best of their ability, must understand and apply to daily living the great moral guide expressed in the Coveting Commandment.

Prying Into Privacy

Indications are that Congress will make another stab at protecting people's privacy. Every year or so it gets such an afflatus, and it proposes or passes some law designed, in a superficial way, to curb invasions of privacy. And privacy is sundered more every day.

Sundered, cynically enough, by Congress itself. What is taxation but an invasion of privacy? What is the army of safety inspectors sent out of Washington to harass employers but a major assault on privacy authorized by Congress? What are the mountains of paperwork the congressionally mandated federal regulatory agencies impose on business but, yessir, invasions of privacy?

Of course, computer banks, which can do mysterious things with people's employment records and credit ratings, are every "civil libertarian's" hobgoblin, especially if the computers are operated by police agencies. One network correspondent – who probably would not think twice about releasing a purloined document – suggested that Capitol Hill is so bestirred by the rising threat to privacy that some sort of new "regulation" is inevitable.

He didn't bother to ask the ancient question, the paramount question: Who regulates the regulators?

we wish for heaven's sake these self-appointed guardians would get wise to that question next time some government spokesman announces a plan to protect us – else Orwell's nightmare will be ahead of schedule.

There is no reason to suppose a regulatory agency will be incorruptible. In fact, the corruption of such an agency, once overseeing the rest of the government, will be the most difficult to sweep away. Corruption among the regulatory agencies has been a major political theme in recent elections. The issue is transpartisan in origin: everybody from Ralph Nader to Milton Friedman can identify the evil.

The unasked question is why an agency charged with regulating data banks and police powers should be expected to remain exempt from corruption. Such an agency would be an invitation to abuses of the most mammoth sort. It is idle to think the government will police itself when that government yearns and burns for information.

A public fearing full-blown Orwellianism will demand that the question, who regulates the regulators?, be answered before Congress passes any new "protective" legislation.

Besides, if Congress is sincere about restraining invasions of privacy it will show us how sincere by curbing the Internal Revenue Service. We'll see something done about the IRS when peanuts learn to whistle.

Ears To You

Regular readers will be familiar with the ear which each day sits oracle-like on the upper left side of page one. This is the quotation, usually epigrammatic, from some famous or obscure philosopher or – for lack of a better word – statesman. Icebreakers for the morning, you might think of the ears.

Monday we treated readers to this: "The government centralizes its agency whilst it increases its prerogative – hence a twofold increase of strength."

The lines are from Alexis de Tocqueville, the 19th century Frenchman who wrote the classic sociology of America's political institutions, "Democracy in America" – which any freshman government student will have dipped into years ago.

Lo! a man identifying himself as a Fullerton College student, who allowed that he was "educated" and "versatile" and "knowledgeable of Shakespeare," called to question not only our wisdom but Tocqueville's.

"Who is this Toc-a-ville anyway?" the gentleman asked. "A Chicano?"

He then asked if Tocqueville's remark was "sufficient unto the day." That is, did it have any pertinence to our times?

Why, yes, we responded. The government is every day accumulating more power over our daily lives ... In fact, given today's government, there is more trenchancy in Tocqueville's observation than there was in the 1830s.

"But why quote an obscure foreigner?"

We could see where this was going, but we got in one more lick before he told us we'd better know Jesus "before the earth starts shaking and the gas comes up and the rest of it," which was that we here at The Register are not xenophobic and chauvinistic enough to exclude anyone from admission to page one earhood. We might even quote Confucious. He hung up his receiver. Loudly.

But for the benefit of our Shakespearean who demands timely, as opposed to antiquated, quotations, here is one from an all-American contemporary that may one day show up on page one. It is from our friend, the former editor of the Indianapolis News, M. Stanton Evans, a Tocqueville for our times:

"Any nation that can send a man to the moon should be able to abolish the Department of Health, Education and Welfare."

Unionism And Oil Spills

It is always astonishing that the critics of capitalism will support exactly the policies that lead to the crises and despoliation they blame on the market economy. Labor laws, for example.

The recent string of Liberian tanker mishaps that have fouled U.S. territorial waters immeasurably can be laid without much investigation to bad government labor policies.

Simply put, American labor unions, abetted by friends in Congress, have made shipping so costly under the U.S. flag that unsafe foreign vessels are stronger competitors even in our own waters.

The Wall Street Journal computed that, owing to high labor union costs, "it is about three times as expensive to operate a tanker under the U.S. flag as under the Liberian flag. The cost of building a tanker in the U.S. is about double the cost in Japan which in turn doubles insurance costs." Foreign ships do not meet the safety standards the U.S. demands.

It is not surprising, the Journal adds, that American ship owners have elected to build and register their vessels under foreign "flags of convenience." A sure connection does not exist between flags of convenience and shipping safety records, but the U.S. maritime unions are prepared to cite the recent spills to a friendly Congress.

President Ford, in 1974, vetoed the cargo preference act, pushed by the maritime unions, which called for a target 30 per cent of all imported oil and oil products to be shipped by private American ships. It would have been an inordinate boon to the unions, and to certain U.S. shipping interests; Mr. Ford rightly sunk it. The unions want the act, or one like it, passed this year.

What's wrong with the government favoring U.S. ships if foreign ships are shoddier? Just this. The cost of the favoritism would be enormous in freight rates to U.S. consumers. With favoritism like that, who needs foreign competitors?

Portrait of a schizophrenic: the anti-industrialist pro-unionist.

Today In History

By The Associated Press

Today is Wednesday, Jan. 12, the 12th day of 1977. There are 353 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history:

On this date in 1945, German forces were retreating in disorder in the World War II Battle of the Bulge in Belgium.

On this date –

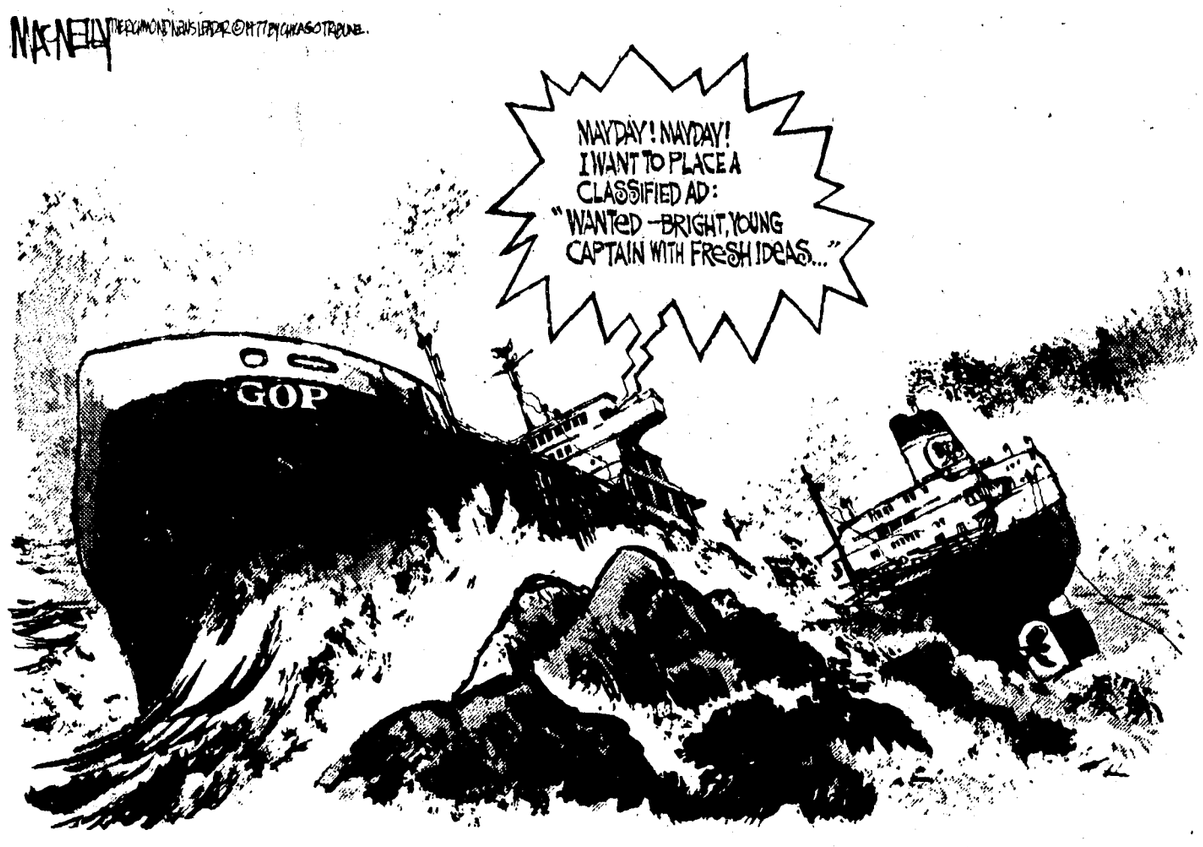

In 1643, Warwick, R.I., was founded by Samuel Gorton after his banishment from the Massachusetts Colony on grounds of heresy.

In 1737, the first signer of the American Declaration of Indpendence, John Hancock, was born in Braintree, Mass.

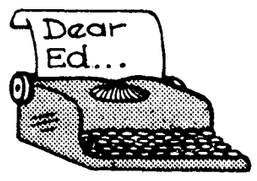

In 1919, the House of Representatives rejected a proposal to give women the right to vote.

In 1933, an Arkansas Democrat, Hattie Caraway, became the first elected woman senator.

Up, Up And Away

Westminster City Council members handed themselves a 70 per cent salary raise in December, after deciding on a three per cent pay raise for firemen. I wish that I could raise my social security higher after paying into that fund since 1937.

I am able to work but the law says only to the tune of $3000 in 1977. There was a 6.5 per cent raise in social security payments in 1976.

When the council votes a raise so high, who pays for it. We, the taxpayers. So I say everyone should be at the Jan. 11 Council meeting to try to stop our taxes from going higher.

Victim's Rights

The death penalty is an emotional issue. The increasing frustration I feel personally is that there seems to be no strong voice in our nation crying out for the rights of the victim.

As I read page after page of newspapers the words murder, killing, rape, assault, etc., appear again and again.

If the criminal is apprehended his rights are read, millions of the people's tax dollars assure him fair trial, appeals follow if convicted, the best of legal aid is available (especially if the crime is bad enough), etc., all with the secure knowledge he will only be detained for a few years, then a new trial or parole after things have cooled down.

The victim, meanwhile, has been placed in a box and lowered into his grave. The tears of his family and friends fall unnoticed by the courts, lawyers, politicians and news editors. The family is left to the agony of rebuilding shattered lives. The bills have to be paid, with no assistance from tax dollars.

We read endlessly the terms 'cruel and unusual' punishment. Can't any, like yourself, visualize what the victim must suffer during and at the time of his death? Is this normal? Is it usual and reasonable punishment? What did he do to his killer to deserve the loss of his life in the manner it was taken? Is the loss to his family and friends not cruel and unusual?

Can you visualize the blade of a knife or a hatchet or bullet plunging into the body of your wife or child or relative or friend? Perhaps hearing them plead for life or watching them suffer cruelly as they die? The killer read them no rights. He gave them no trial. They had no appeal. All the power of the state did not rise to their defense. They have no hope of parole.

You and others may feel that a nation which executes killers and punishes crime is barbaric.

Others of us feel that a nation who does not protect its innocents and defend their right to life truly is the real barbaric nation.

Such opinions are forcing a trend by the people to find any means possible to defend themselves. Our government does not seem to have the courage to do it.

Wouldn't it be terrible someday to discover that your influence for the defense of killers was directly responsible for the encouragement of other potential killers to repeat the act?

If someone must die, please dear God, don't let it be any more innocents. Let it be the killer.

Letter to Governor

This letter, from a citizen to Gov. Brown, is in reference to your recent publicized statement regarding the death penalty, as passed by a two to one vote of the California electorate.

I can readily appreciate your personal feelings and your conscientious objections to the death penalty. From your religious education and background, I would be very much surprised if your feelings were, in fact, different than those you have expressed, and I commend you on your forthright stand on the matter.

However, our political system, from its inception, has been that the majority rules, and that all elected officials are duty bound to uphold, maintain and support the expressed desires and will of the people. In our society and form of government religion and politics do not mix, and by law, are separated.

You ran for office as a politician, not as a member of the clergy. You took a solemn oath to uphold, defend and maintain all the laws, rules and regulations of our State's Constitution, and to act to the best of your ability, in behalf of the will and desires of the majority of the voters who elected you to office. Therefore, having sought and won political office, in spite of what your own personal convictions may be, if you are to be truly conscientious in performing the duties of your high office, you must act in accordance with the expressed wishes of the electorate.

If your own conscience will not permit you to act in this manner, then you have sought your office under false pretenses, and in all fairness, should resign from politics and re-enter the seminary.

It is my personal opinion that if you continue to maintain the position you have now taken, you will have committed political suicide, so far as any future office is concerned whether state or national. I hope you will reconsider.

Your Tax Dollars

We are all aware of the fact that the American taxpayer has been asked to guarantee the fiscal integrity of New York City, and yet most of the latest reports indicate that the city is doing little to change its ways. One area that needs reform is the city's liberal pension system. One of the New York newspapers has calculated that Mayor Beame could retire on a yearly pension of $71,200. This is $10,000 more than his salary. And this is merely the tip of the iceberg — similar tax-supported pensions exist throughout the entire city government.

BRUDNOY'S COMPLAINT

Heroin And The Spirit Of Magnanimity

By DAVID BRUDNOY

It would not come to Miss Mary McGrory, the Tom Wicker of her sex, to lend one of the tears she has shed, for all the draft evaders and other fashionable exemplars of the culture of the Left, to Richard Nixon, whose inaugural invitation from Mr. Carter has bestirred her to the expected fit of journalistic vengeance. Miss McGrory dearly loves to hate Richard Nixon, and she is pained beyond measure that the president-elect, on that day he succeeds in office the president-reject, expects that the president-eject will, as protocol suggested, be there freezing on the Capitol steps to watch the whole bizarre affair.

Poor Miss Mary McGrory: how her eyes will be offended, for there, as luck would have it, will sit Ford, who pardoned Nixon, bravely watching Carter take the reins of power, and off in a corner will sit Nixon, the pardon of whom by Ford probably helped considerably in bringing Carter to office next week.

Brother Safire, who puns and fusses for The New York Times and other newspapers that take the Times service, proposes that the Carter pardon program extend also to the Watergaters, and there is something to be said for it. Shoot, why not just pardon everbody? That's the logic, or what passes for logic, and one might as well consider everything in this pardon-and-amnesty-giddy month.

Meanwhile, as we ramble through the lists of pardonables, there is the case of the drug offenders. Let's back up a little bit and remember that 100 New York City judges and rehabilitation specialists recently concluded that the current draconic narcotics laws in the Empire State have failed to deter illegal drug use in the city. In fact, say the wise men, the laws have actually introduced juvenilles into drug trafficking, as under-18-year-olds are immune from the incredibly long prison sentences available to the judges to apply to adult narcotics dealers.

The proposal was of course bound to come, and it came; said the Commissioner of the city's Addiction Services Agency, Mr. Jerome Hornblass: let the Legislature "consider decriminalization or the dropping of criminal charges against addicts who are arrested for possession of wee amounts of drugs.

The Hornblass report contains its share of gobbledygook, the usual stuff about applying fines rather than prison terms, and so on and on, but the message is clear beneath the froth on top: accept the fact that drug use is not stopped by legal prohibitions, nor is the drug traffic hampered, so get on with the obvious next step and let the inevitable run its course.

Need anyone still be shocked to learn that marijuana smoking, and minor transactions among those who seek it to use it, are by now a common feature in our nation's life? Or that police experts are convinced that as much as half the crime committed in America's cities is related to drugs, which is to say that in pursuit of money to buy illegal drugs a frightening number of persons turn to theft and physical assault? Or that legal heroin would cost but pennies a day for an "addict"?

There remains one terribly irksome feature in all this, even for the libertarian: one may addict a fetus if one is an addict during pregnancy. Which means that a drug like heroin, even if its use and sale were to be decriminalized for consenting adults, could be inflicted on someone innocent, a to-be-born child, and that's aggression no matter how you look at it.

But for the bulk of persons and the bulk of now illegal drugs, decriminalization would so drastically reduce the price that drug-related crime would decrease significantly. And the asinine persecution of drug users and "pushers" would likewise cease, thus freeing police personnel for meaningful work, like, oh, chasing killers.

It is high time that America get off its anti-drug kick, let those who want drugs buy and use and sell them without harassment -- while retaining some penalty for those who addict their fetuses or seduce minors into drug dependency -- and put behind us (as the phrase goes for Watergate and Vietnam) our national preoccupation with censoring the drug preferences of America's adults.

Mr. Carter is determined to pass out his general pardon; Mr. Safire wants to save the Watergaters, the ever vengeful Miss McGrory wants Nixon to eat dirt. Count me out of all that, but put me down as favoring the decriminalization of drug use. Call it post-Christmas magnanimity if you like, but call it also common sense.

INSIDE WASHINGTON—

Sadlowski Out Of Gas?

By ROBERT S. ALLEN

WASHINGTON – Ed Sadlowski's so-called "insurgent" campaign for president of the 1.4-million-member United Steelworkers doesn't appear to be surging very much.

Latest polls of key USW districts show Lloyd McBride, head of St. Louis District 34, strongly in the lead with Sadlowski making no headway against him.

Only area in which Sadlowski still seems to be in the lead is in Chicago-Gary District 31, which he bosses, and even there indications are his backing is turning "mushy."

(1) Widespread belief that wealthy radical-liberal "outsiders" are masterminding and financing Sadlowski's drive – spearheaded by Joe ("Kingmaker") Rauh, militant leftist former head of Americans for Democratic Action who largely engineered the election of "insurgent" Arthur Miller as president of dissension-wracked United Mine Workers.

(2) Despite Sadlowski's repeated promise to disclose the list of contributors, he has yet to do so. As a consequence, McBride's suit charging him with violating the USW constitution prohibiting "employer" contributions in elections has stung hard – especially as Sadlowski, while airily disclaiming this, hasn't flatly denied it, saying: "Whatever was contributed is so meaningless it wouldn't cover the telephone bill."

(3) Blistering denunciation by A. Philip Randolph, revered long-time head of the Brotherhood of Sleeping Car Porters, of "outsiders involving themselves in the internal affairs of USW" which has scored heavily with the large black membership of the union.

While mentioning no names, Randolph, founder of the Sleeping Car Porters, pulled no punches.

"Black workers have a major interest in the stability, integrity and effectiveness of their unions. That's why I am deeply disturbed by the efforts of those outside the labor movement to interfere in the internal affairs of the USW. It has a record second to none in advancing racial and economic equality.

"I have fought the attempts of pseudo-liberals, Communists and other elements to seize unions and utilize the labor movement for their anti-democratic purposes. I have opposed their attempts to exploit racial problems. They have never wished to solve problems, they only want to manipulate blacks for their own ends.

Singled out by McBride in his suit accusing Sadlowski of "using illegal money" in an effort to "buy" the Feb. 8 election, are a number of wealthy supporters of leftist candidates and causes.

Prominent among them are – Howard Samuels, vice president of Mobil Chemical Corp., who spent large sums in an unsuccessful 1974 campaign for governor of New York; Stewart Mott, multi-millionaire General Motors heir and long-time "angel" of radical presidential aspirants (McGovern and McCarthy); Sarah Pillsbury, wealthy stockholder of the Pillsbury Flour Co.; Arnold Hiat, president of Stride-Rite Corp., Mass.

In contrast to Sadlowski's little-known and patchwork slate, the McBride group stands out strikingly in importance and stature. Example: Lynn Williams, 43, head of District 6 representing most of the 190,000 Canadian steelworkers, is McBride's candidate for secretary – first Canadian to seek international office.

Other weighty candidates running with McBride are Frank McKee, Los Angeles, for treasurer; Leon Lynch, Memphis, vice president for administration.

With Sadlowski increasingly on the defensive dodging and denying charges, he has become the butt of derisive characterizations – which clearly aren't helping him.

I.W. Abel, long-time USW president retiring for age, jumping into the intensifying fray for McBride, is tagging his rival as a "limousine liberal."

Echoing that, McBride is calling Sadlowski the "cocktail party candidate."

Both labels directly stem from the contention that wealthy radical-liberal outsiders are masterminding and financing Sadlowski's campaign. He himself added substances to these derogations by giving an interview to Penthouse magazine.

In it, the burly 38-year-old "insurgent" proclaims the curious view that there should be fewer jobs in the steel industry, as follows:

"I advocate putting people who work in steel mills into medical professions....With technology, the ultimate goal of organized labor is for no man to have to go down into the bowels of the earth and dig coal. No man will have to be subjected to the blast furnace. We have already benefited from what our brains have produced technologically.

"We've reduced the labor force from 520,000 to 400,000. Let's reduce them to 100,000."

Asked, "What happens to the guys who get laid off?" Sadlowski declared, "In the present structure they find employment somewhere else. Society absorbs it."

To which McBride caustically retorted:

"The evidence is now in that Sadlowski is not a true spokesman for steelworkers. He is the cocktail party candidate of employers and limousine liberals who are bankrolling him and to whom he will be beholden if he wins. These outside elements can only divert the steelworkers union from the objective of representing, defending and advancing the interests of its 1.4 million members."

Identity Needed

With the spotlight being turned on the bureaucrats and all of the misdeeds and bad judgements now on public display through the news media, I find that the sad stories all lack a villain. The victims are readily identified as "the public", "industry" or "developers". These are all clearly called out.

Why is that the names of the responsible executives in the bureaucracy are not identified? They are hidden under a cloud of anonymity, as either "spokesman for", or simply the agencies alphabetical title.

I wonder, if the names and backgrounds of the bureaucratic executives were published wouldn't it be a step toward making them more responsible. Typical of the lack of names is Gene Wekall's daily blurbs about ridiculous grants for the study of the sex life of Artic ferns. Naming the individuals who made the grant is most critical.

If we don't know who is responsible, how can we apply pressure to oust him?

White Africa

American tourists in Africa are being asked some very embarrassing questions by the white citizens there who created these modern, prosperous nations.

Tourists are put on the defensive when asked about U.S. contributions to communist gains, and the anti-white attitude of our State Department, Kissinger was a dirty name and Cyrus Vance was questionable.

Local American businessmen were vehement in expressions of dismay and disgust about U.S. approval of the boycotts that were being instigated by Russia and supported by groups of communist and socialist labor leaders from Western Europe, along with some of the black dictators. They congratulated George Meany and the AFL-CIO for not joining these enemies of free enterprise.

Some guides reminded their groups that both Ian Smith of Rhodes and John Vorster of South Africa were exceptionally strong characters and able leaders and they would not be intimidated by either the British socialists or local communist leaders.

Neither of these fine men could understand the lack of support by our news media and U.S. politicians. The general attitude was that there would be no repetition of Angola's take-over by Castro's mercenaries, who were paid by Russia.

Blood Donors

It has been brought to my attention that there are so many wonderful people, from all walks of life and all ages. These people are the great number that come to the American Red Cross Blood Center at 601 N. Circle Drive in Santa Ana, where my mother, who is 95, and I work as volunteers.

These people, some of whom come again and again, are giving the gift of life and there is no greater kindness than to help those in need.

More information may be had by calling the Red Cross Blood Center at 835-5381 in Santa Ana. Please ask for the special request department.

Saboteurs

During World War One there were hundreds of grain elevators destroyed in the middle west by enemy agents in order to deprive our country of badly needed grain. The flames from burning grain elevators could be seen in town-after-town in our grain growing States.

Isn't it about time that someone took a close look at who is behind the sinking and destruction of oil tankers bringing badly needed oil to the United States, in this day-and-age.

It is not impossible that enemy agents are responsible for the destruction and sinking of these vessels. Either by attacking a helpless vessel far at sea by submarine, or by destroying the vessels near our shore by the action of paid saboteurs.

Starving our nation for oil can ultimately ruin our economy and destroy our military capability. The enemy knows this as well as we do.

If the media will investigate this "Oil Tanker Mystery" with as much vigor and imagination as they did the "Watergate" situation, maybe they will find out that the bad guys are not always from the United States.

U.S. Canal

Regarding the Panama Canal, we do not have a treaty with Panama, we own the Canal. So far, we have spent over six billion dollars to buy it. So we cannot "re-negotiate the treaty."

On Feb. 7, 1974, Mr. Kissinger signed an agreement to surrender the canal with Oar Tarrijos. "President for life" Torrijos, who walks lockstep with Moscow's Castro, is an anit-American communist. To give them our canal would not only be unconstitutional, but criminal. It would be tantamount to giving them California.

The U.S. must retain control of the canal at all cost or lose control of our own shores. We must all write our senators to insist they support their constituents on this vital issue. This issue will top the list when our leaders reconvene in January from their present vacation.

HUD Finds Difficulty In Founding Towns

By THE LONDON ECONOMIST

WASHINGTON (LENS) – Six years after the federal government began to back selected new towns, almost all of the 13 it chose to help are broke. The Housing and Urban Development Department has ruled that seven are in default and is taking them over, but all need rescuing.

Last year it announced that no new applications for assistance would be considered.

In the 1960s, when the two best-known new towns – Reston, Va., and Columbia, Md. – were started by private enterprise, it seemed clear that planned communities were the best way to direct the surge of growth that was confidently expected to continue. They were the rational alternative to more miles of mindless suburban sprawl.

Each was expected to provide jobs, transport, good housing, lots of open space and recreation for an economic cross-section of the population.

To help developers over the costs of starting up – buying and holding land and providing roads, schools and services – HUD was empowered to guarantee up to $50 million in bonds for each new town. Not all of them needed that much; they ranged from Texas to Maryland, and their planned populations varied from 23,000 to 150,000. There were also substantial grants for sewers, water and subsidized housing.

Now a great deal of this government money is going to be lost, along with millions put up by private investors and banks. What went wrong?

The main answer is the recession and the collapse of the property market. Houses could not be sold, while costs, particularly interest rates, rose. Few developers could afford to hold on to the land they had assembled.

The federal government also bears some blame. It sometimes took three years to process applications for grants and guarantees, while President Nixon impounded much of the money appropriated for housing subsidies.

Now HUD is trying to salvage what it can. It is sorting out the hopeless cases from those that, given time, more money and better direction, may yet succeed. Grananda, near Rochester, N.Y., has been judged unsalvageable and HUD is selling off the land. For the moment it is paying the interest on all new towns' debt. So that those which still have some cash are not stripped bare. But how this money is spent will be supervised much more closely.

Urgent efforts are being made to interest industry in the new towns and to involve local governments, which have not always been sympathetic, in their success.

On Dec. 15 HUD announced new plans for two of the towns which show that it understands where much of the trouble lies: in the cost of buying and holding onto land. It will act as a land-bank itself for Flower Mound, near Dallas, Tex., while seeing whether a new-developer can turn the project around during a five-year test period.

A similar line is likely to be taken with Park Forest South, near Chicago, which may be in financial difficulties but has been notably successful in integrating blacks and whites.

Soul City, N.C. was given a grant of $800,000 in September. This black-run development is regarded as particularly experimental because it is the only new town that is not near a large city. Eventually as many as nine of the towns may pull through, though on a smaller scale than was once contemplated. The rest will revert to ordinary housing estates.

Urban experts still feel that new towns provide the right answer to sprawl, even though there are some signs that their residents are not so keen on being confined, for work and play, to a small community.

But the ideal has certainly taken a hard, if not fatal, knock. It is not just the assisted developers who have gone under, either. Private ones are pulling out, having found that building new towns from scratch is too costly and too long-term.

It is only the firms with superior management, which already held large tracts of land in fast-growing parts of the country, that have succeeded.

Irvine, in California, is one example. There the demand for houses is so great that the right to bid on them has to be settled by lottery.

Parochial Schools Face Union Troubles

By JAMES ROBISON
Chicago Tribune

Across the nation, labor unions are flexing their muscles in the Catholic schools, adding the issue of "teacher rights" to a long list of quandaries already facing the Catholic Church.

It's become a nasty fight in some instances, one that Msgr. George Higgins, a labor expert with the United States Catholic Conference, predicts "unfortunately may get considerably worse before it gets any better."

The battle over parochial school teacher rights already stretches from Brooklyn, Philadelphia, and Pittsburgh to Chicago, Kansas City and Los Angeles, with skirmishes in between in Gary and Ft. Wayne, Ind., Bay City, Mich., and even Boys Town, Neb.

In many instances, the church has taken its case to the courts, charging that the National Labor Relations Board sanction of union elections in Baltimore, Chicago, Gary, Ft. Wayne and Los Angeles is a violation of constitutional church-state separation principles.

Today, only about 20 of 150 dioceses in the nation have collective bargaining agreements with teachers. While there has been a steady increase in Catholic teacher unionization, still only about 8,000 of some 94,000 lay teachers are covered by union contracts.

Leaders of lay teachers' unions in Catholic schools are planning a national conference in Pittsburgh Jan. 22 and 23. "The main idea is for AFL-CIO Catholic teachers' unions to get together with independent and unaffiliated Catholic unions, and with anyone who is interested in teachers' unions in Catholic schools," according to Harold Isenberg, president of New York City's Federation of Catholic Teachers.

It's a curious battle since the church has long been a staunch and outspoken supporter of worker rights outside the church.

Has the Catholic Church somehow grown soft on union rights now that the issue has surfaced in its own back yard?

It's highly debatable.

"The same bishops who back the United Farm Workers and their right to representation and representative elections seems selectively ignorant of the principles of social justice when their own employes are involved," charged a group of Philadelphia Catholic teachers seeking union rights.

Msgr. Higgins, USC research director, also believes support for teacher rights within the church leaves something to be desired.

"We have, regettably, lost ground," he told Catholic school administrators recently gathered in Bethesda, Md., for a symposium on unionism in Catholic schools. "At the present time I think it would have to be said in all honesty that Catholic institutions by and large are not out in front in the field of labor-management relations."

While not everyone would agree with such an evaluation, most are uneasy about future union moves in the Catholic schools.

Such uncertainty led the National Catholic Education Association to call the special national symposium on unionism at Bethesda in October.

Still, few church officials will admit that there is any slackening of support for union rights.

They cite papal pronouncements extolling the basic human rights "of freely founding labor unions," "of taking part freely in the activity of these unions without risk of reprisal," and the right to strike as "a necessary, though ultimate, means for the defense of the workers' own rights and the fulfillment of their just demands."

Still, the National Catholic Reporter, a liberal, independent Catholic weekly, said earlier this year that it had uncovered a national pattern of Catholic school administrators firing teachers who had engaged in union activities.

If there are any problems with unionism, church officials contend, it's largely related to questions other than the basic right to organize.

Catholic school administrators say they have serious questions about the NLRB's jurisdictional rights in the disputes, about the anti-parochial stands of teacher unions, the union's adversarial style of solving problems, and the potential for parochial school bankruptcy in the face of overzealous union demands.

"I still think that if the NLRB becomes involved in our school we are dealing with entanglement between church and state," said the Rev. H. Robert Clark, superintendent of Chicago archdiocesan schools.

Particularly irksome to Catholic churchmen is what some view as the government's completely contradictory approaches to Catholic schools held by the U.S. Supreme Court and the NLRB.

"The National Labor Relations Board dismissed out-of-hand the 1st Amendment constitutional issue by stating that the schools are 'not religious institutions intimately involved with the Catholic Church,' " says Sharp Whitmore, Los Angeles archdiocesan attorney.

He said the NLRB position "flies in the face of Supreme Court decisions which have deprived Catholic school students of federal educational aid because of "excessive entanglement between state and church."

Churchmen also are perplexed by parochial school teachers' desires to affiliate with either the National Education Association or the American Federation of Teachers, both groups clearly on record against aid to parochial schools.

"It is the height of foolishness to seek aid from organizations fundamentally opposed to any forms of public assistance to children attending nonpublic schools and committed to the prevention of our parochial schools ever becoming an integral component of American education," said Gary (Ind.) Bishop Andrew Grutka, responding to diocesan teachers announced intentions of affiliating with the AFT.

There are those, however, who rule out unions altogether for the Catholic schools.

John Cicco, superintendent of schools for the Pittsburgh diocese, has said the "cannot accept a partnership of the community of faith and unionism. Secular values are emphasized and must be emphasized in any union. In a faith community, secular values are secondary to the goals of that community of faith."

He admitted, however, that ruling out unions in Catholic schools presumes "that a community of faith will provide for ideal working conditions – working in a friendly Christian atmosphere, input from teachers on local decisions, providing proper fringe benefits, recognition of seniority, opportunity for due process, and as much financial renumeration as the local parish can afford."

These are the very areas where some parochial school teachers claim there are the greatest injustices and no mechanisms for settlement.

Snafus Inherent In Transition Team

By ADAM CLYMER
New York News

WASHINGTON – The latest minor league snafu in the Carter transition – the unauthorized, but not necessarily incorrect, naming of seven White House aides-to-be – may prove only that the awesomely advertised transition operation is not the greatest thing since sliced bread, even with peanut butter.

When a senior aide in Washington, Barbara Blum, said recently that seven staffers were about to be formally appointed, the with-Carter entourage reacted sharply. They said that she was wrong, that she might be right but wouldn't know, and that she should learn to keep her mouth shut.

That flap could be taken to reflect tension between the Southern (with-Carter) branch of the presidency-elect and the Northern (in Washington) branch, in turn reflecting the conflicts that flared early between Hamilton Jorean (Southern) and Jack Watson (Northern), two key aides vying for influence.

Or it could be taken to prove that the transition operation is too big, that Carter is too slow in deciding, that ambitious aides are fighting, or that those foreigners don't understand Washington. In analytical Washington, all those views were available and there may be some truth in some of them.

Another more human explanation is that the Carter press staff had just had a difficult two days dealing with two equally too-categorical statements: That Vice President-elect Walter Mondale would be chief of staff, or something, and that Carter would not back down on a promise (which they said he hadn't exactly made) to cut the defense budget $5 billion to $7 billion. Those statements, however, could not be categorically denied. They didn't come from Mrs. Blum; they came from Carter.

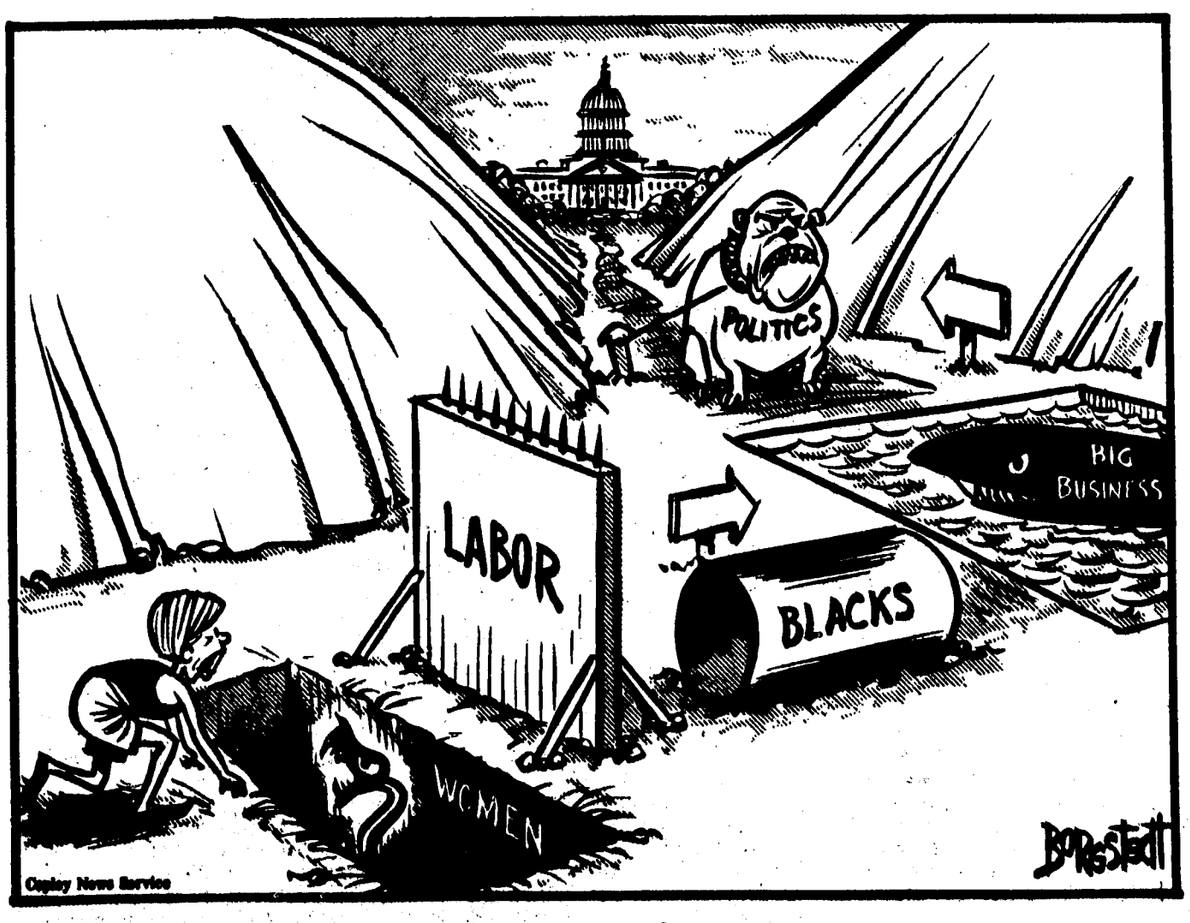

With a sprawling transition operation – the most expensive in history – set up in Washington with access to the press, and a lot of vagueness left over from the campaign, a certain amount of confusion is inevitable.

But some relaxed views are also possible, and there were two good examples recently, even aside from the fact that the Carter folk in Plains no longer seemed troubled about the Blum pronouncement.

Mondale didn't sound concerned about defining his role to the nth degree, saying in an interview at the Senate that he would be a key adviser, and that when he asked for staff help, he would get it. But he was less interested than the press in the meaning of Carter's lofty phrase "chief staff person."

Rep. James Wright, D-Tex., the new House majority leader, was asked at another press session if he expected trouble when a liberal majority tried to push Carter beyond his own position, on health insurance for example. It might happen, he said, but he didn't know because "I don't know what President Carter's position is going to be."

He didn't seem bothered by not knowing Carter's position in detail this long before he will have to deal with it, and his relaxation suggests a useful way of looking at the transition. Some of it is doubtless pointless ("rediscovery of the wheel," one informed insider scoffed recently), but its value will only be measurable after Carter has been President for a while, when it may be apparent whether the $2 million spent on transition has helped make him an effective President.

Transition obstacle course

When Aid Becomes Absurd

From To The Point Int.

There was a time when the Dutch used to be called a stubborn nation in the positive sense (meaning they possessed good qualities like perseverance or strength of character). They had justly earned that reputation for their exploits as a great seafaring nation and their courage under various invasions. More recently, however, the eccentricities of the left-leaning den Uyl government have frequently deserved the negative connotation of stubborn – that of biased obstinacy. This applies not only to economic policies, in which the government has shown an almost vindictive anti-entrepreneur attitude in its exaggerated campaigns against the bogy of "capitalist exploitation," but also to foreign policy.

The latest example of absurdity was the refusal last month of Development Cooperation Minister Jan Pronk to heed opposition requests to cancel $6,000,000 worth of aid to Cuba, in spite of evidence that Cuban troops are still heavily involved in the renewed civil war in southern Angola.

To argue, as Pronk did, that the grant is in order because it is not being given specifically to support the Cuban campaign in Angola, which is being financed by the Soviet Union, but for the benefit of the Cuban population as a whole, is patently fallacious. Cuba's entry into the Angolan War last year opened up a whole new chapter in the global power struggle and its continued presence there still poses a threat to international peace. This was why Angola had such difficulty getting UN membership, and why the Neto government is still scorned by a respected African leaders like President Senghor of Senegal. Cuba is also known to be actively involved in insurgency and terrorism elsewhere – even in the Middle East.

The den Uyl government has displayed doubtful judgment in its choice of friends and causes in the past, but this gift to Cuba under the present circumstances denotes shocking indifference to accepted codes of international conduct. As such it deserves the censure of all people who do have the sense to distinguish not just right from left but also right from wrong.

And I Quote

"The possible subversion of our government by another government is so blatant. I'm not hinting that the Congress has been subverted. If they are investigating 22 members and can prove anything on five, that isn't much of a subversion. But, obviously, this is a very unhealthy thing, and that's what is terrifying."

– Rep. Richard Bolling (D) of Missouri reacting to reports that at least 22 present and former congressmen are under investigation for allegedly taking gifts from Korean businessman Park Tongsun.

"When you're testifying three days a week on the average, sometimes four, then how in the world can one be expected to run a department of 120,000 people?

— Treasury Secretary William Simon complaining about the frequency with which he is called to testify before Congress.

"The hardest part of the job still lies ahead."

–Russell Train, outgoing EPA administrator, explaining that the nation's efforts to control pollution, especially from auto exhausts and chemical compounds, must be stepped up to preserve the environment.

Prof Claims Black Marines' Attack On Whites 'Natural'

CAMP PENDLETON (AP) – A college psychology professor says black Marines who attacked a barracks room of whites may have acted naturally because the Marine Corps allowed the Ku Klux Klan to operate.

"Among blacks you are taught at an early age you don't turn the other cheek but fight back," Dr. Charles W. Thomas said at a pretrial hearing Monday.

Thomas, a professor at the University of California at San Diego, was called to testify as an expert witness for the Marine Corps.

The hearing will decide if Sgt. Herman Fletcher of Huntsville, Ala. must stand court-martial trial or whether charges of conspiracy and assault against him will be dropped.

Meanwhile, the second of 14 blacks named on those charges was ordered to stand trial Thursday. He is Cpl. Dean Edwards, 20, of Bay St. Colfax, La.

In the first trial, Cpl. E.F. Henry, 20, of Ivanhoe, N.C., pleaded guilty to assault and was sentenced Dec. 30 to three months' imprisonment, $600 in pay forfeiture and reduction in rank to private.

Lt. Col. F. Latimer Gould, the military judge who accepted a pretrial agreement in Henry's case, will conduct the special court martial of Edwards as well.

The blacks claim they attacked a barracks beer party which they believed was a meeting of the Ku Klux Klan. Six whites were hospitalized briefly as a result of beatings and stab wounds. Marines later acknowledged Klansmen had used a nearby room.

Fletcher's civilian attorney told the hearing that Klansmen carried knives and cards with racial epithets and were involved in confrontations with blacks on the Marine base.

"The general tendency is to fight back," Thomas testified.

Miranda Misidentified In Appeal Case Story

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP) – The Associated Press misidentified the victim of a manslaughter-appeal case Thursday, Jan. 6, as Ernest Miranda, whose 1964 U.S. Supreme Court case resulted in a ruling that police must inform suspects of their rights before arresting them.

Actual victim in the case against Gregorio Valenzuela of Phoenix was Ernest Miranda, a city sanitation worker shot July 20, 1974. Valenzuela was denied an appeal of his manslaughter conviction in the death.

Ernest Miranda, whose name is attached to the landmark Supreme Court decision, was stabbed to death Jan. 31, 1976, and his killer was believed to have fled to Mexico.

STRICTLY FOR DADS

Good Husbands Should Not Be Overprotective

By CHARLIE SHEDD

Doc Wilkinson was a small town doctor in Colorado where he was the lone doctor and I was the only minister. That's why we sometimes made emergency calls together. One night a lady had frantically phoned both of us. She claimed she was about to depart this "vale of tears."

I was nervous as a rookie up to bat for the first time. But Doc was one of the greatest country psychologists I've ever known. "Relax, preacher," he drawled. "I doubt she's going to depart the vale of tears. That's one of her favorite expressions. She's not going to die. We'll fix her up. Oh, I don't mean she's got no troubles. She's got plenty, but they're all imaginary."

Then he went on to spin her story. Her husband had died the year before, and Doc summed that up like this: "Though I don't like to speak disrespectful of the dead, Henry really ruined her. He babied her something awful. Once the cholera wiped out his hogs, but he never told her. If his steers lost money, he kept that from her too." The year the barn burned, Doc allowed, she would never have known that either except she could see it going up in smoke.

"It's a real mistake to do a woman like that," Doc contended. "Sooner or later she's dreaming up allergies and headaches and even female trouble just to give her mind something to do."

The years since I heard Doc say this have proven how right he was. In counseling I have seen too many women go into that "vale of tears." Had they been overprotected? I never could know for sure, but I know this: In the very best marriages I've seen, they aren't out to make babies out of each other. Instead they face facts, dig in, and tough things through together.

(Dr. Shedd's new book, "Smart Dads I Know," is a helpful collection of advice and insight on family matters. Dr. Shedd presents 40 dads – and their solutions to the problems which face parents. An ideal gift for fathers. This cloth-bound book is only $4.95. Send to: Smart Dads, in care of The Register P.O. Box 2218, Mission, Kan. 66201.)

ITALIAN PARTY TIME – Mrs. Jim Florence, chairman of the third annual Tombola Benefit sponsored by the Orange County Council for the March of Dimes, adds a splashy ribbon to a prize wrapped for the Saturday Jan. 29, 'Italian Party Time.' Approximately 500 guests are expected to attend the event in the Jewel Court of South Coast Plaza, Costa Mesa. Mrs. Sumner Mann, left, and Mrs. Roger Marsh display a travel poster representing a cruise for two which will also be given away along with a diamond pin, season tickets to the Los Alamitos races and a week's vacation in Hawaii. The Tombola raises funds for MOD research and genetic counseling programs on birth defects.

Horsewoman Makes A Mark In Man's Racing Business

Ginger Hyland is as at home in a barn as most women are in the kitchen. She's as influential at a board of director's meeting as most females are in making out a menu. And she's as comfortable with the responsibility of planning a horse sale as many would be making out a household budget.

Ginger is a horeswoman and a businesswoman. No woman's libber, she refers to herself as a horseman and is proud to be accepted in the quarter horse industry as such. She's done it all, from cleaning out stalls to promoting sales, from delivering foals to running a race meeting.

Although the quarter horse world has its share of people who think racing is a man's business, even the most grizzled veterans are quick to recognize the quality of horsemanship in any person. Ginger is accepted as a knowledgeable judge of horses and as an astute businessman, according to a Los Alamitos Race Course spokesman.

Still, there are those, both in and out of the racing world, who are amazed when Ginger tells them what she does.

UNBELIEVABLE

"People absolutely don't believe it," she explained recently in the Los Alamitos press box where the Horsemen's Quarter Horse Racing Association (HQHRA) winter meeting is in progress. "But I'm proud to be a horseman and thrilled to be part of this industry."

The reason for this incredulity is obvious once you get a look at Ginger Hyland. She just doesn't fit the old stereotype image of the country cowboy or cowgirl who would hang around with quarter horses.

Ginger, an attractive blonde, looks as if she would be as at home in the White House as in the stable area.

As far as she is concerned, it's been a life-long love affair with horses.

PEANUTS

"I started to ride when I was four and owned my first quarter horse when I was 11," she said as a smile spread over her face. "His name was Peanuts and he was just a riding horse but I loved him and it was horses all the way from then on."

About that same time the Hyland family purchased White Oaks Ranch near Bakersfield and started buying horses to raise, breed, train, race and sell. "It was my dream come true," she beamed.

Ginger is still at the family ranch and takes an active role in both managing it and working with the horses. She helps deliver nearly every foal born there, and often works with her trainers as they develop the yearlings into race horses.

"One of my biggest thrills in this business is watching a colt grow up and then go with him to the race track and see him win his first race," she said. "It gives me a tremendous satisfaction because there's so much work and so many heartaches that go into it. Seeing the horse win is proof that it was all worth it."

The first honors graduate of the University of Kentucky in animal science and technology, Ginger has brought much in the way of scientific knowledge to White Oaks Ranch. And while she is the first to admit some horesmen can just 'see' that a yearling is going to be a good one, she uses her college training as a yardstick for measuring the annual crop.

"The industry is becoming so sophisticated that the knowledge I received in Kentucky gives our operation an advantage a lot of others don't have," she noted.

FATHER URGED HER

At the urging of her father, Pat, Ginger started taking an active role in racing management a few years ago and is currently an officer of the Pacific Coast Quarter Horse Racing Association as well as a member of the board of the HQHRA. In addition to the obvious duties connected with horse racing, Ginger is in charge of the annual Golden State Twin Classic Quarter Horse Sale and the chairman for the newly organized Horsemen's Charity Ball.

Horse racing is seven-day job for most connected with it, and for those dedicated to horses, to "get away from it all" means going riding. Ginger is no exception, as that is just what she does when she has a few days to herself.

"I go on a pack trip in Wyoming or Colorado and don't see a road or hear a telephone for two weeks," she explained. "But I never really get away from horses. That's my life."

What keeps bringing her back to horse racing, of course, is the same thing that keeps most people in the quarter horse racing industry going – the hope she will one day own the horse that wins the million-dollar All-American Futurity.

"Naturally I think I have him out in my pasture right now," she grinned. "That's the beauty of this game. We all have our dream."

Low-Calorie Linguine... That's Italian

By BARBARA GIBBONS

Ham 'n' eggs 'n' cheese. Sounds more like the makings of a breakfast omelet than a sauce for a spaghetti supper. But those are the main ingredients in our quick 'n' easy "Italian Linguine with Ham 'n' Cheese Sauce."

It is not only delicious, but protein-rich and very nutritious. And, if you didn't know it was a calorie-conscious recipe, you'd guess it was very rich and fattening!

We make this dish with linguine ... the flat, ribbon-shaped pasta (We prefer to use a brand that's protein-enriched.) You can substitute spaghetti if you prefer.

Traditionally, Italian linguine and spaghetti are cooked only till firm ("al dente" ... resistant to the teeth.) But, if you cook it longer – about 18 minutes, until tender – it will be fuller and less fattening.

The longer-cooked pasta absorbs more water, swells up plumper, and therefore less makes more! It takes only six ounces of dry raw pasta to make four cups of cooked pasta at 155 calories a cupful.

By comparison, a cupful of "al dente" pasta adds up to more than 200 calories.

In this easy recipe the hot drained pasta is returned to the same pot in which it was cooked, then tossed quickly with raw egg, yogurt, pot cheese and shredded Swiss cheese ... a self-making rich-tasting "sauce" that coats every strand. This easy, cheesey linguine is seasoned and served with diced ham and chopped parsley.

With all these protein-rich dairy goodies, all you need is a big tossed salad or hot green vegetables. A dry Italian white wine would be nice, too!

LINGUINE WITH HAM 'N' CHEESE

4 cups tender-cooked protein-enriched linguine (flat spaghetti)
One-half pound lean cooked hamsteak (or Canadian bacon), diced
One-half cup plain low-fat yogurt
1 raw egg
One-third cup 99 per cent fat-free cottage cheese or pot cheese
salt (or butter-flavored salt)
freshly ground pepper
One-quarter teaspoon oregano or pizza seasonings
One-eighth teaspoon nutmeg
3 ounces Swiss cheese, coarsely shredded
One-third cup fresh chopped parsley

You'll need about six ounces dry linguine (three-fourths of an eight-ounce package.) Cook by dropping the linguine into rapidly boiling salted water, a few strands at a time. Cook till tender (about 18 minutes.)

Meanwhile, dice the ham (or bacon) into half-inch cubes and brown the cubes in a nonstick skillet with no fat added. Set aside.

When linguine is tender, drain but don't rinse. Return the hot pasta to the same pot in which it was cooked. Quickly stir in the yogurt; then the egg (the heat of the linguine will cause the egg to thicken slightly.) Then stir in the cottage cheese, seasonings and shredded Swiss cheese.

Put the pot over very low heat and stir constantly until the Swiss cheese is melted and every linguine strand is coated with a rich sauce. Remove from heat and stir in parsley. Season to taste. Spoon onto four plates and top with diced ham. Serves four, 383 calories each.

Stretch your budget, not your seams, with mini-calorie meatloaves, chopped meat dishes and more! For recipes and diet tips, send a stamped, self-addressed envelope and 25 cents to Slim Gourmet Hamburger Dishes, in care of The Register, Sparta, N.J. 07871

'Mother Was A Freshman' Becomes Real-Life Story

By JENNIFER L. HOLMES
Knight News Wire

DETROIT – If you'd love to go back to college, but think you couldn't possibly fit it into your busy life, take heart from Marie Hanna, mother of 15, class of '76.

You can do it.

It might mean, of course, that you'll have to do what she did – study after midnight, tote the kids to class, move out of the house for the summer – but if you really want a degree, you can lean on Mrs. Hanna for inspiration.

Hanna, whose age is "a military secret," was just graduated from Michigan State University. She was a teacher's aid at Courtis Elementary School here when administrators there began encouraging her to become a full-fledged teacher.

With 12 children of her own, ranging in age from 10 to 25, and three she raised for a deceased sister, Hanna was a natural for a child-oriented career. But she was too smart to spend her life grading papers or sorting out galoshes and mittens, and she yearned to have a class of her own to teach.

So, in the summer of 1972 with a burst of bravado she announced to her family that she was enrolling full time at Highland Park Community College.

"I was glad," said her husband William Hanna, who works for General Motors Corp. "It was what she wanted, so it was what I wanted for her."

No one really thought she would stick with it, and just to egg her on, Mrs. Hanna's son Anthony, then 17 and out of high school, challenged her to a race. The two started at the same college at the same time – even in the same classes – with the idea of seeing who could graduate first.

In August 1976, Mrs. Hanna completed her last five hours of credit and on Dec. 4 she was awarded her Bachelor's degree in elementary education from Michigan State. Anthony still has a year to go.

"I even got better grades," said Mrs. Hanna, laughing. "But that's because at my age you appreciate education more. You work harder."

In Mrs. Hanna's case, working hard was an understatement. She never had a minute to study until 11 p.m. when the house finally got quiet. Then she would buckle down with her books until 1:30 or 2 a.m., sleep for a few hours, and be up at six to get the family in motion.

"And that was every day," said daughter Sharon Hanna Reynolds, 25. "Every single night she studied like that."

Mrs. Hanna said her children were a help to her, rather than a hindrance. They entertained and looked after each other, and every family member took some responsibility for housework. Those who were big enough had to do their own laundry.

Perhaps the most difficult stretch of Mrs. Hanna's college career was when she had to fulfill Michigan State residency requirements and live on campus. She did all 32 hours in two summers, taking the three youngest to Lansing to live with her in married student housing while her husband held down the fort in Detroit.

Most of the time she was in Lansing, Mrs. Hanna took the three little children to class with her. She made them sit out in the hall and read or play quiet games, and they were so well behaved that the teacher invited them inside.

DEAR MOTHER EARTH:

Is There Truth To Rumor Of Pests And Poinsettias?

By LYNN AND JOEL RAPP

Dear Mother Earth: We have several poinsettias and have been told by neighbors that they attract termites. Is this so or is it a myth?

We also have quite a few African violets and we use diluted Isotox every two months to keep them healthy. Is there any other insecticide that would do the job that is less poisonous? – Etta B., Westminster, Calif.

Dear Etta: We've inquired around and have been unable to come up with any evidence that poinsettias attract termites. As for your violets or any plants, for that matter, do not give them any insecticide unless they have a disease. It's totally unnecessary! Happy growing!

* * *

Dear Mother Earth: During the two weeks I spent in the hospital, I received many flower arrangements, all very beautiful and some quiet costly. They were so lovely when they first arrived, but after a few days they began to wilt and die. I was unable to move around very much and the nurses were too busy to help, so I had to sit helplessly by and watch them go. It was depressing. I also received six indoor plants. They are very much alive and I was able to take them home. They cheered me tremendously while I was hospitalized and gave me something to think about other than myself.

I thought I'd let your readers know of my experience and perhaps they'll select an indoor plant rather than a flower arrangement for a sick friend. – R.B., Dallas, Texas

Dear R.B.: We couldn't agree more. It's possible to order plants sent by wire from almost any florist! A plant continues to give, and we can't think of too many things that are more welcome, especially in a hospital situation! Thanks for your letter and we hope you are feeling fine now! Happy growing!

Alpha Upsilon To Participate In February Ball

Alpha Upsilon Chapter of Kappa Phi Sigma Sorority will meet at 7:30 p.m. Thursday at the Villa Park home of Mrs. Jack Jory.

Mrs. Steve McClelland has been chosen the chapter's "Miss Congeniality." She will represent the chapter at the sorority's annual Sweetheart Ball on Feb. 12 in the Silver Fox in Anaheim, where she will compete for the title of Sweetheart Ball queen.

Also, the chapter has chosen to help support the Tecate Orphanage in Tecate, Mexico, as its 1977 service project. Mrs. Chuck Carter, service chairman, will head the drive to collect used items that will be donated to the orphanage.

voluntary action center

Voluntary Action Center (VAC) is a United Way Agency which places volunteers in positions where they can accomplish vital work in their communities. Additional information about job openings can be obtained by calling the VAC offices in Newport Beach, Fullerton, Garden Grove and Huntington Beach.

SOUTH COUNTY

An agency which provides services for adoption of children of all ages, short term foster care and problem pregnancy counseling is in need of a public relations volunteer. Duties include planning publicity and designing posters and/or brochures. Further information may be obtained by calling the VAC office in Newport Beach.

A local legal aid office has requested volunteer interviewers to work either one morning or one afternoon per week determining whether clints are eligible for free legal aid service or if clients would instead qualify for lawyer referral service.

A local chapter of the March of Dimes needs mothers and/or their families to volunteer for the "Mothers' March" during the last two weeks in January. The volunteers would walk their block or a number of blocks in their communities handing out March of Dimes kits, leaving envelopes at residences for contributions. Volunteers to do phone work from their homes requesting contributions to the March of Dimes are also needed.

WEST COUNTY

A community center in North Huntington Beach has lost its gymnastic teacher, and unless a new teacher can be found, classes will be disbanded. Anyone proficient in acrobatics and tumbling who would like to share this talent may obtain additional details from the VAC office in Garden Grove.

The Department of Social Services offers comprehensive orientations to prospective volunteers before they embark upon an actual volunteer program. People are given an overview of the agency, and can decide how they would most like to spend their time. New orientations are being held in January, February and March. Orientations are also given for opportunities offered by the Probation Department.

If you have two or three hours a week to spare, there are openings from kindergarten through high schools for volunteers to work in the classroom, library or various offices of schools in the West County area.

NORTH COUNTY

A Fullerton center for young handicapped people which uses swimming classes for rehabilitation, exercise and fun needs volunteers to accompany each student. Class is held each Monday morning from 9 to 11 a.m. Additional information concerning this opportunity is available from the VAC office in Fullerton.

A Santa Ana convalescent home asks non-smokers to visit their patients any day from 9:30 to 11:30 a.m. or from 1:30 to 5 p.m. Be a game partner, a letter writer, an activity aide, a friend.

Anaheim's Free Clinic is seeking volunteers to work in the office answering phone, filing, typing, keeping records current.

Casa Placentia Community Center is in need of carpenters, electricians and dry well installers to assist with the center's remodeling and renovation project.

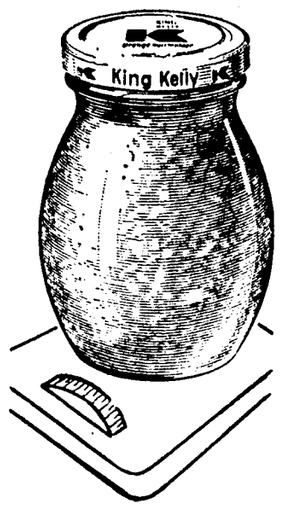

FISHis coming to Anaheim, and interested persons are being sought to take part in its organization. Emergency needs such as transportation, child care, over-night lodgings, providing meals and shopping are the focus of FISH activities. Volunteers are needed to work as dispatchers, drivers, office workers or other service providers.

The Alcoholism Council based in Santa Ana and serving Orange County calls for volunteers to answer help-line telephone calls, to conduct interviews for placement and to assist with office tasks.

The mental health section of an Anaheim hospital is seeking volunteers to assist in art, occupational or recreational therapy, to present or help develop evening entertainments for patients; and to work in the gift shop. On the job training will be provided for volunteers 18 or older.

Next Week – Watch for a Prominent Designer Pattern by Robert Courtney.

Dear Mrs. Swenson, I made up two patterns. For a dress I used what I thought would be great, but it was too soft and looks like a rag. For a smock top I used fabric which turned out to be too stiff and it looks like I am still pregnant. How do I avoid these disappointments in the future? Mrs. B.F. Mesa, Ariz.

Dear Mrs. B.F. Didn't you know you were supposed to have absorbed all this information by osmosis? I remember when I was a young girl, I'd pick a fabric and my mother would say, "You won't like that." I'd get so mad, but she was always right. I despaired of ever developing the ability to look at a piece of fabric and see it made up, but it finally came after many failures such as you describe.

What you are dealing with is "Hand". The hand or drape of a fabric is of far more importance than its color, weave, fiber or price. The hand determines how the fabric will drape over the body and react with the pattern you have chosen. An appreciation of hand comes with experience. You can hasten the process if you will develop a little more awareness of what to look for in clothing. People who sew should spend more time looking at ready-to-wear and trying it on. Usually when a garment looks good, half the credit can go to the fabric chosen for the design. Develop the habit of feeling fabric in ready-to-wear, especially if you like the garment in which it is used. Then go into the yardage department and feel the bolts of fabric. Try to discern fabric of similar hand.

Spend a lot of time just studying fabric in the yardage stores. Start with knits. Note that a polyester double knit has a fairly crisp hand. If it is of good quality it will have enough stability for slacks. They would hold their shape and not drape too much to show all the secrets of the hipline and fanny. Then move to a thinner polyester double knit. It is too soft for straight cut pants, but not soft enough for the new ultra soft dresses. Now handle some nylon knits. We call them jerseys when they are very drapey. Notice that the nylon jersey has more drape than the polyester jersey. Note that Qiana is the most fluid of all. Qiana is actually a nylon fiber made by DuPont and is the most silk-like of any of the synthetics. Note that jerseys come in different weights. The heavier ones are better for formal dresses or soft styled street wear. The thinner jersey is too sheer. It shows everything underneath, underwear and lumps. The thin ones are fine for blouses or dresses with soft gathers or cowl necks.

Take the fabric to a mirror and hold it against your body in a single thickness and observe how it falls. Then consider your pattern. Will the seams give shape to the garment or are you depending on the drape of the fabric to define body contour? The dress you made may have had too many seams for a real soft fabric which needs to lay in soft folds for best effect. Remember that softer fabrics are more slimming and crisp fabrics tend to add pounds.

The only short cut I can suggest is to learn from others. One advantage of sewing classes (I tried so hard to get you to take when you were home) is that you learn from the fabric of everyone in the class.

Pay attention to clothers – both the ones you like and the ones you don't and analyze what makes them good or bad. Look at people who are built like you and copy what they do which is good. If you copy a dress or make up a pattern, the picture of which attracted you, try to discern what fabric they used and choose something of similar hand.

As a last resort and if you aren't in a hurry, you or any of my readers can send me a sketch of the pattern, a swatch of the fabric and a self-addressed, stamped envelope and I'll tell you if it will work.

Incidentally, Bevan, this is an effective, though sneaky way to get a letter from me. Love, Mother.

A PUBLIC ANNOUNCEMENT

The Board of Directors of Private American Christian Education, Inc., is pleased to announce the appointment of MR. EUGENE H. BIRDSALL as PRINCIPAL of HERITAGE HIGH SCHOOL.

Mr. Birdsall brings to Heritage Christian High School nearly 20 years of experience as a highly successful Christian high school administrator. Under his leadership, the highly regarded Whittier High School grew from an enrollment of just over 100 to a present enrollment of 425.

Mr. Birdsall is a member of the executive board of the Western Association of Christian Schools, having served 2 terms as president. He is also a consultant for the National Christian School Education Association and a member of the National Association of Secondary School Principals.

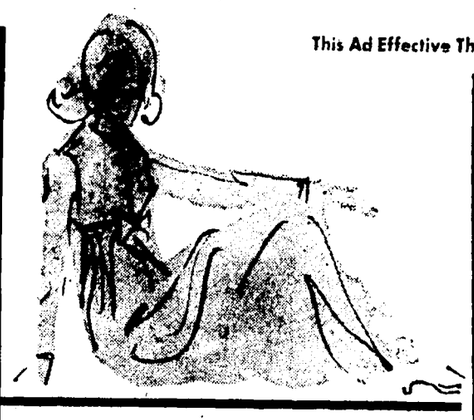

Mr. Birdsall is available for consultation and is anxious to talk with parents of high school students in the Orange County area who desire an education that is not only academically sound but Christ-centered for their young people.

Tamiya Naoi ponders next phase of carving ancient fir tree trunk, draped and scaffolded, rear.

Much of Naoi's working day is spent high up in the tree, chipping away at his grand design.

Detail: self-immolated Vietnamese monk.

TREE SCULPTOR

Tamiya Naoi has been enthusiastically chipping away for more than three years now—and in the process turning an ancient tree trunk, blasted by lightning, into an astonishing work of art. The 700-year-old fir tree stands in the grounds of a temple in Tokyo, about 26 feet tall and 19 feet in diameter.

When Naoi, a 33-year-old Japanese painter, felt inspired to begin carving images on it, temple officials and local residents were annoyed and only reluctantly let him go ahead. Now criticism is changing to praise and the sculpted tree is attracting visitors to the temple. The figures Naoi is carving range from a goddess of mercy to ordinary men and women—the final goal is 1,000 Buddhas. What to do with the finished work is a problem, says Naoi, but one thing is certain: "I don't think I can carry it back home, can I?"

Photographed by Seiichi Kanise.

Line of protesting people represents Naoi's comment on and sympathy with present-day society.

Naoi works away, up on his scaffolding perch. His target is 1,000 Buddha figures.

Good-For-You Goodies Take The Cake...And The Pudding...

If your family is a dessert eating one, take full advantage by serving them healthful, home-baked goodies made with nutritious ingredients.

There's something magical you can do with milk and eggs. It's called custard. One of the simplest most nourishing foods known to man, this delicacy may be prepared in many ways to enhance its basic charm. A good milk custard is smooth and velvety, fresh in flavor and always wholesome.

The variations on flavor and form are almost endless. Savory custards accented with cheese, herbs, onion and so forth make excellent brunch or luncheon dishes. They may be baked in individual bakers or in a pastry crust in which case they're known as quiche. Sweet custards are perhaps the most numerous and run the gamut from soft custard sauces to elegant molded desserts. Vanilla, chocolate and coffee are popular flavorings for sweet custards.

Whatever the choice, perfect custard depends on a few simple precautions. When adding hot milk to the eggs, beat it in SLOWLY, stirring constantly to prevent the eggs from clumping. Soft stirred custards are best cooked in a double boiler or in a heavy pan over low heat. Baked custards are cooked in a water bath in a moderate oven. To determine doneness of baked custard, simply insert a knife in the center. If it comes out clean, the custard will be of proper consistency when cooled. Dessert custards may be served either warm or chilled while savory cusards (except for some quiches) are best warm. Sweet or savory, simple or sophisticated, versatile milk custard makes a satisfying and economical choice for almost any occasion.

The Register FOOD SECTION

The REGISTER Wed., Jan 12-77/Thurs., Jan. 13-77 I-1

SAVORY CHEESE CUSTARD

1-1/2 cups milk
1 cup grated monterey jack cheese
1 tablespoon flour
1/2 teaspoon salt
1/4 teaspoon majoram, crumbled
1/8 teaspoon tarragon, crumbled
3 egg yolks

Heat milk to scalding, stirring often. Mix cheese with flour. Gradually stir into hot milk. Continue stirring until melted. Add salt and herbs. Beat egg yolks. Gradually stir in hot mixture. Pour into 2-1/2 to 3-cup baking dish or 4 custard cups. Place in plan with 1-inch hot water. Bake in 350 deg. oven 25 minutes or until set in center. Makes 4 (1/2-cup) servings.

COFFEE CUSTARD AU CARAMEL

1 cup sugar
1-1/3 cups milk
1 cup half and half
1 tablespoon instant coffee
4 eggs
1 teaspoon pure vanilla extract
1/2 teaspoon salt

Heat 1/2 cup sugar stirring constantly over medium heat until sugar melts and turns light golden. Pour at once into 5 (6-ounce) custard cups. Cool 5 minutes. Combine milk with half and half. Heat to scalding. Remove from heat and add instant coffee and remaining 1/2 cup sugar. Stir to dissolve. Beat eggs with wire whip. Slowly beat in hot mixture. Blend in vanilla and salt. Pour into custard cups. Set into larger pan. Add hot water to the depth of about 1 inch. Bake in 325 deg. oven 45 minutes or until knife inserted in center comes out clean. Cool then refrigerate. Just before serving, run spatula around edges of each cup. Invert onto serving plates. Makes 5 servings.

And, you can magically introduce bran into your family menu with Bran Carrot Cake and Bran-Macaroon Topped Poundcake.

The Carrot Cake is moist, spicy and dark with a distinctive nutty bran flavor. Bran-Macaroon Topped Poundcake, so simple because it's made from a box mix, has a chewy, confection-like top layer that adds richness and character to a simple poundcake.

BRAN CARROT CAKE

1 cup regular margarine or butter
1-3/4 cups sugar
2-1/2 cups unsifted all-purpose flour
2 teaspoons baking soda
1 teaspoon baking powder
1/2 teaspoon salt 2 teaspoons cinnamon
1/2 teaspoon cloves
1-1/2 cups mashed cooked pared carrots, (1 pound)
1 cup shredded wheat bran cereals
1 cup raisins

In large bowl cream margarine and sugar. Beat in eggs, one at a time. Mix flour, baking soda, baking powder, salt, cinnamon and cloves; blend into creamed mixture alternately with carrot. Stir in wheat bran cereal and raisins. Turn into greased 10-inch tube pan. Bake in 350 deg. F. oven 60 to 65 minutes, or until cake tester inserted in cake comes out clean. Cool 10 minutes, remove from pan and cool completely. To serve, sift confectioners' sugar over top of cake. Yield: 18 servings.

BRAN-MACAROON TOPPED POUNDCAKE

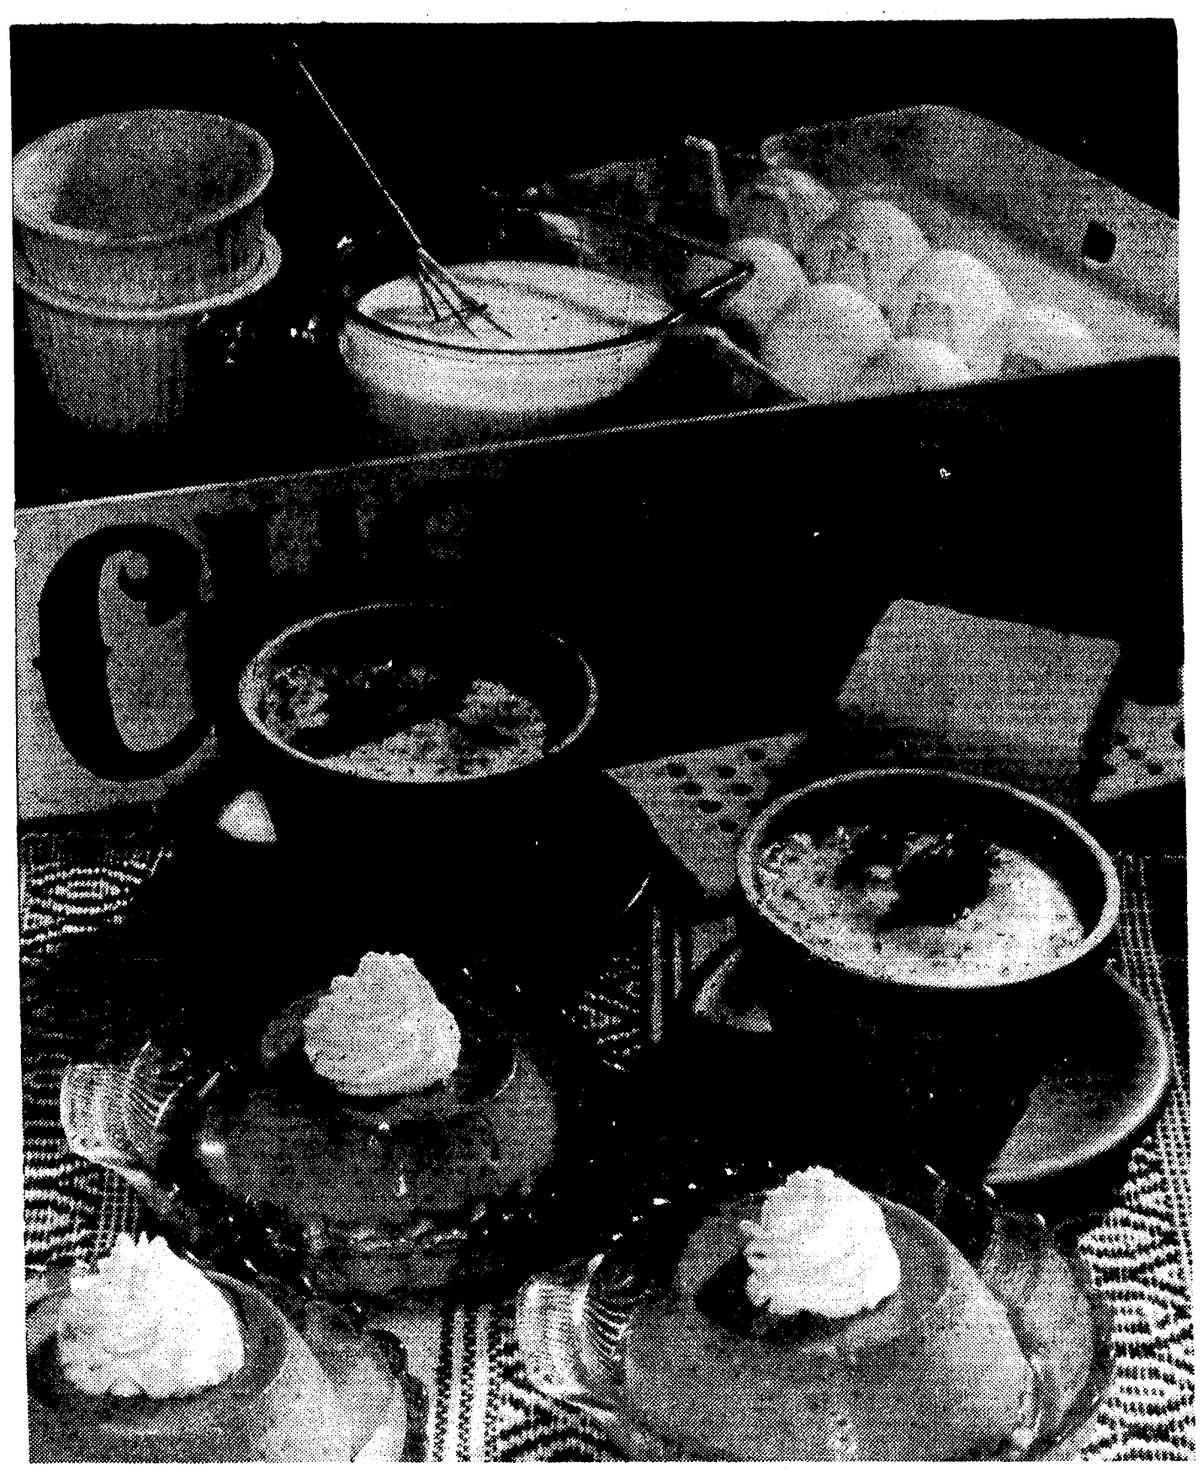

1 box (16 ounces) poundcake mix
2 egg whites
1/4 teaspoon salt
1 cup packed brown sugar
1/2 teaspoon vanilla
2 cups shredded wheat bran cereal

Prepare poundcake mix according to package directions and turn into greased 13 x 9 x 2-inch baking pan. In a small bowl beat egg whites and salt until foamy. Gradually beat in brown sugar; beat until stiff. Stir in vanilla; gently fold in wheat bran cereal. Drop by heaping teaspoon over top of cake batter. Bake in 325 deg. F. oven 35 to 40 minutes or until cake tester inserted in center of cake comes out clean. Cool in pan. Yield: 12 to 16 servings.

Have Your Cake And Eat It Too

Copley News Service

Rich desserts tempt almost everyone even the low-cholesterol gourmet. However, you can have your cake and eat it, too. Although there is a large "do not use" list, this certainly doesn't mean you have to give up all your favorite desserts. Many goodies can be a part of your low-cholesterol eating plan.

DO NOT USE: butter, chocolate, coconut, commercial cookies and other baked goods, commercial ice cream, commercial products made with coconut or palm oil, cream cheese, egg yolk or whole egg (unless part of weekly egg allowance), hydrogenated fats (such as Crisco or Spry), light or heavy cream, whipped cream, sour cream, whole milk.

YOU MAY USE: all flours, all fruits, all gelatins (flavored and unflavored), all sugars (brown, granulated, confectioners'), all wines and liqueurs, baking powder and soda, cocoa, cornstarch, egg whites and liquid egg substitutes, skim milk and evaporated skim milk, polyunsaturated oil, sherbet and ice milk, polyunsaturated margarine, walnuts.

HELPFUL HINTS: To convert your own favorite desserts to low-cholesteroal desserts, try substituting polyunsaturated vegetable oil for butter, lard and hard vegetable fat such as Crisco or Spry. Allow three-fourths cup oil for each cup of solid fat.

You can sometimes substitute one egg white for one egg yolk, two egg whites for one whole egg, or three egg whites for two eggs or use liquid egg substitutes for part or all of the egg called for.

To substitute for bitter chocolate, you can use two and one-half tablespoons of cocoa and one and one-half teaspoons polyunsaturated oil for each ounce of bitter chocolate.

When beating egg whites, make sure that the bowl and beaters are absolutely clean. A tiny bit of grease can prevent the whites from beating properly.

COCOA COOKIES

5 tbsps. cocoa
1 tbsp. polyunsaturated oil
2 tbsps. water
1 egg
2 egg whites
1/2 cup polyunsaturated oil
1 tsp. vanilla
3/4 cup sugar
1-3/4 cup flour
1/2 tsp. baking soda
1/2 tsp. baking powder
1/2 tsp. salt
2 tsps. rum

Preheat oven to 375 degrees Fahrenheit. Place cocoa, oil and water in a small saucepan. Cook over low heat, stirring constantly, until cocoa is

PUT ON A HAPPY FACE

Smiling Cookies Boast Licorice Grins

You've probably heard of kids "growing like a weed," but how about licorice?

While it's not a weed, it does grow like one. Licorice is a plant, and it flourishes in the fields of Syria, Turkey, Iraq and southern Russia.

The root of the plant is harvested and processed into a paste for use in candy making. The distinctive anise-like flavor of licorice comes from this paste; the traditional black color, from a sugar derivative. Only caramel color is used in the manufacture of licorice candy.

Licorice is great for munching "as is," but it also can be used as a tasty addition to cookies and cakes. Chop it fine (or snip it with a scissors) and use as you would chopped nuts in cake batters and cookie doughs. And if you're feeling especially creative, shape licorice sticks or whips into fun faces or other decorations on cookies or frosted cakes.

Or bake a batch of Peanut Butter Smiles. These giant-sized cookies are made from tasty peanut butter dough dotted with chewy licorice bits and sport fun-to-make "happy faces."

Why not get the kids involved? Let them do the decorating honors.

PEANUT BUTTER SMILES

1 cup packed light brown sugar
1 cup granulated sugar
1 cup shortening
1 cup creamy peanut butter
2 eggs
2¼ cups sifted all-purpose flour
2 teaspoons soda
1/3 cup finely chopped black licorice

Licorice whips

Cream together sugars, shortening and peanut butter until light and fluffy. Beat in eggs. Combine flour and baking soda; stir in chopped licorice. Blend flour mixture into creamed mixture. For each cookie, roll two tablespoons dough into ball; place on cookie sheet and flatten into a circle about ¼-inch thick. Cut licorice whips into "eyes and mouths" for faces; press into dough. Bake in preheated 350 degrees oven 13 to 15 minutes, or unitl done. Remove from cookie sheet to wire rack to cool. Makes 24-30 large cookies.

Treats To Eat Without That Guilt Feeling

Copley News Service

These dessert recipes are low in sodium as well as low in cholesterol and saturated fat.

Make them as special treats for your family or to serve guests at wintertime parties and all through the year.

APPLETS

2 cups apple sauce
2 cups sugar
2 tbsps. unflavored gelatin softened in one-half cup cold water
One and one-half cups mixed nuts (walnuts, pecans, almonds)
Few drops of Angostura bitters (nonalcholic flavor)
One-fourth cup confectioners' sugar

Add sugar to apple sauce and cook until thick. Remove from heat; add gelatin and stir thoroughly. Add nuts and flavoring. Pour into oiled pan (8x8 inches). Let stand overnight until firm. Cut into squares and roll in sugar.

GREEK HONEY COOKIES

1 cup polyunsaturated oil
1 tsp. cinnamon
One-fourth cup orange juice
1 cup walnuts
One-fourth cup sugar
One-eighth tsp. nutmeg
Three and one-fourth cups flour

SYRUP

8-oz. jar honey
1 cup sugar
One-half cup water
2 lemon slices

Preheat oven to 350 degrees Fahreheit.

Blend oil, sugar and spices in a large mixing bowl. If you use an electric mixer, set it at medium speed. Add the juice. With mixer on low, blend flour into liquid ingredients until a smooth dough is formed. Mix in the nuts by hand. Shape into small squares (1x1 inch) or other small shapes. Place on a greased cookie sheet, and bake 35 minutes or until light brown.

To make the syrup, boil water and sugar with the lemon slices. Add honey and simmer five minutes. Lower the hot cookies into the simmering syrup for about two to three minutes, turning them to coat on all sides. Drain on a wire rack set over wax paper. Decorate with finely chopped nuts. Yield: four to five dozen.

STREUSEL COFFEE CAKE

1 cup warm water (105 to 115 degrees F)
2 pkgs. or cakes active dry or compressed yeast
4 cups unsifted flour (about)
One-fourth lb. soft tub margarine (polyunsaturated)
One-half cup sugar

Pungent Pearl Is A Culinary Jewel

By LEIGH FENLY
Copley News Service

Its tales are many and its talents vast. It is versatile, pungent, aromatic. A veritable culinary jewel, it is the onion that gives incomparable flavor to roasts, casseroles, salads, vegetables, soups and stews.

Although you may think of onions as yellow, white, red or green, onion farmers divide them into two distinct types: spring and winter onions. Yellow, white and green onions are grown in spring and winter. Red onions are generally spring onions.

Spring onions are softer and more spongy than winter onions.

But the important thing to know is that winter onions are stronger than summer onions. Whites, yellows, greens – all are going to be sweeter in summer.

Another thing to know about onions is the progression of strength. The powerhouse among onions is the yellow Spanish onion, that turns almost brown-skinned in winter.

Milder are the white waxy-looking Bermudas, although few farmers grow a true Bermuda anymore because it doesn't produce all that well. Whites, today, are mostly hybrids.

Milder yet are the red Italian-type onions – the ones that long for a hamburger to sit upon. These nice, sweet onions are mostly available in summer and are usually grown locally since they don't ship well.

Dry onions should be kept in a cold, dry, well-ventilated place in a single layer. They will keep, uncooked, anywhere from one to four weeks.

When preparing your onions, peel under running water to avoid the tears. (Grandma's remedy for tears is to chew a piece of bread while you chop. Fair warning, it may be just a diversionary tactic.)

And – if you worry about such things – onion odor can be removed from a knife by rubbing with a raw potato, or from a hand by rubbing with salt, lemon juice or celery salt.

FLAVORFUL – The versatile onion imparts incomparable flavor to such masterpieces as this onion-topped burger torpedo.

ONION CONFETTI RELISH

2 cups chopped sweet Spanish onions
One-half green pepper, seeded and diced
3 tbsps. diced pimiento
One-half cup vinegar
One-fourth cup water
One-fourth cup sugar
2 tsps. caraway seeds
One-half tsp. salt

Combine onions with diced green pepper and pimiento. Combine vinegar, water, sugar, caraway seeds and salt. Bring to a boil and simmer five minutes. Pour over onions. Refrigerate several hours before serving with grilled or broiled hamburgers. Makes about two and one-half cups.

SAVORY ONION TOPPER

3 cups chopped sweet onions
3 tbsps. butter
One and one-fourth cups chili sauce
One-fourth cup bottled meat sauce

Saute onions in butter until tender. Add chili sauce and meat sauce and heat through. Serve over grilled or broiled hamburgers. Makes about three and one-half cups.

CRISPY FRENCH FRIED ONION RINGS

2 sweet onions
1 cup pancake mix
Three-fourths to one and one-fourth cups beer
Oil for deep frying
Salt

Peel onions and cut into one-half-inch slices. Separate into rings. Combine pancake mix and three-fourths cup beer, adding more beer if necessary to make a smooth, thick batter. Dip onion rings into batter.

Fry a few at a time until golden brown in deep oil heated to 375 degrees. Drain and sprinkle with salt. Keep hot in oven until all rings are fried. Delicious with hamburger steak sandwiches.

MARINATE ONION-TOPPED BURGER TORPEDO

1 medium sweet onion
One-half cup clear French dressing
1 tbsp. chopped parsley
Three-fourths lb. ground beef
1 tsp. pepper
1 tsp. Worcestershire sauce
One-fourth tsp. garlic salt
French bread
Prepared mustard
Cheese triangles

Peel and thinly slice onion. Separate into rings. Marinate in French dressing combined with chopped parsley. Combine ground beef and seasonings. Cut French bread in half lengthwise. Spread bottom half with prepared mustard.

Spread ground beef filling evenly over surface. Place under broiler and broil to desired doneness, toasting top side of cut loaf at same time. Arrange cheese triangles on top of ground beef. Place under broiler again until cheese melts. Drain rings and arrange over cheese-burger filling. Replace with toasted top side of loaf. To serve, cut into crosswise slices.

Frank Snacks

Some good snack cooks like to serve heated frankfurters on toasted buns topped with chili.

TOMATO BEEF BAKE – This easy-to-fix casserole combines the tanginess of tomato catsup with the creamy richness of cheeses and sour cream to make a tasty one-dish entree. Brown 1-1/2 lb. ground beef and 1 cup chopped onion in 1 tbsp. hot oil; drain off excess fat. Add 1 tsp. salt and 1/2 tsp. pepper. Reserve 1/3 cup liquid from 1 can (16 oz.) stewed tomatoes. Add tomatoes and 1 bottle catsup to meat mixture. Blend 2 tbsp. cornstarch and reserved liquid from tomatoes; stir into meat mixture. Cook, stirring constantly until thickened. Combine 1 cup sour cream, 1 cup cottage cheese, 1 pkg. (8 oz.) softened cream cheese, 1 tbsp. dry parsley and 1 tsp. Worchestershire sauce; mix until well blended. Cook 1 pkg. (10 oz.) egg noodles and drain. In buttered 3-quart casserole, layer one third of noodles, cheese mixture and noodles, cheese mixture and remaining noodles. Top with meat mixture. Sprinkle with parmesan cheese. Bake at 350 degrees F., 30 minutes. Makes 10 servings.

Kitchens Of Mexico Inspire Spicy, Saucy Pork Dishes

If you met and loved the taco, now's the time to explore some different aspects of Mexican cookery.

Mexicans have built a cuisine on a combination of foods inherited from the native Aztec populations – corn, beans, tomatoes, and especially chili peppers, plus foods introduced by the Spanish conquerors. Of these, the most important today is pork.

One tasty result is pork seasoned with a mole sauce – a sauce featuring the distinctive though not necessarily hot flavor of chili peppers.

In traditional Mexican cookery, the chili peppers for a mole sauce, along with sesame seeds to provide taste and texture and to serve as a thickening agent, were laboriously ground to a powder by hand. In this basic, easy mole sauce for pork, the chili flavor is conveniently supplied by a mild canned enchilada sauce. The sesame seeds are added via your electric blender.

Basic Mole Sauce can be combined with diced cooked pork, sliced cooked potatoes and sliced mushrooms for a Mole Guerroro con Puerco. Or it can serve as a basting sauce for a scullent boneless pork loin roast (Lomo de Puerco).

Both should be served with typical Mexican-style fare: refried beans heated with shredded mild cheddar or monterey jack cheese, and either stone ground corn or flour tortillas (available frozen or refrigerated), heated until soft on a griddle, spread liberally with butter and salted. The tortillas are eaten rolled as a tempting Mexican substitute for bread.

MOLE (RHYMES WITH OLE) – An easy Pork Mole Sauce is the basis for both Mole de Guerroro con Puerco and Lomo de Puerco (Pork Loin Roast). It has the mild chili flavor of enchilada sauce. Either the roast or mole can be served with convenient stone-ground corn tortillas (available frozen or refrigerated) heated on a hot griddle; buttered and salted. Other Mexican-style accompaniments are marinated cauliflower flowerettes, refried beans topped with shredded mild cheddar or monterey jack cheese and avocado halves filled with combination of ketchup and taco sauce.

BASIC MOLE SAUCE

1 (10-oz.) can enchilada sauce
1 (8-oz.) can tomato sauce
1/4 cup chopped onion
1 tablespoon sesame seed
2 tablespoons chopped green pepper

Combine sauces, onion, green pepper and sesame seed in blender container. Blend until smooth.

MOLE DE GUERRORO CON PUERCO
(6 Servings)

Basic Mole Sauce
3 cups diced cooked pork
3 tablespoons lard or cooking oil
2 cups sliced cooked potatoes
1 (2-1/2-oz.) jar sliced mushrooms, drained

Brown pork in hot fat for 3 minutes. Add sauce; simmer 5 minutes. Add potoates and mushrooms; heat until hot.

LOMO DE PUERCO
(6 to 8 Servings)

3 to 3-1/2 pound boneless pork loin roast
Salt and pepper
1/4 cup lard or cooking oil
Basic Mole Sauce

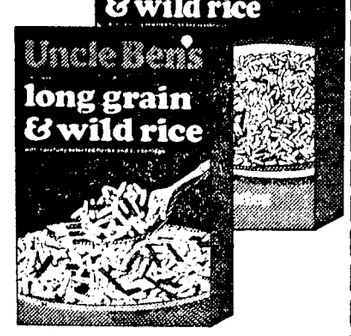

Sprinkle roast with salt and pepper. Sear on all sides in hot fat. Place in baking pan. Insert meat thermometer into center of roast. Pour Basic Mole Sauce over roast. Roast at 325 F. until thermometer registers 170 F., about 2 to 2-1/2 hours. Baste several times with sauce while roasting. Remove from oven and let stand for 15 to 20 minutes before carving. Place roast on cutting board; slice into thin slices. Serve with sauce.

Scandinavian Smorgasbord Stars Bounties From The Sea

Travel to the land of the midnight sun in typical Scandinavian style with a traditional smorgasbord meal. The smorgasbord provides an attractive array of foods, many of which are stored or prepared ahead during the summer season when variety is abundant.

Fish is a basic staple of Scandinavian cuisine with cod being a highly prized favorite. Creamed cod and shrimp exemplifies a dish combining bounties from the sea flavored with a cream sauce delicately laced with white wine. A sprinkling of seasonings overall provides the finishing touches to this main dish with a foreign flair.

Creamed Cod and Shrimp

1 pound fresh or frozen cod fillets
1 can (4 1/2 oz.) shrimp, drained and rinsed
White Sauce with Wine
Salt
Pepper
Paprika
Parsley flakes

Line a 10x6x2-inch baking dish with aluminum foil, leaving a collar around edges. Thaw fish, if frozen. Drain well and pat dry. Divide into four portions; arrange in single layer in foil-lined dish. Arrange shrimp equally on top of fish. Spoon White Sauce with Wine over fish and shrimp. Sprinkle with salt, pepper, paprika and parsley flakes. Cover with piece of foil large enough to seal with liner. Press liner and cover edges together; fold up and over to seal. Bake in 400 degrees F. oven 25 minutes or until fish flakes easily with fork. Makes: 4 servings.

WHITE SAUCE WITH WINE

3 tablespons butter or margarine
3 tablespoons flour
1/4 teaspoon salt
Dash Pepper
3/4 cup mild
2 tablespoons white wine or lemon juice
2 teaspoons finely chopped onion

Melt butter in small saucepan over low heat. Blend in flour, salt and pepper. Cook over low heat, stirring until mixture is smooth and bubbly. Remove from heat; stir in milk. Heat to boiling, stirring constantly. Boil and stir 1 minute. Add wine and onion.

There's Good News, Bad News About Chicken

CURRY FLAVOR – Herbs and spices enhance the very delicate flavor of young broiler fryers, as in this West Indies curry, bedded on rice sparked with cashews and a slivering of orange rind.

COPLEY NEWS SERVICE

Today's chicken lives a short and not very exciting life. It is reared indoors with vitamin supplements to replace the sunshine, eats high-energy feed and never sees a barnyard in its 8 weeks of life.

The good news is that the broiler-fryer is economical to produce in this high-volume, controlled environment. The bad news is that it is lacking in the old-fashioned chicken flavor that resulted from picking after seeds, bits of greenery and assorted barnyard treats. Also, eight weeks is not old enough to allow the full flavor development in the meat.

These shortcomings, in the interest of cost control, can be made up for by the cook who will use cooking methods, herbs and spices designed to enhance the very delicate flavor of the young bird.

Following are some recipes using these mehtods.

WEST INDIES CURRY

3 lbs. frying chicken, cut up
2 tbsps. cooking oil
1 tsp. salt
1 tsp. curry powder
One-half tsp. ginger
1 clove garlic, minced
One-half cup seedless raisins
1 cup orange juice
1 tbsp. cornstarch
1 tbsp. sugar
1 cup uncooked rice
One-half cup chopped cashews
2 tsps. grated orange rind
Chutney (optional)

Brown chicken pieces in oil in a 10-inch skillet.

Drain off fat. Sprinkle chicken with salt, curry powder, ginger, garlic and raisins. Combine orange juice, cornstarch and sugar; mix until free of lumps. Pour over chicken. Cover and cook over low heat, turning several times, until chicken is tender, about 45 minutes.

Meanwhile, cook rice according to package directions.

Remove chicken to serving platter. Simmer sauce to thicken, if desired. Spoon over chicken.

Stir cashews and orange rind into cooked rice and serve with chicken. Serve with chutney, if desired. Serves six.

ISLAND LIME CHICKEN

3 lbs. frying chicken, cut up
2 tbsps. cooking oil
1 tsp. salt
Three-fourths cup light corn syrup
One-half cup golden or medium rum
One-fourth cup lime juice
1 tbsp. cornstarch
1 cup uncooked rice
1 to 2 tsps. grated lime rind
1 cup coconut, toasted.

Brown chicken in oil in a 10-inch skillet. Drain off fat. Sprinkle chicken with salt.

Combine syrup, rum and lime juice. Spoon two tablespoons over chicken. Cover and cook slowly until chicken is tender, about 45 minutes. Meanwhile, cook rice according to package directions.

Remove chicken from skillet; keep warm. Spoon excess fat from drippings. Add cornstarch to remaining syrup mixture and add to drippings in skillet. Cook, stirring constantly, until sauce is clear and thickened, about five to 10 minutes.

Pour sauce over chicken. Sprinkle with lime rind just before serving. Sprinkle cooked rice with toasted coconut and serve with chicken. Serves six.

FRICASSEE AND POTATO DUMPLINGS

1 (4-lb.) broiler-fryer, cut up
7 (2.5-lbs.) medium potatoes, peeled
1 medium onion, sliced
2 stalks celery, chopped
2 cloves garlic, crushed
4 tsps. salt
One-fourth tsp. pepper
1 (10 oz.) pkg. frozen peas and carrots
One-half cup flour
POTATO DUMPLINGS:
1 egg, lightly beaten
One-fourth cup flour
1 tbsp. chopped parsley
Salt and pepper

In large kettle, combine chicken, potatoes, onion, celery, garlic, salt, pepper and six cups water. Bring to boil. Reduce heat, cover and simmer 45 minutes, or until chicken is tender.

If desired, meat can be separated from skin and bones; then chunked and returned to sauce. Add frozen vegetables.

To make dumplings: remove one potato from broth. Mash with fork to measure one cup potato. Mix lightly with remaining dumpling ingredients. Thicken broth with flour, mixed to a thin paste with water. Cook three minutes. Then drop dumpling mixture, by tablespoons, into simmering sauce.

When dumplings rise to the surface, cover pan and simmer 12 to 15 minutes. To serve: place two dumplings in each soup plate. Ladle meat and sauce over them. Makes six servings.

Pudding Is Entree For Easy Supper

This noodle dish is a new version of an old favorite and can be served as an entree.

MAINDISH NOODLE PUDDING

8 ounces wide egg noodles
1/2 cup butter, softened
Two 3-ounce packages cream cheese, softened
3 large eggs, separated
1 pint sour cream, at room temperature

Cook noodles according to package directions and drain. Meanwhile beat together the butter and cream cheese until blended; add egg yolks and sour cream and beat, scraping bowl and beaters several times, until smooth. Fold in the cooked drained noodles. With a clean beater beat egg whites until stiff; fold in. Turn into a buttered 2-quart oblong glass baking dish 11-3/4 by 7-1/2 by 1-3/4 inches or similar utensil. Bake in a preheated 350-degree oven until top browns and cracks – 35 to 40 minutes. Serve at once, passing extra sour cream and grated parmesan cheese as topping for the pudding. Makes 6 large servings as a main dish.

Pear Stuffed Sausage Roll

This savory pear and sausage combination, ideal for a company breakfast or brunch, is a good partner to waffles, pancakes or French toast. Combine 2 cups finely chopped fresh Western winter pears, 1/3 cup finely chopped onion, 1 cup soft breadcrumbs and 1 cup wheat germ. Pat 2 pounds bulk pork sausage into rectangle about 1/2 inch thick. Top with pear mixture. Roll up like jelly roll. Place in shallow baking pan. Bake at 350 degrees for 1 hour. Makes 8 to 10 servings.

EAT, DRINK AND BE MERRY

Common Sense Prevails

By ROBERT J. MISCH
Women's News Service

NEW YORK – Here's a switch! A few weeks ago California Advisory Board president Jim McManus spoke before the Federal Trade Policy Committee in Washington AGAINST leveling a new retaliatory duty of $5 a gallon against IMPORTED cognacs and brandies.

The whole matter is complicated – and a little Quixotic. It seems that, some years ago, the European community proclaimed a tax on U.S. poultry going abroad.

In retaliation, under President Kennedy, we imposed a new duty on imported brandy. Why a chicken war warrants taking it out on brandy defies explanation. In the Nixon days, the brandy surcharge was unilaterally lifted.

Now, the poultry people want it reinstated, and the California brandy people, who would have most to gain by such a tax on imports, stood on the side of common sense.

Bravo!

Actually, you know, California does about 80 per cent or better of all the brandy business in the nation. Still, it's a nice precedent – their opposition to taxing brandies from abroad, including Cognac, Armagnac and the less rarified brandies of France, Spain and Italy.

VSOP DEBUTS

Since 1765, Hennessy had stood for the finest of Cognacs. Richard Hennessy, the founder, came originally from County Cork. He was wounded while serving in the Irish Brigade in the service of the King of France. He resigned from the army, and settled in the Southwest of France in the Cognac area of the Department of Charente. There he entered the Cognac trade, shipping casks of the golden nectar to England. Since that time, the Hennessys have become as French as De Gaulle. Their only concession to the auld sod is the annual director's meeting, still held annually at the Hennessy castle back in Country Cork.

The new VSOP, which stands for Very Special Old Pale – is a true exponent of that esteemed designation. It will be priced between Bras Arme and Bras D' Or – about $15.

There's a new movement toward drinking brandy and Cognac before a meal as well as after. I like it, with a splash of water, especially if the dinner to follow is to offer wine. In that way, I stay on the grape side.

NOBLE BIRD

The letters IBIS don't stand for the International Bagel Institue of Syracuse but for the noble bird of ancient Egypt – AND for one of Manhattan's newest glamour spots. Ibis is where the old night club, Versailles, used to be – at 135 E. 50th St. Did you ever hear of a night club where one of the owners doubles as a belly-dancer?

Well, now you have, and a good one she is. So is all the entertainment but don't go just for that. The food features exotica from the Middle East: Kababa, Moussaka, Kousa Bel Beshamel, as well as Continental entrees of lobster, steak, chicken and veal. They range from $8.95, to $13.25 for filet mignon. But, early birds eat between 5 and 7:30 p.m. and enjoy a lovely five-course dinner for $7.50.

LIKE QUAIL?

If you like those delicious little, dark meat game birds that say "Bob White – Bob White," then book passage for Iperbole Roma De Notte – not in Italy but at 137 E. 55th St., Manhattan. Iperbole is a super Italian restaurant on the ground floor. Roma is downstairs with dancing and what they call intimate-romantic caves for dining and playing hide-and-seek.

Imagine: quail pate, pasta in quail sauce, grilled quail, stewed quail, quail in champagne, quail in a basket, rotisserie quail, devilled quail – quail, quail, beautiful quail.

We had a lovely luncehon there the other day, complete with – you guessed it – quail. I met the man who supplies the birds. He's from South Carolina. Now don't get the idea he's a great hunter and crack shot. He's a quail farmer and raises the little fellows in a hen house!

GALLAGHER'S

My birthday was spent with the Wine Writer's Circle, dining at Gallaghers. When better steak houses emerge anywhere, they'll have to compete with Gallagher's – where the whole floorshow consists of a huge walk-in, meat storage room. It's enclosed in glass so that the vast assemblage of gorgeous prime carcasses, and 20-pound purpling roasts are on public view.

The occasion was an outing for the famed Champagne of Korbel (of Gurneyville in California) along with a line-up of the less well-known still wines: Zinfandels, chablis and others.

The assemblage consisted of the good ladies, and pretty good gentlemen, of the Wine Writers Circle – accompanied by their respective spouses and-or "friends." It was a stellar evening, especially for me. It was my birthday and mein host, Harold Bearak, had known I was coming for he baked (or had baked) a cake. Here's a toast to Harold and to the Brothers Heck who made Korbel champagnes – among the very best made in the country.

Low Prices

Here's Proof!

A recent survey of the top 19 food chains in Los Angeles and Orange Counties showed Fazio's to be among the top 3 supermarkets in lowest overall food prices. On a total order of $152.08, only 13¢ separated the top 3.

How much is your time worth? A recent study conducted on the cost of food prepared at home versus those prepared in fast-food outlets revealed that the luxury of having food prepared for you can cost up to 1/3 more than preparing the same product at home.

Another interesting point is that the actual value of cooking at home is not only money-saving, but adds a nutritional content to the food as well. Compare these facts. The chicken prepared in most fast-food outlets comes from out of state and isn't nearly as fresh as the California-grown fryer parts sold at Vons.

Next time you're thinking about fried chicken, treat your family to fresh, plump, juicy, California-grown chicken that you prepare at home. Some people can offer you corn with a cluck. We offer a savings of more than a buck.

VONS HOME COOKIN' CHICKEN IS OVER 1/3 LESS THAN YOU'D PAY IN A FAST FOOD OUTLET! VONS HELPS YOU WHERE IT REALLY COUNTS!

JO'S By Jo Graham JOURNAL

Wiped Out At Close Of 1976

"I was wiped out," the young matron in line ahead of me said to the checker at the supermarket.

It was around 2:30 p.m. on the fourth day of 1977.

I concluded it was nothing catastrophic because the woman seemed quite cheerful about it.

She asked the man how business had been after Christmas. He said it had been slow.

By the looks of her cart it was evident that what was wiped out during the holidays was her supply of groceries.

I was with her. My canned goods shelf at home was as bare as I had seen it in a while. Such things as tomatoes, tomato sauce, unsweetened pineapple and corn – and beans; pork and beans, pinto beans, ranch style and chili beans. These were the things I reached for when holiday business kept me from doing much meal-planning.

On top of that, Harry took 6 days vacation during that time. So it seemed as though I was feeding him constantly.

* * * *

Had a good letter from Bess Philips Daum of Orange. She mentioned that she is a direct descendant of Joseph and Mary Philips who arrived in the United States from Wales in 1755 and settled on the Bingaman Farm near Lionville, Chester, County, Pa.

"I am 77 years old and have been struggling with an "ostomy" for a year and nine months. Only now I have things under partial control. How about some recipes for us 'ostomates' in Orange County?"

I contacted the dietitian of a local hospital, and she supplied me with a 1964 recipe booklet put out by the Cream of Rice people. (For the current edition, you may write to: C.R. Cookbook, P.O. Box 24305, Oakland, Ca. 94623.) She says that all of the recipes in the section for bland diets can be used by ostomy patients.

Ostomy patients (those having undergone colostomies, ileostomies or other "ostomies") may obtain additional information and assistance from the Ostomy Association of Orange County.

The following are bland recipes the whole family can enjoy:

CHICKEN SOUFFLE

1 cup milk
1 chicken buillon cube
1/4 cup Cream of Rice
2 Tbsp. butter
3 eggs, separated
1 cup diced cooked chicken

Place milk and bouillon cube in saucepan and bring to boil. Sprinkle in Cream of Rice and cook, stirring constantly until slightly thickened, about 1 minute. Remove from heat and stir in butter. Beat egg whites until stiff but not dry, and egg yolks until foamy. Gradually stir hot rice mixture into beaten yolks. Stir in chicken. Carefully fold in beaten whites. Place in ungreased 1-qt. baking dish. Bake in preheated 350-deg. oven, 45 minutes or until center is firm to the touch. Serve immediately. Makes 4 servings.

APRICOT RICE CREAM

1 Tbsp. unflavored gelatin
3 Tbsp. cold water
2 cups milk
3 Tbsp. Cream of Rice
1 Tbsp. sugar
1/4 tsp. salt
1 tsp. vanilla
1 cup pureed canned apricots
1 cup heavy cream, whipped

Combine gelatin and cold water. Scald milk in top of double boiler. Sprinkle in Cream of Rice and cook, stirring constantly until slightly thickened. Lower heat, cover and simmer 5 minutes. Remove from heat, add softened gelatin, sugar and salt and mix thoroughly. Cool and add vanilla. Fold in pureed apricots and whipped cream. Pour into lightly oiled 1 1/2 qt. mold and chill until firm, or pile into individual dessert dishes and chill. Makes 6 servings.

Salted Peaches

Sprinkle cling peach halves with seasoned salt before serving with cottage cheese for a salad. No dressing is needed.

Don't Be A 'Knocker'

By PAT PLUMLEIGH

Be- nice- to- a- dieter- week. Well, why not declare a national week during which you encourage your friends! Believe me, if anyone needs a kind word, it's the person traumatized by fat -- its onput and offput.

How many times I endured the groans of "friends" when

THE DIET CORNER

I proudly set forth on a fantastic new diet venture. They didn't believe I could do it; and inevitably, and unfortunately, I proved them right!

How much of this was due to my own failure or their assessment of my ability to fail, I don't know. My final success in disposing those excess pounds came not only from the good nutririon and sensible eating program that I learned in a group situation. It came also from the understanding and sympathy of the people involved. They believed in me, and they told me so.

Those who inhabit the thin world persist in being blind to the plight of fatties. Every fat friend who announces a new diet gets a bored reception and a comment that generally builds in failure. Why?

The reasons vary with the persons. Some are bored -- they don't want to hear about another diet. Some are cynical -- they don't believe anyone can do anything. Some are vicious -- they like having a fat friend around so that there is someone to feel superior to.

Let's make the path to slimness easier for those making that first step. Call a dieting friend and give her this recipe for an easy breakfast tidbit.

CINNAMON CRISPS

15 slices melba diet bread
1/2 cup water
1/2 teaspoon cinnamon
4 packets artificial sweetener

Cut diet bread slices into 4 squares each. Prepare a solution of 1/2 cup water, 4 packets artificial sweetener, 1/2 teaspoon cinnamon. Dip each square into the sweetener solution and place on Pam-sprayed or teflon baking sheet. Place in 350 degrees oven and watch carefully as they crisp, turning if necessary.

Think of projects or shopping expeditions that will have meaning for the dieter and carry through with them. Too often food is comfort; and a cold, cruel, thin world will herd a dieter right back into a soft, fat corral.

All people can be kind to one another. Fat people, thin people, in-between people. No one possesses the clairvoyance to see that a thoughtless word may well be the final cut that severs the lifeline. You can encourage just as easily as you can discourage. Why be a knocker?

If you know someone who has a fat problem, and would like to help that someone, I'll be happy to discuss it with you. Write to me at The Diet Workshop, 7451-D-Santa Rita Circle, Stanton, Ca. 90680.

Candy Canned Pineapple; For Garnish

Candied pineapple is an ideal garnish for frosted cupcakes or as an ingredient in fruitcakes.

CANDIED PINEAPPLE

1 pound, 14-ounce can pineapple slices in heavy syrup
2 cups sugar
1/2 cup light corn syrup

Thoroughly dr[illegible] pineapple. In a large deep skillet over medium heat, stirring constantly, cook the pineapple syrup, sugar and corn syrup to 234 degrees on a candy thermometer. Add half the pineapple slices in a single layer; bring to a full boil; simmer for about 15 minutes; turn slices and continue simmering until transparent around edges - 15 to 20 minutes longer. Remove slices to wire rack, placed over wax paper, to drain. Cook and drain the remaining slices the same way. Let dry on racks, uncovered, at room temperature for 24 hours. Store candied slices in the refrigerator. Cut in small fan-shaped wedges, do what you will with the leftover syrup.

MEATY STUFFED ARTICHOKES MAKE A MAN-TEMPTING DISH

Instant Soup Mixes Make Recipe Simple And Flavorful

Artichokes Dish May Have Aphrodisial Powers

Artichokes are thought by some people to have aphrodisial powers and it's certain that these artichokes filled with a hearty meat stuffing make a man-tempting dish.

Meaty Stuffed Artichokes can be served as a change-of-pace main dish for the family and they are fancy enough for company.

MEATY STUFFED ARTICHOKES

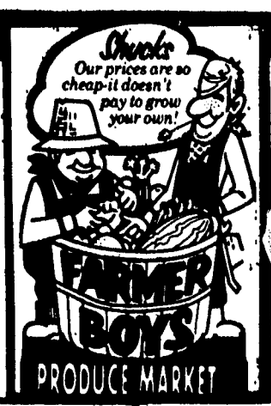

4 artichokes
1 lb. ground beef
6 slices hard salami, chopped
1 egg, slightly beaten
1/4 cup white wine
1 clove garlic, minced
1-3/4 cups boiling water
1/2 cup quick rice, uncooked
2 envelopes instant beef noodle soup
1 envelope instant french onion soup
1 envelope instant cream of chicken soup
1/2 measuring teaspoon lemon juice

Preheat oven to 350 degrees F. To prepare artichokes, hold each by stem end and dash up and down quickly in deep bowl of cold water. Cut off stems. Pull off tough bottom row of leaves; with scissors, cut 1/4" off remaining leaves. Brush cut portion of leaves with lemon juice. Turn artichokes upside down; press hard to force leaves apart. With artichoke upright, insert knife or grapefruit corer and remove the choke; set aside. In large bowl, combine beef, salami, egg, wine and garlic. In large measuring cup, combine 3/4 cup boiling water with rice and instant beef noodle soup, let sit for 5 minutes. Add to beef mixture. Equally fill artichokes with beef mixture. Place stuffed artichokes in 2-qt. shallow baking dish. In measuring cup, combine instant french onion soup and 1/2 cup boiling water; pour into baking dish to cover bottom. Cover baking dish tightly with aluminum foil. Bake at 350 degrees for 1 hour. Serve immediately. Dip leaves in Tangy Chicken Dip.

TANGY CHICKEN DIP: In small measuring cup, combine the instant cream of chicken soup, 1/2 cup boiling water and lemon juice; mix well. Makes 4 stuffed artichokes.

Streusel Cake, Spiced Peaches Are Low-Cholesterol Treats

2 eggs or one-half cup liquid egg substitues

Measure warm water into mixing bowl. Sprinkle or crumble in the yeast; stir until dissolved. Stir in one-and-one-half cups flour; beat until smooth.

Cover; let rise in warm place free from draft until doubled in bulk, about 30 minutes.

Mix margarine and sugar, beat thoroughly. Beat margarine mixture, eggs and enough additional flour to make a soft dough. Turn out onto lightly floured board. Knead until smooth and elastic, about five minutes. Place in greased bowl, turning to grease all sides. Cover; let rise in warm place free from draft until doubled in bulk, about one hour.

Divide dough in thirds. Press into three greased 8x8x2-inch pans. Cover; let rise in warm place free from draft until doubled in bulk, about 30 minutes. Sprinkle with streusel topping. Bake in hot oven (400 degrees Fahrenheit) about 20 minutes, or until done.

STREUSEL TOPPING

One-third cup polyunsaturated margarine
One-third cup sugar
1 cup unsifted flour
1 tsp. cinnamon

Mix margarine and sugar gradually, mix well after each addition. Add flour and cinnamon; stir until well mixed and crumbly.

SPICED PEACHES

5 (1-lb. can) peach halves
Two-thirds cup peach syrup, about
One-half cup brown sugar
2 tbsps. lemon juice
3 sticks cinnamon
8 whole cloves

Drain peaches, reserving peach syrup. In a sauce pan, combine peach syrup, sugar and lemon juice. Tie cinnamon sticks and cloves in cheesecloth and add to syrup mixture. Simmer 15 minutes, stirring occasionally. Remove cheesecloth bag. Add fruit. Simmer for five more minutes. Serve warm or chilled with syrup. Serves five.

BANANAS FLAMBE

One-fourth cup polyunsaturated margarine
4 medium firm bananas, peeled and split
Three-fourths cup brown sugar
2 tbsps. lemon juice
One-fourth cup brandy

Heat margarine in a large skillet over low heat. Add bananas; sprinkle with sugar and lemon juice. Saute very slowly over low heat until brown on one side (about 10 minutes).

Turn with a wide spatula and brown on other side. Remove bananas to serving plate. Add brandy to skillet, stir to pick up browned bits. Flame and pour over bananas. Serves four.

Sauced, Sauteed Or Smoked, Herring Is European Favorite

Herring is the world's most important fish, yet there are many in North America who no longer follow the eating traditions of their European ancestors and do not include it in their normal fare.

Scandinavians claim that they could eat herring three times a day for three years and never have to eat it the same way twice. The English and Scotch like their herring lightly smoked and salted as kippers and bloaters, the French oven-bake, saute and stew them in white wine and the Germans' favorite is as rollmops – pickled herring fillets rolled around a dill pickle.

However, things are changing in many regions of this country and herring is more available in towns of all sizes in jars – herring in cream sauce, herring in wine sauce or luncheon herring. These are eaten straight as treats but also are good in recipes. An example is a herring hash which uses herring in wine sauce as a base. Once opened a jar of herring will last a week refrigerated.

HEALTHFUL HERREN'S HERRING HASH
Used World's Most Important Fish

HERREN'S HERRING HASH

6 slices bacon, chopped
1 large onion, chopped
6 potatoes, cooked, peeled and cut into 1/2-inch cubes
6 carrots, cooked and cut into 1/2-inch cubes
1/2 teaspoon thyme
1 jar (12 ounces) herring in wine sauce, drained and diced
1 cup chicken broth
Salt and pepper

In a large skillet, fry bacon until crisp. Add onion and saute until onion is golden. Stir in remaining ingredients. Season to taste with salt and pepper. Stir gently over medium heat until mixture is piping hot. Top with fried or poached eggs if desired. Makes 6 servings.

Ore-Ida introduces french fries so crisp, they snap.

If you want french fries that are extra crisp, try new Ore-Ida Crispers.™

Regular french fries merely bend.

But new Ore-Ida Crispers™ are so crisp, you can actually snap them.

That's because they're specially made for oven heating.

They have little ridges that lift them off your cooking sheet and let the heat circulate around them evenly.

So you get french fries that are probably crisper than any others you've eaten.

Pare cucumbers; cut in half lengthwise; scoop out seeds and discard; slice cucumbers thin. Mash yolks; gradually stir in sour cream and vinegar, keeping smooth. Add cucumbers, salt and pepper and stir well.

Blame Mother Nature For Fruit Cost Hike

By GAYNOR MADDOX

Nature smiles on the new administration of the peanut farmer president. This year's supply of peanuts will be plentiful.

But nature has not smiled on all dried fruits and nuts at the same time. Prices for many, such as raisins, figs, pecans and filberts will be far higher than usual. Blame Nature for the extra cost.

Raisin lovers should be unhappy this year, because of much higher prices for those who crave raisin bread, raisin cookies and pound cake and to eat them plain at will during the day. The crop has been a national disaster, according to agriculture reports.

Like all relatively unprocessed foods, raisins are susceptible to the weather. Dark seedless raisins are doubly vulnerable, since they depend on the California warmth during both the growing season and a prolonged sun-drying period. This September, two heavy rains were followed by unusually cool weather. The grapes, which had been laid out in the fields to dry, got wet. Then the weather did not warm up enough to evaporate the excess moisture. Although growers are still trying to salvage some of their corp, and a final estimate of the damage is not available, production is very short. Exports, advertising and sales promotion have been halted and some packers are restricting the amount of their shipments.

Prices for the dark raisins shot up in response to this shortage and now stand around $1.15 for the 15-ounce box in supermarkets. Further price increases are likely.

Bad news also for the fig fanciers. The fig supply is also very short worldwide. The important California Calimyrna fig crop produced only one-sixth of the normal supply. Imported European figs also were hard hit by poor weather.

But the American prune eater can smile with ease. The prune supply is adequate, although there are more small prunes and fewer large ones than normal and the larger sizes may be disproportionately priced. Weather was also the culprit for prunes, since the plums did not size properly.

More good news: Supplies of the other dried fruits, including apricots, apples, peaches and pears are adequate and prices on wholesale markets are about the same or a little higher than last year. On a per-pound basis, the retail prices of these fruits are generally higher than those of raisins and prunes. Part of the reason for this is the amount of fresh fruit which it takes to produce the dried product. There are up to 10 pounds of apples in a pound of dried apples, and around six to seven pounds of apricots, peaches and pears to each pound of the dried. It takes four pounds of grapes for a pound of raisins, under three pounds of plums for a pound of prunes and three pounds of fresh figs for a pound of the dried.

Classy Walnut Combo

Everyone, including the cook, will go for this cool dessert combo that can be made quickly. Chill ripe avocados; halve, pit and brush with lemon juice. Fill hollows with a tangy sherbet mixed with chopped toasted California walnuts for an interesting crunchy texture. Orange, lime or pineapple sherbets are fine choices. Top off each serving with a walnut half or a large walnut piece.

Bordeaux Has Many Styles

By TOM GABLE
Copley News Service

There are still enough good 1970 and 1971 vintage red wines from Bordeaux available to enable the aspiring wine enthusiast to accomplish two things:

THE WINE DRINKER

1. Examine the different styles of Bordeaux at reasonable prices.

2. Find enough quality wines to store and offset the dismal offerings from the next three vintages.

As for the different styles, Bordeaux could be compared to a big county made up of many individual cities or villages.

Since the geography differs from one to the other, as do some vinification techniques, the wines will show varying characteristics in aroma and flavor. Both the 1970 and 1971 vintages were above average, making it somewhat easier to seek out quality and dollar value.

From the commune of Pauillac – home of Lafite, Mouton and Latour – comes the 1970 Chateau Duhart-Milon Rothschild, a neighbor of Lafite, selling for about $7. It is fairly typical of the area, showing good Cabernet Sauvignon aromas and flavors, plus the perfume of the Pauillac soil.

The wines of St. Julien are called the "typical Claret," preferred for so many years by the British. Chateau Gloria was labeled a "crus bourgeois" in the 1855 classification but should be higher.

Its 1970 offering is rich with Cabernet Sauvignon, hints of wood aging and a good balance of fruit, acids and tannins. It sells for about $6.50 and should show improvement during the next five years.

St. Estephe wines are usually harder and more tannic than those from other Bordeaux appellations and the 1970 Chateau de Pez, at $5, is no exception. It offers a good introduction to the area wines, which are predominantly made with Cabernet.

Margaux is the home of the great first growth, Chateau Margaux, which produces complex, fragrant wines at $25. For about $6, try the 1970 Chateau Bel-Air-Marquis d'Aligre, which shows some of the balance and complexity of the area, with good Cabernet Sauvignon fruit and richness in the aroma and bouquet and several components to admire on the palate.

In St. Emilion, the wines are blended with a higher amount of Merlot, which gives them what some people call almost a sweet characteristic. The wines mature faster than most wines from the better communes of Bordeaux. Worth seeking out are the 1970 Chateau Pavie, for about $6, and the 1970 Chateau Figeac, for about $9. Both are balanced and quick to show their Merlot in the aroma and flavor, which the Figeac being the richer of the two in all categories.

Pomerol adjoins St. Emilion and the wines of Pomerol are sometimes more than 90 per cent Merlot, which gives them an incredible fatness and silkiness on the palate. The top growth of the area is Chateau Petrus, which has very limited production and commands upward of $25 a bottle.

The 1970 or 1971 Chateau Trotanoy, at about $10 a bottle, are worth trying, if that price range is suitable. Both have a complex aroma of chocolate, truffles and sweet fruit and a good balance on the palate. Chateau Lafleur-Petrus has an excellent wine from the 1971 vintage at about $8. Chateau Gazin has its ups and downs but the 1970 is a decent example of Merlot from Pomerol at a slightly lower price.

Prunes Team With Vegetables

Serve up this good-eating hot vegetable side dish with corned beef, sausages, pork or ham. Combine shredded cabbage, chopped onion, sliced celery, thinly-wedged tart apple and snipped pieces of flavorful sun-sweetened prunes. Saute in salad oil until tender crisp. Season with cider vinegar, brown sugar and caraway seeds. Salt to taste. Or how about a chilled version at another time? Combine cabbage, celery, apple and prunes. Toss with an oil and vinegar dressing heightened with grated onion and caraway.

Check Our New Lower Milk Prices

The Consumer Line by Julie Grayson

When I pay good money for beef, I want to be certain I'm getting my money's worth. I'm sure you do, too. That's why it's important to know something about government beef grading.

Beef is government graded for quality. The highest grade is USDA Prime; however, this may contain a little too much fat for some tastes.

The grade many people prefer, and which Ralphs features exclusively, is USDA Choice Beef. It produces juicy cuts with excellent flavor.

The USDA Choice shield is an excellent gauge of quality. That's why it's important when comparing prices to make sure you're comparing Choice with Choice. If you don't see the Choice shield on the package, it's a pretty safe bet that it isn't Choice and you may not be getting the quality you want. At Ralphs you can be sure our beef is USDA Choice and as with all Ralphs products the satisfaction is guaranteed.

If you want more facts on grading, or if you have a question, comment or price inquiry, call me. I'm here to help.

One New Recipe A Week Can Make Mealtime Fun

SUPER STUFFED BEEF LOAF CONCEALS SAVORY STUFFING
A Good Way To Start Menu Planning For The New Year

With the beginning of each new year comes a new round of resolutions, each made with the hope that the coming year will be the best ever. While some of the resolutions are impractical and quickly broken, others, made with careful thought and consideration, can be inspiration for some positive changes.

Try making a resolution for 1977 calling for at least one new recipe a week. You'll find it just the boost needed to make mealtime fun again Some of the weekly innovations can be unusual and totally different while others can simply be updating of some family favorites.

Even an entree as tried and true as meat loaf can qualify for the "new recipe of the week" when it comes to the table with a tunnel of moist, flavorful stuffing. In Super Stuffed Meat Loaf, a standard mixture made with ground beef and flavored with onions and chili sauce, encloses a generous core of stuffing that's quickly made with convenient stuffing mix.

SUPER STUFFED BEEF LOAF

2 pounds ground beef
1 package (6 to 7 ounces) stuffing mix
1 can (5.33 ounces) evaporated milk
1/3 cup fine bread crumbs
1/4 cup chili sauce
1/4 cup chopped onion
1 egg
1 1/2 teaspoon salt
1/8 teaspoon pepper

Prepare stuffing mix according to package directions for less moist stuffing. Cool. Lightly but throughly combine ground beef, evaporated milk, bread crumbs, chili sauce, onion, egg, salt and pepper. Place 2/3 of meat mixture in a 9x5x3-inch pan. Press meat mixture over bottom and up sides of pan to form a trough down the center, leaving about 1 inch thickness of meat along sides and ends of pan. Place stuffing mixture in trough. Firmly pat remaining meat mixture into 9x5-inch rectangle on waxed paper and invert over top of loaf to enclose filling. Remove waxed paper and press meat together around edges to seal. Bake in moderate oven (350-F.) for 1 to 1-1/4 hours. Let stand 10 minutes before slicing. 8 servings.

The beginning of the new year is also a good time to take some positive steps toward saving energy. Careful menu planning can help keep the use of energy in check. Since the oven will be needed for the meat loaf, select accompaniments that can also be prepared in the oven.

Frozen mixed vegetables can be a part of an oven meal when heated in a casserole dish or sealed in foil. Simply pour boiling water over the frozen block of vegetables to separate the pieces and drain. Place in a greased casserole or foil, top with a tablespoon of butter or margarine and season with salt and pepper. Cover casserole tightly or fold foil to seal and bake in the oven along with the meat loaf for about 20 minutes. Stir the vegetables before serving. For a dessert that's also from the oven, end the meal with warm baked apples.

Flaming Sauce Makes Ice Cream A Specialty

JUBILEE-SYTLE SAUCE

16-ounce can pitted sweet dark red cherries in syrup
1/3 cup sugar
2 tablespoons cornstarch
1 tablespoon lemon juice
1/3 cup brandy, warmed

Drain syrup from cherries; add enough water to the syrup to make 1 cup. In a small saucepan stir together the sugar and cornstarch; gradually stir in the cherry-juice mixture, keeping smooth. Over moderate heat, stirring constantly, cook until thickened. Stir in cherries and lemon juice; heat. Remove from heat and pour in brandy; ignite. Makes 6 servings as a topping for vanilla ice cream.

Blender Can Make Pate Preparation A Snap

Pate, that elegant French delicacy, need not be time-consuming to make. Almond Liver Pate features poultry or wild bird livers, and makes a great party hors d'oeuvre.

You'll find preparing home-style pate is fun, especially when the electric blender does much of the work. In the blender you combine cooked livers with cream cheese and sour cream for a rich, smooth base. Then, add garlic, sherry and seasonings. There's distinctive flavor as well as appetizing texture contrast from the addition of toasted almonds.

Pate served with crusty French bread and a tossed green salad also makes a tasty late-night supper. Accompany it with your favorite white wine.

Almond Liver Pate

1/2 lb. chicken, turkey, duck or wild bird livers, or combination
2 tablespoons vegetable oil
1 clove garlic, finely chopped or crushed
1 teaspoon chicken seasoned stock base or instant chicken broth
2 tablespoons sherry
1 package (8 oz.) cream cheese
1/4 teaspoon tarragon, crumbled
1/2 teaspoon seasoned salt
1/4 cup dairy sour cream
1/4 cup chopped natural (unblanched) almonds, toasted*

Wash livers, cut out fat and sinews, and cut into small pieces. In frying pan, heat oil. Add liver. Crush garlic and add to liver along with chicken seasoned stock base. Cook, stirring occasionally until liver is no longer red. Cool slightly, then spoon into electric blender. Add cream cheese, tarragon, seasoned salt and sour cream. Blend until very smooth. Spoon into bowl and mix in almonds; chill. Serve with crisp crackers, round of melba toast or rye wafers. Makes about 2 cups pate.

*To toast almonds: Place a layer in a heavy pan on top the range, over medium heat. Stir frequently and remove when almonds begin to turn golden brown.

Introducing Campbell's two new Alphabet Soups.

They spell fun for kids and a saving for you: 10¢ off.

Here's big news for alphabet lovers. The letters in Campbell's two new Alphabet Soups are big—great big macaroni letters that are fun to eat. New Chicken Alphabet Soup has pieces of tender chicken. And Meatball Alphabet Soup has beefy little meatballs. Try them both—just for the fun of it. And for the 10¢ savings, too.

Adapt French Recipe To Your Table

DESSERT FOR BREAKFAST? — If you've never had pie for breakfast or meat for dessert, be prepared for an unusual treat with Hearty Hot Dog Pie. Using pastry for 2-crust 9-inch pie, roll half of dough to form 11-inch circle; line pie plate. Flute edge; prick bottom and sides with fork. Bake at 400 degrees, 8 minutes. Remove from oven and reduce heat to 375. Pour one 21-oz. can apple pie filling into partially baked shell; top evenly with 6 hot dogs, sliced. Sprinkle with 1 cup (40-oz.) shredded process American cheese. Crumble remaining dough; combine with 3/4 cup brown sugar (packed) and 3 tsp. cinnamon. Sprinkle crumb mixture evenly over pie. Bake at 375 degrees, 25 to 30 minutes or until crust is golden brown. Serve warm. Makes 6 servings.

Pork is a far more versatile meat than most realize. With the trend to growing leaner pigs, the producers also provide a boon to those who watch their intake of fats and now can put pork back into their menus occasionally.

Pork chops remain very tender when simmered in a special sauce for pork chops Nicoise, an adaptation of a French recipe for the American table. Serve the chops and the rich sauce with fluffy rice and a mixed green salad. Another pork treat with a Down South touch is a country pork stew which includes sweet potatoes and a dash of soy sauce.

PORK CHOPS NICOISE

6 pork chops (about 1 1/2 pounds), well trimmed
1/2 cup chopped onion
2 medium cloves garlic, minced
1 tablespoon olive oil
1 can (10 1/4 ounces) beef gravy
1/4 teaspoon marjoram leaves, crushed.
1/4 teasppon marjoram leaves, crushed
Dash pepper
1 medium green pepper, cut into strips
1/3 cup sliced ripe olives
1/3 cup chopped drained canned tomatoes
Cooked rice

In skillet, brown chops and cook onion with garlic in oil until tender. Stir in gravy, marjoram, salt and pepper. Cover. Cook over low heat 35 minutes. Stir occasionally. Add green pepper, olives and tomatoes. Cook 10 minutes more or until meat is tender. Uncover. Cook to desired consistency. Serve over rice. Makes 4 servings.

COUNTRY PORK STEW

1 tablespoon oil
1 1/2 pounds boneless pork shoulder, cut in 1 inch cubes
1 tablespoon cornstarch
17-ounce can sweet potatoes in syrup
1/4 cup water
1/2 teaspoon ground ginger
1 tablespoon naturally-brewed soy sauce
1/4 teaspoon salt
1 large green pepper, cut in 1 inch squares

Heat oil in large skillet. Lightly dredge pork cubes in cornstarch. Brown in oil. Drain sweet potatoes, reserving three-quarters cup syrup. Mix reserved syrup, water and soy sauce with ginger and salt; add to meat. Cover and simmer about 40 minutes or until tender. Cut potatoes in large pieces; add to meat. add green pepper; heat through. If desired, serve sprinkled with thinly-sliced green onions. Makes 6 servings.

Another Kind Of Hangover

By SHIRLEY B. BOODY
Registered Dietitian
Copley News Service

Many people can accept expanded January waistlines as a part of the holiday package. Others suffer remorse and guilt for months afterward.

Then there are those who approached the feasting with a plan and escaped without a change in their figure.

People with a weight problem to begin with are the major sufferers of the January weight hangovers. The bald truth is that the heavier you were as you went into the festivities, the heavier you are when you emerge.

The closer you were to normal weight, the less problems you suffered from holiday feasting. Those who maintain a sensible eating program and a proper weight during the year are very likely unaffected by party eating.

Maintaining a slender body requires eating the kinds and quantities of foods that insure health. If you eat properly most of the time an occasional "indiscretion" will not do much damage.

There are those who approach parties much as an alcoholic approaches a binge – the only thing that counts is quantity. They measure the fun they had by how much they consumed. Amenities, friends and sociability are forgotten in the attempt to eat as much as possible.

Social grace should dictate your behavior. When you are invited to a dinner or party it is as an honored guest, not as a garbage disposer.

It may not be easy to control your eating habits, but the results are well worth any effort it takes. Practice eating smaller quantities. Pay attention to each amount of food you eat. As a rule of thumb, normal servings of fruits and vegetables should be one-half cup. Meats, fish and fowl should be limited to eight ounces, or six ounces if you are overweight. Salads should be about one cup in quantity.

Never excuse large quantities of an item because it is low in calories. Learn to control quantities of everything. Test yourself on how long it takes you to eat a meal. If you rush and gulp food you will inevitably eat more and in your hurry often air is swallowed resulting in "gas" pains and bloating. Force yourself to slow down to a normal rate allowing 20 minutes for each meal.

Fast eating is a social lapse.

Avoid serving large bowls and platters of food to your family. It is far better to place normal servings on each plate and serve from the kitchen with no seconds offered.

Don't leave dishes of nuts, fruits or candies on display in your home. These are unnecessary temptations. Place them in evidence only when guests arrive.

Questions may be sent to Shirley Bright Boody, Eat Yourself Slim, Copley News Service, in care of The Register.

For Dessert Give Company A Sponge

Company coming for dessert? Serve them a sponge.

LONDON SPONGE

1 cup sifted confectioners' sugar
2/3 cup sifted cornstarch
3 large eggs, separated
1/8 teaspoon cream of tartar
2 tablespoons water
1/2 teaspoon vanilla

On wax paper sift together 3 times 1/2 cup of the sugar and the cornstarch. In a large bowl beat together the whites, cream of tartar and water until soft peaks form; gradually beat in remaining sugar until stiff peaks form. Add egg yolks and vanilla; beat just until blended. Fold in sugar-cornstarch mixture, a little at a time, so no dry particles are visible. Bake in two ungreased 8 by 1-1/4 inch round cake pans in a preheated 350-degree oven until top springs back when lightly touched – 30 minutes. Cool in pans on wire racks. Loosen edges and ease out. Fill and frost as desired.

Sauced Patties

Top patties made from corned beef with chili sauce or catchup and serve in toasted hamburger rolls.

Lucky Bonded Beef

Bonded for Quality

We want you to be satisfied with each and every piece of juicy beef you choose at Lucky. In fact, we're so sure that we've done the best we can to select the highest quality available, that we'll refund the purchase price if you are not entirely satisfied.

Priced Lower Overall

We don't wish to confuse our customers by "high-low" pricing...that is, by lowering a price on one item and making up the difference on other items in the store. We maintain an even low discount price on each and everything we offer, so you can really see the difference at the cash register, when your purchases are totaled up. Shop Lucky and compare!

Trimmed for Value

Lucky meat is carefully trimmed of excess fat and waste before it is weighed and before we put the price sticker on. This means you get less fat and bone in your meat budget. And that gives you more meat on your platter.

'Potato' Of The South

By TOM HOGE
AP Newsfeatures Writer

Someone has called grits the potato of the South, and it's a fact that down below they do lean heavily on this early American food as an accompaniment for a host of dishes from bacon and eggs to country-cured ham with red eye gravy.

For uninitiated Northerners, grits are a hot cereal made from ground hominy which consists of hard corn kernels that have been hulled, washed and dried.

Hominy, in case you didn't know, is derived from an Algonquin Indian word which roughly means corn that has to be skinned. The tribe passed on their formula for hulling the pebble-hard kernels to the first colonists from Jamestown and Plymouth, according to a report by the National Geographic Society. Colonial cookbooks carried such quaint directions as the following:

"Boil white-wood ashes in an iron kettle with plenty of water until the mixture is stout enough to float an egg. Drain off the ashes; place the shelled corn in the liquid. Boil the corn carefully until the hulls rub off. Rinse in several waters so that no lye remains. Boil again in salted water until tender."

The result was dried and ground to produce grits, an old English term for cracked bran. Grits soon became a southern institution. The Marquis de Lafayette tried the cereal in 1824 and said it was one of the things he liked best about the South. Ulysses S. Grant was credited with being the first president to bring the cereal to the White House.

America's fondness for grits has not abated. In 1975 Americans ate 140 million pounds of it, mostly south of the Mason-Dixon line. Today grits find their way into pancakes, waffles, muffins and even souffles. You may find them garnished with shrimp paste or folded into fish cakes. Cold grits, sliced and fried, form a basis for many a southern breakfast or brunch.

1¼ cups grits, uncooked
3½ cups boiling water
1 roll garlic cheddar cheese
½ cup butter
2 eggs
1 ounce dry white wine
1 cup milk
½ cup swiss cheese grated

Cook grits in boiling water, crumbling cheese and butter into cooked grits after they have boiled about 10 minutes. Blend eggs, wine and milk together and mix with grits, cheese and butter. Pour into greased 2-quart casserole baked in preheated 350-degree oven for 45 minutes uncovered. Sprinkle with grated Swiss cheese and bake till cheese is melted. Good with chilled dry white wine. Serves 6-8.

Almonds Top Tasty Turkey Casserole

Turkey Noodles Almondine has the appearance of a casserole, but made on top of the range. You add turkey to a savory cheese sauce, then toss with noodles, crunchy, toasted slivered almonds, and slices of colorful, pimiento-stuffed olives.

If you wish to prepare this dish ahead of time, place in a casserole and refrigerate. To re-heat, bake in a 350-degree oven of 20 to 25 minutes.

TURKEY NOODLES ALMONDINE

1 package (8 oz.) medium noodles
3 tablespoons butter or margarine
3 level tablespoons flour
2 cups milk
1 teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon prepared mustard
1/2 teaspoon Worcestershire sauce
1/8 teaspoon pepper
1 cup grated sharp cheddar cheese
1 1/2 cups diced cooked turkey or chicken
3/4 cup slivered almonds, toasted
1/4 cup sliced pimiento-stuffed green olives.

Cook noodles in boiling, salted water as package directs. Meanwhile, melt butter and blend in flour; gradually stir in milk. Cook, stirring constantly, until mixture boils and thickens. Add salt, mustard, Worcestershire, pepper and cheese. Stir over low heat until cheese melts. Add turkey and cook a minute longer. Drain noodles, and toss with sauce. Add almonds and olives, and toss lightly to mix. Makes 5 to 6 servings (about 6 cups).
